Conflict of interest?

City attorney helps council understand policy

Lonnie Allen

(231) 547-4411, lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — To get further clarification on the city's conflict of interest policy City Council members spoke with city attorney Scott Howard during its Dec. 21 meeting.

Howard answered questions about the policy during the miscellaneous business portion of the meeting.

"It is an important topic and as elected officials you should be sensitive about the appearance of potential conflicts of interest," Howard said.

The conflict of interest policy was questioned and discussed by council during its November meetings

Basically the conflict of interest law seeks to prevent conflicts between private interests and public duties, foster integrity in public service, and promote the public's trust and confidence in that service by placing restrictions on what municipal employees and elected officials may do on the job, after hours, and after leaving public service.

Members of council have different views on the policy and wanted Howard to give them the best course of action to take on the matter whenever members thought they or another member could have a conflict of interest during their meetings.

Howard explained that he could clarify if a member may or may not have a conflict once he gets the specifics. He also said if a member felt they did not have a conflict, but other members did then it would ultimately be up to the board to vote on it.

"If you have questions it is best to have me look at them before a meeting," Howard said.

As elected officials the council has a responsibility to hold its members to a higher standard and members should make the effort to abstain or recuse their self from the discussion or decision-making process, said council member Shirley Gibson.

"It is how the public views our motives and actions when we're sitting up there," Gibson said. "If you have skin in the game you have a conflict. I have always felt that way."

A large poplar tree at the Archie Potter farm blocks Phelps Road and South Barnard Road on Saturday. The tree came down early Thursday morning during the wind storm. The tree has a plaque on it recognizing it as the second largest poplar tree of its species in Michigan. The tree was unable to be moved until power company officials restored power to the area at 9 p.m. on Dec. 26. County road commission crews removed the tree from the roadway around 10 p.m. that evening.

Charlevoix County Farm loses historic tree

CHARLEVOIX — Early Christmas Eve morning, a wind storm burst through Michigan with wind gusts upwards of 60 miles per hour. The storm caused significant damage to power lines throughout the region, including right here in Charlevoix County. As of Saturday, many of the reported downed trees and power lines in the late hours of Wednesday night through the early hours of Thursday morning were cleaned up.

At the Archie Potter farm on Phelps Road in Marion Township a large tree blocked the roadway until late Saturday night. Because the tree fell on top of several power lines Phelps Road remained closed at the intersection of South Barnard Road until crews were able to restore power to the area at 9 p.m. on Dec. 26.

"Once the power came back on it was about an hour later when the road commission brought the big loader in to push the tree off the road," said Tracy Simpson, grandson of Archie Potter, who lives on the property with his family.

On Sunday, Simpson and friends from church along with family worked to clear tree debris from the

New Year's folklore, customs persist

The New Year is here. Besides getting sloppy drunk and kissing everybody in the room at the stroke of midnight, celebrants throughout the ages have observed numerous lesser-known New Year's customs and superstitions. Throughout history, most cultures have drawn an association between a person's actions on that New Year's Day and their fate during the following year. Here are a few of the New Year's superstitions, taboos, and old wives' tales still in general circulation.

One of the more popular beliefs is that kissing your beloved at the stroke of midnight ensures twelve months of continuing affection. To fail to smooch our significant others at the stroke of twelve would be to set the stage for a year of coldness.

Never begin the New Year with unpaid debts. Do not pay back loans or lend money on other precious items on New Year's Day. To do so is to guarantee you'll be paying out all year.

Empty cupboards at the turn of the year foretell a year of poverty.

The first person to enter your home after midnight foretells the kind of luck you'll have in the coming year. A tall, dark, handsome male bearing small gifts is said to bring the best luck. According to this same tradition, no one should leave the house until someone first enters from outside, and nothing should be removed from the house on New Year's Day.

Opening all doors and windows at midnight lets the old year escape.

Final part needed for water connection

LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

The final part needed — a back flow preventer — to transfer Mount McSaub water service from the City to Charlevoix Township control was installed on Dec. 23. The partnership between the city and the township is one collaboration the two governments have solidified together. Because of the water deal Charlevoix Township residents will have the use of Mount McSaub recreation area at the same fee price of city residents. City and township officials hope to work together more in the future whenever collaboration opportunities arise. From left holding a one of the valves to the back flow preventer are City manager Mark Heydlauff and Township Supervisor Chuck Center and standing behind them are Sandy Witherspoon, township clerk, Theda Williams, township treasurer and Brad Muma of Performance Engineers.

Group extends invitation to become a Friend of the library

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library invite community members to join in their on-going mission to maintain the library's status of excellence among all the Michigan libraries.

The invitation is for all Charlevoix residents to join this nonprofit organization. For a nominal fee of $5 in individual or family membership is a way for residents of the area to gain ownership in, become more involved with and actively support their library.

This may be the biggest bargain in town, for while membership money is minimal it packs a big punch. Along with additional donations and the proceeds from the on-going and summer Friends of the Library Book Sale, monies collected are used to fund projects, concerts, events, programs, exhibitions and buy books for the children's section of the library.

"The friends as volunteers are committed to helping the library achieve its goals," said Linda Adams, Charlevoix Public Library director. "They take us above and beyond with their ideas and their work. This past year, they volunteered nearly 2,800 hours."

Membership also affords the opportunity for community members to volunteer in a variety of outreach areas: helping with the annual book sale, including sorting and adding to the stacks, mailing communiques, supplying refreshments for events, participating in providing youth services or delivery of books to the homebound. Additional donations are welcomed along with the annual membership dues and are often made in honor of or in remembrance of a friend or loved one.

The Friends group operates independently but under the umbrella of a larger entity, The Friends of the Michigan Libraries, a non-profit organization dedicated to support and advocate for Michigan library groups. The Friends of the Michigan Libraries serves as a clearinghouse and information center and strives to offer workshops and newsletters to help members exchange ideas, and become advocates of library legislation.

"As the living room of the community the Friends are the family that support us every day in this building and make it possible for this library to offer what we do," Adams said.

The history of the Charlevoix Friends of the Library dates back to 1997, the year that Charlevoix's library became a District Public Library instead of a Public School entity. Interest in forming a Friends Of the Library group became a priority; community support was deemed to be a necessary factor in the equation of establishing an excellent library.

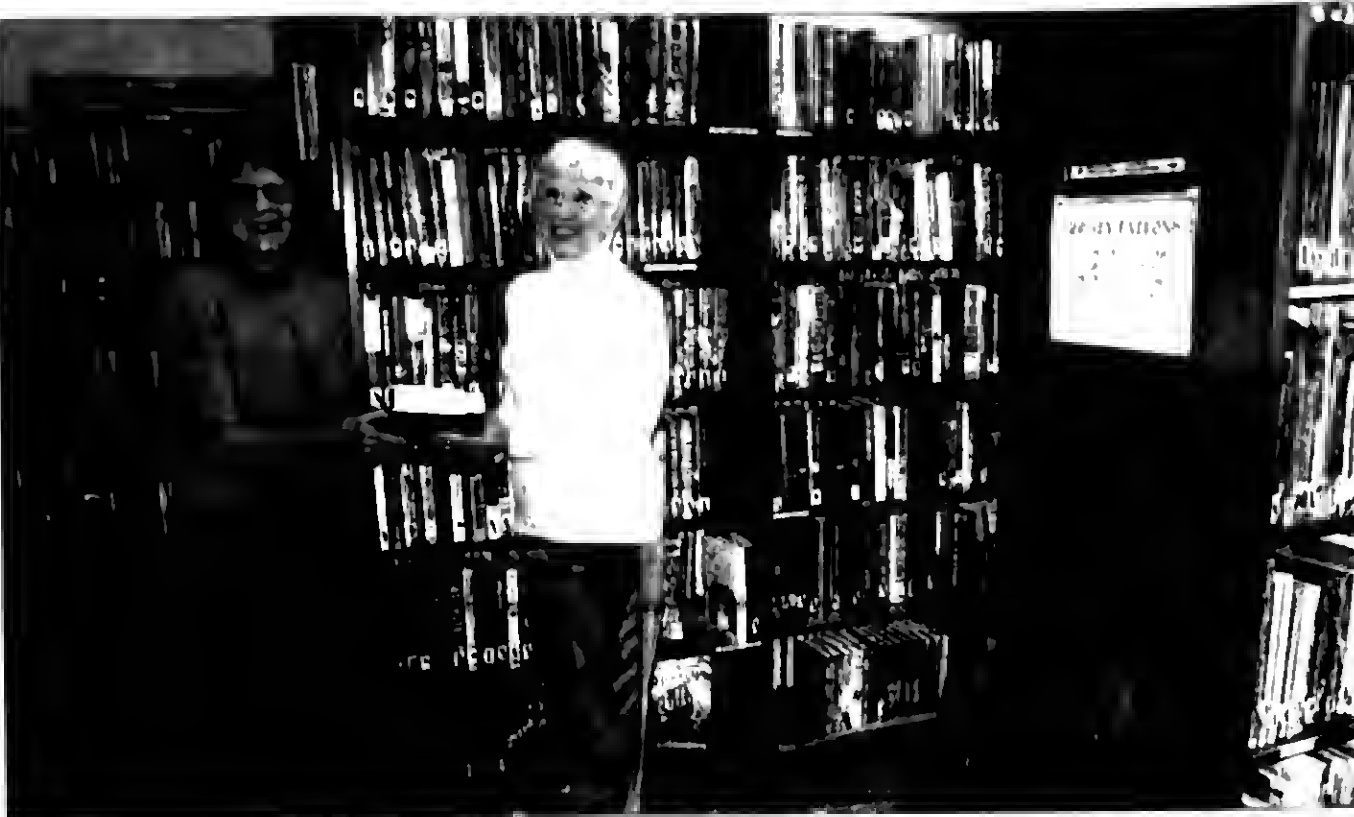

A Board of Trustees was formed at that time and an invitation for membership was issued to the community. About 15 people responded and Don Heise became the first president of the Library group.

"Ira Plitz, a Charlevoix resident, happened to serve on the State Library Board," said Mary Ann Chew, one of the seven original trustees. "Plitz told us that there was a hook about starting a friends group, which she got for us. After that we started going to conferences and workshops to learn more."

When the renovation of the old Middle School Library became an election issue, the trustees, friends group and a host of dedicated community members went to work to make the dream become a reality.

"We could not have passed the millage for the new library without the Friends group," Chew said.

Cynthia Posthumus, another early friends member agreed

ANNE KELLY/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Kay Hisey (left) was an early Friend and Mary Ann Chew was one of the original trustees of the Charlevoix Area Library. They started the book sale and still make it a source of income for the group. There is a Friend's room on the upper level of the library where there is an on-going book sale all year. In June, there is a major sale/fundraiser.

"So many people embraced the idea that we were encouraged to take action," Posthumus said. "We invited all the Friends groups around the state to give us pointers and share ideas with us. We started doing programming, initiated participation in the Memorial Day Parade, and started the book sale."

"We have been blessed with terrific leadership over the years and have always encouraged community ownership in the programs and the building," she added.

Over the years, the Board of Trustees has totally supported the group in all its many endeavors and membership has grown to more than 225 individuals and/or families.

"The Friends have enriched the library's mission since the very beginning," Chew said.

Through its countless fundraising activities since 2004 the organization has raised, and put to good use, almost $300,000. Requests for funds are presented at the board meetings, discussed and voted upon. Projects range from minor improvements to the facility like window shades or kitchen supplies, to major ones like the historic photo framing or the fireplace restoration in the periodical room; the latest being a state-of-the-art projection system for the community room.

The funds have made it possible for the library to engage speakers, plan concerts (Folk and Jazz) and other events; a major such event was last year's hosting and decenting of the Smithsonian's traveling "Journey Stories" exhibition. The Michigan Room Committee is a subsidiary of the group and has been responsible for appraising the rare books collection, preserving historical Charlevoix newspapers, providing obituary records for the libraries' webpage, promoting historical exhibitions and creating the Margaret Duerr Award to honor outstanding citizens or organizations who have made significant contributions to Charlevoix.

From projects ranging from landscaping to digitizing Charlevoix High School yearbooks, the group stands ready to supplement the library's budget and consider proposals for funding. Each year the on-going and the annual summer Friends of the Library Book Sale nets almost $15,000. Along with membership dues and other donations, this viable organization is able to maintain and manage a healthy budget.

If you haven't done so before because you weren't quite sure what being a Friend of the Charlevoix Public Library entailed, all you have to do is pick up a membership envelope at the desk, next time you visit. For as little as $5 you will become part of a significant effort to help Charlevoix's Public Library remain first class.

"Many people say they have moved here because of our Library," Chew said. "Area residents use it as a drawing attraction. Locals and visitors alike are frequent users. We want every one to always feel welcome here. We love the library and want to make a comfortable and inspiring place to visit."

Some holiday and new year wishes

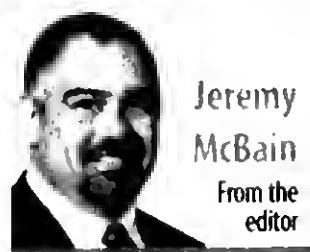

This time of the year my family likes to ask me for lists.

"What do you want for Christmas? What New Year's resolutions do you have?" But I never really have great answers for them. Usually it is an "I don't know" followed by "I will be happy with whatever I get" for the Christmas question and the New Year's question usually gets some answer about "losing weight" or being "more cheery."

This year, I thought I would actually write down a list of the things I want, or wish, for this holiday season. I decided to make it a Christmas and New Year "wish list" because many of the items can be combined and can not be bought.

I wish for more kindness

This ranks at the top of my list. I wish for kindness among my fellow Americans this Christmas and New Year. I have written many times here about my disgust with the way we are treating each other, specifically in the political arena. Americans are treating others who do not have the same political beliefs in them as people who are "not Americans" or even "the enemy." It saddens me to see us treat each other this way. But I am going to expand this to include our treatment of all others. For political reasons, some people are starting to treat others who are in need from other countries — the poor, the sick, the tired, those running from war — as enemies to hate. Stop it. Please, for the sake of humanity. We need to be examples of kindness to the world.

Jeremy McBain
From the editor

I wish for more moderation

I keep seeing both political parties lurching to the far sides of their respective spectrums. All studies indicate a majority of the people are moderate in their political beliefs though. It is my opinion governments that operate on appeasing a small segment of the society with far right or far left proposals and laws are governments that are ultimately failures. I'd like to see government and candidates start to cross aisles, shake hands with their opponents, and come to consensus. Even the suggestion of this will generate some hate from those on the far sides of the spectrums though, so we will need brave governments and politicians to stand up to the loud-mouths of both sides.

I wish we took better care of the earth

I am constantly baffled by this debate. It doesn't matter to me if climate change was created by man or nature, it is happening. To me, if there is anything we can do to make the climate that much better for my daughter, my daughter's children, her children's children and so on, I am game for it. It makes no sense to me to not invest in the future of the entire planet, even if it means a period of short-term economic difficulties. We only have one planet we can live on. Look at it this way, if there is a chance scientists are not wrong with climate science, and we do nothing, it means a world that will become barely livable for humans. If the scientists are wrong, but we still make changes, it will mean, regardless, the world is now cleaner and more comfortable for all humans. I think the best bet is to become a cleaner world.

I wish for more laughter

We, including myself, are becoming much too serious about life. (Just look at my first three wishes.) Sure there are some serious issues we need to face in this world — war, death, pollution, sickness, hate — but that doesn't mean we have to be constantly serious. I am chastised for this all the time, with people telling me I never seem to smile. I want to smile more and plan to make serious attempts at doing so, and make others smile, even if it means I will resort to cheesy jokes in my 2016 columns on this opinion page. In fact, I want to hear your favorite jokes. Post them on the Petoskey News-Review Facebook page or my Facebook page www.petoskeynews.com/jeremchain. Let's have a laugh together.

I wish to be healthier

I think we could all use to be a little healthier actually. It never hurts. I know I have a few pounds I could stand to lose, and eat food that is probably horrible for me (I love cake). Let's share with each other our tips for a healthier new year over on the Petoskey News-Review Facebook page or my page.

Thank you all for a wonderful 2015. I look forward to 2016 with you.

Jeremy McBain is the executive editor of the Petoskey News-Review. He can be contacted by calling (231) 439-9316 or emailing jmcbain@petoskeynews.com.

Local communities recognize potential threat of Line 5

Editor:

Thursday, Dec. 17, the Emmet County Commissioner's voted unanimously to request that Gov. Rick Snyder utilize the state's authority by acting immediately to "restrict Line 5 to its original design capacity of 300,000 bbl/d and to limit its cargo to non-oil products." The Mackinaw City Council also voted to adopt the resolution. The resolution also calls for an independent risk analysis.

They now join the city of Cheboygan, Cheboygan County Commissioners, Genesee and Wayne counties, along with several townships in an action that puts the state government on notice. The governor and attorney general must protect the citizens of Michigan by reducing the risk of an oil spill in the Great Lakes.

These local governments took the first step in protecting our environment, tourism, fishing industry and the citizen's health and well-being. These actions tell us that they are taking this threat seriously.

Those of us living at "ground zero" need to step up. This simple "ask" reduces the threat these 62 year old pipelines pose to the Straits of Mackinac. Communities living on or near the 645 miles of Line 5 that runs through the Upper and Lower Peninsula of Michigan must take action by adopting the resolution.

If those of us living near the Great Lakes and its watersheds do not take action to protect these waters, who will?

Why wait to avert an oil rupture? An oil rupture in Line 5 could happen any time due to corrosion, stress and age.

I urge you to tell the governor and attorney general to restrict Line 5 now.

Join the growing number of governmental bodies who voted to adopt the resolution.

As one county commissioner stated, "If we do nothing to express our concerns it will be a wrong signal and a big mistake."

Editor:

The problem with all "anti-stigma" campaigns is that they first agree with the assertion of a "stigma." The real issue is educating people directing that prejudice that they stop.

One educates them, not emulates them. Please, constrain yourselves from offering their validation.

Bridging our past with our future

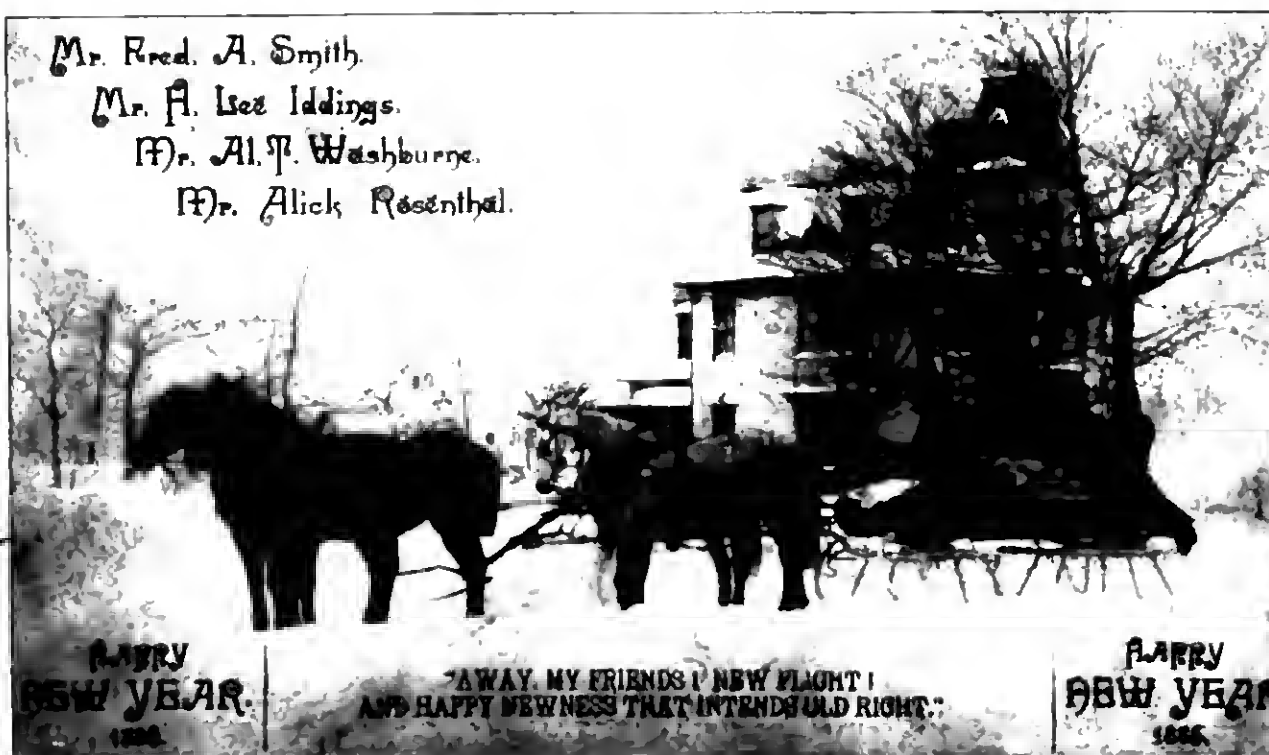

LOOKING BACK...

This New Year's card was produced in 1885 by four local men, all very close friends. Fred Smith was the cashier of the Charlevoix Savings Bank, located where the Townhouse Bar is now. Harvey Lee Iddings, who had arrived in town only a couple of years before, owned a hardware store with pioneer settler Morris J. Stockman, located across the street from Murdock's Famous Fudge building on the East Park corner. Harvey became Charlevoix's first mayor in 1905 when the town graduated from village to city status. A. T. Washburn was a machinist whose shop was on Belvedere Avenue just east of today's Ward Bros. Allick Rosen that owned a fine clothing store on Bridge Street on the lower level of the opera house beside the channel bridge. He left Charlevoix in the 1890s to found Rosenthal's of Petoskey, where the store became one of the most respected and prestigious clothing companies in Northern Michigan for decades. Behind the men rises the stately Upright residence at the northwest corner of State and Hurlbut streets, one of the most beautiful homes in Charlevoix. The driver of the sleigh, wearing a silk top hat, is unidentified. The lofty poetry of the two-line greeting remains slightly confusing as to its true meaning.

Happy New Year from Charlevoix

Council waits to hear from public on propeller donation

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558; lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — On Dec. 21 members of the Charlevoix City Council preferred to let the public decide with what to do with a donation from St. Marys Cement plant.

At the same meeting council also approved the purchase of new trucks for the Department of Public Works and passed a resolution to vacate a portion of Division Street after the scheduled public hearing.

The large bronze propeller from the decommissioned St. Marys Challenger would be placed along the Pine River Channel near the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Research Station. City manager Mark Heydlauff explained to council that the proposal had gone to the Planning Commission as directed by the city's donation acceptance policy.

Planning Commission members referred it on to council members who were weary of making a decision without having a public hearing.

"I think we all know what happens when we put ugly things in high profile places," said councilmember Bill Supernaw.

It also was suggested by council to have a survey placed on the city's Facebook page because not many people come to public hearings, said councilmember Luther Kurtz.

"Not everybody wants to spend their (Monday night) hanging out with us even though they might have an opinion," Kurtz said.

Councilmember Aaron Hagen agreed.

"We should do hnth," Hagen said. "Set a public hearing, but a survey has a great response rate."

The public hearing about the propeller is scheduled for 7 p.m. on March 21, in council chambers at City Hall.

Department of Public Works superintendent Pat Elliott presented council members with two proposals to spend allocated funds to replace three of the fleets older vehicles. The first approval allows Elliott to spend $60,000 on two one-ton dump trucks. This allows Elliott to shop around for the vehicles without having to return to council for approval once he finds what he is looking for.

Council members discuss scheduling a public hearing at there Dec. 21 meeting before accepting the donation of a propeller from the decommissioned St. Marys Challenger.

"These trucks are used for a multitude of things like picking up trash, hauling soil, leaves and lawn clippings," Elliott said. "They don't need to be fancy just your basic utility dump truck."

Elliott also received approval to spend $25,000 on to replace a 1995 Ford half-ton pickup truck used for towing the city's mowing equipment. This vehicle is replacement is a necessity, Elliott said.

"It would be a waste of money to keep repairing the truck we have now," Elliott said. "In all reality this truck needs to be scrapped out."

After a short discussion council approved the request from Krist Oil Company to vacate the city's portion of Division Street between U.S. 31 and Mercer Road for its new north end Foodmart convenience store to be located at the corner of Mercer and U.S. 31 by Uhrick's Lincoln Log Motel. Krist will also build another store on the south end of Charlevoix.

During the public hearing a city resident wanted the company to consider placing trees to make a screen to block some of the lighting and noise a gas station would produce. But because the stores will be built in Charlevoix Township council members could not put any requirements to the Division Street vacate request.

The next City Council meeting is scheduled for 7 p.m. on Jan. 4 at City Hall.

Community Pool organizes new challenge for 2016

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Community Pool introduced the Race to Lake Charlevoix challenge in 2015. The intent was for community members to support one another and work toward a common goal of swimming 40 miles over the course of all their lap swim visits. To gain a better understanding of this accomplishment, 88 lengths of the pool equals one mile.

A wall display was mounted in the pool area where everyone could see their progress.

"It was really exciting to watch our swimmers reach their goals," said program manager Chelsea Biddick.

Ten area swimmers met or exceeded the challenge: Chip Frenz, Jeannette Kling, Susan Schlaybaugh, Shannon Walz, Steve Nelle, Ruth Nelle, Bert Ulrich, Dennis Halverson, Jodi Blaha and Bob Ruhs. Lap swimmers Susan Schlaybaugh and Bert Ulrich went above and beyond the goal, with each accumulating more than 100 miles. All participants received a certificate and were invited to attend a luncheon to celebrate their accomplishments. The program was a fun way to inspire community members to be healthy and active throughout the year.

"We are excited to introduce a new challenge in 2016, Race Around Lake Charlevoix," said Peggy Denlo, facility manager. "Participants can set individual goals to swim distances representative of our lake or they can set out to reach a total of 60 miles, which equals the perimeter of Lake Charlevoix. We encourage participants to work at their own pace."

Challenge segments for 2016 include: Charlevoix to Ironton, 6 miles; Ironton to East Jordan and back, 10 miles each way; Ironton to Boyne City, 10 miles; Boyne City to Horton Bay, 6 miles; Horton Bay to Charlevoix, 18 miles.

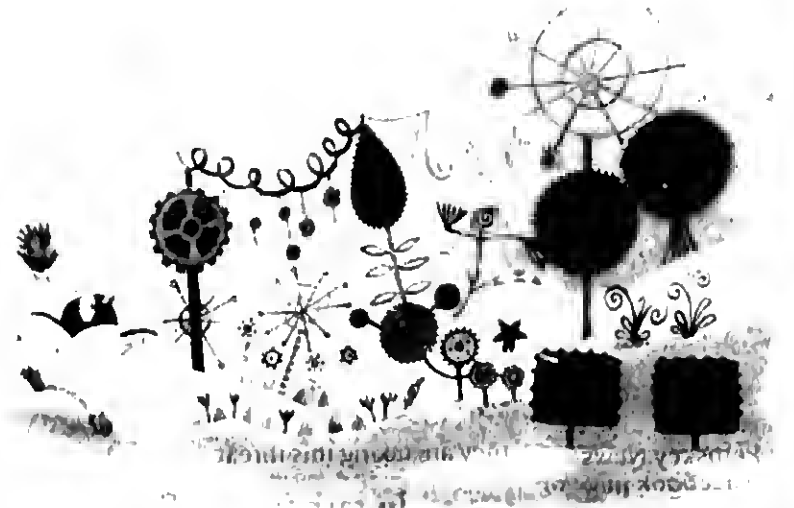

Community members interested in participating in the 2016 challenge are encouraged to come by during lap swim.

Library looks to patrons to create winter snow garden

CHARLEVOIX — In an effort to bring color and happiness to the winter season at the Charlevoix Public Library, the library is asking patrons to help create a winter snow garden. This public art installation is based on the children's book, "The Magical Snow Garden" by Tracey Cordaroy and Jana Chapman, published by Tiger Tales, USA.

The book depicts a magical place in a winter scene. The library hopes to recreate that place in the main entrance in the Circle Garden.

Free kits will be available beginning Jan. 2, at the library. Participants may use the kit to create their own colorful and festive garden stake. Helpers are encouraged to use bright colors, and materials of their own choosing to decorate your kit. The stakes will be installed in the circle garden as they are returned.

The time frame for this fun event is Jan. 2, until the snow goes away.

For more information, call (231) 547-2651.

Give a Christmas tree a 2nd life to help animals, the environment

When the holiday season is complete and the stockings hang empty on the fireplace mantle, the candy canes have long since been eaten and packages are empty and stripped of their finery and you are ready to take down the tree, be sure to recycle.

With more than 30 million real trees harvested annually, there is a huge opportunity to have a positive impact on the environment by ensuring your tree doesn't end up in a landfill at the end of the holiday season.

The city of Charlevoix has a curbside pickup for Christmas trees, said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

"The trees are treated the same way as brush pickup," Heydlauff said. "Trees are then processed into wood chips to be utilized in the future."

According to the National Christmas Tree Association, trees may be "upcycled" as soil erosion barriers for lake and river shoreline stabilization and river delta sedimentation management. They can also be upcycled in lakes or ponds where they act as an excellent refuge and feeding areas for fish. A tree also can be placed back in the environment for wild neighbors as long as there is no tinsel on it before people incorporate it into their landscapes.

Here are a few tips to make use of a real Christmas tree long after the holidays have past.

— Stand your tree outside near bird feeders for added cover for birds and other wildlife.

— Have the kids help while they are out of school. Children can decorate the outdoor tree with bird edibles, by covering pinecones with peanut butter and dipping them in birdseed or sunflower seeds or make dried bagel wreaths — cut the bagels in half, smear the sides with peanut butter, dip them in seed and tie them securely to the tree with string. Another option is to string popcorn, cranberries, oranges, peanuts in the shell and other bird goodies to hang in the tree.

When the holiday season is complete and you are ready to take down the tree, be sure to recycle. Check with county or local public works department for tree recycling information.

— Make a brush pile. Use the tree as a base for a teepee-style brush pile. Remove the limbs and to add to an existing brush pile.

— Lay the tree down in your yard to provide a wildlife shelter or a habitat for beneficial insects.

— Turn the tree into mulch. Let the tree dry out so the needles fall off, and rake the needles up for mulch. And if you own or have access to a wood chipper, you can grind the trunk, too. Spread the mulch around to feed acid-loving plants and to provide a home for shrews, who don't live in burrows so much as in litter and decaying plant matter on the ground.

— Recycle the tree.

There are a number of ways communities handle tree recycling, including curbside pick-up for recycling, recycling center drop offs, mulching programs, nonprofit pickups and personal composting. In many areas, sanitation services collect trees during the weeks following Christmas check with your service to see if this is an option and what they require in terms of size limitations and tree condition. Many counties also have free drop-off locations; check with your county for more information.

Tree recycling and mulching programs have increased in recent years; your local department of public works can provide you with information on whether this service is available in your area. Public works also will be aware of any nonprofit organizations in your area that are available to pick up your tree, often for a small fee.

Michigan State University Extension's Master Gardener program is proud to have hosted 47 trainees in completing the Master Gardener coursework.

MSU Extension: 47 complete Master Gardener program

GAYLORD - The Michigan State University Extension's Master Gardener program furthers the land grant university's goals of dissemination of scientifically based information via a network of trained volunteers who receive support from MSU Extension educators. This program provides Michigan residents with the most current and environmentally sound horticulture information. Michigan State University Extension Otsego County office is proud to have just hosted 47 trainees in completing the Master Gardener coursework. While the majority of the trainees were from Otsego County, seven other Northern Michigan counties were represented. Master Gardener Trainees must successfully complete 45 hours of class time with a 14 session curriculum that covers horticulture training based on university research. Class topics include plant and soil science, integrated pest management, annuals and perennials, woody ornamental, vegetables, small fruits and tree fruits and gardening practices to protect water quality. To become an Certified Extension Master Gardener, trainees must also complete 40 hours of horticultural related volunteer service in their local communities. During the trainee's volunteer time they will offer science based guidance for lawns and gardens, work closely with the Otsego Conservation District and their demonstration gardens and community service projects, offer gardening workshops for adults and conduct outreach. Another program the trainees will work on is the Junior Master Gardener program which brings environmental education about growing food, flowers, recycling and composting to school-aged children. While completing their 40 hours in the local and surrounding communities these 47 trainees will volunteer a total of 1,880 hours, which holds over $40,000 in value. After initially being certified, the MSU Extension Master Gardener continues to give back to their community in subsequent years and re-certify by offering 15 hours of volunteer work and five hours of continued education annually. Anyone interested in becoming a MSUE Master Gardener or learning other ways they can participate, contact Rudi, the Otsego County Master Gardener Coordinator at mgc.otsego@gmail.com.

Students create Cards 4 Caring

ABOVE: Charlevoix High School students who helped out with the Cards 4 Caring project visited Boulder Park Terrace on Thursday, Dec. 17, to hand out holiday cards to seniors. While there the kids visited and read the cards to many of the patients before singing Christmas carols. The students provided cards for all 69 patients at Boulder Park Terrace to combat Seasonal Affect Disorder.

Red Cross to host January blood drives

PETOSKEY - This January during National Blood Donor Month, the American Red Cross encourages people to roll up their sleeves to give blood to help maintain a sufficient blood supply for patients. Since 1970, National Blood Donor Month has been observed in January to not only honor blood and platelet donors, but also to help increase donations during the winter months. Maintaining a sufficient blood supply for patients is difficult at this time of year because extreme winter weather and seasonal illnesses often impact donor turnout.

Karla Essmiller became a blood donor in college, but the importance of giving blood hit home when several family members had medical emergencies. "It only takes once sitting in a hospital, praying that your loved one will live through the day, to know how thankful you are for every single thing done to help them," Essmiller said. "Donating blood is a simple gift that I can make that may help up to three people live another day. That makes me feel like a hero."

The Red Cross encourages eligible donors to resolve to give blood regularly, beginning in January. Donors with all blood types are needed, especially those with types AB, O, B negative and A negative.

Some upcoming blood donation opportunities:

— From 1-5:45 p.m. on Jan. 5 at the American Red Cross Petoskey, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive — From noon-5:45 p.m. on Jan. 8 at the American Red Cross Petoskey, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive

— From noon-5:45 p.m. on Jan. 14 at the Charlevoix Community Reformed Church, 100 Oak St., Charlevoix

— From noon-5:45 p.m. on Jan. 15 at the American Red Cross Petoskey, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive, Petoskey

To make an appointment to donate blood, download the free Red Cross Blood Donor App from app stores, visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (800) 733-2767. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

Lake House emanates a signature up-North feel

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — It's hard to believe that The Lake House on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix has only been in operation for a year and a half. Opening in May of 2014, the upscale gifts and home décor boutique has become the go-to stop to browse or buy for locals and visitors to town. Its wide assortment of merchandise emanates a signature up-North feel. From throw pillows to mirrors and wine glasses to purses, The Lake House specializes in creating a mood that speaks to the area in a casual, rustic-chic, nautical way.

Darsi Spencley Lee is the heart of the operation. Schooled in retail by her mentor, friend and fellow down-the-avenue entrepreneur, Jacqueline Mabee Dipert, Lee is grateful for her years spent, like so many of her contemporaries, working at the Clothing Company.

"I'm just a local kid who was raised in Charlevoix and worked downtown," she said.

It was Dipert that encouraged Lee to take the quantum leap.

"You need to open gift store," Jacq told me when I was in the process of getting out of real estate," Lee said.

Lee spent 10 years with Remax realty during which time she met her husband, realtor Mitts Lee, currently of Berkshire Hathaway.

"He has been so supportive," she said.

Her friend, Dipert

also reminded Lee that Charlevoix needed this kind of store; a gift store which feels comfortable yet fashionable at the same time.

"People seem to love the Up North nautical feel," Lee said.

The thematic appeal is huge but Lee attributes a large part of her success to her employees.

"I feel extremely blessed with the people who work here," she said, "and with the wonderful local and seasonal support I have received."

In the spring the Lake House will move to a larger building right next door.

"We started small and just sort of took off," she said. "We need more space now."

The new location will increase the store's footprint from 1,400 to about 2,000 square feet. The expansion will allow Lee to spread out her inventory a bit and carry some new lines. Her merchandise is tastefully arranged in "Michigan vignettes" featuring items from university logos to wedding gift ideas; don't miss the hand painted signs, curios and the unique greeting card collection as well.

The Lake House provides wedding registry and offers shipping as a customer service; bonus is a greeting from Lee's resident Golden Doodle, "Ella." Hours are 9:30 a.m.-5:30 p.m., seven days a week. Visit the Lake House on the web and on Facebook... better yet, stop in.

Charlevoix Public Library to host dance workshops

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library will offer five sets of dance workshops for children in January and February. Dance with Me for toddlers, 18 months to three years will introduce little ones to class structure through movement, music and imagination. The series will be from 10:30-11 a.m. on Mondays, Jan. 11 and Feb. 15, in the Youth Activity Center. There is no fee for these classes and drop-ins are welcome. Plan to arrive five minutes before class begins.

The Creative Movement Series will be from 10:30-11 a.m. on Wednesdays, Jan. 13 - Feb. 17. This series is designed for 2- and 3-year-old children. Toddlers will be introduced to the art of ballet dance, including movement and rhythm games done to inspiring music. Pre-registration is required. The fee for the series is $10. This is a parent/child class where the child moves and the parent stays and observes.

The Winter Hip Hop Workshop is a six week series for 6- to 10-year-olds that will introduce children to hip hop dance to age-appropriate music in a healthy and nurturing environment. The series will take place from 7-7:45 p.m. on Wednesdays, Jan. 13 through Feb. 17, in the Youth Activity Center. Pre-registration is required. The fee for the series is $10. Class attire is comfortable, athletic clothing and indoor-use only sneakers.

The Prince and Princess Ballet Workshop is a six week series for 3 through 5-year-old children using princess-themed music and props to introduce kids to ballet positions and movement. French terminology and classroom etiquette in a fun, yet disciplined manner. The series will take place from 5-5:45 p.m. on Wednesdays, Jan. 13 - Feb. 17. Pre-registration is required. The fee for the series is $10. Class attire is tight fitting, athletic clothing or leotard with ballet shoes or bare feet.

series will be held from 6-6:45 p.m. on Wednesdays, Jan. 13-17. It will introduce children to ballet positions and movement. Pre-registration is required. The fee for the series is $10. Class attire is tight fitting, athletic clothing or leotard with ballet shoes or bare feet.

All workshops will be taught by Kristi Epping, a Magna Cum Laude graduate from Oklahoma City University with a Bachelor of Science degree in dance management. Epping danced professionally throughout the United States, Canada and Caribbean with Royal Caribbean International and Six Flags. Since relocating to Northern Michigan, she has focused her attention on teaching creative movement, ballet, tap, jazz and musical theater, all while starting a family. Epping is looking forward to sharing her love of dance.

Chamber, Convention and Visitors Bureau are different organizations

I am often asked what the Chamber does and how it is different from the Convention and Visitors Bureau. This month I have asked Amanda Wilkin, executive director with the bureau to assist in writing this article, so that we can educate our community on how our organizations work together and how our missions and program of work differ.

You may notice when you call our offices we answer the phone as the Charlevoix Chamber and Visitors Bureau. We do share office spaces, but there are key things to note about our organizations funding sources and we are led by two different governing board of directors.

CHAMBER UPDATE

The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is a resource

and advocate for business and tourism in the Charlevoix area. We offer programming and events that not only support our members as business owners, but also benefit the Charlevoix area as a whole. We represent more than 440 businesses, large and small, creating a united voice for business throughout the Charlevoix area. Memberships make our programs and events possible, and without them we cannot accomplish our mission of supporting commerce and providing leadership to enhance the quality of life.

Every member invests in the future of the Charlevoix area when they join our organization.

The mission of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau is to positively impact the area's economy by promoting Charlevoix as an overnight travel destination. Formed through Michigan's Public Act 59, the organization began in 1985 and has been marketing Charlevoix for overnight tourism for the past 30 years. The bureau is funded by a 5 percent assessment the guest pays when they stay at most lodging properties in Charlevoix. Each and every dollar earned by the organization goes back into marketing Charlevoix to increase overnight tourism.

The Chamber has enjoyed almost 10 years in our current location at 109 Mason, with the visitors bureau as a joint tenant for 7 years. Our office is the first stop or phone call for a new visitor, family relocating to town or a new business inquiry. Between our two organizations, we are mostly likely the first impression someone receives of Charlevoix.

Although we do not share the same program of work, we do work closely on a number of programs, events and community initiatives. Both organizations provide services that are essential to Charlevoix's success and we strive to make that first impression a lasting one whether you are a visitor, resident or business in our community.

School does not want city to install sidewalks

LONGIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — A plan to construct a sidewalk on St. Mary's Drive has officials at Saint Mary Catholic School concerned for their students' education.

"The teachers and principal believe sidewalks would be a classroom distraction," said the Rev. Matthew Wigton, during a public informational meeting on Dec. 17 at City Hall. "We haven't spoke to parents about it but we believe they would have the same concern."

St. Mary's Drive connects U.S. 31 and State Street. St. Mary's Drive is one of the streets considered to be the worst of the worst in the city that need complete sewer, water and other upgrades.

The infrastructure project is scheduled to begin in the spring of 2016 with varying start and end dates depending on the street, said Pat Elliott, Charlevoix Department of Public Works superintendent. Project costs are estimated to be approximately $3.32 million, which would include the engineering and administration costs of $442,613.

The other streets scheduled for water, sewer, curb and gutter upgrades include:

- Wood Street
- Green Street
- 200 block of East Upright Street
- Alice Street from Belvedere to Garfield avenues
- Burns Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues

— Nichols Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues

— State Street, which will only be a water main upgrade from Garfield to Lincoln avenues.

Not all streets will have sidewalks installed, but because St. Mary's Drive is near a school or busy roadway sidewalks were included in the preliminary engineering design, said Jim Malewitz, of Performance Engineering in Charlevoix.

"Usually you encourage sidewalks next to schools for safety," Malewitz said.

More discussion is needed before any decision about the sidewalk is made.

If it means safe pedestrian travel or other benefits let's not eliminate part of the project, Elliott said.

"If the majority of the people do not want the sidewalk I'm not going to shove it down anybody's throat," Elliott said. "When we initially looked at this typically when you have a school or an area where there is high pedestrian traffic in general like a church — this one is both — it's just logical to put a sidewalk there."

Wigton understands the idea of having a sidewalk near a school or church, but in this case it would not work.

"I'm not against the concept of having sidewalks next to schools, but we're talking all the classroom windows face St. Mary's Drive," Wigton said. "It would be a constant distraction as people walk by."

Rendering of the planned infrastructure project on St. Mary's Drive.

Charlevoix Department of Public Works superintendent Pat Elliott, city manager Mark Heydlauff and Jim Malewitz of Performance Engineering answer question from the public about the 2016 proposed infrastructure project planned for Charlevoix. One main issue on the project is a proposed sidewalk near Saint Mary Catholic School, which school officials claim would be a distraction to students.

A large tree blocked the intersection of Phelps and South Barnard road through late Saturday night. The tree on the Archie Potter farm is recognized by a plaque as the second largest of its poplar tree species in Michigan.

yard. "We had a bonfire and it was a good day of fellowship," Simpson said. "Life appears to be back to normal on the farm."

The tree that came down was large and had a historic plaque on it recognizing it as one of the oldest native poplar trees in Michigan, Simpson said. "Grandfather said it was the second largest of its kind in the state," Simpson said. "It's sure going to change the landscape."

Simpson and his family were in the house sleeping when the noise of one of the trees larger branches crashed to the ground in the yard.

"It was about 2 a.m. when the limb in the front yard came down," Simpson said. "It was probably a half-hour after the limb came off when the rest of the tree fell across the road and the sparks flew as the lines came down with it."

As of Saturday Charlevoix Township fire chief Dan Thorp said his department had reported to an estimated 20 downed tree calls throughout their coverage area.

Township firefighters got the call to the Potter farm at 3:26 a.m. on Dec. 24 and remained on the scene throughout the day. Local neighbors in the area provided food beverages for township firefighters until authorities roped off the area later that evening.

"Everyone in the county is busy," Thorp said. "We appreciate the people and their support and thank the dispatchers at 9-1-1 for their patience with all these calls coming in."

According to a Great Lakes Energy news release, an estimated 3,414 members remain without power as of early Saturday afternoon out of the 78,566 affected that are served by the collective. Most of the remaining outages are in parts of Antrim, Charlevoix, Crawford, Emmet, Kalkaska, Lake, Montmorency, Oscoda and Otsego counties.

Power was restored to most members by late Saturday, but because some of the damage is so severe and widespread that some members are expected to not get their power back until Monday, said Dave Guzik, communications director of Great Lakes Energy.

Current outage information by counties and townships that is updated every 15 minutes can be viewed on the Great Lakes Energy website, glakes.com, by clicking on Storm Central.

Further progress reports will be issued as crews continue their repairs. Restoration time will greatly depend on the weather.

As of 4:30 p.m. Sunday, approximately 6,000 Consumers Energy customers remained without service from the Christmas Eve storm. Consumers Energy is on track to restore nearly all customers by the end of Sunday. For the hardest hit areas in Northeast Michigan, including portions of Alcona, Iosco, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Oscoda and Roscommon counties, restoration work will continue into early Monday.

"As we complete restoration late tonight and early Monday, we are moving crews, making sure they get proper rest and restocking supplies for this next round of weather," said Mary Palkovich, vice president of energy delivery. "We will be ready for whatever Mother Nature throws our way."

As Consumers Energy is wrapping up storm restoration in northern Michigan and Consumers Energy works closely with local public safety during storms. They appreciate the proactive calls and solid lines of communication, Palkovich said.

Consumers Energy customers can check for updated restoration information at the online outage map at ConsumersEnergy.com/outagecenter, where outages can also be reported and power outage information is available. Both computers and mobile devices may access the online map.

Babies born on New Year's Day are said to have the best luck throughout their lives.

— A Polish tradition states that if you wake up early on New Year's Day, you will wake up early for the rest of the year. And if you touch the floor with the right foot when getting up from bed, you could expect a lot of good luck for whole new year.

Then there are the many traditions surrounding food:

— In Italy, eating chiacchiere, (carnival fried pastry) guarantees a sweet year.

— In Spain, and many Latin countries, eating twelve grapes, one for each month, is said to ensure a lucky year.

— According to a Pennsylvania "Dutch" (German) tradition, eating pork and sauerkraut brings good luck in the New Year.

— In the Southern U.S., it is believed that eating black-eyed peas, ham hocks, and collard greens or cabbage on New Year's Day will attract a financial windfall. Other "lucky" foods are lentil soup (because lentils supposedly look like coins), pork (because poultry scratches backwards, a cow stands still, but a pig roots forward, ergo those who dine upon pork will be moving forward in the new year), and sauerkraut (probably because it goes so well with pork).

— Eating anything that forms a circle — such as doughnuts — leads to good fortune in the coming year.

— German folklore says that eating herring at the stroke of midnight will bring luck for the next year.

— Eating pickled herring as the first bite of the New Year brings good luck to those of Polish descent.

While many of these traditions are based on mere superstition, the idea that what we do on the first day of the New Year affects our entire year remains popular. Choose your actions carefully!

Growth of youth league paying dividends for high school team

(231) 439-9343 • jchristens@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — With 17 freshmen in the Charlevoix girls basketball program this season, the future looks to be bright for the Rayders, even if that future is young right now.

It's no accident, however, that so many freshmen are coming out, but rather the result of a program put in place three years ago by head coach Liz Shaw that is now starting to bear fruit.

That program is the Charlevoix Youth Basketball League, a developmental league that runs on Saturdays in the winter for girls from kindergarten through the 8th grade.

In three years it's grown to host over 150 girls from the community every weekend, giving them a chance to work with Charlevoix's coaches and varsity players and learn the game for a low cost.

"Our goal was to get kids involved in basketball at a young age, to teach them skills and make it fun for them and affordable for their parents," Shaw said.

That's why we keep the cost at $25, offer scholarships and give every participant a ball so they can take it home and work on their game outside of the league.

"The turnout has been great, and we're seeing that the kids are learning a lot and having a lot of fun with it."

The league is divided into four groups: a weekly skills clinic at the elementary school for grades K-2, with lowered rims and smaller balls, a session for third and fourth graders that is half skills clinic and half game action, and fifth and sixth grade and seventh and eighth grade leagues with weekly games.

"For the younger kids, it's a chance to pick up the ball, maybe for the first time, and learn about the game," Shaw said. "As they get older, we give them a chance to compete against and play with girls who might be their teammates down the road, and develop in-game skills."

Shaw was inspired to start the league by her parents, Rick and Nancy Grunch, who ran a similar league for young girls in Charlevoix during her time playing for the Rayders and after she graduated.

Many of the girls who would go on to be stars on legendary coach Kelth Haske's teams that were among the best in the state and made a finals trip in 2004 got their start in that youth league.

"My hope with this was to do what my dad had done after we moved from out west, and give girls an opportunity to play while also strengthening the program," Shaw said. "When I moved here in the eighth grade, Charlevoix didn't really have anything like this, and right around the time he got the league going and got girls involved early on, we started having success on the court as well."

After the Grunches stepped aside, the league faded away due to the time commitment involved in running it, but Shaw has stepped in to fill the void, with the help of parent volunteers and her varsity players.

"It's a tremendous amount of work, and it wouldn't be possible without the help of all the great people who give their time to make it possible," Shaw said. "All the parents who help out coaching, refereeing or running the scoreboard, and all of the varsity players who donate their time to help out these kids, without them this couldn't happen."

For Shaw, the program has a long term benefit. Almost all of those 17 freshmen in the high school program came up through the Youth League.

Given that the Rayders have just two seniors and one junior on the roster in the program this season, convincing more girls to come out and giving them the skills to succeed immediately is vital for Charlevoix success in the future.

"We focus a lot on fundamental skills, but I also draw on my background as a P.E. teacher to find ways to keep it fun and keep them entertained," Shaw said. "I know for a lot of the girls, to be able to be a part of a team and work together with their friends is something that's very exciting for them."

There's satisfaction on a personal level for Shaw as well, following in her family's footsteps.

"I'm most proud of being able to bring back something that was such a huge part of my dad's life," Shaw said. "Playing in this league when I was a kid helped me so much to become the player and the person I am today, and I'm happy that I get the chance to pass that on to someone else."

The Charlevoix Youth League will return to action next Saturday, Jan. 9. For more information on the league and how to participate, contact Shaw at lshaw@rayder.net.

After heartbreaking one-goal losses cost them both the outright LMC title and a district title in 2015, the Charlevoix boys soccer team came back determined to get the job done. Under coach Anton Matye and led by all-state players Walker Drost, Christian Matye and Kevin Pearl, Charlevoix took the LMC crown with an 11-1 record, then avenged a loss to Harbor Springs last season with a 1-0 victory over the Rams in the district final to claim the crown, thanks to a goal by Nick Bradley (left).

Charlevoix's cross country teams failed to qualify for the state final in 2014, and lost quality runners in Amber Way and Nick Plude to graduation. But under new coach Doug Dronth, the Rayders rallied in 2015, earning top three finishes as a team on both the boys and girls side to return to Michigan International Speedway. At the state final, Charlevoix had two all-state finishers: Isabel Hess (front) and teammate Michelle Bollini (background), who both finished in the top 20 in the division 3 meet.

New maps show possible routes for nuclear waste transport

BY COURTNEY BOURNOM
Capital News Service

LANSING — Anti-nuclear groups are identifying the types of transportation needed to haul nuclear waste across the Great Lakes region if a national waste storage site in Nevada wins federal approval.

They are adding state-specific details to U.S. Department of Energy maps to show where barges could move waste across Lake Michigan and where trucks and trains could move it across the region.

Beyond Nuclear and Nuclear Information and Resource Service said they wanted to localize a national policy by highlighting truck, rail and water routes necessary to move nuclear waste under a proposed storage policy.

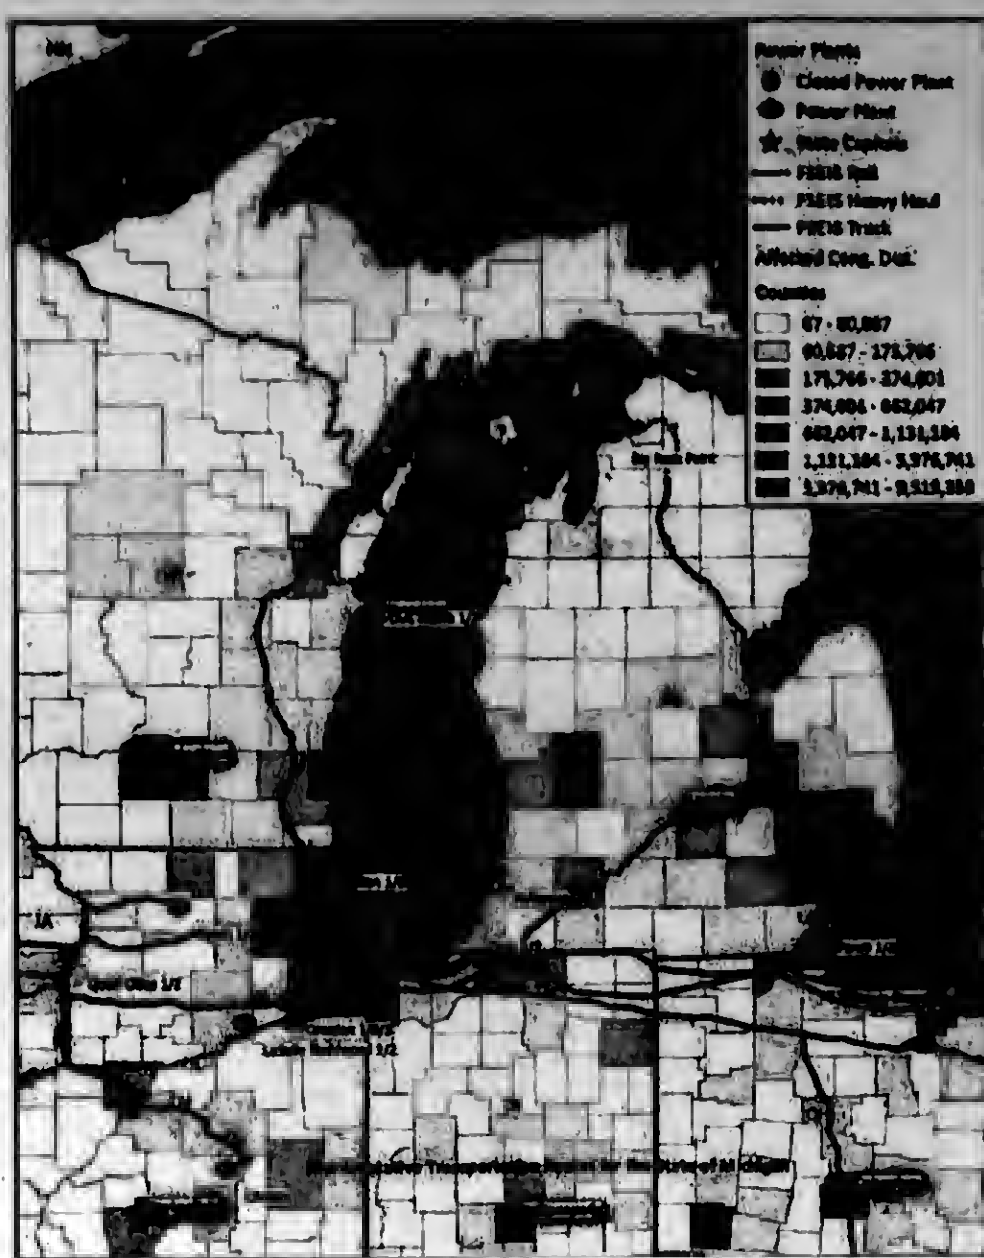

For the Great Lakes region, the two anti-nuclear organizations noted multiple places that railways can't reach and where nuclear waste would instead have to travel across Lake Michigan.

Nationwide, the material would end up at a proposed site at Yucca Mountain in Nevada.

There, a potential nuclear repository would lay to rest tens of thousands of tons of radioactive material, said Kevin Kamps of Nuclear Waste Watchdog for Beyond Nuclear, an anti-nuclear advocacy organization based in Maryland.

As many as 453 barges full of used nuclear material could travel across Lake Michigan in total, according to the waterway maps.

Each barge could hold up to 140 tons of waste, according to Nuclear Information and Resource Service. The sheer weight of each container would significantly increase the time necessary to recover spilled nuclear material, Kamps said.

But nuclear energy advocates counter that transporting the waste safely wouldn't pose a problem.

"This is an incredibly safe process," said Mitchell Singer, a senior media relations manager at the Nuclear Energy Institute, a Washington-based policy organization that promotes the beneficial uses of nuclear energy.

"Three thousand shipments of used nuclear fuel (have traveled) since 1964 and there's never been an incident that resulted in a release of radiation from the casks," Singer said. "There's no permanent repository for used fuel, but shipments have gone from one plant site to another."

Still, anti-nuclear groups say they worry about the sheer size of possible shipments, especially when considering the value of the Great Lakes.

"Each container would hold 200 times the long-lasting radioactivity released by the Hiroshima atomic bomb," according to a Nuclear Information and Resource Service fact sheet.

That number comes from Marvin Resnikoff, a senior associate at Radioactive Waste Management Associates, an environmental consulting company in Vermont that evaluates the safety and economics of radioactive waste management and transportation. His research focused on the possible release of cesium, what Kamps calls a "highly volatile" material within reactors.

Resnikoff found that every pressurized water reactor, like that at the Palisades Nuclear Generating Station in Covert, near South Haven, holds about 10 times the cesium released in the atomic bomb attack on Hiroshima, Japan, said Kamps.

"If containers went down in the lakes, water could cause a nuclear chain reaction causing a much greater release," Kamps said. "If a container breached, it'd be a complete economic shutdown and a rescue would essentially be a suicide mission."

But Singer says even if a boat went down, containers of waste would remain secure and contained underwater.

"There's been a long history of safety in these [nuclear waste] casks," Singer said.

The Yucca repository plan means nuclear waste would travel in heavy-haul trucks in places where railways end. That would present a whole other set of dangers, Kamps said.

The opponents' Michigan maps show trucking routes from two nuclear power plants — Palisades in Southwest Michigan and Big Rock Point, a closed plant near Charlevoix.

The maps show that Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania and Illinois would also be required to ship their waste by heavy-haul trucks.

Those trucks must travel up to 30 miles at 3 mph, Kamps said. The catch is that because of their size, the trucks can't turn. One concern is the risk of breaking wheel axles.

"If these trucks had to stop for any reason during travel, there's the risk of radioactive exposure to people nearby," Kamps said.

Singer said that's not true because the waste would be in secure-enough casks for such problems to never happen.

For now, what Kamps calls "mobile Chernobyl" and "Fukushima free-ways" remain on hold. The Obama administration has suspended the budget for the Yucca Mountain repository project. In addition, the administration denied the Nuclear Regulatory Commission and Department of Energy budget request to further review the site.

"The administration made our position clear—Yucca Mountain is not a workable solution," said Bart Jackson, an Energy Department public affairs official. "The administration supports working with Congress to develop a process that is transparent, adaptive and technically sound."

But the tides might change with next year's presidential election.

For Singer, the safest place is Yucca. Its arid nature makes it the most effective place for storage, he said.

Singer said he hopes a new administration will renew the Yucca proposal since no "showstoppers" have definitively shown potential dangers.

Kamps said anti-nuclear groups created the maps to make the public aware of the plan's health and safety risks.

Why winter coats and car seats are a dangerous combination

Keep your child safe in the car by removing their coat when buckling up.

BY GABRIEL SUMNER
Michigan State University Extension

With winter weather knocking at the door, kids will be heading outside bundled up for warmth and safety. However, the same coats that keep your child safe outside in the winter wind can make their car seat fit them improperly. The National Highway Transportation Safety Administration recommends children do not wear bulky coats in their car seats. Coats should be removed before children are buckled up for every ride, every time.

Why is this? Winter coats are bulky; even when children appear to be snugly fitted to their car seats, the coats can introduce slack to the harnessing system. This can be easily fixed by removing the child's winter coat and then adjusting their straps so they lay snugly against their body.

Safe Kids USA gives us the following tip to be sure a child's car seat is adjusted properly: "Make sure the harness is tightly buckled and coming from the correct slots (check your car seat manual). With the chest clip placed at armpit level, pinch the strap at your child's shoulder. If you are unable to pinch any excess webbing, you're good to go."

The potential risk of a child being improperly restrained includes additional injury in a crash, or potentially even ejection from their child restraint.

NBC's Today Show recently featured a segment titled "Car seat alert: Winter coats could endanger your child." The crash test video included illustrates the potential dangers of incorrectly restraining your child in their car seat. In this video segment, the child dummy is thrown out of their car seat when a simulated crash test is conducted with the child wearing a coat and having loose harness straps. When the same test is repeated without the coat and the dummy correctly harnessed, the child remains safe in the seat after the crash test.

Many parents will choose to add a product to keep their child warm instead of a coat. These additional products are sold for use in car seats, but are often unsafe and not recommended. One common item is a special insert that lies behind the child and then zips up over them after they are buckled. This also is not safe or recommended due to the extra padding that is added behind the infant. It is safe to use a canopy that goes over the car seat to keep the child warm because like a blanket, the canopy doesn't go between the child and the harness.

In order to keep your child warm, you can buckle them in a sweatshirt or thin fleece jacket. Compressible or packable light weight down coats also are acceptable. Once the child is buckled, simply place a blanket in their lap. Children also can put their coat backwards over the top of the harness. Special car seat ponchos are also sold that flip up out of the way so the child can be harnessed, and then drape back down over the top of the child and car seat.

In order to be sure your child is riding safely, visit a certified child passenger safety technician for a car seat check. Data shows that more than 80 percent of children's car seats are installed or used incorrectly. Be sure your child is safe before you're driving in sleet and snow. Find a car seat tech near you and schedule a time to be sure your most precious cargo is riding safely.

Michigan Sea Grant Extension names Elliot Nelson to new position in the eastern Upper Peninsula

BY CHRY HUBBARD
Michigan Sea Grant communications manager

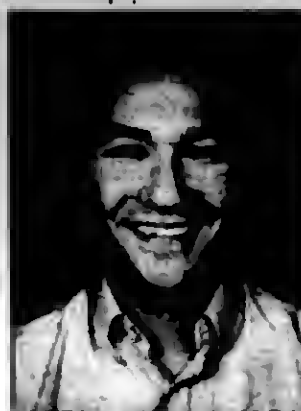

Elliot Nelson, an Upper Peninsula native, has been chosen to fill a new Michigan Sea Grant Extension educator position in the eastern U.P. He will begin his new position in May 2016.

Nelson will be based in Sault Ste. Marie and will develop and provide Extension education and outreach programming in eastern U.P. counties related to commercial, tribal, and aquaculture fisheries; coastal community development, including tourism and Great Lakes commerce; water quality; and coastal ecosystems.

"It's exciting to be enhancing our Michigan Sea Grant Extension Program with a new position to serve this region," said Dr. Heather Triezenberg, program coordinator. "The eastern U.P. has challenges but also many opportunities, and we know Elliot Nelson will help Michigan Sea Grant work collaboratively to develop new partnerships and programs and be an asset to the communities in that area."

Dr. William Taylor, associate director of Michigan Sea Grant College Program, added "Elliot's appointment helps increase Sea Grant's ability to be responsive to the needs of the local communities on both sides of the border and also will strengthen our relationship with our tribal partners and with Lake Superior State University."

helps foster economic growth and protect Michigan's coastal Great Lakes resources through education, research and outreach. A collaborative effort of the University of Michigan and Michigan State University, Michigan Sea Grant is part of MSU Extension and the NOAA National Sea Grant network of 33 university-based programs.

"I am extremely excited to start this position. It is in essence a dream come true for me," Nelson said. "I love the idea of communicating relevant research to local communities to help them make informed decisions. In this era of information overload, it is very important that relevant knowledge is communicated as effectively as possible, and I am excited to be a person who specializes in doing that."

Nelson grew up in the U.P. town of Cedarville, is a certified science teacher, has served as a Science Olympiad coach and taught at Grand River Preparatory High School in Grand Rapids.

Most recently, as project coordinator for the Little Traverse Conservancy, Nelson helped local governments, business groups and land conservancies organize and create a development plan for a birding trail that is scheduled to be unveiled in 2016. Working with the Tippy of the Mitt Watershed Council, he was part of a group developing a watershed management plan.

"Elliot's interest in education and community organizing will enable him to deliver impactful Extension programming to a variety of audiences in the Eastern Upper Peninsula region," said Dave Ivan, director of the MSU Extension Greening Michigan Institute. "I know he will be an asset to the area."

Nelson earned his bachelor of science degree, with a major in biology, from Michigan State University. He currently is a master's of science student at the University of Michigan and will complete his degree in May 2016. His focus has been on natural resources and environment behavior; education and communications; and conservation ecology.

"The fact that this position is in the eastern U.P. is just the icing on the cake," Nelson said. "I am very passionate about the area as I think it is one of the most beautiful places in the world with some of the most genuine people you will find."

CHARLEVOIX — The Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, which is the second venture by the Round Lake Group LLC, is not expanding its operations to distribute beer.

If owners of the brewing company still intend to move forward with distribution plans. They will do so under a separate business and name.

A presentation by co-owner

The Round Lake Group, which owns the Bridge Street Tap Room and the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, cannot get a license to distribute beer from the state of Michigan because its current operations have Class C liquor licenses.

Rich Bergmann to the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority Board on Dec. 28 was about a new company leasing the Keweenaw Excursions space, said

Aaron Hagen, co-owner of the brewery. "We're starting a new company with new managing partners and new members," Hagen said.

The Round Lake Group, which owns the Bridge Street Tap Room and the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, cannot get a license to distribute beer from the state of Michigan because its current operations have Class C liquor licenses. East Jordan grad sends hand-made dresses with love to Guatemala Mumich made the dresses as missionary work for the First Presbyterian Church in East Jordan. Mumich originally got involved in the dress-making to get her Gold Award for Girl Scouts, but award requirements were crushing her hands-on spirit, said Gayle Gotts, chairperson of mission for the First Presbyterian Church of East Jordan.

"She wanted to spend more time doing the project and less time doing all the paperwork, interviews and etcetera," Gotts said. Mumich, a freshman at Central Michigan University, is home on semester break preparing the dresses for distribution.

The project started in the summer 2014 when Mumich began her fundraising efforts at the East Jordan Freedom Festival with a bake sale and face painting. Once she got funds she picked up fabric and also got material from donations at the church.

Mumich spent the summer putting the dresses together with her friend Nikki Weston.

"The two of us were in my basement for days just sewing, ironing and stitching material all summer," Mumich said. "She was a really big help."

The dresses are made solely from donated materials and Mumich adds ribbon, elastic and pockets to the dresses.

Because Mumich was involved in school activities she continued

East Jordan graduate Ashlee Mumich holds two of the dresses she made as a missionary project for the First Presbyterian Church in East Jordan. Mumich began working on the project in 2014 and made 105 pillowcase dresses from donated and purchased material with the help of church members and friends.

Shade tree planing efforts

COURTESY PHOTO

The Charlevoix Shade Tree Commission met recently to review the City's tree planting efforts for the past year. On left, Commission Chair John Campbell and at right Commission member Ken Polakowski stand with DPW Superintendent Pat Elliott next to one the more than 100 trees planted by the City of Charlevoix this summer. The planting was supported in part by the Charlevoix Canopy Fund at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Other funds came from city resources. Charlevoix has been named a Tree City USA since 1987.

"These plantings are very important," Campbell said, "our existing canopy is reaching maturity and the City's efforts to plant more trees will help preserve our tree-lined streets and public places long into the future."

Council considers increase to fees on seasonal boat slips

LOUISE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 allen@charvoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The amount people pay to rent a seasonal boat slip at the Charlevoix City Marina could increase this season. City staff received direction by Charlevoix City Council members during their meeting on Jan. 4 to contact the Michigan State Waterways Commission — at the Department of Natural Resources — for more information. The city needs to discuss the process with the waterways commission before council can approve an increase on seasonal slip rates because of the bond requirements, said city manager Mark Heydlauff. "There are some rules we need to follow because the commission helped with the marina bonds," Heydlauff said. "Council overwhelmingly supports increasing season boat slip rates." One of the reasons council would like to increase the rate is because of the waiting list for the seasonal boat slips, Heydlauff said. "Council views those boat slips as a privilege and the city should charge people accordingly," Heydlauff said. "Your are docked next to East Park in the summer when many activities and festivals are going on. A lot of people want that convenience of being close to beautiful downtown." Council also increased the reserved parking spot fee in the Acacia Parking lot — next to the marina — from $500 to $750. Last year there were 14 people and businesses that had reserved a parking spot from May to October. The reserved parking became an issue recently because of the Indian Trails bus stop and the opening of the brewery — each located at the Robert Bridge Park Memorial building on Bridge Park Drive — have increased pedestrian and vehicle traffic to the area. The intent is to offer each 14 the spots at $750 and any spots not taken will become meter parking, Heydlauff said.

"Council wishes to give the people who rented spots last year the opportunity to this year before making the area metered parking," Heydlauff said. "The city is working with local businesses in the area to come up with a traffic pattern and solution to long years issues." City council will meet again at 7 p.m. on Jan. 18 in council chambers at City Hall, 210 State St.

Party for Book Bash encourages variety in reading

Charlevoix Public Library adult services director Talia Hofacker is organizing a Book Bash event, which is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 13, in the library community room. The event challenges adults to read 30 books between January and June, in a variety of categories. For every three books from a category read an entry will be entered for a prize with a value of $50.

A launch party for an upcoming Charlevoix Public Library event is one way to combat cabin fever this winter. The library is sponsoring a Book Bash, an adult reading challenge, according to library adult services director Talia Hofacker.

The kick off is scheduled for 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 13, in the library community room. Hofacker succeeds Linda Adams who was hired as the new library director last year, as adult services director. She grew up in Harbor Springs, attended Petoskey High School, and earned an undergraduate degree in history from Grand Valley State University. Her Master of Library Science was awarded from Wayne State University.

Hofacker worked at the Harbor Springs Historical Society and at the North Central Michigan College Library prior to accepting her current position at Charlevoix Public Library in June. She conceived the Book Bash idea as a way for adults to explore all the reading opportunities the library has to offer in every genre, both printed and audio.

"The Reading Challenge is geared for adults who want to expand their reading and can use some guidelines to accomplish that goal," Hofacker said. "The challenge is to read 30 books between January and June, in a variety of categories.

"We will supply a checklist list of assignments. The list can be accomplished in any order and may be completed partially or in its entirety. For every three books read from the list, an entry into a Book Bash Drawing, to be held in June, can be made," she added.

The Library Book Bash Prizes are from a variety of local sponsors. All prizes are $50 in value. Readers can choose to specify their entries as they complete their three-book goals.

Refreshments, check off lists and more information about the challenge will be supplied at the kick-off party on Jan. 13.

Library offers new technology upgrades, devices, classes

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library has announced some new technology available at the library and the upcoming winter technology classes. As part of the recently updated technology plan, the library began replacement of all 40 of the public access computers. Twelve were replaced this year, and the rest will be replaced in the next two years. The new computers are faster and more responsive with the full Microsoft Office Suite of software, as well as several other software products.

"The library continues to be the number one access point for people without internet connections at home, school or work," said Linda Adams, library director. "We provide the hardware, software and the support staff to answer technology-related questions."

This update is made possible from a grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Coeling Fund. Two 3-D printers were donated to the library this summer. The printers offer the community a chance to design and print three dimensional objects. An introductory demonstration is offered monthly to show the capabilities of the printers.

For patrons in need of a quick charge for their mobile devices, the library has added a charging station at the main entrance. The device will charge Apple and Android phones, as well as other mobile devices.

With the help of a grant from the Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library, a new 3LCD laser video projector has been installed in the community room. This new device offers a crisp picture and the ability to connect to a wider variety of devices.

"As more people use the community rooms, we saw the need to meet a wider range of connectivity issues.

Charlevoix Public Library offers new charging station for phones and other devices at the main entrance.

We also wanted to display the highest resolution image to enhance programming," Adams said.

The library continues to offer free downloadable eBooks, e-Audiobooks and music from the library website. Patrons may go to the homepage at charlevoixlibrary.org and look for the Overdrive and Freegal links and log in with their library card.

Technology classes for patrons continue to be a priority for the library. Managing Your Digital Photos will be from 10:30 a.m.-noon on Tuesday, Jan. 12, and will teach the basics of taking, storing and using digital photos. It will also offer options for uploading pictures to an online service to be printed.

Beginning Excel, will be offered 6:30-8 p.m., Tuesday and Thursday, Jan. 19 and 21. Microsoft Excel is an electronic spreadsheet program used for storing, organizing, and manipulating data. Participants will learn how to design a spreadsheet, enter text and numerical data, format both text and numerical data, use formulas and sort and filter information within a spreadsheet.

Manage Your Computer with Windows 10 will help patrons learn how to navigate the Windows 10 desktop and how to personalize their computer. They will also learn how to create and organize files and folders, backup their important data, and perform necessary maintenance tasks. It is scheduled from 10:30 a.m.-noon on Tuesday and Thursday, Jan. 26 and 28.

An introduction to 3D Printing will take place from 6:30-7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 5, and will be repeated from 3:30-4:30 p.m. on Feb. 3. This class will provide you with information on what 3D printers are, what they can do, what you can print, and how you can use them at the Charlevoix Public Library. Children under 13 should be accompanied by an adult and basic computer skills are required.

Google Drive is a storage and synchronization service. It allows users to store files in the cloud, and much more. This hands-on class will teach the participants about the different uses of Google Drive and how to make the most of this convenient service. The Google Drive class will be from 10:30 a.m.-noon Wednesday, Feb. 10. And finally, from 6:30-8 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 23, the library will offer an internet travel planning class in the community room. Patrons will learn about popular online sites for flights, hotels, and activities for both domestic and international travel.

In order to be comfortable in any of the classes, participants are asked to know how to use a mouse, operate at least one basic software program, and search the internet. The librarians at the Charlevoix Public Library also offers by appointment downloadable information on using mobile devices and the new catalog. Register for all technology classes either online charlevoixlibrary.org/calendar or call (231) 237-7340. For more information about classes or technology at the library, visit charlevoixlibrary.org.

Donations for East Jordan charities

Councilman needs civics lessons

Editor:
Seriously? Yes, seriously, Councilman Bill Supernaw wants to suspend Roberts Rules of Order during Charlevoix City Council meetings. Check the Dec. 21, meeting minutes.

Fellow residents, whether you are a full- or part-time, or only a some-time resident, please help stop this insane and idiotic idea. Can this new madness from an elected official be stopped? Why was this man elected to represent and vote for our city? To turn Charlevoix into a dictatorship? I want my money back for supporting his candidacy. I donated to him because I thought he was better than conflict-of-interest-councilwoman-Peggy Brennan. Someone clue this man in. While I thought we only had to deal with councilman Luther Kurtz, who does not know the meaning of conflict of interest (he must have missed his online law school ethics course), now this? A Charlevoix City Council person who blurs the line between legal and illegal actions. Seriously? We have laws, rules, a City Charter and ordinances because we are a well-functioning democracy. All proper meetings follow Roberts Rules of Order because rules help all our democratic processes to run. Apparently we voters should insist upon a high school government class per-requisite (with more than just a passing grade) or the actual reading of the Rules of Procedure—hell just anyone can assume a leadership role on the Charlevoix City Council. Save us from another recall. Charlevoix and someone give this clueless man a government civics lesson. Seriously.

Cards 4 Caring grateful community support

Editor:
This year Charlevoix participated in the Cards 4 Caring project to alleviate Seasonal Affective Disorder in local senior citizens at Boulder Park Terrace. I would like to thank Cindy Brooks for her excellent help and enthusiastic start up guidance for the project. Jennifer Glass for her solid, organizational efforts, the Boulder Park administration and staff for all that they do every day to help our community's seniors, the Leadership class for their help in promoting this project and most importantly everyone who chipped in and sent cards for the effort. It has been heart warming to see the support for area seniors who are particularly susceptible to Seasonal Affective Disorder this time of year and to be involved with generating awareness of this condition at Charlevoix High School.

Great Lakes Energy works Christmas Day

Editor:
I want to thank the crew of Great Lakes Energy for their great effort to restore power to Northern Michigan and in particular that in the area of Charlevoix Township.

They were in the North Point area on Christmas Day and were able to remove a dead tree that crossed the power line on McSaubia Road. This is the second time a dead tree from the township area that has taken out the power in our area. I will be getting with the township board for them to cut all the dead trees in this area in order that this problem hopefully does not occur again in the future. Again, thank you Great Lakes Energy crew. Great job and have a great New Year.

Letters to Santa demonstrate school differences

Editor:
I read with interest (most) of the "Letters to Santa" that you published. You are providing a good public service in publishing these letters. Thank you. You may have noted a difference between most of the public schools' letters and those of St.

Mary's Catholic School in Charlevoix. The children of St. Mary's almost exclusively asked for help and things for others, and for presents for themselves later, as an afterthought, or not at all. Parochial schools are often held in low public esteem. I believe the letters of these children speak for themselves. There is moral and spiritual formation in Catholic parochial schools (and home schools) that is badly needed in public schools today.

Charlevoix has long been a premier winter destination

CHARLEVOIX
HISTORICAL SOCIETY

LOOKING BACK...

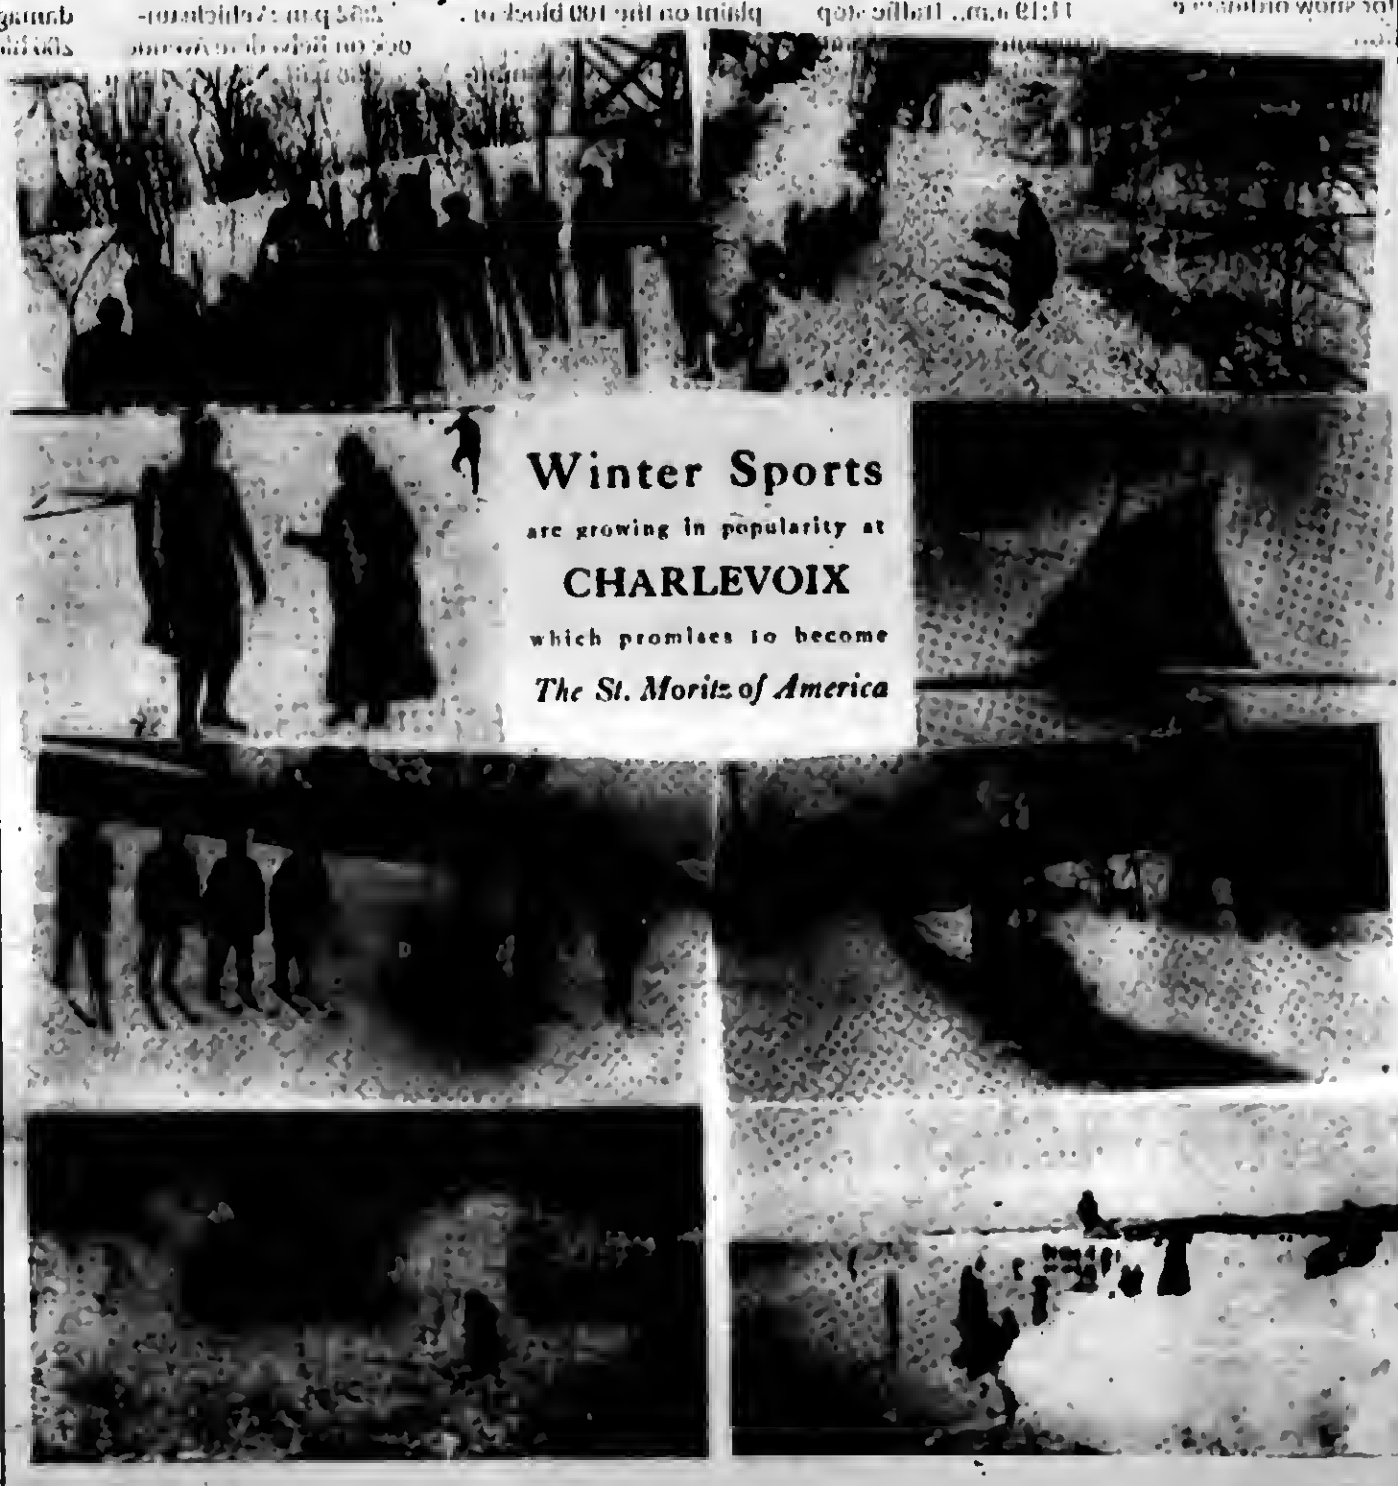

Back when winters were longer and more severe than they have been recently—the past two winters excepted—Charlevoix made every effort to become a winter sports mecca, and succeeded to a remarkable degree. This is a brochure ad that the Association of Commerce, predecessor of today's Chamber of Commerce, produced in the 1920s. If Charlevoix never made it to the exalted level of St. Moritz in Switzerland as hoped, it wasn't for lack of trying, mainly lack of an alpine setting, then the advent of the Great Depression.

Part of the accompanying text: "Nature has been kind to us here in Charlevoix, giving us in the winter time an ample and beautiful mantle of snow and a temperature which holds it in place for a generous length of time, making conditions ideal for outdoor sports. Our folks take advantage of this opportunity for a good time, wholesome hilarity and exhilarating exercise... The Association of Commerce is sponsoring a movement for annual events of this nature hereafter, and these efforts are being heartily seconded by a number of people from Chicago, St. Louis, and other cities... If Charlevoix is beautiful in summer, in winter it is dazzling. With its countless hills serving as natural toboggan and ski slides, outdoor skating rinks on Pine (Lake Charlevoix) and Round Lakes with ample room for curling and hockey games, it offers a choice of outdoor winter recreation difficult to rival. The winter climate of Northern Michigan is exhilarating—bright sun, snow and clear atmosphere adds zest to outdoor life."

Course on biblical method of money handling

The Charlevoix Public Library will be the site for a new religion based financial planning class. The Dave Ramsey Financial Peace University will meet from 6-7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays from Jan. 12 - March 22.

Al Gooch will lead

a biblical approach to money handling. Through video teaching, class discussions and interactive small group activities, Financial Peace University presents biblical, practical steps to get from where you are to where you've dreamed you could be. This plan is intended to show participants how to get rid of debt, manage their money, spend and save wisely, and more.

The Introductory session on Jan. 12, will explain the Financial Peace University plan. There will be a one week lull between sessions before they resume on Jan. 26 for nine weekly meetings.

The cost is $93 for a life time membership and class supplies. Scholarships are available. To sign up, visit daveramsey.com.

Library presents college planning seminar

A college planning seminar will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 12, at the Charlevoix Public Library for college students and their parents who are overwhelmed at the prospect.

This workshop is designed to give an overview of the college planning process, including tips on how to get started. It covers how financial aid is determined, offers guidance on how to make college more affordable, how to compare the true cost of colleges and choosing the right school. The presenters also will touch on how college expenses are trending, how to develop a good plan and financial strategies to avoid jeopardizing retirement. Vicki Beam and Matt Bremmeyer are college planning specialists located in Traverse City and work with clients throughout Michigan and beyond.

The program is free and there is no pre-registration. For more information about this or other programs at the library, visit charlevoixlibrary.org or call (231) 237-7340.

Cole is one of the top Michigan lawmakers?

According to the Mackinac Center for Public Policy's 2015 rankings, Rep. Triston Cole, R-Mancelona, is one of the top three lawmakers in Michigan.

"It has been a true privilege serving in the Michigan House of Representatives. Since taking office nearly one year ago, I started fulfilling my commitment to the fine individuals of the 105th District. I made a promise to vote with integrity while serving in Lansing," Cole said of the recognition.

"I have worked conscientiously at the Capitol this past year and this ranking is a great honor and much appreciated. However, my priority remains in the hands and the hearts of the residents of Northern Michigan," he added.

OBITUARIES

John Richard Danly Sr.

John Richard Danly Sr. passed away surrounded by his family on Friday, Dec. 25, 2015, in Topsham, Maine.

Born June 3, 1925, to Philo and Frances Miller Danly, he married Barbara Anderson in 1947. They were longtime residents of Hinsdale, Ill., and Charlevoix, Mich.

In 2012, they moved to Maize to live near family and the sea. "Jack," as he was referred to more commonly by friends and family alike, was always quick with a smile and admired by many for his easy nature and gracious humor.

After serving in the U.S. Navy V12 program at Yale University during World War II, John graduated with a degree in mechanical engineering in 1946. He then joined Danly Machine Corporation in Cicero, Ill., a tool and die company founded by his grandfather, Robert C. Danly, in 1922. During his years at Danly Machine, John traveled internationally for business and lived for four years with his family in England.

A passionate sailor his entire life, Danly was a member of the Chicago Yacht Club and raced in more than 25 Mackinac Races; he was inducted into the Island Goat Sailing Society on Mackinac Island. He served as an officer on the USS Jasper PC486 in the U.S. Navy in Panama during the Korean War.

Following his retirement from Danly Machine in 1985, he and Barbara raised and showed llamas from their small farm in Horton Bay, Mich.

He is survived by Barbara, his wife of 68 years; and children Susan, John, Peter, Martha, William and Patrick; along with his grandchildren, Abigail, John, Emma and Alexandra.

He was predeceased by daughter, Caroline; and by his brothers, Bruce and Donald.

John will be interred in Charlevoix, where a memorial service will be held in the summer.

Those who wish to remember John may send memorial contributions to the Maine Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association at 383 U.S. Route One, Suite 2C, Scarborough, ME 04074.

Memories and condolences can be shared at www.brackettfuneralhome.com.

Lawrence Matthew McDonough

Lawrence Matthew McDonough passed away Tuesday, Dec. 29, 2015, at the age of 101, at his home surrounded by his family.

Lawrence was born on Beaver Island, Mich., on Nov. 15, 1914, to Sylvester "Vest" McDonough and Mary Connaghan, one of eight children. He married Winifred LaFreniere in 1939 who preceded him in death in 2009.

They raised six children, sons, Gary (Jean), Lawrence (Kay), Joseph (Tarry), Kevin (Linda); and two daughters, Pamela (Brad) Graesslick and Kathie (Timothy) Gonyeau. He enjoyed his 17 grandchildren; 15 great-grandchildren; and numerous nieces and nephews.

Lawrence was raised on Sand Bay on the Jordan River and worked his family's homesteaded farm. He was blessed with good friends and family, a strong sense of community and had a grand sense of humor. He had frequent visitors seeking his stories of early island life as well as all of the changes and progress that he saw on Beaver Island during his lifetime.

Some of his various careers included: owning the first pasteurized dairy; sailing the Great Lakes on freighters; logging; and serving as a board of director for the first BIBCO. He was captain of the first Emerald Isle and the Beaver Islander. He managed the Beaver Island Boat Company until his retirement in 1980.

A spring funeral service at Holy Cross Catholic Church is being planned.

In lieu of flowers, donations can be made to Holy Cross Church or Beaver Island EMS.

Dentist to take over current practice in Charlevoix

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

Charlevoix welcomes Dr. Tracy M. Nemecek to town. Dr. Nemecek will be stepping into the dental practice of Dr. Jeff Porter, long time Charlevoix dental practitioner. In his letter to Dr. Porter's current patients, Dr. Nemecek introduced himself and assured them that he considered it an honor and a distinct privilege to have been selected as his successor and that he would be offering the quality dental care to which they have been accustomed in the same location at 201 Bridge Park Drive.

"I would like to thank Dr. Porter for giving me this opportunity. I will do everything I can do to continue in the fine tradition of Dr. Porter by providing you with quality dental care," Dr. Nemecek wrote.

Dr. Nemecek is pleased to say that Dr. Porter's former patients as well as accepting new ones.

be staying on with me. Dr. Porter and his staff have been wonderful in planning for this transition."

Nemecek, who received his degree from the University of Detroit Dental School in 1986, practiced general dentistry in Flint (1987-1991) and subsequently Fenton (1991-2015) before coming to Charlevoix. He and his wife, Connie, maintain a home on Elm Street. Nemecek is an avid boater and has enjoyed the sport in the area for many years. He has been a committee member for the Boyne Thunder Boating Poker Run, a charity event which has raised approximately $388,000 for Camp Quality over the past 12 years.

"One of the greatest pleasures I get is taking the kids with cancer for boat rides at the event," he said.

He assumed the position on Jan. 4 and looks forward to meeting Porter's former patients as well as accepting new ones.

"I give Jeff credit for his patience in waiting for me to sell my downstate practice and make the transition," Nemecek said. "I consider myself to be a people person. I believe in the old adage, 'Treat people like you want to be treated'."

"Our motto is 'Gentle Family Dentistry.' Even dentists have to have dental work done. I myself have just recently had a crown procedure and am well aware of the concerns of the patient," Nemecek added.

Nemecek may put a new spin on the practice. "I do my best dentistry to rock and roll," he said.

Porter is looking forward to retirement after 42 years of dental practice two of which were in the Army and 40 here in Charlevoix.

"I am happy that there could be a smooth transition," Porter said, "that I didn't have to just close the door on my business. I appreciate the loyalty for, and confidence in me that my patients have shown over the years."

He recently received the distinction of being chosen from a pool of Dental Specialists as one of the Top Dentists in Northern Michigan for the third time by Traverse Magazine. In 2006, he received a similar award in the Hour Detroit Magazine, chosen for the honor from a multi-county area both downstate and around Northern Michigan.

Porter has always been involved in the Charlevoix community, including serving on Charlevoix's City Council for six-and-a-half years. He and his wife Nancy are looking forward a trip to Australia and New Zealand in January.

Dr. Nemecek's office will be open Monday through Thursday, and is now accepting new patients. Contact him at (231) 547-9516 to set up an appointment.

Charlevoix hospital achieves new technology status

CHARLEVOIX - Healthcare Information Management Systems Society Analytics announced that Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital has achieved Stage 6 on the Electronic Medical Record Adoption Model. The hospital made significant advances by completing this stage in the electronic medical records system application. As of December 2015, 27 percent of the more than 5,400 U.S. hospitals tracked by Healthcare Information Management Systems Society Analytics had reached Stage 6.

Healthcare Information Management Systems Society Analytics developed the Electronic Medical Record Adoption Model in 2005 as a way to evaluate the progress and impact of electronic medical record systems for hospitals. By tracking their progress in completing eight stages, hospitals can review the implementation and utilization of information technology applications with the intent of reaching Stage 7, which represents an advanced electronic patient record environment.

Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital has made significant executive commitments and investments to reach this stage which impacts patient safety, clinician support, clinician recruitment, and competitive marketing for both consumers and nurse recruitment.

"Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Area Hospital remains committed to ensuring that patients receive the right treatment, at the right time and in the right setting," said Lyn Jenks, hospital CEO. "Electronic medical records provide a distinct advantage by allowing staff to effectively utilize information technology to improve patient safety."

Well-positioned to support electronic health record environments and health information exchanges, Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital has achieved a significant advancement in its information technology capabilities and positioning the hospital to successfully address many of the current industry challenges.

"HIMSS Analytics congratulates Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital for leading the way toward health IT adoption," said John Hoyt, FACHE, PHIMSS, executive vice president, HIMSS Analytics. "Stage 6 represents a level of sophistication that only 1,476 U.S. hospitals have reached to date."

Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital is a 25-bed, critical access hospital located in Charlevoix. Part of the Munson Healthcare system, the hospital was established in 1919 and serves Charlevoix and northern Antrim County residents as well as thousands of vacationers each year. For more information on Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital, visit munsonhealthcare.org/charlevoixhospital.

Healthcare Information Management Systems Society Analytics is a wholly owned not-for-profit subsidiary of the Healthcare Information and Management Systems

Society. The company collects and analyzes healthcare data related to IT processes and environments, products, IS department composition and costs, IS department management metrics, healthcare trends and purchase-related decisions. Healthcare Information Management Systems Society Analytics delivers high quality data and analytical expertise to healthcare delivery organizations, healthcare IT companies, state governments, financial companies, pharmaceutical companies, and consulting firms. Enroll Michigan to become nonprofit

LANSING — It has been five years since the passage of the Affordable Care Act, which has resulted in thousands of Michigan consumers receiving quality, affordable and necessary healthcare. The Affordable Care Act has also allowed for new opportunities within healthcare advocacy and enrollment assistance.

Michigan Consumers for Healthcare has been thankful to be a part of this historical process. Michigan Consumers for Healthcare has effectively advocated for a consumer-friendly implementation of the Affordable Care Act, and through the Enroll Michigan program, we created an enrollment network that allowed consumers to get enrollment assistance in their hometowns.

In order to best continue the work of the current Michigan Consumers for Healthcare network and to provide assistance to Michigan consumers, Michigan

Consumers for Healthcare is pleased to announce a new organizational structure.

Enroll Michigan will become its own 501(c)(3) organization, and Dizzy Warren will serve as the executive director.

The Michigan League for Public Policy will be incorporating the work of Michigan Consumers for Healthcare within their expansive efforts to foster economic opportunity, independence and security for all.

The Michigan Consumers for Healthcare's work within the Michigan League for Public Policy will focus on consumer-centered health policy research and advocacy, continuing to incorporate the input of the consumer-based healthcare network.

The newly named Enroll Michigan will continue its work to assure that every eligible Michigander is enrolled in the appropriate health insurance plan.

Trust fund helping veterans overcome hardships

LANSING — From utility bills to home repairs to medical costs, the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund offers combat-era veterans and their families a way to overcome unexpected expenses and get back on their feet financially.

Take the 31-year-old Operation Iraqi Freedom veteran who needed assistance covering household expenses for example. He was preparing to attend necessary in-patient mental health treatment with the Veterans Administration — but would not attend if it meant falling behind in his bills. The U.S. Army veteran reached out to the Michigan Veterans Trust Fund and received a grant to cover rent, auto insurance, heat and electric bills.

Now, the veteran has successfully completed his treatment and is back at work. He credits the fund with helping him stay debt free while getting the help he needed.

Administered by the Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency, the fund awarded more than $1.6 million in grants during fiscal year 2015, alleviating short-term financial emergencies for 1,489 veterans and their families.

"The Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency is here to help out veterans and overcome obstacles and succeed in their civilian lives," said Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency director Jeff Barnes. "The Trust Fund has a long history of helping veterans weather temporary setbacks and get back on their feet, and this year's grants have continued that tradition of positively impacting the lives of Michigan veterans."

Since 1946, the fund has been available to veterans who have served 180 days of active duty in a wartime era. Emergency grants are awarded when an unforeseen situation creates a temporary financial hardship. Applicants must be able to show they will be able to meet future expenses after the grant is approved.

Total grants of $6.5 million were distributed to more than 5,500 veterans between fiscal year 2013 and fiscal year 2015.

Michigan Veterans Affairs Agency also administers the Michigan Veterans Homeowners Assistance Program, which provides financial assistance to military service members and honorably discharged veterans affected by the housing crisis. The program was created in May 2013 when the Michigan attorney general set aside $5 million in funds specifically for service members and veterans.

Since the program began, it has helped 773 veterans stay in their homes, make needed repairs or restore a home ownership opportunity lost to foreclosure. In 2015, 207 families were assisted by one-time grants.

With funds depleted, the Michigan Veterans Homeowners Assistance Program is no longer accepting applications, but veterans in need of financial assistance are encouraged to call (800) MICH-VET (800) 642-4838 or visit MichiganVeterans.com.

Christmas gift has special significance at McLaren

PETOSKEY — The Haven family received the greatest gift of all this Christmas. Jasper Ren Haven was born to Jodi and Jay Haven at McLaren Northern Michigan on Dec. 25. The baby arrived at 12:20 p.m. and weighed 9 pounds, 8 ounces at birth.

As the first Christmas baby, the McLaren Northern Michigan Obstetrics Department gave the family a gift basket filled with diapers, wipes, stuffed animals, toys, outfits, and of course a baby Santa hat and his first Christmas ornament. Jasper was the first of two babies born at McLaren Northern Michigan on Christmas Day.

"We had a feeling he was going to be born on a special day, he was due on New Year's Day," said Jodi Haven, Jasper's mother. "But we couldn't have asked for a better gift this Christmas."

January: cervical health awareness month

NORTHERN MICHIGAN — In 2015, it is estimated that 120 Michigan women died as a result of cervical cancer. During Cervical Health Awareness Month, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan reminds everyone that cervical cancer can be prevented and it can also be detected early. This is why the HPV or human papilloma virus vaccine and regular pap test screenings are important — and potentially life-saving.

Parents are encouraged to speak with their children's doctor about the HPV vaccine. This three-dose series is recommended for girls and boys at 11-12 years of age, and may be given up through age 26. The HPV vaccination can prevent about 70 percent of cervical cancer cases in the United States. It also prevents other cancers in both women and men.

Vaccines for Children, Medicaid, Mi-Child, and most health insurances will pay for the HPV vaccine. For those not covered by insurance, the VFC program may provide no or low cost vaccines to eligible children, 16 years of age or younger.

All women ages 21 and older should speak with their health care provider and receive screenings regularly. Although the pap test is simple and affordable, more than half of cervical cancer deaths are seen in women who have either never had a pap test or have not had testing in more than five years.

Women's preventive health care — such as screenings for cervical cancer and mammograms — is covered without co-pays through the Healthy Michigan Plan and most insurance plans. For uninsured women ages 40-64, free pap testing is available through the Breast and Cervical Cancer Control Navigation Program at the Health Department. Pap tests are also available at Health Department Family Planning Clinics for women younger than age 40.

To make an appointment for a pap test or HPV vaccination, contact your health care provider or call the Health Department at (800) 432-4121. To learn more about HPV and cervical cancer, visit michigan.gov/hpv.

For more information about the Health Department's services, visit nuhealth.org. The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Mail carriers require mail boxes cleared for winter deliveries

Michigan weather can experience all four seasons within a 24-hour span. And if the winter season is involved within those 24 hours, it can impact many things including mail delivery. The snow and ice always seems to know when Michiganders have plans, special things people need to do or just when they want to stay inside where it's warm and toasty.

The U.S. Postal Service said planning ahead and proper preparation will ensure your mail delivery is not interrupted. Making sure property is safe and accessible is important for families, neighbors and letter carriers.

The postal service wants to remind customers to be certain to keep pathways, stairs, walkways and the approach to your mailbox clear and free from snow and ice. This will prevent injuries and allow postal employees to provide the best possible service, even in the worst weather.

Also, mail delivery in rural areas and on private and secondary roads can be especially challenging for rural carriers due to snow removal occurring less immediately than on primary roads. Most carriers on these delivery routes drive their own private vehicles and often times get stuck or cannot access the mail boxes due to snow and ice buildup. Removing the snow from around these mail receptacles is appreciated.

Additionally, customers in rural areas can benefit from renting a P.O. box at their local post office. Post office boxes can be rented for 6 or 12 month periods and provides consistent delivery, even in inclement weather.

The U.S. postal service realizes that our customers, desire consistent mail delivery regardless of the season. With the public's help, the postal service can provide everyone with uninterrupted service this, and every season.

The postal service receives no tax dollars for operating expenses and relies on the sale of postage, products and services to fund its operations.

I did it! You can, too!

surgery that never made me afraid. As the doctors discussed the health issues that can be resolved, such as sleep disorders and diabetes, I realized they were talking about people like me.

A sleep technician once told me, "I don't know how you are still alive — you have the worst sleep apnea I've ever seen." My only goal for weight loss surgery was to be able to sleep without a machine. Six months after surgery, I met my goal. I literally cried the day I put my CPAP machine away.

Dr. Nizzi set my goal weight at 150 pounds, and he was right on target. He knows what he's doing. I'm sleeping. My husband is sleeping. My aches and pains are gone.

I was too big for my health. Now I'm healthier than I ever imagined.

a non-retailer," Erhardt said. "You are not able to have another address to distribute your beer when you have a retail license. Distribution is considered non-retail and you are not able to hold a retail license and non-retail license at the same time."

In Michigan, there are these different licensing tiers, which creates the separation."

"You have your manufacturers and distributors that are non-retail and then you have your retailers like brewpubs and you are not allowed to cross those tiers," Erhardt said. "You would have to give up your brewpub Class C license to become a distributor."

"This information is available for anyone to view at michigan.gov/lcc under frequently asked questions in sections of Retail Licensing Information and Manufacturers and Wholesalers Licensing Information," Erhardt added.

Owners of the Round Lake Group know the legalities of applying for a brewers license. That is why they are interested in leasing the former Keweenaw Excursions spot in Robert Bridge Memorial Park building, which is adjacent to the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company under a new company.

"We need a new address for a brewers license," Hagen said. "Once we get the space then we will apply for the license, then a MLOC Inspector is going to tell us how to orientate everything."

The Round Lake Group will not move forward on the application process until the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board agrees to lease the space to the untitled, unformed new company. The company

Lenzie Allen/News-Review

An unnamed new company wants to rent the space of the former Keweenaw Excursions to distribute Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company beer. The company still hasn't been created or filed for state licensing because Round Lake Group LLC co-owners Aaron Hagen and Rich Bergmann want to wait to see if they get the property before creating their new company to bypass state law requirements that prevent them from holding a retailers and non-retailers license.

also will require the board to lease the space with a condition, Hagen said.

"The lease signed with the DDA would be contin-gent on license approval from the MLOC," Hagen said. "By renting this space we can get the ball rolling to create the new company and apply for licensing."

Creating a new company wasn't mentioned during the presentation to Main Street/Downtown Development Authority because it was not relevant at the time, according to brewery owners.

"Those details were not pertinent to the presentation because this won't happen unless we move forward," Hagen said. "We haven't filed the paperwork to start the company yet, like we haven't filed for the state license until we know we have the property. We want to find out if we have real property first before we start the process."

The unnamed new company proposed to lease 109 Bridge Park Drive at $7 per square-foot, which is $354.08 per month for 12 months. Keweenaw Excursions leased the space for $550 per month for five months plus an additional $10,000 for boat docking. The Main Street/Downtown Development Authority determined the space will be rented at $8 per square-foot and will advertise the space in the Charlevoix Courier and Petskey News-Review. The board hopes to review applicants and make a potential decision on the property at its Jan. 25 meeting.

Board member and Mayor Gabe Campbell does not like idea the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board should adjust its agendas to meet the needs of the Round Lake Group owners.

"There is no need for the DDA to accommodate them and help them get licensing approval," Campbell said. "It is not up to public officials to do the work for private business. We should advertise this space for the remainder of January. This idea we must do this by our next meeting so the brewery can apply for a license is out of hand. The board has no obligation to meet their timeline and we need to stop acting like it."

Six-year-old Carolyn McGinn models one of the pillowcase dresses made by Ashlee Munich that will be supplied to local resale shops and donated to children in Guatemala.

Lenzie Allen/Charlevoix Courier

East Jordan graduate Ashlee Munich sorts through the 100 pillowcase dresses that she completed as a missionary project at the First Presbyterian Church in East Jordan. Munich is taking two dresses from each size to be sent to resale shops in East Jordan and Boyne City. The rest of the dresses will be delivered to children in Guatemala.

making dresses into 2015 with the help of church members.

"Because she was active in a lot of things her senior year in high school, people in the church stepped up to help with the project," Gotto said.

The dresses range from sizes 2 to 7 and come in a variety of colors. Two of each dress size will be sent to the Crossroads resale shop in East Jordan and Buchanan Closet resale shop in Boyne City.

"I wanted to stick with local resale shops in the community," Munich said.

The rest of the dresses will be taken to Guatemala by a family in Boyne City that works with the Faith in Practice ministry. The organization works to improve the physical, spiritual, and economic conditions of the poor in Guatemala through short-term surgical, medical and dental mission trips and health-related educational programs.

Representatives from Faith in Practice will take the pillowcase dresses to Guatemala in large container where the clothing will be distributed to children in area villages. Faith in Practice representatives will return with the container filled with Guatemalan hand-made crafts. Church members will take the crafts and sell them at a church sponsored South American bazaar. The money raised from the bazaar will be given back to support the Faith in Practice ministry.

"I'd recommend that everyone consider working on a mission project, including this one," Munich said. "If everyone made one dress, there'd be one less problem for girls, worldwide. You can imagine the difference that a dress would make in their lives. I'm extremely grateful for this opportunity."

ties and trash removal. Board member Kirby Dipert added facilities committee members are also "adamant" about a perspective tenant that would be someone to add to the overall goal of the Main Street Program in Charlevoix.

"(We) would like to see someone who could contribute to the downtown, DDA area," Dipert said to board members.

"Someone who could generate income and jobs in the downtown. As we are interested inquires in the property it should be something we consider."

Board members agreed with Dipert's suggestion from the facilities committee and discussed if that should be part of the advertisement for the space. It was determined that the advertisement would state the space for rent at $8 per square foot and interested parties should contact the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority office for more information and board requirements on the space.

Some of the decision factors on renting the space will include seasonal or year-round, detailed business plan, benefits to the Main Street program and other economic factors.

"We would like to know the services that will be provided for the people coming to the downtown," said chair Dan Barron. "It would be best if they could tell us how will it benefit the downtown economy."

Potential businesses should reflect Main Street goals, said member Rick Wertz.

"We would like to ask input from them on what Main Street is about," Wertz said. "This is not just about the $8 per square foot for a space."

Owners of the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company expressed interest in the 607 square foot property at 109 Bridge Park Drive contingent on licensing approval from the Michigan Liquor Control Commission at the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board meeting on Dec. 28, but the board decided to wait and advertise for the space to give other potential renters a chance to present their ideas for the former Keweenaw Excursions space.

The advertisement is expected to run until Jan. 20. The board would like to make a decision at its Jan. 25 meeting, but board member and mayor Gabe Campbell would like to see the space advertised for the remainder of January before making a decision.

"I don't think that is much time to advertise this property," Campbell said to board members. "It seems like we are cutting it pretty close."

Main Street/Downtown

Development Authority director, Annie Doyle, also expressed sentiment to not rush the process.

"It might be better to make a determination at our February meeting," Doyle said to the board.

Doyle also said she would take the board's recommendation on the property. The majority of the board members disagreed with waiting and felt a decision could be made on Jan. 25, but did reserve the right to slow the process down depending on amount of applicants.

"I am comfortable with the process," said board member Dianne Dupont. "We have the option to push this back to look over applicants if need be."

Member John Kurtz, who expressed he is more used to private business, is comfortable with the board's timeline.

"If I was an owner of the property I would like to see the space filled," Kurtz said. "I wouldn't risk (losing) rent by waiting a month."

Campbell still feels the process is rushed and wished the board would vet the process.

"I would feel more comfortable if we would review this thoroughly," Campbell said. "What if someone is out of town and needed time to get their information together. Not everyone had the information as early as the brewery did. It is not fair to the public to move this quickly."

Camp Daggett accepting applications for 2016 summer camp

PETOSKEY - Registration opened for Camp Daggett summer camp on Jan. 6. Applications for 2016 summer camp were mailed out to 2015 summer campers on Jan. 4, and became available in local schools and chambers of commerce on Jan. 7. Applications will be available to download from their website on Jan. 8. Registration is on a first-come, first-served basis. Applications must be downloaded, printed and mailed to Camp Daggett.

Each year, more than 1,000 children, ages 7-14, get the opportunity to spend a week at Camp Daggett. They experience the beauty of the natural environment that the camp provides, make new friends, try new things and have loads of fun. The summer program develops a feeling of acceptance, respect and independence that campers take home with them. Camp Daggett provides a setting in which children can live, learn and develop skills that are useful throughout their lives.

Activities include group sports and games, sailing, swimming, canoeing and fishing, arts and crafts, nature study, hikes, adventure ropes courses and team building activities, archery, campfires and camp-outs. The program answers a child's search for adventure in an environment that is upbeat and wholesome. Appetites are satisfied with nourishing, family style meals served in beautiful Mac Hall, a picturesque log dining room overlooking Walloon Lake.

Camp Daggett offers eight one-week co-ed camping sessions starting June 19 and ending Aug. 13. The cost is $400 for children who attend schools in the Charlevoix and Emmet Intermediate School District during the 2015-2016 school year and have year-round residence in Charlevoix or Emmet County. Scholarships are available to campers who need financial assistance. In addition, the Camp Daggett Board of Trustees has approved a 10 percent discount to families that have three or more children attending summer camp in 2016.

Camp Daggett also offers three Wilderness Adventure Trips for ages 13 to 15: the Canoe on the Platte, Betsie and Crystal Rivers, June 26-July 2; the Pathfinder, North Manitou Island, July 24-30; and the Explorer at Pictured Rocks, Aug. 7-13.

For more information, visit campdaggett.org or call (231) 347-9742.

Hinkle reaches 100 win mark for Charlevoix

JAMES GONTERBLUM

ROSCOMMON — It's a new year, but Charlevoix wrestlers Mick Hinkle and Cam Alden are still as dominant as they were in 2015.

Wrestling in the Roscommon Invitational on Saturday, Jan. 2 for the Rayders' first action following the holiday break, Hinkle and Alden swept the Outstanding Wrestlers of the Meet awards after undefeated days.

Hinkle, a senior, improved to 19-0 on the season and surpassed the 100 win milestone with a dominant performance, joining Alden, who earned his 100th victory before the break, in an exclusive club at Charlevoix.

In recognition for his performance, Hinkle also took home the outstanding upper class wrestler of the meet award. Alden, meanwhile, continued his own undefeated start, running his record to 18-0 on the year and earning the outstanding lower class wrestler of the meet award.

Both Hinkle and Alden are ranked in their weight classes in Division 4 by michigangrappler.com, with Hinkle coming in seventh at 189 pounds and Alden coming in sixth at 145 pounds. Junior Tyler McCallum also ran the table to improve to 17-1 for the

Rayders, who finished 2-3 overall, with wins over Lake City and Manistique, a loss to Ogemaw Heights on criteria after tying the Falcons in the final score, and losses to Sault Ste. Marie and Roscommon, the 10th ranked team in Division 3.

Brothers Jordan and Jeremy Chernauckas each went 4-1 on the day for the Rayders, Jake Petrosky finished 3-2 and Justin Adkins went 2-3. Jake Seger, Trevor McCallum, Max Hinkle and Justin Bond all won a match for Charlevoix, who travels to Elk Rapids on Wednesday night for an LMC Quad for its first post-break action.

Rayders learn the hard way against Class C power St. Ignace

(231) 439-9343
jgonterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — A rebuilding Rayder girls basketball squad ran into a tough matchup heading out of break on Tuesday night, falling to the defending Class D state champions at home.

Now in Class C and a title favorite, undefeated St. Ignace proved to be too much for Charlevoix to overcome in a 77-22 loss.

Natalie Nesburg led Charlevoix with six points and two assists as the Rayders competed the best they could against one of the best teams in the state, regardless of class. "(St. Ignace is) just consistent at what they do, every single second, and they put the ball in the basket," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "It's definitely good for our young players to see a program at the level that St. Ignace is at and see where we're looking to go in the future."

"We can learn a lot from the way they do things over there, and hopefully we can get back to that level here in the future."

Hannah Zipp added five points and four rebounds for the Rayders, and Olivia Jeakle chipped in four points and five rebounds as well for Charlevoix, which kept its head above water for most of the night against the Saints' vaunted offense.

"I thought we actually did a good job against their pressure, which hasn't been true before this season," Shaw said. "Our problem was making the right decision and making the shot after we'd broken the press, but it's a step in the right direction."

"Defensively, we're not where we need to be, and that's something we just have to keep working on as the year goes on."

Freshman Ellie Louiselle added five rebounds for the Rayders in her first game on the varsity after being called up over break, and Emily Domiczewski added three assists.

Charlevoix (0-5, 0-1 LMC) hosts Harbor Springs on Friday for its next game.

Charlevoix comes up short against Gaylord in double OT thriller

DREW KOCHANNY
(231) 439-9345 - dkochanny@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — There's been no backing down from the Charlevoix boys' basketball team so far this season.

With an early non-conference slate of games that's included St. Ignace, Bellaire and Glen Lake before the winter break, the Rayders have challenged themselves as much as anyone to start the season.

So why not another non-conference challenge to begin the new year?

That's exactly what the Rayders would get in their first game out of break, and then some, as they traveled to Gaylord and left with an 83-80 double-overtime loss to the Blue Devils.

Learning more about his team through a 2-3 start against tough non-conference opponents than he would in a 5-0 start against lesser teams, Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine couldn't be happier with the fight of his team once again.

"We were really pleased," said Erskine. "It was fun. The boys fought the whole game. (Gaylord's) got a really good team with some good size."

Down seven in a 37-30 game at halftime, the Rayders eventually pulled ahead by seven, then traded baskets with the Blue Devils before ending up in a 61-61 draw to close regulation.

In the first overtime, Gaylord pulled ahead with a 69-66 lead, but Charlevoix's Walker Drost pulled the Rayders back in late with a pair of baskets to match the Blue Devils work at the free throw line, which sent the game into a second overtime at 71-71.

In the second overtime, a 3-pointer by Jack Korte and a steal and layup by Jake Freeman put the Blue Devils up five, 80-75, but Drost again went on the offensive for the Rayders, tying the game.

Gaylord's Jakovon Pryor-McCovey added a layup late and Mitch Wilson closed the game at the free throw line, handing the Rayders the loss.

Walker finished with 24 points to lead the Rayders, Austin Putman added 17 points and 10 rebounds and Kevin Pearl had 18 points.

Also for Charlevoix, Collin Smith scored 13 points. Korte led the Blue Devils with 24 points and Pryor-McCovey scored 20.

The game for the Rayders came last at the free throw line, where they finished the night 17-for-33, but Erskine knows overall the night prepared them for conference stretch quickly approaching.

"You miss 16 free throws, that's killer," said Erskine. "The free throw stripe got us today, but effort wise it was a good. A good one to get us ready for Friday."

The Rayders will welcome Harbor Springs, 0-3, on Friday, Jan. 8, beginning a stretch of 13 straight Lake Michigan Conference games.

Charlevoix rings in the New Year

City residents and visitors ringed in the New Year with day long family activities and evening fun. The day started with horse drawn wagon rides, followed by snowman making contest and s'mores in East Park. Then crowds were entertained by the Tommy Tropic and his juggling abilities.

A huge crowd witnessed the fireworks show that set ablaze the night sky over Round Lake at 9 p.m. From there crowds visited local establishments to take in food and drink specials along with live entertainment before the crowds ventured outdoors and gathered for the 2015 annual Bridge Drop at midnight to herald the coming year.

Born Learning Trail to be established at Shanahan Field

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Learning happens everywhere a child goes, but parents, grandparents and caregivers may not always know how to support that learning. A new trail proposed for Shanahan Field may change all that.

Members of Leadership Charlevoix County class of 2015-

16 presented a Born Learning Trail to the Charlevoix Township Board of Trustees on Jan. 11. The proposed trail will include multiple stations around the playground's walking path with instructions for activities that parents and guardians can enjoy with children.

The Born Learning Trail is a United Way public engagement campaign that uses outdoor activities to boost language and literacy development and to help caregivers understand how best to support early learning in everyday outdoor moments, said Alissa Post, Leadership Charlevoix class member.

"We know that what happens in a child's early years impacts school readiness and success in life," Post said. "We want to help parents and caregivers use everyday outings, including trips to the park to support that learning."

The project is one of the Leadership Charlevoix County community service projects. The group working on this particular project is partnering with Char-Em United Way. There are 10 signs on the Born Learning Trail, each including activities such as "Imagine! Create! Pretend!" which encourages the caregiver to spur BEAVER ISLAND — We live in a world with changing technology and an ever-expanding power grid that keeps us connected, but some choose to take a step away from the constant connection and seek out places of seclusion away from the barrage of gadgets and people.

Dan Burton is one of those who made the choice 15 years ago to move his family off Michigan's mainland to Beaver Island and live on what some consider one of the most remote areas in the continental United States.

"That is what I like about it. It's isolated," Burton said. "We chose to live like this. It is simple living and the population remains the same. Living in the middle of Lake Michigan people come and go, but those who live here like the solitude you get from the island."

There are two ways to Beaver Island in the summer. One is by ferry, which is a two-hour trip and the other is by plane, which is the only transportation to and from the island in the winter — weather permitting.

"There are no highways, roads or trains coming to this place," Burton said. "It's isolated. It's quiet. During the winter the people on the island have a reason to be here."

Burton's property is about 8 miles outside of town. It's off the Beards Brewery keeps growing in Charlevoix

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — More than three years ago Beards Brewery opened as a small one-barrel operation in downtown Petoskey.

As brand recognition has grown, founders Peter Manthel and Ben Slocum have expanded the operation to include a distribution facility in Charlevoix. They chose Charlevoix because of their ties to the town and the proximity to Petoskey.

"I was born in Charlevoix and had a Charlevoix address until a few years ago," Slocum said.

"Charlevoix is a natural fit to start beer distribution as we grow our operation in Northern Michigan because we view our business as part of the Little Traverse Bay region and not just one town."

Manthel and Slocum started as home brewers with the goal to one-day open their own brewery and eventually distribute their beer. In 2012 Manthel and Slocum got a microbrewers license and opened Beards Brewery in downtown Petoskey. Within their second-year the demand for Beards brews from local bars and the brewery's own customers was exceeding their ability to produce beer.

To meet the demand and stay consistent with their best practices that built the following that Beards Brewery has throughout Northern Michigan, a much larger brewing system was constructed in Charlevoix on Ferry Avenue. That opened the door to build more relationships in a town where Man-

Planners OK Bridge Street partnership project permit

CHARLEVOIX — An empty downtown storefront will soon be full. The Charlevoix Planning Commission at its meeting Monday night unanimously approved a special use permit for a partnership project between Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital and the Charlevoix Courier.

The space discussed is located at 411 Bridge St. (the former location of Creative Cupcake). Kathy Jacobsen, a nurse and director of community health education with the hospital, outlined the plan for the space at the meeting.

"By establishing a retail-like space for wellness in downtown Charlevoix, Munson Healthcare would like to create a partnership with both the hospital and Courier," she said.

She added in the space the Courier would feature the many print products including the newspaper, dining guides and other publications. The hospital would offer expanded health and wellness activities to meet health education needs. The hospital would offer blood pressure screenings, pre-diabetes screenings, cooking classes, support groups, weekend workshops, dietitian and weight management classes and more.

"It offers greater visibility and provides a welcoming enhanced opportunity," Jacobsen said. "In building community relationships we would support the Main Street effort, the chamber and other businesses. It will create a more meaningful wellness impact on the Charlevoix community."

Before the decision was made a couple of commissioners raised questions about handicapped parking. Jacobsen said there is a ramp at the back of the building for people with wheelchairs or limited walking ability.

Doug Caldwell, publisher of the Courier, said the new location will further the newspaper's goal to increase its engagement with people and businesses in the community.

Eric Hemenway to speak at Friends of the Library annual meeting

AMME KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

This year's Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library annual meeting will feature Eric Hemenway as the speaker.

The meeting is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 20.

Hemenway is an Anishnaabe/Ojawa from Cross Village. He is the Director of Repatriation, Archives and Records for the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Ojawa Indians. As such he oversees the management and preservation of historic documents and materials for the tribe, as well as utilizing those materials in educational initiatives.

He hopes that his presentation will shed light on his cultural heritage and explain the struggles his people have had to withstand in order to stay "home" in Michigan.

The interaction of Europeans and Native Americans in Northern Michigan has been wrought with destruction and distrust, the clashing of two cultures.

"We have had to accept a certain amount of assimilation, but we walk in two worlds," he said. "We are learning to place our culture back together. We are hopeful that people will realize that we are more than pow-wows and casinos."

Learning from his mother, an Ojawa activist, Hemenway was exposed, at an early age, to the tenacity of principle that has made the Ojawa tribe a survivor among tribal nations, some of which have become extinct through war, disease or assimilation into other tribes. The Little Traverse Bay Bands of Ojawa are the first tribe to have achieved Federal re-affirmation, according to Hemenway. He learned that what was finally allowed were not privileges, but rights, belonging to an indigenous people.

Hemenway attended grade school in Cross Village, in a one-room school house. The school closed in 1889 and he subsequently attended Harbor Springs School from 7th to 12th grade. Today he works for the Little Traverse Band of Ojawa Indians, serving in a variety of capacities on its behalf. He currently sits on the Michigan Heritage Committee, The Michigan Humanities Council, Emmet County Historical Commission and is on the board of trustees for the Harbor Springs History Museum. He is an adjunct instructor on Odawa history at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

Hemenway will touch on many controversial issues and misconceptions regarding the presence of the Anishnaabe/Ojawa in Michigan.

"If I had to choose a title for my talk," he said, "I would call it Perseverance."

Committee presents 2 types of ice rinks to board

LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — When winter comes around next year, Charlevoix residents may be able to ice skate downtown depending on the ability to fund and maintain a new ice rink.

The Main Street design committee has looked at the feasibility of an ice rink in East Park and developed two preliminary plans. These plans however, do not mean an ice rink is coming to downtown, said Bob Jess ice rink committee co-chair.

"Ice skating will add a lot to the atmosphere in the downtown area, but we are not there yet," Jess said. "There are many factors that need to be decided on and worked out before the committee is ready to make final presentations."

The two different ice rink preliminary plans were presented to the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board during its regular meeting on Dec. 28. Jess

LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Design committee member and ice rink committee co-chair Rick Wertz presents the possibility an ice rink that would use a chiller to freeze the ice, which would allow for more days of ice skating. The chiller system rink could be used near the bandshell or on the open flat in East Park. Plans for a possible ice rink in downtown were presented to the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board to get feedback on the work done by committee members so far.

and co-chair Rick Wertz each described the types of ice rinks that are possible for East Park.

One plan considers using a system that is easy to construct with boards and uses a liner to hold the water that would eventually become ice in colder temperatures.

"Wallon Lake uses the same rink," Jess said. The Nice Rink system

— the brand of rink being looked at — is projected to cost more than $18,800 to open. Jess also estimates costs for three years of operation to be more than $50,000, which includes rink maintenance, set up and take down, and a possible warming hut. The only drawback for this proposed rink would be Mother Nature, Jess said.

"The use of the rink is weather dependent," Jess said. "Temperature would need to fall below freezing for ice making."

Wertz presented another rink idea the committee also is looking at — a chiller system rink. The chiller system rink could be used when temperatures are above freezing and would not require grass to be replaced in East Park.

"This rink we can count on being ready to skate on," Wertz said. "Many times we have had one when we waited on Mother Nature and were unable to skate, but with this system we could extend the season by starting earlier."

The downside to the chiller system is the cost, which would be around $98,000 to start.

The ice rink presentation to the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board was only an informational presentation from committee members to board members.

"Board members were interested in seeing the work so far on a possible ice rink for downtown," said Annie Doyle, Main Street/Downtown Development Authority director.

Officials see a rink as another attraction that could bring people together and give them a place to both socialize and recreate in downtown. It also would be open to non-residents, which is good for the local business community, Doyle said.

"The bottom line is we are looking at a great activity that will have a spinoff economic benefit for downtown," Doyle said.

I did it! You can, too!

I was a... surgery had never... As the doctors... be resolved, such as sleep disorders and diabetes, I realized they were talking about people like me.

A sleep technician once told me, "I don't know how you are still alive — you have the worst sleep apnea I've ever seen." My only goal for weight loss surgery was to be able to sleep without a machine. Six months after surgery, I met my goal. I literally cried the day I put my CPAP machine away.

Dr. Nizzi set my goal weight at 150 pounds, and he was right on target. He knows what he's doing. I'm sleeping. My husband is sleeping. My aches and pains are gone.

I was too big for my health. Now I'm healthier than I ever imagined.

Happy caregivers give better care

A frustrated, irritable caregiver can make a bad situation worse for a patient and his or her family. But considering the stress, anxiety and trauma that go with providing daily compassionate care to people facing serious illness and death, it's easy to see how caregivers may suffer from symptoms of burnout.

Caregiver burnout can extend beyond family caregivers to nurses, home health aides and others in a senior living or hospice setting. According to the National Center on Caregiving (caregiver.org), burnout symptoms

HOSPICE OF NORTHWEST MICHIGAN

Executive director

not recognized and managed carefully, but they are often hard to identify, as caregivers are dedicated to maintaining a positive outward appearance. The emotional state of a patient and patient's family can have a significant effect on everyone around them. Yet caregivers are expected to uphold their professional standards and compassion while still being bombarded by others' devastation, anger, confusion, grief and depression. It's human nature to feel empathy toward those who are suffering or dying, to react defensively when confronted with anger or accusations, to be frustrated when nothing can be done to help, or to bond with patients and family members, thereby positive outward appearance.

The emotional state of a patient and patient's family can have a significant effect on everyone around them. Yet caregivers are expected to uphold their professional standards and compassion while still being bombarded by others' devastation, anger, confusion, grief and depression. It's human nature to feel empathy toward those who are suffering or dying, to react defensively when confronted with anger or accusations, to be frustrated when nothing can be done to help, or to bond with patients and family members, thereby taking on their grief.

That's why healthcare agencies must actively maintain a culture that enables their caregivers to be human, to express their feelings in a safe way, to vent their frustrations and to find help. Agencies can support their caregivers by ensuring they take breaks and have plenty of time to rejuvenate themselves away from patients, patients' families and their needs. They can provide access to resources and training that help with managing the symptoms and causes of burnout. And, perhaps most importantly, they can pay attention and intervene early when a caregiver shows signs of struggling with his or her work. In many ways, the quality of a healthcare agency can be measured by the emotional wellbeing of its care team.

If you're a caregiver or are just entering the field, know that it is normal for some emotions to surface when you first take on the job, while other emotions might not manifest themselves until you've been at it awhile. All of these emotions are valid and important, and you may need to pay deliberate attention to healing yourself as you plan your work and personal time. It's tempting to adopt an attitude of "toughness" — to just push through the difficult moments — but if you can't take the time to manage your own emotional health, then you can't give your best to those who depend on you for compassion and care.

When choosing a home care or hospice provider, it's fair to ask about the caregivers themselves. How are they scheduled? What support resources are available to them?

How should the family discuss or report concerns about the caregiver? Choose a provider that values the health and emotional wellbeing of its caregivers.

You have a choice.

Outlines requested concerning conflicts of interest

Editor:

I think the council needs resident input into the "conflict of interest" issue before the council. Here is mine.

I want the council members to distinguish between discussion contributed by a "conflicted" member and a vote cast by a "conflicted" member. We are a small city with a small council. We can't afford to lose any idea any member has on any subject. Our council members aren't so weak-minded or gullible that they can't distinguish between an idea that is good for Charlevoix and an idea that is good for just one person. Also, it does sometimes happen that an idea is good for both one person and for Charlevoix.

I want the council to ask the city attorney to outline a path allowing all council members to participate in discussion, and, also, prohibit a council member with a "conflict of interest" from voting, if the issue comes to a vote.

Community donations make the difference

Editor:

Thank you to all in our community who donated food, personal care items, household goods and dollars to the Harvest Food and Supply Drive. Your support makes a positive difference in the lives of domestic abuse survivors seeking refuge at the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan's Safe Home.

Picture a woman who makes the courageous decision to leave her home because it is no longer safe for herself or her children. Think about how she feels arriving at the Safe Home with few, if any, personal belongings. Imagine the multiple obstacles faced as she starts this new and challenging journey. Your contributions help create a new pathway of hope for survivors and their children. Your support makes the shelter home to the many families utilizing Safe Home services.

On behalf of the families that rely on our services, we thank you. Please know you have helped make a difference in the lives of others in your community.

Stripping away the dream

Editor:

A recent letter to your paper written by John E. Haggard owner of a non-union plumbing company encouraged people to support a repeal of the prevailing wage in Michigan.

If the lawmakers shoot down our prevailing wage they will be shooting down the American dream for the hard working people in Michigan.

Remember right to work law? For less wages. That was the first step in stripping workers away from the American dream. Lower wages? Passing a law to discard our prevailing wage is the second step.

Unions brought to hard-working Americans safety on the job. The most important factor for everyone on a job is safety. The unions gave us occupational safety and health administration. Where is Michigan OSHA today?

Several workers in Northern Michigan have died or been injured as a result of a lack of safety on non-union jobs. Unions/prevaling wage brought us workplace safety, a 40 hour week, overtime and decent wages. Repealing prevailing wage would only hurt hard-working Michigan families.

I read in the paper business leaders urge low-income residents to take up training in trades. Yet now we hear lawmakers should take away prevailing wage for those very workers. Isn't that taking a step backward?

Repealing prevailing wage is a no-brainer, all right. It did not take much brain to come up with lowering workers' wages for businesses to increase their income. Please tell our lawmakers to leave prevailing wage alone. Lower wages equal lower quality of life for hard-working Americans and their families.

Sidewalks important to pedestrian safety

Editor:

Pedestrian safety should be paramount especially since a major street repair is an ideal time to add a sidewalk.

You can't tell me cars passing by schoolroom windows is less a distraction than pedestrians walking. And, by the way, it's pretty likely pedestrians walk by even without a sidewalk. I'd think that's a bigger distraction for school children ... "Let's see if the walker gets hit."

If school officials and teachers are worried about distraction why not consider making the classes so interesting and the work so engaging there won't be any distractions.

Soup cook-off aids food pantry

EAST JORDAN – East Jordan Care and Share Food Pantry Director Kathy Reid accepted checks from the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce.

The proceeds from the East Jordan Community Night Soup Cook-Off and half of the proceeds from the Chamber's annual Holiday Business After Hours were donated to the East Jordan Care and Share Food Pantry to help stock the pantry shelves for the winter.

The cook-off had eight local chamber member restaurants competing for best soup as voted by the people.

A Matter of Taste at Tapawingo won first place, second place went to East Jordan Public Schools and Porter Creek Fish House took home third place.

More than 200 hundred people attended this popular community night event.

The Holiday Business After Hours was held at the Jordan River Arts Council. This kick-off to the busy holiday season for Chamber members and their guests was co-sponsored by East Jordan and the Jordan River Arts Council. Guests were treated to an evening of fellowship, delicious hors d'oeuvres and refreshments. Music was provided by Phyllis Childs and Becky Palmar, members of The Jordan Valley Community Band.

Humane Society: Local support crucial to mission

The Charlevoix Area Humane Society is now encouraging the adoption of pets from its organization. Adoption fees for a dog at the organization are $125, costs for adult cats are $45 and kittens six months and younger are $60.

The Charlevoix Area Humane Society offers the adoptions at bargain prices considering the organization invests more than $200 in each dog before adoption. All shots, de-worming, vaccinations and rabies treatments, spay and neutering are taken care of in addition to the kennel cleaning, food, training, caring, grooming, staff time, heat and utilities and any extra medical expenses.

The society helps promote the value of all lives through their work and is able to provide their services through the donations provided by people who support their efforts and ideology. The Charlevoix Area Humane Society reminds donors that their generosity keeps them in business and helps save the lives of wonderful pets until these animals find loving homes. Plus, the funding is tax deductible.

Anyone who wishes to make a donation may contact the Charlevoix Area Humane Society at (231) 582-6774 or visit the website at charlevoixhumane.org.

Library cardholders can check out snowshoes

CHARLEVOIX – The Charlevoix Public Library now has free lending of youth, women's and men's snowshoes. For those who have never tried the sport, now is the time. The snowshoes can be checked out for up to three days. Participants must be 18 years or older and a Charlevoix Public Library cardholder. Availability is limited.

Did you know that you can burn more calories snowshoeing than you can walking, running or cross country skiing at the same pace? For health and fitness benefits, snowshoeing is great for you. It provides a cardio workout while also building strength, agility, balance and endurance. The best part is, snowshoers get to exercise in the beautiful outdoors.

"Snowshoeing is an effective, low impact, and safe form of exercise. The library wants to promote fitness and provide a no-cost exercise alternative for local families," said Linda Adams, director.

The library is located at 220 W. Clinton St., in Charlevoix.

For more information on snowshoe lending, visit charlevoixlibrary.org or call (231) 547-2651.

Charlevoix cattlemen join the American Angus Association

CHARLEVOIX – Rick and Kris Vanderbeek, of Charlevoix are new members of the American Angus Association, reports Allen Moczygemba, CEO of the national breed organization headquartered in Saint Joseph, Mo.

The American Angus Association, with more than 25,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef breed association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on more than 18 million registered Angus.

The Association records ancestral information and keeps production records and genome data on individual animals to develop industry-leading selection tools for its members. The programs and services of the Association and its entities — Angus Genetics Inc., Angus Productions Inc., Certified Angus Beef LLC and the Angus Foundation — help members to advance the beef cattle business by selecting the best animals for their herds and marketing quality genetics for the beef cattle industry and quality beef for consumers.

City house escape

Charlevoix Sentinel, March 25, 1879:

"ARREST AND ESCAPE.
In September, 1877, one John Campbell, a son of Hugh Campbell, Eveline Township, this county (Ironston area), left Butler County, Iowa, in the unlawful possession of a team of horses, harness and wagon, belonging to another person. He drove them through to this county, remained here since, and until yesterday his neighbors have had no suspicion that a horse thief was living among them. Saturday, Sheriff J. R. Jones, of Butler County, Iowa, arrived here, and Sunday he and Sheriff Cooper, of this county, arrested him and brought him to this village. He submitted peaceably to his arrest, and seem (sic) inclined to yield himself up a willing victim to outraged law. Sunday night Sheriff Cooper locked him in the extreme northeast room of the Fountain City House, deeming it unlikely that he would jeopardize his life by attempting to escape from that height. Yesterday morning Sheriff Cooper repaired to the room to bring the prisoner to breakfast, and the horse thief had departed. An investigation seem (sic) to disclose the following facts: On the corner of the building, about six feet from the window, a lightning rod had, in days of less wisdom than these, been fastened upon which the shafts of Jove could have free course and be glorified, and for this our bold culprit made a daring jump, breaking it asunder, and leaving considerable hair attached to it; but escaping to the ground. Sheriff Cooper is making every effort in his power to capture the fugitive. Sheriff Jones attaches no blame to Sheriff Cooper for the escape."

An investigation of the microfilm files of the Sentinel will have to be made to determine if John Campbell was recaptured.

Charlevoix hospital welcomes 1st baby

Mason Robert Allen Mikolowski greeted the world on Tuesday, Jan. 5, at 11:42 a.m. He was the first baby delivered at Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital in 2016.

As is the hospital's custom, his parents, Nate and Brittany Mikolowski, were presented with a celebratory gift basket filled with an assortment of baby products and toys for their new son.

Mason weighed in at a healthy 9 pounds, 5 ounces, and is the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Mikolowski. They were excited to have the opportunity to deliver him at Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital but declined to comment on having the first baby born at hospital in 2016.

Dr. Mary Ivey delivered their healthy baby boy, and the nursing staff cared for little Mason and his mother.

"This is truly a community wide effort and we are thrilled, as an association, to be able to give back to the education of students who will be the future of our industry"

Scott Herceg, Executive Officer
Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan.

Donation becomes investment for the future

CHARLEVOIX — The Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan recently donated more than $11,000 to area schools to help support the education of the next generation of building trades workers.

The Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan represents builders, remodelers, suppliers and the allied trades in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Otsego counties. The monies raised for this support of education come through an Home Builders Association community outreach program called Garage Build. Garage Build is an annual event to promote the building trades programs at four school districts in the Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan's service area: Boyne City Public Schools, Charlevoix Public Schools, Pellston Public Schools, and the Public Schools of Petoskey.

Each year a two-car garage is auctioned by silent bid in March at the Northern Michigan Regional Home Show which is produced by the Home Builders Association. The building trades' students, with the supervision of their instructors and Home Builders Association volunteers, frame, roof, enclose, secure and electrify the garage for the winning bidder in the spring prior to the conclusion of the school year.

"Garage Build gives students a real world experience in the building trades," said Carl Wagar of Wagar Builders and longtime chairperson of the Garage Build Program. "Many students first discover an interest in building through this program that may directly lead to a career. Our building trades instructors are training the future of the industry and the Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan has a duty to support that," Wagar continued.

The 2015 project marked the fourteenth year of the Garage Build program and the 2016 Garage Build year will kick off soon. Thanks to the tireless effort of Home Builders Association volunteers and the donations of 70 plus businesses and individuals, 2015 was another successful year for the program.

cation of students who will be the future of our industry," said Scott Herceg, Executive Officer of the Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan. Herceg went on to say that the schools' funds may be used at the discretion of the building trade instructors for education materials, specialty shop equipment, and post-graduation scholarships for their students.

"However the funds are used at the individual schools, we know that the students will get the direct benefit and that is our goal," Herceg said.

To find out more information about the Garage Build Program or to get involved, contact the offices of the Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan at (231) 348-9770 or Info@HBAnorthernmichigan.org or visit the Garage Build booth at the Northern Michigan Regional Home Show on March 11-12 on the campus of North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

The Home Builders Association of Northern Michigan includes builders, remodelers, tradesmen, suppliers and affiliated businesses in Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Otsego and Emmet counties. In addition to providing membership support, the primary goals of the association's administration is to promote professional development, offer regulatory and legislative support, and act as administrative liaison between the local members and their state and national level industry groups, the Home Builders Association of Michigan and the National Home Builders Association.

Charlevoix man named to Michigan State Transportation Commission

BY NICOLE SEYMOUR
Special to Charlevoix Courier

LANSING — Charlevoix resident, Todd Wyett, was recently appointed to the Michigan State Transportation Commission. Commissioner

Wyett, who replaced Jerrold Jung, received the appointment along with six other Wyett individuals from the state who were sworn in by Gov. Rick Snyder on Dec. 22, 2015.

As a member of this six person commission, Wyett will help develop and implement policy and transportation plans for the Michigan Department of Transportation. As part of the commission, Wyett will serve three years with his term expiring Dec. 31, 2018. He served in the same capacity in 2010 and 2013. For Wyett, this appointment is a way to serve both the governor and the people of the state in a different capacity.

"It's just nice to give back to the community," Wyett said.

This is not the first time Wyett has held such a position. In 2008 Wyett was appointed by Gov. Jennifer Granholm to the Michigan Economic Development Corporation board and executive committee, where he served until December 2010. In this position, Wyett helped shape policies for state site location assistance, job training grants, tourism promotion and business retention, expansion and relocation projects. While this newest appointment will take him in another direction, Wyett said two main areas of concern he would like to address during his term are economic development and quality of life.

Event offering free dental to under served children

PETOSKEY — Harbor Pointe Dental will be sponsoring their annual Give Kids A Smile event from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 5, at 523 W. Jefferson St., Petoskey, to provide under served children in Emmet and Charlevoix counties with free dental services.

Nearly one in four children ages 2 to 11 years old has untreated cavities in their baby teeth, according to the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Many children enrolled in Medicaid receive no dental services throughout the year.

Give Kids A Smile is held annually to both provide free, easily accessible dental services to qualifying individuals and to raise awareness of the epidemic of untreated dental disease occurring locally and nationally and create local public and private partnerships to increase access to oral health care to solve this crisis.

Harbor Pointe Dental looks forward to again providing free dental care for local children who desperately need it. Candidates should call ahead to schedule at (231) 347-8899.

The American Dental Association launched the Give Kids A Smile program nationally in 2003 as a way for dentists to join with others in the community to provide dental services to under served children. Each year, about 350,000 to 400,000 children benefit from more than 1,500 events, all because of the efforts of 40,000 or more annual volunteers nationwide.

The high volume of patients participating in charitable events/clinics like Give Kids A Smile highlights a clear gap between those with and without good dental health. Considering that oral health is connected to total health, financial barriers to care should be of major concern to the leaders of Michigan.

Marine a special guest in school

Students in Julie McLean's third grade class at Charlevoix Elementary School had a special guest speaker. Marine Infantryman J.J. Bottomley, a Charlevoix graduate, who is stationed at California's Camp Pendleton stepped by to visit. Bottomley is the brother of third grader Mya Brown and today he took time from visiting his family to encourage students to continue to study and do well in their classes. Bottomley stressed the importance of learning by stating that he still has to get good grades in his instruction to help keep them all safe by doing his job properly. The class was grateful for his service and visit. J.J. Bottomley is pictured here with his sister Mya Brown.

Numerous national, local projects will get green industry, gardeners involved in pollinator

Pollinators are essential to ecosystem biodiversity and to produce many food crops that require pollination. Food crops such as apples, pumpkins, cucumbers, almonds and blueberries all require pollination for fruit production. According to the "National Strategy to Promote the Health of Honey Bees and Other Pollinators," honey bee pollination of agriculture contributes a total of $15 million to the economy.

Pollinators such as butterflies can serve as an avenue to increasing the public's interest in the natural world. Whether you are a green industry professional, Master Gardener or a novice gardener, you can get involved in numerous local and national pollinator projects.

National projects

The Xerces Society (a Society of Invertebrate Conservation) has numerous projects, including:

- The Bumble Bee Watch
- Migratory Dragonfly Partnership

The Xerces Society Western Monarch Count

- Milkweed Survey

These are citizen science projects in which you can get involved in monitoring bee, dragonfly or monarch butterfly populations and report them in order to generate a massive database of information about insects, plants and their migration

The Great Sunflower Project is a citizen science project with over 100,000 members who count pollinators on sunflowers and other plants that are great for them. Citizen scientists count the number of pollinators they see during a 15-minute period or observe them while taking a walk.

You can join the Million Pollinator Garden Challenge creating gardens and landscapes that promote pollinators such as bees, butterflies, birds and bats. You can register your garden to be part of the national pollinator garden network. There are already 185,257 gardens registered and counting!

You can also register your city as a certified "Bee City USA." Fifteen cities have been certified as Bee City USA Communities. The first one in Michigan is Ypsilanti. You will need to complete a Bee City USA application and resolution template and then have the resolution approved by your city.

Local projects

For those in Michigan, you can get involved in numerous projects and attend programs on pollinators. For example, the Kalamazoo County Master Gardener Program will be planting a pollinator garden. The Grand Ideas Garden at the Kent County Michigan State University Extension office in Grand Rapids installed a new pollinator garden in 2015.

These gardens will demonstrate how to plant a pollinator garden of your very own. Michigan State University also has hosted a "Bee Palooza" at the MSU Horticulture Gardens in early June for the last few years. This event allows families to learn about pollinators and plants attractive to pollinators, observe a live colony and much more. People interested in planting a pollinator garden of their own should check out Michigan State University Extension Bulletin E3282, "Bees of the Great Lakes Region and Wildflowers to Support Them" and Michigan State University's many other resources on native plants and pollinators.

PETOSKEY — The American Red Cross encourages eligible donors to make a lifesaving commitment to donate blood to help ensure a sufficient blood supply in the new year, beginning in January with National Blood Donor Month.

National Blood Donor Month highlights the importance of volunteer blood and platelet donors like Lund and their impact on patient healthcare. National Blood Donor Month has been observed in January since 1970 with the goal of increasing blood and platelet donations during winter — one of the most difficult times of year to collect enough blood products to meet patient needs. Severe winter weather may result in canceled blood drives, and seasonal illnesses, like the flu, can cause donors to be temporarily unable to give.

Blood donors of all types are needed to maintain a sufficient supply. Eligible donors with types O, B negative and A negative blood are encouraged to donate double red cells where available. During a double red cell donation, two units of red cells are collected while most of the plasma and platelets are returned to the donor.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities for the area are:

- 12:30-5:15 p.m. Wednesday, Jan. 20, Eagles Lodge FOE 1583, 106 River St., Boyne City, Charlevoix County

- 7:45 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 21, McLaren Northern Michigan Foundation Building, 360 Connable, Petoskey, Emmet County

- 1-6:45 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 26, Petoskey Middle School, 801 Northmen Drive, Petoskey, Emmet County

- 10 a.m.-3:45 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28, Boyne Falls School, 01662 M-75 South, Boyne Falls, Charlevoix County

To donate blood, download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call (800) RED CROSS (800) 733-2767 to make an appointment. All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood donors can save time at their next donation by using RapidPass to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, prior to arriving at the blood drive. To get started and learn more, visit redcrossblood.org/RapidPass and follow the instructions on the site.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

Charlevoix Public School District seeks nominations for new Alumni Hall of Fame

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public School district is soliciting nominations for distinguished graduates for a new Charlevoix Public Schools Alumni Hall of Fame.

Superintendent Mike Ritter hopes the program will be utilized to recognize and honor past district graduates for their achievements.

"I want you all to know that the Charlevoix Public School District is very proud of our graduates and this has prompted our district to initiate this new program during this current school year," Ritter said.

This new program is being established to specifically honor past graduates of Charlevoix Public Schools who have made major contributions toward improving the lives of others, obtained significant life achievements including receiving special honors/awards, or by achieving advanced degrees.

"I am continuing to share our nomination petition with our community on our website at rayder.net and on flyers at our Central Office building on St. Mary's Street," Ritter added.

The due date for submission is Jan. 31. Forms are also available on the Charlevoix Alumni Association website.

Ritter recognizes and thanks Charlevoix Public Schools board president, Dick Joseph, for his leadership regarding this special program. By nominating someone for recognition, the community can both celebrate and contribute to the history of and help inspire the future of the Charlevoix Public Schools District.

"I look forward to learning a great deal about many of our graduates in the days and weeks to come," Ritter said.

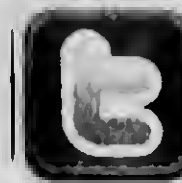

People are encouraged to complete the nomination form online or on paper.

grid, operated by a solar array and heated by burning wood. His family grows vegetables in summer and much of their protein is from fish and venison. They preserve their food by canning. The children also help out with what is required and have learned importance of self-sustainability.

"My kids have grown-up living with solar panels," Burton said. "They understand what it means to conserve and what it means to live a life that is sustainable and outside the grid."

Burton's life "outside the grid" is what got TV producers interested in speaking with him about a new series that focused on different people who were living in remote areas of the U.S.

The series is named "The Boonies" and is on the National Geographic Channel, which premieres at 9 p.m. on Tuesday, Jan. 19 (8 p.m. Central Time). The show will give viewers a look into the lives of four different people and how they go to great lengths and places to live

In a refuge free from the age of technology.

Viewers will get a glimpse of what life is like for a couple who choose to live above the grid in a forest, another who lives beneath the grid in a cave, another who lives beyond the grid in the northern Rockies as a 19th century pioneer and a glimpse of what life is like for Burton and his family on Beaver Island.

"You will see me and the same people working together," Burton said. "It's a tight knit little community. That is what life is like for me. If I am going to work with or barter with somebody it will be the same group of people I deal with every day."

Nearly everyone who lives on the island has lived there for their entire life or has moved there for the beauty and for the quiet, Burton said.

"Everyone who lives on the island has their reason," Burton said. "But for most they chose it because they like the isolation. Even on the busiest day of the year it is nothing like the mainland."

their family has operated their family business since the 1960s. It also means more local jobs, and, for the original Beards' taproom, the ability to craft their original creations in both small and large batches.

"Charlevoix is where we produce the beer we felt would best to go out to a broader audience and represents who we are," Slocum said. "It is a good mix of the best we do. In Petoskey we still are brewing to offer a variety of our different brands on tap."

The facility sits on a reclaimed brownfield site, which also houses other businesses including the brewery operation.

"It made sense because we are conscience of our environmental footprint," Manthei said. "Instead of building a new space we have put to use old industrial property rather than letting sit vacant."

Now, in its fourth year of operation Beards Brewery and its year-old 15-barrel operation — 31 kegs — on Ferry Avenue brews the beer found at establishments in portions of the Upper Peninsula and throughout Northern Michigan, including many of Charlevoix's pubs and eateries.

"If you are purchasing one of brews from a local restaurant or bar it was likely brewed in Charlevoix," Manthei said. One beer being brewed

Peter Manthei (left) and Ben Slocum, founders of Beards Brewery, have seen steady growth and success during the last four years of operation. Their Charlevoix distribution plant in December produced a limited run of canned Beards brew. People can pick up the beer at the Beard taproom location in Petoskey. Beards is the first brewery to distribute and can beer in Charlevoix and people can expect more cans of Beards products coming in 2016 to local retail outlets.

In Charlevoix is made especially for the ski resorts in Boyne.

"The Slope Ripper — a session porter — is specially made for the restaurants and pubs in Boyne," Slocum said.

In December, Beards Brewery became the first brewer in Charlevoix to can beer to be sold retail. People can pick up cans of beer at Beards in Petoskey. People should look for more cans coming to local retail locations in 2016, Manthei said.

The continued growth of Beards Brewery's distribution facility has Manthei and Slocum connected with the brewing process. The two of them work close with their people in Charlevoix.

rants throughout northern Michigan. It is also important for them to keep that personal connection as they grow.

"We don't want to lose that connection to the people we have," Manthei said "If you grow too fast it's harder to give that level of service that we believe has made us a strong brand.

"That is what we are about — very community based," added Manthei. "We did not want to be a place that brews and sell beer. We are committed to the area. We want to be that community pub that also sells its beer to the bars and restaurants in the area. We are committed to northern Michigan and being a major player in the craft beer industry. Our plan is to grow and stay true to our brand and the following we have."

"So we felt like it was real honor and opportunity to partner on this project," Caldwell said. "It's a real positive. We can work together very well in that space."

Kevin Prior, events and marketing director for the Northern Michigan Review — company that owns the Courier — said they hope to begin working on the space next month.

The concept for the space began when Prior suggested to move the Courier office to Bridge Street. He looked at a few spaces with Main Street director Annie Doyle when he was informed the hospital was interested in one of the spaces.

"I questioned what the hospital was going to do with the space, and she explained the welcome center concept — and I asked "what if the hospital and the Courier shared a space?" Annie was surprised but said she would check with the hospital. She came back and said they would like to meet."

He said they met with Jacobson and hospital CEO Lyn Jenks and looked at the possibilities.

"The way the cupcake shop is set up with two distinct areas already is a huge plus — there is a natural division of spaces, but it all flows together at the same time," Prior said. "We walked through, agreed it was a good solution for both of us."

Courier editor, Lonnie Allen said the move is a positive step for the downtown.

"For Charlevoix's downtown to be vibrant we should look at other ways to bring foot traffic to area than traditional retail," Allen said. "The hospital is a great example of this. The services being offered will bring people to the area who could then visit a local restaurant or do some shopping before or after visiting the wellness center."

Allen also believes the partnership shows a pledge to the community by the two establishments.

"It demonstrates, that two long standing institutions in Charlevoix are committed to the community they've always been a part of," Allen said. "The Courier wants to remain an integral part of this community and see the Main Street Program be a success. Hopefully this partnership can be a way each of can help fulfill those Main Street Program's goals."

Area foundations accepting new grant requests

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation invite area nonprofit organizations, educational institutions and municipalities to submit grant requests to put local charitable dollars to work in the area.

Grant applications to support arts and culture, education, the environment, community and economic development, health and human services, recreation and youth are available by calling the area's respective community foundation office. All applicants must call to discuss their proposals in advance. Eligible nonprofit organizations must serve residents of Charlevoix or Emmet counties and work to enrich or improve life for local residents. The deadline for submission is Tuesday, March 1, 2016. Applications will be reviewed by community members and the youth advisory committee members and recommendations will be reviewed by the respective boards of trustees.

The community foundations accept contributions from donors and then use a portion of the income earned from the investment of these gifts to help foster positive change in our area. In this way, the donors' contributions meet their own community's needs, now and in the future — For good. For ever.

To apply for a grant or for more information, applicants may call or email their local community foundation program officer.

Putman's big night leads Rayders past Harbor Springs

(231) 439-4380 - gwickliffe@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — It's always nice to get back into the win column after a tough loss.

That's exactly what the Charlevoix boys' basketball team did Friday night by defeating visiting Harbor Springs 54-41, improving to 3-3 overall, 1-1 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

Charlevoix was coming off of an 83-80 loss to Gaylord, so senior Austin Putman was eager to get back on the court and it showed as he recorded a double-double, scoring 22 points, while pulling down 12 rebounds.

"(Putman) was upset Tuesday night that we lost," Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said. "He just came out and just decided that he was going to play hard and make things happen, and he did. He just had a whale of a game for us."

Putman was a force in the post, scoring 14 of the Rayders' 17 points in the first quarter, which gave them a 17-15 lead heading into the second quarter.

He'd finished the first half with 19 points, which helped the Rayders take a 32-24 lead into the half. His effort on the offensive glass was also needed.

"Coach has been stressing lately that we haven't been getting enough boards," Putman said. "I tried to go out there and get as many boards as possible, and I just knew that if I just played my game everything else would come through with everybody else."

Harbor Springs struggled to find points, as the Rams could only muster up four field goals in the second half, three of which came late in the final quarter.

"That second half was tough," Harbor Springs coach Adam Wood said. "Coming out of halftime it's a tough thing sometimes to come out with that same energy that you had in the first half."

The Rayders capitalized on Harbor Springs' offensive woes in the second half, closing the third quarter on a 13-1 run to take a 45-29 lead into the fourth. Charlevoix's senior Walker Drost scored five of his 17 points during the run.

"Drost was just a key fire-starter to get us going," Erskine said. "He does not like to lose, he's relentless with the basketball, he's going to drive in there and see what he can do and hopefully Austin can help him."

Charlevoix's Matt Good finishes a run during the Marquette Invitational on Thursday at Marquette Mountain.

Charlevoix ski teams kick off season in Marquette

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 - jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

MARQUETTE — Unseasonably warm weather kept area ski teams off the slopes and forced the cancellation of the Harbor Petoskey Invite that traditionally marks the start of the high school season on Wednesday.

But the snow is finally coming down, and the Charlevoix boys and girls ski teams were able to find a chance to get on the course and get the season started off right at Marquette Mountain in the Upper Peninsula on Thursday.

With more snow than mountains below the bridge, Marquette was able to get their Invitational off without a hitch, and the Rayders took advantage, with the girls placing third overall and the boys taking fourth against state powers such as the host Redmen, Traverse City Central and Ironwood.

Returning state qualifier Abbey Scholten led the way for the Charlevoix girls with a sixth place finish in the giant slalom (1:04.53) and a seventh place finish in the slalom (1:35.33), and freshman Jenna Good made her Rayder debut with 10th place finishes in both the giant slalom (1:06.63) and slalom (1:37.83).

Senior Kylee Scholten took 16th in the slalom, Sarah Rockefeller took 24th in GS and 22nd in the slalom, and Jenna Guthrie took 26th in the giant slalom as well for the Rayders.

On the boys side, returning all-stater Matt Good brought home a ninth place finish in the giant slalom (1:01.79), while Walker Fogle took 17th in the slalom (1:42.60).

Ben Peterson took 18th in the slalom and 23rd in the giant slalom as well for Charlevoix, Hunter Cox took 21st in the giant slalom and 24th in the slalom, Keon Taylor took 19th in the giant slalom and Ben Ross 25th in the slalom.

Charlevoix falls to potent Harbor Springs

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 - jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — For both teams and players, there's a learning curve to every season.

For a young Charlevoix girls basketball squad, Friday's home game showed encouraging signs in a solid first half, but also showed the Rayders have plenty of work left to do after a 61-29 loss to visiting Harbor Springs.

Harbor Springs blitzed the Rayders in the third quarter, outscoring Charlevoix 24-5 in its best offensive performance of the year to turn a 27-20 game at the half into a runaway victory.

"We were just in too much of a hurry offensively early, and wound a little bit too tight," Harbor Springs coach Tom Brogger said. "We talked about it at the half, and I thought for the first time this year we showed more patience in the second half and found a nice balance between pushing the pace and playing under control."

Senior Alexa Jensen-Philbrick scored 15 to lead the Rams, but she had plenty of help offensively as Harbor Springs had five players finish with seven or more points.

Coey Bezilla chipped in 11, Nadi Bezilla and Libby Garver each added eight and Harmony Lang finished with seven as well for the Rams, who also got points and meaningful minutes from the bench from Casey Savard and Martha Johnston.

"We've got several girls we've been trying to get more involved, and tonight we finally had a game where everyone played well," Brogger said. "Our starters did a good job and our bench came in and played without any drop-off, which was something we've been waiting to see in a game all season."

Hannah Zipp scored 12 points to lead Charlevoix, which hung around in the first half thanks to a solid offensive start but couldn't keep pace with Harbor Springs in the second half.

Natalie Nesburg added six and Ellie Louiselle four for the Rayders.

"Harbor Springs had a good rebounding night, and they did a better job of playing at a fast pace without mistakes than we did," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "I thought Hannah had a really nice first half, but we need more people to step up and carry the load offensively throughout the game to be successful."

Charlevoix (0-6, 0-2) is off until next Friday, when it hosts Grayling.

Rayders finish with winning record at tough Kingsley Duals

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

CHARLEVOIX — Winning is important, but sometimes a loss can teach you more about where you are and where you need to go than any victory.

The Charlevoix wrestling team experienced that firsthand on Saturday, suffering a humbling 74-6 defeat to Hesperia, ranked fourth in Division 4 by michigan-grappler.com, at the challenging Kingsley Dual Invitational.

In the process of that defeat, junior Cam Alden and senior Mick Hinkle each took their first loss of the season against state-ranked competition, while junior Tyler McCallum also lost a match for just the second time this year to a ranked opponent from Hesperia.

Alden, wrestling up from his usual weight of 135 pounds, dropped a close match to Hesperia's Trentyn Gleason, ranked 10th at 140, while Hinkle fell to Mark Workman, ranked fourth at 189, and McCallum lost to Davian Gowens, ranked second at 130.

Although all three couldn't overcome tough competition to go undefeated, it was still a strong day for Alden, Hinkle, and McCallum, as all three wrestlers easily handled the rest of their competition to finish 4-1 on the day, as did Justin Adkins at 140 and 145.

Jeremy Chernauckas was the lone undefeated wrestler on the day for Charlevoix, going 5-0 at 112 and picking up the Rayders' lone victory against Hesperia.

Jordan Chernauckas, Mike Webb, Trevor McCallum, Max Hinkle and Stacy Kenney each went 3-2 for the Rayders, and Justin Bond finished 2-3.

Jake Seger also won a match for Charlevoix, which finished 3-2 overall as a team, with dominant wins over Kingsley (57-10), Elk Rapids (66-9) and Forest Area (72-0) as well as a 45-30 loss to Traverse City Central.

The Rayders are past the halfway point in the season after this weekend, and head into a huge week with an LMC Quad at Boyne City on Wednesday.

There, Charlevoix will face defending LMC champion Grayling in a showdown that will go a long way to determining this year's conference champion, and also will take on Kalkaska in another league dual.

LMC Quad at Elk Rapids
ELK RAPIDS —

Charlevoix entered the season hoping to contend for the Lake Michigan Conference title in wrestling.

After one league event, it's so far, so good, as the Rayders swept host Elk Rapids and Traverse City St. Francis to start the conference season 2-0.

The Rayders beat the Elks 54-15 and the Gladia-tors 57-6 in dominant performances on the mat.

Cam Alden (135 and 140 pounds) and Mick Hinkle (189), both ranked in Division 4 at their weights by michigangrappler.com, continued their undefeated start to the season with two wins for Charlevoix, running their season records to 20-0 and 21-0, respectively.

The Rayders' Tyler McCallum (135/140) swept both his matches to remain at one loss, and Jeremy Chemauckas (112), Jordan Chemauckas (119), Justin Adkins (145), Justin Bond (215) and Jake Petro-skey (285) all went undefeated for the quad as well.

Mike Webb (130), Jake Seger (152), Trevor McCallum (160) and Max Hinkle (171) each won one match for Charlevoix on the night.

"He's the same type of kid (as Putman). He grabs his lunch box and his hard hat too, and he comes to work and plays extremely hard for us. With those two guys, if they set the tone early, you better go with them, or you're going to be in trouble."

In addition to Putman and Drost's performances, sophomore Collin Smith knocked down two 3-pointers and junior Brad Klinger added five points for Charlevoix.

It was another tough defeat for the Rams as they fell to 0-4 on the season, and 0-2 in the LMC. Senior Jack Carter led the way for Harbor Springs with 17 points and senior Mark Leonard added 10 points.

"We were competitive," Wood said. "Had we made a few shots (in the second half), we're right in this game. Sometimes it falls and sometimes it doesn't. We just gotta keep working on that and hopefully we'll get them to fall for a full game next time."

ball team earned a 48-42 win over Charlevoix, as Brett Vandermus led with 19 points and nine rebounds.

Also for Harbor Springs, Austin Huffman scored 10 points and added nine steals and seven rebounds and Jeremy Kloss scored nine.

For Charlevoix, Danzel Williams led with 20 points.

"It was great to be back on the snow competing," Charlevoix coach Pete Scholten said. "We had great weather and conditions were as best that can be expected considering the rough start to our season."

"Our kids truly love going up to Marquette to ski. We felt fortunate to be one of the very few schools in the state to get a ski meet in this week."

Grayling Invitational MANCELONA — With several of Northern Michigan's best teams on the slopes on Monday at the Grayling Invitational at Schuss Mountain, the Charlevoix boys and girls ski teams got a good look at their competition for the rest of the season.

The Rayder boys took fifth overall, led by returning state qualifiers Matt Good and Brad Klinger.

Good finished fourth in the slalom and 11th in the giant slalom on the day, while Klinger took second in the giant slalom for the Rayders.

Ben Peterson took 20th in the slalom and 23rd in the giant slalom for Charlevoix, and Walker Fogle finished 30th in the slalom.

On the girls side, Charlevoix finished seventh as a team, led by strong days from Jenna Good and Abbey Scholten.

Good took second in the giant slalom and fourth in the slalom, while Scholten finished fifth in the slalom and 12th in the giant slalom.

Charlevoix opened LMC competition on Thursday at Nub's Nob. The results of that meet will be in the Jan. 21 edition of the Courier.

16 point outing leads Charlevoix Youth League results

JAMES CHRISTENSEN

CHARLEVOIX — A 16 point game from Taylor Petroskey led Team Carson to a 20-14 win over Team Lentz in fifth and sixth grade action in the Charlevoix Youth League on Saturday.

Isabelle Kenwabikise and Makyla Sharrow each chipped in two points for Team Carson, and Jadya Herriman led the team defensively.

For Team Lentz, Katherine Wagner led with eight points, Allison Burns, Kylie Williams and Paige Pemble all chipped in two points, and Ivy Hudson led the team defensively.

In the other fifth and sixth grade game, Team Trimmer defeated Team Dorst 20-16.

Olivia Vollmer led Team Trimmer with eight points, Lauren Jensen and Camryn Turdeson each chipped in six points, and Lily Brya led in rebounding.

For Team Dorst, Lauren Shepard led with six points, Anna Kate chipped in four and Kyri Titus, Mabel Louise and Claire Scholten each added two. Cali Mueller played strong defense for Team Dorst as well.

The next meeting of the Charlevoix Youth League is January 16. For more information on the league and how to participate, contact Liz Shaw at lshaw@rayder.net.

Order for service of process by publication

At a session of said Court held in the 33rd Circuit Court for Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the day and year set forth below.

PRESENT: Honorable Roy C. Hayes III
33rd Circuit Court Judge

Plaintiffs filed a Verified Ex Parte Motion for Service of Process in the discretion of the court. After reading the motion, the court finds that Plaintiffs have shown that service of process cannot reasonably be made on Defendants by the methods provided in MCR 2.105(A), in that Plaintiffs have demonstrated that Defendants and their whereabouts are unknown. The court further finds, pursuant to MCR 2.105(I), that service of process by publication is the best available method of service of process reasonably calculated to give Defendants actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.

2100 LEGAL NOTICES

IT IS ORDERED:
1. Plaintiffs may serve process on Defendants by publishing the following notice once each week for a period of three (3) consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier.
"An action alleging adverse possession and seeking to quiet title to real property located in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, commonly known as 230 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, and fully described as:

All that part of Lot 2, of Block 5, of the original Plat of the Village (now City) of Charlevoix, according to the recorded plat thereof, described as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of said Lot 2, of Block 5; thence East along the Southerly line thereof (and along the North line of Clinton Street) 80 feet; thence North parallel with the East line of Bridge Street 25 feet; thence West parallel with the Southerly line of said Lot 2, 80 feet to the East line of said Bridge Street; thence South along the East line of said Bridge Street 25 feet to the place of beginning.

has been commenced by Plaintiffs, Gary J. Mordick and Jeryl E. Mordick, against Defendants, The Unknown Heirs, Devisees, or Assigns of F. Jerold Mordick, Esther M. Mordick, Harold E. Lang, and Muriel V. (Lang) Archer, in the 33rd Circuit Court for the State of Michigan, and Defendants must answer or take other action permitted by law within twenty-eight (28) days after the last date of publication. If Defendants do not answer or take other action within the time allowed, judgment may be entered against them for the relief demanded in the complaint."

2. Plaintiffs are not required to mail a copy of the Order, as Defendants are unknown and, as such, their addresses cannot be obtained.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

PHOTOS BY LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Strong winds brought in high waves that splash against the pier near Michigan Beach after a winter storm blanketed the area with significant snow last weekend. The winds and lake effect snows continued throughout the week with temperatures dropping into the teens.

Strong north winds cause waves at the pier to splash up freezing to create walls of ice along the railings. The winds even had the icicles angling points toward the south.

A seagull soars against the winds keeping above the waves as water splashes and washes over the pier on the north side of the Pine River Channel on Sunday, Jan. 10.

Strong winds on Sunday whip snow and sand over the wall at Michigan Beach.

Family witnesses act of terror during recent trip to Israel

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

What was to have been an inspirational trip to Israel in order to pay homage to his Jewish heritage, turned out to be a close brush with terrorist danger for Jacob (Jake) Rosenthal. Rosenthal, 24-year-old son of Walter and Michelle of Charlevoix, was homeschooled in Charlevoix and attended Compass College of the Cinematic Arts in Grand Rapids. He now works in the film industry at Flex Creative, a film production company in Los Angeles, Calif.

Jake Rosenthal joined his parents, one of his brothers and other family members and friends, 15 in all, on a two week vacation to Israel to visit the Holy Land. They were staying in Jerusalem. On Dec. 23, the family arranged to meet at Jaffa Gate of the Old Wall of Jerusalem for the City of David Tour.

He and Jason Winkeiman, a family friend from Wisconsin, were dropped off across the street from the Gate. They proceeded to walk up some steps leading to a pedestrian crossing when they heard shouting. There across the street, near the Gate, they saw what most of us only experience on television news broadcasts. An Orthodox Jew, dressed in black and white, with a full beard, being accosted by a pair of men.

"They were jerking him around and shouting," said Jake Rosenthal. "We went up the steps for a better view and were horrified to see that they had knives and were stabbing him. Another Orthodox Jew got involved and tried to help the first who managed to get away. The second however was not so fortunate and was mercilessly stabbed by the perpetrators."

Council action brings airport into ordinance compliance

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Municipal Airport is now compliant with its ordinance after city council approved a schedule of insurance policy on Jan. 18. The city was made aware of the four-year error during the debate about skydiving last summer, said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

"The ordinance requires a schedule of insurance be adopted," Heydlauff said. "That should have happened when the ordinance was adopted in 2012, but it never did."

Council approved the policy 4-0 after some amendments of the policy was made to better reflect airport operations in Charlevoix. Councilmember Kurtz recused himself from the vote and councilmember Shane Cole was absent. Last fall, city council directed staff to retain Cliff Maine, an aviation attorney, to draft a waiver to protect the city during skydiving operations on the airport. Maine also assisted city attorney Scott Howard and Heydlauff with the new schedule of insurance policy for all airport operators that would align with Federal Aviation Administration guidelines.

"He basically told us to look at the case between Sky Dive Sacramento and the city of Lincoln when coming up with the requirements for skydiving in Charlevoix," Heydlauff said. "This is the strictest standard for skydiving insurance we can have without violating FAA grant insurance."

Councilmember Shirley Gibson faced major criticism over her request to see the schedule of insurance policy last summer. Each time she requested the ordinance requirements the interim city manager was unable to provide the information because it did not exist.

"We never had a schedule of

City council approves infrastructure projects

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The city of Charlevoix is set to undergo a major infrastructure improvement project that will include some sidewalks, following approval of the City Council on Monday.

Council approved the plan 4-0 with a modification to St. Mary's Drive. Councilmember Shirley Gibson recused herself from the vote and discussion and councilmember Shane Cole was absent.

"We were able to find the right plan for sidewalks in the areas residents had concerns," said council-member Luther Kurtz.

Council members had questions about sidewalk installation after reading emails and hearing comments from residents after the public informational meeting on Dec. 17. Kurtz asked if it was possible for the city to meet the request from the residents living on the streets where sidewalk construction was planned.

Much of the concerns from those who were having sidewalks installed were addressed since the public meeting, said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

"We have generally resolved the

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier

Editors Note: The year is 1908 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers.

On the front page of the Jan. 22, 1908 edition of the Charlevoix Courier a man who was found on the ice of Pine Lake — known as Lake Charlevoix today.

"NARROW ESCAPE FROM DROWNING; Will Heath found exhausted on ice of Pine Lake."

The Courier reported "R. A. Emery and Morris Ackert skated to Boyne City last week Tuesday and when returning that evening about 5 1/2 miles from Charlevoix, opposite Peninsula point, they heard a cry for help, which was repeated." According to the article the two skated about a mile toward the direction of the cry for help and found a Will Heath, of Charlevoix lying on the ice. Heath had skated into a crack of open water about 10 feet wide. The Courier also reported, "After a vast amount of effort (Heath) had succeeded in drawing himself out on the ice by the aid of a bunch of keys, which he succeeded in driving into the ice and pulled himself out a few inches at a time completely exhausting himself in the effort." Ackert and Emery carried Heath about a mile-and-a-half to the home of W.C. Grandy on Boyne City Road where he was warmed, spent the night and skated home the next day.

Fruge will stand trial in stabbing death case

STEVE ZUCKER

(231) 439-9346 - szucker@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — A Charlevoix County man who is accused of stabbing his friend to death outside his home near Horton Bay in October has been bound over to face trial on an open murder charge following a preliminary examination in 90th District Court Thursday.

Fruge

At the hearing in the case against Matthew Mark Fruge, 34, the prosecution presented the testimony of Cpl. William Church of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the 9-1-1 call of Courtney Fruge to central dispatch on Oct. 1 and the autopsy report, Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Allen Teigenhof said in a news release.

Teigenhof said Church testified that he was one of the first officers on the scene and that Fruge ran at the officers before being subdued by a Taser. Church also observed the victim, Jacob Conklin, and was present when an ambulance crew member confirmed he was deceased.

Church testified that Fruge's wife Courtney told him as well as the 9-1-1 dispatcher that Fruge had stabbed Conklin. The autopsy report found that Conklin was stabbed 10 times, including seven in the left shoulder and upper chest.

Dr. David Start, the forensic pathologist from Spectrum Hospital in Grand Rapids, testified that those stab wounds were the cause of death and that the manner of death was homicide.

Based upon this evidence, Judge James N. Erhart found probable cause to believe that a homicide was committed and probable cause to believe it was committed by Fruge.

A scheduling conference will take place in the 33rd Circuit Court at a date to be determined.

The defense in the case has indicated its intent to assert an insanity defense in the case.

Following an evaluation by the Michigan Center for Forensic Psychiatry, Fruge has previously been found mentally competent to stand trial in the case. He has already been evaluated by the same center for its opinion on his mental factors affecting his insanity defense claim, however Teigenhof noted that the defense is planning to seek its own independent evaluation prior to trial.

Maxine Bergmann retires her position at Charlevoix Food Pantry

ANNE KELLY

Special to the News-Review

CHARLEVOIX — The mission of Charlevoix's Food pantry is based in scripture: "For I was hungry and you gave me food..." (Matthew 25:35). Community volunteers who began and maintain the pantry to this day, tend to shy away from recognition for their contributions; they do what they do out of a spirit of generosity and compassion.

Maxine Bergmann is one of those selfless volunteers. At 87, she recently retired after 30 years of active participation, while retaining a seat on the Board of Directors. Bergmann has dedicated her time and talents to the Pantry since 1986, when she retired from a position as a library clerk at the Charlevoix Public High School library. It was her friends the late Mary Helen Riggle and the late Lucy Martin who recruited her into her new role as volunteer at the food pantry. From them, she learned how best to help out in a humanitarian endeavor that has grown into a well-executed organization servicing the most vulnerable members of the community. The food pantry "provides assistance to the residents of the Charlevoix School District who are in need of emergency food staples due to unexpected expenses, illness or loss of income." In the beginning the pantry served 312 individuals. Today that number has risen to between 500 and 600.

Bergmann managed the pantry, with the late Mary Helen Riggle keeping the books, for more than 25 years in the Congregational Church basement. They spent innumerable hours ordering food, stocking shelves, keeping records, doing bookwork and improving the operation. Pantry volunteers, Sue Dixon and Linda Boss, took over the management of the pantry just before it was relocated. They assumed responsibility for the ordering of food from Manna, a reduced price/no charge food distribution center in Harbor Springs, the bookkeeping and the organization of volunteers for the pantry. Today, the food pantry, in a new location at 100 West Hurlbut St., operates with about 50 volunteers and a five member board of directors. Linda Boss is the current food pantry director. Dixon, while no longer on the board, remains as an active volunteer, currently involved in initiating a "Baby Diaper Pantry" at the Congregational Church. Her husband, John, is one of the volunteers and does Manna "runs."

"I've known Maxine for over 40 years and have worked with her on various church committees as well as the food pantry.

Maxine is always the first to volunteer to help, the first to arrive on the job and the last to leave," Dixon said. "She has been the greeter at the Food Pantry since the beginning and has seen generations of families come and go. Every day since Maxine retired, the food pantry clients ask about her. They miss her and so do we."

Linda Boss, current pantry director shared similar sentiments. "I truly admire her (Bergmann's) longevity of service to the community and can only hope to aspire to doing the job she has done."

Bergmann is a life-long Charlevoix resident. She was born Faye Maxine Lewis in 1928 to Oral and Lois Lewis (Olney) who was widowed when Maxine was 11-years-old. Maxine worked hard during the summers all through high school, at the hardware store, the telephone company and at Ochs' Pharmacy (Central Drugs) downtown. She married Eugene Bergmann in 1949. "Gene" had just gotten out of the service and Maxine had completed one year at Michigan State University where she began coursework toward a degree in the area of dietetics. The Bergmanns had four children: James (Eaton), Tom, Jeff, and Carol (Murdick). She worked at the Elementary School and subsequently the High School libraries after her children were of school age, retiring in 1986 at which time she began her volunteerism at the Food Pantry. Eugene, "Gene" passed in 1993. He worked for Harbor Industries, the former Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corporation for 30 years.

"I have such fond memories of working at the food pantry and the friends that I shared time with there," Bergmann said. "I told them I would stay on the board, so I'm still with the pantry in that capacity." She remains an active member and volunteer for her church, the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix. At home surrounded by pictures of her family, she is grateful for the blessings of her many friends and family, especially her five grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Winter festival offers much to do

As I sit and watch the snow fall daily, I am reminded that we still have another 10 weeks before our beloved spring arrives. That may seem like a long time, but it should be here before you know it. As the end of January approaches, Boyne City has many events coming up in February to look forward to but the Winter Festival is the most important.

Alexis Weaver
Adventures with Alexis

Our annual Winter Festival arrives the weekend of Feb. 12-13 and for many, this is a time to get down to that shop you always wanted to go check out. Many of the local stores in Boyne City will be open and have treats for you to try out along with various events in the downtown area. This year will repeat previous years with fun things for you and the family to enjoy.

One of my favorite events of Winter Festival is snow sculpture carvings at Sunset Park. Many local artists participate in creating a sculpture related to winter. My art class from last year participated in the sculpturing and I enjoyed trying to create a snowman sculpture. The snow was patted down hard so it took us nearly an hour to get the snowman looking right. We didn't win the contest, but we enjoyed making memories with classmates. This year, winners of the snow sculptures will be announced at 5 p.m. Feb. 13, at Sunset Park.

Winter Festival also includes other events like sledding and ice skating at Sunset Park and Avalanche Mountain. Another favorite of the festival is from 9 a.m.-1 p.m. on Saturday is the local farmers market. The market is a great place to get local products, such as meats, crafts, flowers and of course the Winter Festival market chills.

Another event at the Winter Festival are the Kid's Games that take place on from 1-3 p.m. on Feb. 13. This event is great for the kids that want to have some fun while mom or dad shop. Kid's games include a variety of activities like the Frozen Fish Toss and Frozen Turkey Bowling. There also will be hot chocolate and more. Also around that time, free horse drawn sleigh rides and free snowshoeing will be available. There also is a chili cook off, which gives people a chance to prove who is the best chili maker around.

There also is wine tasting at the Wine Emporium. The tasting will include for a complimentary taste of three seasonal offerings, conversation and snacks. For those old enough to enjoy wine you should never turn down the opportunity to have free snacks or wine. In the evening I look forward to the star gazing with Brian Shumaker in Sunset Park, permitting that Mother Nature is our friend and actually clears the sky for us to catch some stars. I've always enjoyed star gazing so maybe you will too.

If you are looking for something to do on a lazy Saturday, on Feb. 13, head down to Boyne City and enjoy our Annual Winterfest.

IRS provides Social Security information for filing income tax

It's that time of year again — time to start preparing to file your taxes. Those who receive Social Security benefits, will need the Social Security Benefit Statement (Form SSA-1099) document when filing a federal income tax return.

About one-third of the people receiving Social Security benefits must pay taxes on some of these benefits, depending on the amount of their taxable income. This usually happens only if they have other substantial income such as wages, self-employment, interest, dividends, and other taxable income that must be reported on the tax return. In addition to their Social Security benefits, they will never have to pay taxes on more than 85 percent of their Social Security benefits, based on in-

LETTERS to the editor

Oil spill more devastating than employment loss

Editor:

Recently in Mackinaw City, township officials from Beaupre, Mackinaw and Wawatam met with representatives of Enbridge. At least one of the townships had a quorum present. Officials were invited to be informed about Pipeline 5. Some citizens heard about the meeting and attended. We were allowed to stay and invited to share shrimp, oyster Rockefeller and other delicious looking snacks, but declined.

After an exhaustive history of Enbridge from their PR representative, the floor was open to questions. After a long pause, a couple township officials asked questions. They were not answered with direct facts but with exhaustive monologues (I almost forgot the original question). Then we citizens asked questions. My main question was "In the event of a rupture and your ability to immediately shut down the line, how much oil will spill," the response was 4,900 barrels, which equates to 205,800 gallons. We can't afford any spill in the straits region.

Enbridge was proud to point out that they have 250 Michigan employees. How many employees, residents and tourists will be affected when hundreds of thousands of gallons of oil get spilled? More than 250, I'm pretty sure. I could go on and on with things that were said, but my main point is that township officials were invited to a meeting to discuss a topic that is currently on their agendas. There was no public notice. I make no claim to being an expert on such matters, but as a citizen looking for facts, transparency and the best for all of us, as well as the environment, this did not seem right. As a property owner in Beaupre and Mackinaw townships, I am entitled to see that elected officials are acting in the best interest of us all.

Community CPR support saves lives

Editor:

I would like to take the opportunity to thank several groups for their support of the recent Community CPR event, held on Sunday, Jan. 10.

Thank you McLaren Northern Michigan hospital and Susan Reed, senior director for planning and marketing, for assistance in publicizing the event in print and electronic media.

McLaren also generously arranged to have three staff members from their cardiovascular team on hand to answer heart health questions and provide valuable informational materials to the attendees.

Thanks to Sarah Ford, marketing manager, and Boyne Highlands

Resort for providing a great location to hold the training session and assisting with the cost of American Heart Association training booklets. Thanks to the Boyne Highlands National Ski Patrol for providing the CPR staff and training mannequins used during the event.

Lastly, and most importantly, thank you community members who took time on a Sunday to come out and learn the skills to potentially save someone's life. You are the people who should be acknowledged for stepping up and being willing to help in an emergency.

Bridge reconstruction during the 1990s

CHARLEVOIX
Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

The announcement that the channel bridge will undergo major work later this year, causing repeated nighttime closings, brings to mind for many residents that the town endured two solid winters of disruptive bridge work just over twenty years ago. During the bitterly cold winters of 1991-92 and 1992-93, everything but the four major support girders of the bridge was removed and replaced. Traffic shrank to one lane as first, two-thirds of the bridge was worked on the first season, as seen in the photo, then the remaining third was done and the work completed over the second winter.

The workmen often had to stand on platforms suspended below the roadbed, and many times had to quit because the powerful winds coming up the channel became a major health hazard. The wind chill factor registered way below zero, and the platforms swayed and shuddered so much the men couldn't even begin to work. Like highway construction, traffic on one side had to wait for the passage of cars from the other direction before too they could inch across the bridge. During the time this restoration work was happening, Charlevoixians began to wonder if it would ever end.

Zonta Club seeks scholarship applicants

CHARLEVOIX—Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is accepting applications for its annual $1,000 Young Women in Public Affairs award. In addition, we are accepting applications for our $500 Zonta Memorial Scholarship and our newest scholarship, the Rita Gay Memorial Scholarship, which is a $1,000 literary scholarship. These awards will each be given to outstanding young women living in Charlevoix County and currently enrolled in a secondary school.

Applications are available at the counselor's office at all Charlevoix County High Schools or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at (231) 547-9568.

The deadlines for receiving applications are as follows:

- Zonta Memorial Scholarship; Feb. 19
- Rita Gay Memorial Scholarship; Feb. 26
- Young Women in Public Affairs award; March 4

The applications should be sent to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club, c/o Maura A. Snabes, 802 Bridge St., Charlevoix, MI 49720. The winners will be announced at the Zonta meetings in March and April.

The recipient of the local Young Women in Public Affairs award also will have her application forwarded to the district level, which awards an additional monetary scholarship to the district winner.

The Zonta scholarships are designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies that affect the lives of women locally and throughout the world. The Zonta scholarship program looks to the young women of today who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

Zonta International is a global service organization of executives and professionals working together to advance the status of women worldwide through service and advocacy.

Dave Ramsey classes scheduled at library

The Charlevoix Public Library will be the site for a new religion based financial planning class, sponsored by the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix. The Dave Ramsey Financial Peace University will meet from 6-7:30 p.m. on Tuesdays from Jan. 12 - March 22.

Al Gooch will lead the biblical approach to money handling. Through video teaching, class discussions and interactive small group activities, Financial Peace University presents biblical, practical steps to get from where you are to where you've dreamed you could be. This plan is intended to show participants how to get rid of debt, manage their money, spend and save wisely, and more.

The Introductory session on Jan. 12, will explain the Financial Peace University plan. There will be a one week lull between sessions before they resume on Jan. 26 for nine weekly meetings.

The cost is $93 for a life time membership and class supplies. Scholarships are available. To sign up, visit daveramsey.com.

Michigan Beach by Trish Morgan holds warm memories for locals.

Winter yields an invincible summer

CHARLEVOIX—“In the midst of winter, I found there was, within me, an invincible summer.” This line by Nobel Prize winning philosopher and writer Albert Camus (1913-1960) is the inspiration for the winter exhibition at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts titled “Invincible Summer.” The exhibition committee at Charlevoix Circle of Arts felt there would be no better time than in the dead of winter to bring patrons in from the cold and warm them in a gallery of inspiration filled with light, sunshine and mirth.

Opening from 5-7 p.m. on Saturday Jan. 23, the Charlevoix Circle of Arts will revel in a summertime glow and present the work of 12 regional artists with works in pastel, oil, watercolor, mixed media, printmaking and textiles.

“For me, this is a heart-warming way to start off my tenure at the Circle of Arts, surrounded by the beauty of work by such notable artists as Sue and Russ Bolt, Kathie Briggs, Pat Quarter Denison, Rick Ford, Susan Glass, Margie Guyot, Meredith Krell, Trish Morgan, Edith Pair, Carol Ross and Steve Toornman,” said Gail DeMeyere, Circle executive director.

“The outpouring of support and goodwill that I have experienced since I began at OCA in November surely will bring us to a new level of excellence as we welcome in the New Year and encourage people to get involved in the arts,” added DeMeyere.

The opening is free and open to the public. The Charlevoix Circle of Arts is open six days a week from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Saturday during the winter.

For more information, visit Charlevoix Circle of Arts at 108 Clinton St., Charlevoix or call (231) 547-3554 or email at charlevoixcircle@gmail.com.

MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Schairbaum

Schairbaum - Jensen wedding

The marriage of Kathleen Jensen of Richmond, Virginia, daughter of Dr. Douglas and Mrs. Carol Jensen of Charlottesville, Va., to Mr. Mark Schairbaum of Richmond, Va., son of the Rev. Dr. Phillip and Mrs. Virginia Schairbaum of Charlevoix, Mich. and Greenwood, Ind. took place on Sunday, Jan. 17, 2016, at West End Presbyterian Church in Richmond, Va. The senior pastor, the Rev. Dr. Steven Shelby, officiated.

Mrs. Helene Norris served as the bride's matron of honor. Mr. Aaron Roth was the groom's best man. The wedding reception was held inside the base of the Byrd Park World War I Memorial Carillon.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. Raymond and Mrs. Ida Mae “Jill” Wiersema of Grand Haven, Mich. and Briny Breezes, Fla., and the late Dr. William and Mrs. Ermoine Jensen, formerly of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The groom is the grandson of the late Rev. Frank and Mrs. Virginia Mae Fischer formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio; and the late Rev. Harry and Mrs. Harriet Schairbaum, formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of The Covenant School, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, and Virginia Commonwealth University, where she received her master's degree in nursing. She is currently employed as a nurse practitioner at Medical College of Virginia Emergency Department.

The groom is a graduate of Charlevoix High School, the University of Michigan, and the Florida Institute of Technology, where he received his master's degree in operations research. He is currently employed as an operations research analyst for the United States Army.

Following a honeymoon in Key West, Fla., the bride and groom will reside in the Carillon neighborhood of Richmond, Va.

OBITUARIES

James William Ochs, 93

James William Ochs passed away Friday, Dec. 25, 2015, at Freedom Village, in Holland, Mich. He had reached the age of 93.

He will be laid to rest in Charlevoix's Brookside Cemetery, next to his wife, Marion Griffin Ochs, who predeceased him. A memorial service will be held in the spring of 2016 in Charlevoix.

Jim (Bill) Ochs was born to Mildred (Shockley) and Harley Ochs in Charlevoix on June 1, 1922. The first 20 years were spent growing up in Charlevoix where he was known as Bill. He always remembered the activities, education, woods, beach, water and snow that have always been part of Charlevoix.

While in his second year of college, the U.S. entered World War II. He now became Jim when he was drafted into the Army as a private. After basics, he was sent to Photo School in New York City, then to the Army Special Training Program at Princeton University. He was transferred to the 26th Infantry Division, which was in the first convoy from the U.S. to go directly to France, landing on Utah Beach. The division battled in France, entered the Battle of the Bulge, then went across Germany to the Czech border, then south to the Danube River and Linz, Austria. He was very proud of his service to his country. After the war, he completed his degree in accounting at Michigan State.

He married Marion Griffin in 1950 and enjoyed his marriage until her death in 2004. He was employed by Ford Motor Company for 27 years, retiring in 1980. They had several years of travel in the U.S. and abroad, including several cruises. They had retirement homes in Charlevoix and Singer Island, Fla., until 1998, when they moved to the Freedom Village retirement community in Holland.

Jim was preceded in death by his parents; wife; and brother, Frank Ochs, as well as brothers-in-law, Dick and Jack Griffin; and sisters-in-law, Grace Dickinson and Helen Byce.

He is survived by brothers-in-law, Jim Byce and Joe (Mary Margaret) Dickinson; sisters-in-law, JoAnn and Edie Griffin; and many nieces and nephews on Marion's side of the family; and nephew, John (Lani) Ochs, and their children, Tom (Carol) and Michael Ochs, and grandchildren, Hannah and Grace; and niece, Virginia Ochs (Michael) Walton, and their son, Michael (Heather) Walton, and grandson, Nathan.

Memorials can be sent to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, 14700 Lakeshore Drive, Charlevoix, MI 49720; or the Wounded Warrior Project.

BASES to host recovery event

CHARLEVOIX — Bay Area Substance Education Services will be coordinating an event in recognition of recovery from substance use disorders on Jan. 23, to help promote recovery. The event titled "1/23 Recovery Day" hopes to generate awareness about society's reaction to addiction.

The stigma surrounding addiction is estimated to cause 60 percent of those with substance use disorders to avoid seeking help. The event will begin with a free movie at the Charlevoix Cinemas III from 11 a.m.-12:30 p.m. After the show, Oleson's will provide a box lunch from 12:45-1:45 p.m. at the Charlevoix Alano Club, 106 Mason St. Following lunch, there will be presentations at the Charlevoix Public Library's community rooms A and B.

The event will provide education, socialization and help promote action for those suffering from substance abuse. All family and friends of recovery are welcome to attend. For lunch tickets, call BASES at (231) 547-1144.

Byard Glen Stevens, 89

Byard Glen Stevens, 89, passed away Thursday, Jan. 14, 2016, with his children at his side.

That day he was reunited with his bride, Lorraine Stevens, who passed away in 2006, for their 60th wedding anniversary! Byard was born in June 1926 to Charles and Geneva Stevens in Charlevoix, Mich.

Along with his parents and wife, Byard was preceded in death by a sister, Josephine Woods; and brothers, Clair and Donald Stevens.

He will be lovingly remembered by his children, Byard (Susan) Stevens and Dion (Douglas) Wierenga, along with his grandchildren, Elie Stevens, Claire Stevens, Cole Stevens, Steven Wierenga, Audrey Wierenga and Brooke (Phil) Visser. He will also be greatly missed by his sisters, Phyllis Allison and Joan Graves (Frank Allen); brothers, Bill (Heien) Stevens and Bruce (Gloria) Stevens; and very special friend, Barb Biller.

Byard was a man with many passions and hobbies, with some of his favorites including time with his family camping, square dancing and frying chicken. He was very proud of his active involvement in the Associated Builders and Contractors of West Michigan, as well as being past president of the Original Michigan Fiddlers Association and continued involvement as a square dance caller. Byard's family would also like to extend a special thanks to the staff at The Lodge at Maple Creek.

A memorial service to honor Byard's life is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday, Jan. 23, at Ada Bible Church, 3869 Knapp St. NE, Grand Rapids, with an hour of visitation from 10-11 a.m. at the church.

In lieu of flowers, please consider making a memorial contribution in Byard's memory to the Original Michigan Fiddlers Association, c/o Sandy Jones, 16810 16 Mile Road, Big Rapids, MI 49307.

Boyne High School Pride Team hosts Strive for a Safer Drive

BOYNE CITY — The Boyne City High School Pride Team was recently awarded a grant from the Michigan State Police to fund a distracted driving initiative at Boyne City High School for the 2015-16 school year. The grant program is called Strive for a Safer Drive. The theme for this initiative at Boyne City High School is "Distracted Can't Drive" and the Boyne City High School Pride Team has planned activities for January, February, and March.

The program's goal is to increase Boyne City High School student, staff and Boyne City community awareness of the dangers and consequences of distracted driving. Pride is defining distracted driving to include: driving while texting, using a cell phone, talking, reading a map, using a navigation system, watching a video, adjusting a music device, eating and personal grooming.

Planned events include a Public Service Announcement and Poster Contest for Boyne City High School students, an opening assembly hosted by the Boyne City Police Department, and a visual activity illustrating the statistic that about every 15 minutes someone in this country dies from a distracted driving accident according to the Santa Rosa, Calif. Police Department's "Every 15 Minutes" program.

Other events include pledge days during which students and community members will have the opportunity to sign a pledge promising to drive without distractions and a day during which students can use a driving simulator provided by the Michigan State Police Gaylord Post. Students also will access the Ford Driving Skills for Life website to participate online with various safe driving activities.

The Pride Team is a group of Boyne City High School students with varied interests and experiences who meet monthly to help plan activities to recognize students for their academic hard work. The team also looks for ways to keep the climate at Boyne City High School positive and encouraging. Team members value a positive learning environment and are willing to advocate for all students who want to be a part of the Pride movement at Boyne City High School.

BY ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Terry Left's epicurean journey has taken him far from his Beaver Island and Charlevoix roots and back again. Left, who was born on Beaver Island, came over to the mainland when he was 2-years-old, was raised and attended elementary and high school in Charlevoix.

"I knew from an early age that I wanted to be a chef," Left said. "When Dave Phillips bought Grey Gables, I was 13 and began working for him in the kitchen. I started as a dishwasher and by 15, I was a cook. Dave and his wife Gale were so encouraging and supportive. Dave had attended the CIA (Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, New York) and I knew that's what I wanted to do."

"When Bob Foster, another CIA chef who taught at the Institute upon completing his course of studies, came to the Weather-vane, Left, then 16, worked for him.

"It was 1972," Left said, "and they had just put in a new kitchen. I cooked under Bob and felt very lucky to have worked my first jobs under two chefs who had attended the Institute. I first put in my application to the CIA when I was a sophomore in high school. William Ratigan was the counselor that year and he helped me prepare it."

After the Weather-vane, Left honed his skills by cooking at two downtown restaurants, Leutheuser's and subsequently the Park-side, following his mentor Bob Foster who had gone to the Parkside as chef. At 18, Left's parents drove him to Hyde Park, New York, and dropped him off at the door with well wishes.

"I still remember it being an overwhelming feeling," Left said. "The place looked like a monastery and there I was, a Beaver Island kid with aspirations of becoming a full-fledged chef."

The course of study included, business, French cooking, and wine and after two years, Left successfully completed the CIA requirements necessary to earn an associate's degree. During the summer between his two year CIA experience, Left came back to Charlevoix to work at a new restaurant, Duffy's (Now Roadhouse 757), as their executive chef. Left and his future wife (Patti Warner) worked together at Duffy's that summer. Left returned to New York to earn his associate's degree from the CIA in 1977 at the age of 20. He had the world by the tail, but with a lot of foresight, he realized that if he didn't go on for his Bachelor of Arts degree then, he never would. Left chose to complete his studies at Florida International University, which he accomplished in two years. While attending school in Florida and after getting his degree (1977-1988) he worked at Café Chauveron, a five-star restaurant in Miami.

"I started as a vegetable cook and worked my way up the ladder," he said. "Six years later I became their executive chef. There were only eleven five-star restaurants in the country at that time and Café Chauveron was one of them. The patrons were big names like Jackie Gleason and the Bee Gees."

Café Chauveron was only open for seven months in the winter, which worked out perfectly for Left. Now he could begin his dream of opening a restaurant back home in Charlevoix in the summers. Left did just that. He made money in Miami in the winter and turned around and invested it in his Charlevoix restaurants and worked here each summer. Left was married to Patti while in Florida and the couple had their first child, a daughter Jamie, in Miami. The couple decided to move home when their daughter became of kindergarten age. At that time they began to invest their time and talents into raising their family and growing their business, a year-round restaurant. David, the couple's second child, was raised in Charlevoix.

It has been 35 years since Left opened his first Fish and Chips restaurant in its present location adjacent to what is now The Villager Pub (1981). Two years later he launched his signature restaurant, Terry's Place on Antrim Street, and in 1987, Left's eateries expanded down the Bridge Street block with the opening of The Villager Pub on the corner of Bridge and Antrim Streets. Each restaurant has its own personality: Terry's Place, a side door fine dining establishment, The Villager Pub/Fish and Chips (now combined), with a more casual atmosphere offering bar fare. Both restaurants are famous for their signature fish, fresh daily from John Cross Fisheries.

"I was, and still am a workaholic," he said. "I wouldn't want my kids to go into the restaurant business, although they, and all their friends, worked here while growing up. It's just too hard. The highs are so high, but the lows are so low."

He may have his wish. Jamie is married and a hair stylist in Grand Rapids; his son, David, is an engineer at Ford in Detroit. But Left? He is still passionate about what he does.

"Business is terrific," he said. "We've just finished the best year we've ever had."

He doesn't have plans to retire any time soon.

Left mainly manages the business now and employs a base staff of about 40. In the summer that number is doubled in relation to the surge of seasonal visitors. Left can be seen overseeing the operation and even bussing tables to keep the flow moving during peak times. His wife Patti has always been there to lend a hand and two employees with the most longevity are Gerry Russell chef at the Pub, and Lori Silva, who is Left's bookkeeper. Both have been with him for 35 years. Most of the others have been there between 10-20 years, which says something about loyalty. Terry's Place chef is Paul Bradley, a CIA graduate in his own right. Left gives him the night off every Monday, however, and puts on his own chef's hat for the night, right at home as always in his kitchen.

"It's a great place to work," Silva said. "We're like family and all work hard together and have fun at the same time. Terry has been a great boss. Patti (Left's wife) has been here since the very beginning too. She even busses tables on weekends when things get busy."

Long time patrons have observed Patti's willingness to pitch in which sometimes has included shoveling snow off the sidewalk. She has been a partner, essential cheerleader and part of the team for the 39 years the Lefts have been together.

Whether it is fish and chips with a beer, or White fish Almandine with a fine wine, Left and his staff consistently deliver a memorable meal in a friendly, efficient manner. What is the secret to Left's success? One would have to conclude motivation and hard work. Left would say that consistency in his menu offerings, are key as well.

"People want fish when they come here," Left said. "They want their whitefish, perch or walleye to be the same as they remember enjoying the last time they were here, and sometimes the last time was last summer."

New report indicates wind, solar cheaper than natural gas

LANSGING — Michigan business leaders hailed a new Lazard report showing that wind and solar energy are now cheaper than natural gas. The Michigan Legislature can rein in rising electricity costs by ensuring utility companies lock in low rates for wind and solar, by increasing the state's renewable energy standard.

"As legislators update Michigan's energy policy, they must know that increasing our renewable energy standard will allow businesses to take advantage of drastic declines in the cost of wind and solar," said Andy LaBarre, executive vice president for the A2Y Regional Chamber. "Advances in technology and private-sector competition have changed the market dramatically and Michigan must seize this opportunity to incorporate low-cost renewable energy as we plan our energy future."

Since 2009, the costs of utility-scale solar have declined 80 percent, and utility-scale wind by 60 percent, according to the report. Businesses across the state and global corporations have called for the protection and expansion of Michigan's renewable energy standard, including Google, Whirlpool, Staples, the Michigan Agri-Business Association and more.

"Renewable energy is one issue that the technology workforce cares deeply about when evaluating the communities in which they want to invest, live and work," said Joe Malcoun, CEO of Nutshell, Inc. an Ann Arbor-based technology company and provider of web-based customer relationship management software. "For us to be nationally competitive for the best talent in high-growth tech, Michigan must demonstrate its commitment to a clean, forward-looking energy future."

In March 2015, Gov. Rick Snyder announced his goal of meeting 40 percent of Michigan's energy needs through renewable energy and energy efficiency by 2025.

"By requiring utilities to lock in long-term contracts for affordable renewable energy, legislators can protect ratepayers from the price shocks associated with natural gas and other fossil fuels," said Brianna Murphy, vice president, Shareholder Advocacy at Trillium Asset Management. "Increasing Michigan's renewable energy standard is a pro-business, pro-ratepayer policy that sends a message to businesses looking to expand and invest in Michigan: We're committed to keeping electricity costs down."

Uninsured penalties increase after Jan. 31

LANSGING — While January 2016 marks the start of a new year, it also marks the end of the third open enrollment season. The health insurance marketplace will be closing Jan. 31, which means that people who are still uninsured have a little time to enroll in health coverage before the final deadline.

Although millions of people have signed up for health insurance. In December alone, approximately 6 million people selected a health plan through Healthcare.gov, according to CNBC.com. However, there are still millions who remain uninsured. This includes people whose incomes aren't low enough to be eligible for lower healthcare costs.

After the Jan. 31 deadline, those who are not enrolled in health coverage will be required to pay the highest of the following two penalties:

- 2.5 percent of yearly household income or
- $695 per individual in the household ($347.50 per child under 18).

People who have not yet enrolled in health coverage due to financial conflicts may be eligible for assistance. For more help and information on how to receive local assistance, visit enrollmichigan.org or call (517) 367-7293.

Enroll Michigan is a statewide network of nonprofit agencies providing free enrollment support services to health insurance consumers. Enroll Michigan also works to encourage greater collaboration and information sharing among consumer groups, hospital networks, insurers and state and local government. Enroll Michigan's statewide network of navigators is available to assist interested parties or their small business, at no cost, in understanding enrollment options. As the name suggests, navigators assist consumers in navigating the health insurance marketplace, where consumers are able to access the tax credits and cost-sharing reductions that make purchasing private health insurance more affordable. Health department welcomes new chief financial officer

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan welcomes Mary R. Briscoe, CPA, as its new Chief Financial Officer and Director of Administrative Services. Briscoe comes to the Health Department from her previous career positions with the Valley Area Agency on Aging in Flint, where she has served for the past nine years, and prior to that as the Chief Financial Officer of the Michigan Municipal League. She possesses a strong background in accounting, operations and leadership. The Health Department is proud to have her on its team.

Mary takes over the role from Bradley S. Rider, who will now serve as the Health Department's Deputy Health Officer, and who is also serving as Health Officer for District Health Department No. 4.

2016 Winter Folk Concert Series begins Jan. 25

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Public Library 2016 WinterFolk Concert Series line up is set with the first performance to begin on Jan. 25.

Jessica Dominic will be the featured performer at 6:30 p.m. on Monday. Dominic is a Charlevoix native with a passion for music. She fostered that passion by performing around the area starting at a young age, often stepping in to lend her vocals to many area bands. As a teenager Dominic spent as much time as she could performing and playing music, eventually forming the duo Finding Eden with her sister Sarah Sheaffer. She can often be heard performing her unique covers of popular songs as well as original music. When not playing music, Dominic enjoys working closely with the community. She has worked at the Charlevoix Public Library, the Petoskey District Library and is currently employed with the Little Traverse Bay Bands of Odawa Indians as the tribal archivist.

David Bowen takes the stage at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 29. Bowen is a veteran multi-instrumentalist and balladeer whose singing and playing has been seen and heard from coast to coast in the United States, Canada and Ireland. His CD, "Fresh From the Past," offers an eclectic recording of Irish ballads and tunes but with several Scottish and old-time American pieces included. Bowen is a two-time medal winner in the prestigious Fleadh Cheoil All-Ireland World Music Championship competitions.

At 6:30 p.m. on March 28, Dan Hall joins the WinterFolk concert series. Hall has opened or shared the stage with former President Bill Clinton, Tom Paxton, John McCutcheon, Christine Lavin, Josh White Jr., Michael Smith and many others. He has written and produced soundtrack music for a feature film, documentaries, commercial jingles and a theme song for a PBS television series. Hall also has written and recorded hundreds of songs with tens of thousands of elementary students around the country.

The final concert of the series showcases Blair Miller at 6:30 p.m. on April 25. Blair "is an enigmatic blues artist with a Delta Blues and roots interpretations..." Blair plays at venues in Northern Michigan. His CD "Blair Miller At the Depot" has been getting radio air time and he has made multiple radio and TV appearances. Miller also co-presented slide guitar workshops and concerts on The History of the Blues. He plays the steel resonator guitar/slide, a parlor guitar and a cigar box guitar.

The concerts celebrate local folk artists with an evening of music. The featured performer kicks off the evening with a 45-minute concert, which is followed by an open-mic session; an opportunity for the public to share talents. All concerts are free and are sponsored by the library and from donations from concert patrons. Open mic sign-ups begin at 6 p.m. the night of the concert, and is limited to five performers. The library is located at 220 W. Clinton St., Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-2651.

Cuba chronicled on the brink of change by local artists

EAST JORDAN — On Saturday, Jan. 23, the Jordan River Arts Council will present the opening of a new photography exhibit — Havana 2015. Three photographers and a fiction writer from Northern Michigan recently traveled to Cuba — a country poised for change. They photographed strangers, met in chance encounters, on the streets of Havana and in the lush Cuban countryside.

Traditional Cuban culture is palpable in engaging, sensual images, which reflect the ingenuity of a joyful people whose lives may be about to change as restrictions from the United States are eased almost on an almost weekly basis.

Join the council to view photos by Kathy Silbernagel, Kathie Carpenter, Emmy Holman and Babs Young and hear their stories and share the excitement of their journey. The opening reception with refreshments will take place from noon-6 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 23. And from noon-5 p.m. on Sunday, Jan. 24. On Sunday there will be an event featuring a brief talk by the artists at 2:30 p.m. The exhibit will continue until Feb. 4. The gallery will be open again from 1-4 p.m. on Jan. 30 and 31, and at other times by appointment.

The arts center is located at 301 Main St., East Jordan. For more information, call Young at (231) 645-2220; email babyoung41@gmail.com or visit jordanriverarts.com.

concerns we heard from the residents we heard from," Heydlauff said.

Charlevoix Department of Public Works superintendent Pat Elliott informed council that sidewalk placement is decided on a number of factors including pedestrian traffic, tree placement, vehicle traffic, current accepted engineering practices and more.

"There is quite a bit that goes into the decision on sidewalks," Elliott said.

Residents on Wood Street had concerns that sidewalks would be too close to the house and councilmember Leon Perron questioned the reason for sidewalks to be constructed on Wood Street.

"The idea is to get people off the roadway and on a safer walkway especially in that area of high traffic in the summer," Elliott said.

Project engineer, Jim Malewitz, of Performance Engineering in Charlevoix also expressed safety as a reason for the construction of sidewalks. Vehicle traffic coming off Bridge Street, especially near the school and by the Dairy Grille on Wood Street was also taken into consideration, Malewitz said.

"With the Dairy Grille most of the people at our meeting said people are walking down the middle of the street," Malewitz said. "Many of the people we spoke with are happy there will be sidewalks, but no body wanted in front of their place."

The decision to keep the sidewalk on the north side of Wood Street seemed reasonable, Malewitz said.

"The changes made to the south side was mainly because of trees, but the sidewalk location we finally decided on offers a fairly good sized buffer between the sidewalk and the home," Malewitz said.

Hearing the explanation and reasoning behind sidewalks helped Perron understand staff recommendation on the issue.

"I was influenced by the safety concerns," Perron said. "The safety argument won me over especially with the high traffic around the Dairy Grille. It is a busy area in the summer."

The infrastructure project is scheduled to begin in the spring of 2016. Project costs are estimated to be approximately $3.32 million, which includes the engineering and administration costs of $442,613.

The streets scheduled for water, sewer, curb and gutter upgrades include:

- St. Mary's Drive
- Wood Street
- Green Street
- 200 block of East Up-right Street
- Alice Street from Belvedere to Garfield avenues
- Burns Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues
- Nichols Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues
- State Street, which will only be a water main upgrade from Garfield to Lincoln avenues.

Sidewalks also were planned for each side of St. Mary's Drive, but after discussion council chose to eliminate the sidewalk on the south side of the street.

"It's important to defer to our staff and engineers to get the proper information about the reasoning behind recommendations," Kurtz said. "We don't know what factors pertain to safety or what the best engineering practices recommend."

The men had the Jewish man on the ground and were showing no signs of letting up.

"We jumped a fence and began running toward them," Rosenthal said. "When we were 15-20 feet away, we heard gunshots but couldn't see where they were coming from. An Israeli man on a cell phone apparently calling for help, ran between the attack and the boys, and was hit by one of the bullets fired by Border Guard police officers. The two thugs were shot at least eight times each but the pair seemed to have supernatural strength. It took them a long time to succumb."

Jake's friend, Jason, was a young man who had lifeguarding skills. The two rushed in to see if they could help the stricken Israeli man on the ground with CPR, while the soldiers were attempting to revive the Jewish man who had been stabbed. The ambulance arrived in record time, but both men died of their wounds.

"It all happened so fast," Rosenthal said, "that we didn't have time to think about the danger of the situation. It's a good thing we didn't get involved sooner or the police might not have been able to shoot the attackers."

Later, the boys learned that the two men that did the stabbing were terrorists who had probably been riding high on drug-induced adrenaline that makes terrorists oblivious to anything but the task at hand, the hateful murder of the victim. They really don't care if they die themselves, Rosenthal said.

A news release in the Jewish Press.com, published Dec. 23, reported the incident shortly after it took place. In one of the photos taken at the scene, at the Jaffa Gate entrance to the Old City of Jerusalem, Jake Rosenthal is pictured in the foreground, leaning over the Israeli victim who had been calling on his cell phone. The mayor of Jerusalem, Nir Barkat, according to the article, arrived at the scene of the crime shortly thereafter and promised to increase security forces in the city.

"We must return to regular life," he cautioned in the news article.

The rabbi who accompanied Rosenthal and his family's tour group expressed similar sentiments and talked them through the experience they had just witnessed.

"He told us that the terrorists in Jerusalem don't usually attack tourists or normal Israeli citizens. They aim their vengeance on Jewish Israelis and soldiers," Rosenthal said. "If we are too fearful to go about our lives, then they win."

The rabbi took the group on the tour the next day.

His parents, though shaken along with everyone else after what had happened, were proud that the boys jumped in to help a fellow human being.

"It makes you realize how fragile life is," said Walter Rosenthal.

Despite it all, the family never felt unsafe during any other time during the two weeks they were in the country.

"The I.D.F. (Israeli Defense Force) is everywhere and their presence made me feel safe and comfortable. They come right in at a moment's notice when they are alerted of a situation," said Michelle Rosenthal.

The Rosenthal's are devout Jews who hold to God's promise of protection.

"It made me think of the Scripture verse that states that 'Nothing passes through our lives that doesn't first pass through God's hand.' God certainly held Jacob's life in his hands that day," Michelle Rosenthal said.

City manager Mark Heydlauff explains to city council members the background information pertaining to the resolution to adopt a schedule of insurances and a waiver of liability regarding various business operations at the city airport.

Insurances which is required in our airport ordinance," Gibson said. "As a representative of the city it is my job to know what the requirements are when residents ask me questions about it."

The policy requires all operators to have a basic $1 million general commercial aviation insurance liability policy and an indemnification agreement to protect the city.

"This is the right thing to do," Gibson said. "This protects all operators, customers and the city."

Gibson added that the policy applies to each airport licensee equally.

"It brings everyone on the same page," Gibson said. "The city is not singling out any operator about anything. This is a document that has been sorely needed for years and I don't know why previous administrations never addressed it."

The policy also requires before skydiving activity occurs that licensee will require all individuals sign a comprehensive waiver of liability including one provided by the city, all individual skydivers (and at least one person in each tandem pair) to be a member of the United States Parachute Association, covered by United States Parachute Association individual member third-party liability insurance coverage whether those activities take place at the airport, over the airport or elsewhere.

Kurtz recused himself from discussion and the vote because he owns and operates Sky Dive Harbor Springs from the city airport. Kurtz prepared a letter to council members because he believed some requirements needed to be clarified before the policy was adopted.

"The way some of the policy was worded seemed confusing and could lead to conflicts in the future," Kurtz said.

Gibson and council member Aaron Hagen removed many of the concerns Kurtz raised from the policy. Kurtz spoke from a podium to explain

"I feel council made the right changes to make the requirements clear and understandable," Kurtz said.

"Council was able to find a balance with the requirements and still be welcoming to skydiving businesses along with having the strictest standards to protect the city."

Now that the airport is compliant with its ordinance the city can address the financial issues at the airport, Gibson said.

"We all know the airport does not make money for this city," Gibson said. "At best, the airport breaks even. That's a drain on city resources and we need to get out of the airport business."

Program helps encourage healthy eating

The Food Bank Council of Michigan will celebrate the first year of its Michigan Food Bank Access to Nutrition program, which is considered a significant first step in its efforts to make Michigan a food-secure state by increasing access to food in all 83 counties.

The Food Bank Council of Michigan received a $5 million grant from the Michigan Health Endowment Fund in 2014 to support the initiative for two years, through October. The funding established the Michigan Food Bank Access to Nutrition program's goal to improve access, and encourage low-income residents in Michigan to eat healthier. Michigan Food Bank Access to Nutrition program collaborates with local food banks to coordinate the purchase of fresh produce that is then distributed to 129 mobile sites, including direct service to schools, senior centers and other areas.

Since the implementation of the program, Michigan Food Bank Access to Nutrition program also has provided nutrition education to more than 10,600 people each month. In addition, more than 3,400 seniors and more than 4,400 youth have received nutrition education each month. Another aspect of the program is providing cooking demonstrations, taste tests and recipe cards to help people make the connection between nutrition, the preparation of nutritious meals and the benefits of practicing healthy eating habits.

Petoskey area's Manna Food Project which services Charlevoix and Emmet Counties are eligible for assistance provided.

"We have not had the opportunity in this area, but I have made inquiries and would be very interested in participation," said Deb Noblett, executive director of the Manna Food Project in Harbor Springs. "I have witnessed their organization and have seen that it can move an incredible amount of food source quickly."

The mission of the Michigan Health Endowment Fund is to improve the health of Michigan residents and reduce the cost of health care, with special emphasis on the health and wellness of children and seniors. The fund was created as part of 2013 state legislation that allowed Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan to become a nonprofit mutual health insurer. Nearly $38 million in grants were awarded by the Michigan Health Endowment Fund in 2014 with an additional $8.5 million awarded in December to 29 Michigan community health foundations.

Applications for further awards are due out sometime this year. The Michigan Food Bank Access to Nutrition program is hopeful to secure continued funding through the Michigan Health Endowment Fund and is actively seeking revenue from other sources to continue the program.

The Food Bank Council of Michigan's mission is to create a food secure state through advocacy, resource management, and collaboration among stakeholders and Michigan's unified food bank network. The Food Bank Council of Michigan works with its seven regional food banks and more than 3,000 hunger relief agencies, private companies, farmers, state and federal officials and other allies to make sure Michigan residents don't go hungry. Good wins slalom, Rayder teams finish well in first LMC meet Charlevoix's Jenna Good competes in the first LMC meet on Thursday at Nub's Nob.

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

HARBOR SPRINGS — As a freshman, Charlevoix's Jenna Good is exceeding all expectations.

In just her second varsity meet, an LMC meet at Nubs Nob on Thursday, Good captured a title in the slalom (1:05.83), edging out a two-time state champion in Elk Rapids/TCSF's Carlee McCardel to do so.

Good also took sixth in the giant slalom (1:01.05) to lead the Charlevoix girls team to a fourth place finish, while the Rayder boys squad took third.

Matt Good led the Rayder boys with a third place finish in the slalom (1:07.96) and a seventh place finish in the giant slalom (1:00.06), and Ben Peterson added a 10th place finish in the slalom and a 19th place finish in the giant slalom.

Erik Oshaben took 17th and Keon Taylor 19th in the giant slalom as well for Charlevoix, and Walker Fogle finished 13th and Hunter Cox 15th in the slalom.

On the girls side, Abbey Schoiten had a strong day to team with Good as well, finishing third in the giant slalom (1:01.05) and fourth in the slalom (1:07.42).

Sarah Rockafellow finished 22nd in both the slalom and giant slalom for the Rayders, Kyle Schoiten finished 17th in the slalom and Miranda Steiglitz took 24th in the giant slalom.

Overall, while the Harbor Springs boys ski team wasn't the fastest down the slopes on Thursday, it was the most consistent and that was the difference between first place and second.

The Rams trailed Elk Rapids/TCSF St. Francis by 12 points following the giant slalom portion of the meet, and after the first run of the slalom were behind by considerably more to the co-op squad.

But in the second and final run of the day on the slalom, three of ER/TCSF's top four skiers crashed and were unable to finish their run, causing the Elks to drop from first to last in the event and handing the victory to Harbor Springs.

Close loss to Gladiators caps tough week for the Rayder boys basketball team TRAVERSE CITY — The Rayders rallied from 20 points down in the first half to give themselves a chance to tie in the closing seconds, but Austin Putman's 3-pointer just missed the mark in a 61-58 loss to LMC-leading Traverse City St. Francis on Tuesday.

Putman finished with 21 points and 12 rebounds to lead Charlevoix as the Rayders overcame a 25-5 second quarter deficit to come within two points of the Gladiators in the final minute.

"They put it on us right at the start, and Gabe Calery had three straight layups where he drove by our guys to get to the rim that fired them up," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "I thought we responded well at halftime, and I'm proud of the way our kids played down the stretch to make it a game."

Sophomore Colin Smith had a big night for the Rayders, scoring 16 and hitting several big shots during the second half run, and Walker Drost chipped in nine.

"Colin finally got rid of his sophomore status tonight, and came up big for us when we needed it," Erskine said. "I think in the second half he finally realized that he belongs as a varsity ONAWAY — The Rayder wrestling team continued a strong season on Saturday with a decent showing at the Onaway Tournament.

Though Charlevoix didn't put any wrestler atop the podium, it brought home five second-place finishes, led by ranked wrestlers Camden Alden (140 pounds) and Mick Hinkle (189).

Tyler McCallum (135),

Jeremy Chernauckas (112) and Jake Seger (152) all finished runner-up as well for Charlevoix, and Max Hinkle (171) and Jake Petrosky (215) each took third.

TRAVERSE CITY — The Charlevoix girls basketball team continues to search for its first victory of the season after the Rayders fell 67-41 to Traverse City St. Francis Tuesday.

The Gladiators got off to a quick start and took a 20-7 lead into the second quarter. T.C. St. Francis extended its lead to 44-17 by halftime, putting the game out of reach.

Charlevoix battled in the third quarter and even outscored the Gladiators 8-4 in the fourth, but the outcome had already been decided.

Although it was another tough loss for Charlevoix, coach Liz Shaw said she was impressed with her team's performance after halftime.

"The girls did a good job shooting and putting the ball in the basket in the second half," Shaw said. "We just have to continue to make little strides forward."

Charlevoix's Kelsey Engstrom and Olivia Jeakle each finished with eight points. Ellie Louiselle scored six points and added six rebounds, while Hannah Zipp recorded four steals.

Shaw said playing a team like TCSF is a building block for her young team.

"St. Francis is a great team and it's nice to play against great competition," she said. "It gives us a taste of what we need to be. The girls are going to get there."

The Rayders are now 0-8 overall, 0-4 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

Charlevoix's search for its first continues at home against Boyne City Friday, Jan. 22.

Grayling 63, Charlevoix 56
CHARLEVOIX — Some players are just made for the pressure, and Grayling's Brittany Nielson is one of those players.

With the Vikings trailing Charlevoix 54-51 with 16.1 seconds left in regulation, Grayling coach LJ Mead called on his senior guard, and she delivered.

Nielson hit the game-tying 3-pointer with 7.1 seconds left in the fourth quarter sending the game into overtime.

"She knocked that one down and she's absolutely our go to," Mead said. "We're happy for her that she knocked that shot down, she's pretty capable. We were lucky to get that one. We hit it when it mattered."

Riding the momentum of Nielson's clutch shot, the Vikings outscored the Rayders 9-3 in overtime to escape with a 63-56 victory.

Mead said he had no doubt Nielson was going to make the critical shot.

The Rayders are in action again on Monday, traveling to Gaylord for a tough tri-meet that includes a match against the Blue Devils, ranked fourth in the state in Division 2, before heading to Mio on Saturday for a team tournament.

LMC Quad at Boyne City
BOYNE CITY — To be a great wrestling team, it takes talent and experience top to bottom across the lineup.

Grayling showed Charlevoix just that in an LMC quad on Wednesday in Boyne City, taking on Boyne City and the Rayders and dispatching potentially its two biggest challengers for a repeat league crown, 57-15 and 31-22.

"They're just a tough squad, and looking at the way we matched up coming in, we knew it was a long shot," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "We needed some upsets we weren't expecting, and we had a couple guys step up and deliver those, but we also lost some matches we were expecting to win as well."

Wrestling up from his usual weight class of 112 pounds, sophomore Jeremy Chenauckas pinned Grayling's Cole Hibbard in 1:07 at 119 for a big win to start Charlevoix off, and sophomore Mike Webb also got an unexpected pin at 130 against Grayling as well.

Charlevoix Junior Camden Alden improved to 23-1 on the year with a first period pin of Victor Sandoval at 140, and fellow Rayder Tyler McCallum won a 13-2 major decision at 130 to put the Rayders up 22-3 on the Vikings early.

But Grayling showed its strength in the middle and upper weights, recording seven straight pins from 145 to 285 to take the lead and pull away for the win.

The loss to Grayling followed an impressive 54-24 win over Kalkaska to start the night for the Rayders.

Alden, Webb and Chenauckas all pinned their Blazer opponent to go 2-0 on the mat for Charlevoix, and Jordan Chenauckas (119) and Jake Seger (152) each pinned their opponent in the first period as well.

Max Hinkle (171) pinned his Kalkaska opponent as well for the Rayders, and Trevor McCallum (160) and Mick Hinkle (189) each won decisions for Charlevoix against the Blazers.

"We've got a core group of five or six guys who are strong and have been doing this for a long time, and then the rest of the team is pretty new to wrestling," Hinkle said. "They've been doing a great job for us and picked up wins in places we couldn't have expected them to at the beginning of the year, but they've still had to learn an awful lot in a short amount of time, and it's tough to put them out there against experienced opponents and expect them to carry the team."

"We're pretty happy with where we're at, but we've got some weaknesses we need to shore up heading forward."

BASKETBALL

That's what happened to Charlevoix's boys basketball team when it took on Grayling Friday night.

The Vikings came out with a sense of urgency and jumped out to an early lead with its fast pace offense and suffocating defense. By the time the Rayders knew what hit them, it was already 7-1 with 6:19 left in the first quarter.

From there it got worse as Grayling continued its consistent play on the way to a dominate 65-49 victory on Charlevoix's home court.

"Honestly it kind of caught us off guard," said Charlevoix senior guard Walker Drost, who scored 13 points. "I didn't think they were going to knock that many shots down."

The Vikings' 6-foot-8 junior center Troy Summers knocked down numerous shot, at one point connecting on three straight and-one plays in the first quarter to set the tone. The big man finished the game with 21 points.

"I started hot," Summers said. "I was finishing out of the wazoo, I think it was my teammates rising up and everyone just feeding me the ball, and me finishing."

Along with Summer's performance, Grayling received contributions from Trey Moffit and Spencer White. Both players added 15 points for the Vikings.

Grayling never let up in the first half and took a 35-24 lead into halftime.

Like most teams do, Charlevoix made a run in the third quarter and cut the Vikings' lead to 39-33 with 3:35 left in the third quarter.

However, Grayling answered back with a 6-0 run, and took a 47-37 advantage into the final quarter.

"(Grayling) just came out in the first quarter and showed us that they wanted to play and we showed them that we didn't want to play," Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said. "I thought we could catch up, but they played a whale of a game."

"They came to played and we didn't and in our league you have to come to play every night."

Grayling's defense was like a stone wall at times, swatting numerous Charlevoix shot attempts away from the basket, which allowed the Vikings to run the floor and create fast-break opportunities.

Charlevoix's top low post player Austin Putman, was affected by Summers' size. Putman finished with 12 points, but was bothered by Summer's length all game.

"I knew he liked to dribble drive, and I just stayed on my feet," Summers said about Putman. "He's a great player, and he's a lot stronger than me, so I just had to work my way around it."

The Vikings were without their head coach Rich Moffit, who missed the game due to a medical condition.

Assistant coach Craig Hofman ran the show, and the Vikings didn't miss a beat with their leader not on the bench.

"That was great, we needed something like that," Hofman said. "I thought we controlled the boards and I thought we ran the floor really well."

Coach Moffit is expected to be back with the team sometime next week.

Although Grayling dominated most of the game, Charlevoix played into its hands by turning the ball over and shooting just 7-for-26 from the free-throw line.

"Tonight they were a lot better than us," Erskine said. "When we see them again we'll be ready and a little bit better. Hats off to them, they played good. They just put it to us."

Charlevoix senior Kelsey Engstrom guards a Grayling player during the second half of Friday's game in Charlevoix.

wanted to go to," he said. "We got the ball in the hands in the one we wanted, and she did what she needed to do."

For Nielson it was a special moment considering she had missed most of her junior season with torn ACL. Nielson finished the game with 14 points.

"I just knew that I had to make the shot," Nielson said. "It was the best feeling in the world. It was unreal."

Grayling's junior guard Natalie Amy scored 10 points and sophomore center Ryleigh White chipped in with eight points.

Grayling improved to 5-4 overall, and 1-2 in the Lake Michigan Conference. The Vikings play East Jordan next on Jan. 19.

Although Charlevoix didn't get the victory, coach Liz Shaw was still pleased with her squad's performance.

"I was really proud with their effort, this was by far our best game," Shaw said.

Charlevoix (0-7, 0-3 LMC) was led by senior Hannah Zipp, who finished with a team-high 19 points. Beth Veestra added eight points and Kelsey Engstrom scored seven.

Town House Bar wins tight game in Charlevoix County league action

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@postcitynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — On a snowy Monday night, the Charlevoix County 35 and older basketball league didn't let the conditions prevent them from getting games in.

And the Town House Bar team took full advantage, winning a thriller over Burnett Foods, 54-48, to headline the night's action.

Bruce Boxine scored 14 for Town House Bar, Dave Grey added 11 and Kirk Ikens chipped in 10, while Denzel Wilson led Burnett Foods with 16.

Jim Malpass and Chuck Stenek each scored 11 as well for Burnett Foods.

In the other game on the night, Willow Tree topped Tom's Diesel Repair 80-47.

Greg Lefferts scored 27 to lead Willow Tree, and Scott Hewitt added 21.

Don Black chipped in 14 points for Willow Tree, and Greg Kitson scored 24 to lead Tom's Diesel Repair.

The Charlevoix County Men's League will be in action again on Monday, Jan. 25.

Charlevoix's Ben Peterson competes in the first LMC meet on Thursday at Nubs Neb.

"We were behind most of the meet, but our opponent ran into trouble in the final run and we were able to stay consistent," Harbor Springs coach Jane Ramer said. "Being consistent on your runs and staying out of trouble is an important part, and it paid off tonight."

Shea Fuhrman led the Rams with a first place finish in the slalom (1:02.30) and a third place finish in the giant slalom (59.14), and Max Sydow took fourth in the giant slalom (59.33) and seventh in the slalom (1:11.25) as well.

On the girls side, Harbor Springs led by two after the slalom, but couldn't hold off a determined Elk Rapids/TC St. Francis squad in the giant slalom to finish second overall.

Sophomore Maddy Fuhrman took second in both the giant slalom (1:00.55) and the slalom (1:06.34) to lead the Rams. Demi Trabucchi took fifth in the slalom (1:07.99) and 14th in the giant slalom, and Elena Esposito took sixth in the slalom (1:09.73) and 12th in the giant slalom.

The next LMC meet is on Thursday, Jan. 21 at Schuss Mountain, beginning at 1 p.m.

Order for service of process by publication

At a session of said Court held in the 33rd Circuit Court for Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the day and year set forth below.

2100 PUBLIC NOTICES

PRESENT: Honorable Roy C. Hayes III
33rd Circuit Court Judge

Plaintiffs filed a Verified Ex Parte Motion for Service of Process in the discretion of the court. After reading the motion, the court finds that Plaintiffs have shown that service of process cannot reasonably be made on Defendants by the methods provided in MCR 2.105(A). In that Plaintiffs have demonstrated that Defendants and their whereabouts are unknown. The court further finds, pursuant to MCR 2.105(i), that service of process by publication is the best available method of service of process reasonably calculated to give Defendants actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.

IT IS ORDERED:
1. Plaintiffs may serve process on Defendants by publishing the following notice once each week for a period of three (3) consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier: "An action alleging adverse possession and seeking to quiet title to real property located in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, commonly known as 230 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, and fully described as:

has been commenced by Plaintiffs, Gary J. Mordick and Jeryl E. Mordick, against Defendants, The Unknown Heirs, Devisees, or Assigns of F. Jerold Mordick, Esther M. Mordick, Harold E. Lang, and Muriel V. (Lang) Archer, in the 33rd Circuit Court for the State of Michigan, and Defendants must answer or take other action permitted by law within twenty-eight (28) days after the last date of publication. If Defendants do not answer or take other action within the time allowed, judgment may be entered against them for the relief demanded in the complaint.
2. Plaintiffs are not required to mail a copy of the Order, as Defendants are unknown and, as such, their addresses cannot be obtained.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company sees a large crowd turnout for the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Business After Hours event on Jan. 20. The local brewery could see its beer available at area retail shops if state law permits the new company to distribute the product.

CHARLEVOIX — A new company hopes to help a local brewery expand its operation after receiving approval to rent former office space from the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority.

The Main Street board voted unanimously to rent the space to L.C. Brewers, of Charlevoix.

"The brewery should be commended on their plan and presentation," said Rick Wertz, board member.

Evan Keller, the head brewer for the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, is the main contact for L.C. Brewers and plans to distribute his brews to other retail establishments. L.C. Brewers will provide the community and local residents with a steady, year round employer, and offer visitors a new hospitality destination along with informative tours to enhance visitors experience, according to business plan documents.

The new company also is founded on the guiding principles and commitment to Charlevoix that the Round Lake Group LLC businesses were established. The new employee leaders of this new entity have been trained in the Round Lake Group LLC operating model, and share the values and commitment to the community, according to business plan documents.

"We're very excited to move forward in the next phase of expansion," said Aaron Hagen, managing partner of the Round Lake Group LLC that manages the Bridge Street Tap Room and The Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company.

The Main Street/Downtown

Development Authority advertised the former Keweenaw Excursions space at 109 Bridge Park Drive and accepted applications up to 5 p.m. on Jan. 20. The board received interest from one other company — Chilson Roth LLC a manufacturing company. Part of the application process requested a detailed business plan, which L.C. Brewers provided and Chilson Roth LLC did not, citing it required signed non-disclosures before releasing that information.

"The board was not requesting any confidential information," said Dan Barron, board chair. "The board ended up

Bergmann Center Resale Shop expands

CHARLEVOIX — The days of rubbing elbows with fellow shoppers while browsing the tight aisles at the Bergmann Center Thrift Store soon will be over.

An expansion and renovation of a space the facility recently leased has allowed the resale shop to construct a furniture section. The new space will add another 1,600 square feet to the resale shop. Officials with the Bergmann Center expect to have the expanded store ready in February.

"Having a furniture area will help make the overall resale shop have more space which, makes it more doable for organization and our shoppers," said Kim Brock, resale shop coordinator. "They'll be able to shop more comfortably."

The renovations inside the warehouse space will be set up for furniture and also will feature an area for donated sporting goods and merchandise.

"We thought it would be a nice addition to have an area for people to pick up ski boots, golf clubs and other outdoor sporting goods," Brock said. "We get all kinds of sporting gear

Airport closure likely during runway work

(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix Municipal Airport could see up to several days of a complete shut down during the upcoming runway project scheduled for the fall of 2016.

David Joye an aviation engineer of RS&H explained the construction shutdowns to airport advisory committee and airport operators at the Jan. 25 meeting.

"The option is a complete 10-day shut down closing the runways for all the repaving and restoration work," Joye said. "Another option we have discussed with the airport is a series of shorter shut down periods, which would consist of four-day shut downs from Monday through Thursday. That way we could have the airport open for the weekends when it is busier."

The shorter shutdowns would occur over a three-week period, but the shorter shut down periods will lengthen the construction

City seeks traffic, parking solutions near marina

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — An increase of traffic on Bridge Park Drive has the city seeking traffic flow solutions and raising rates on seasonal parking permits in Acacia Lot.

During the 2015 summer season, businesses and condo owners reported more congestion and issues with parking in the lot that serves the Beaver Island Boat Company and the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company. To prevent more problems in 2016 the city has been meeting with representatives from the Beaver Island Boat Company and the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company to come up with a traffic flow solution.

"Most of my discussions have been with the Beaver Island Boat Company to help think through traffic flow and come up with a workable solution," said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

Parking and increased business are the two parts to the traffic situation on Bridge Park Drive.

The area was originally designed for the Coast Guard and after the Coast Guard left the building the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority began renting building space, which increased traffic that led to the problems the city faces today with that location.

"The use of that space generates more traffic that what we can assume was originally considered," Heydlauff said.

Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan also has met with representative from the businesses in the area. His department fields the complaints that come in from noise and parking complaints.

"We have worked through many of the problems we were informed about last year," Doan said. "We should have a plan in place before the summer season begins."

One of the solutions city officials are planning is raising reserved parking from $500 to $750 this year. Last year there were 19 reserved spots in the parking lot, but only 14 were reserved, Doan said.

"The reserved parking spots

The Main Street/Downtown Development Authority and Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce announced that local resident Doug Drenth is the winner of the 2015 shop local campaign contest. Drenth took home $500 Charlevoix Chamber Bucks. Drenth's name was drawn out of 3,344 entries, which was more than $160,000 in receipts that was spent in the downtown area. From left are Doug Drenth, wife, Trisha and sons, Maxwell, 6, and Oliver, 4, Main Street director Anna Doyle, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce president Allison Hubbard, and Charlevoix city manager Mark Heydlauff.

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier

Editors Note: The year is 1908 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

On the front page of three January 1908 issues of the Charlevoix Courier was series featuring a personal description of the trip from Michigan to Oregon taken by Rev. Ewald Soland. "TRIP TO THE GREAT WEST"

"Greetings to all old friends and acquaintances of Beaver Island, Charlevoix and Emmett counties from the wild and woolly west. The West, the Wild West! What romantic pictures are again enlivened in our memory when hearing this word. The Land of Buffalo Bill's Wild West Show, home of the Indians and of the wild buffalo that roamed over vast prairies in countless numbers." He speaks of Denver and its beauty. "Ah, it was a beautiful sight. My eyes rested upon the most beautiful city I have yet seen, and its surroundings, make it still more beautiful. To the east the eye wandered far, far out into the unbroken plains of eastern Colorado and Nebraska; to the west and southwest and north stood the giant Rockies, some twenty miles back from the city, grand and imposing shown here and there in their cold blankets of pure white snow." In Salt Lake, Soland speaks about the fame of Beaver Island Mormons among the city residents. "Of interest to many people of Northern Michigan and especially Beaver Island and immediate vicinity will be the fact that quite a number old and young Mormons of Beaver Island fame are still living in Salt Lake City, and their history seems to be still fresh in the memory at least of the Elder that showed us about the place (Brigham Young's home). But when I mentioned to him the fact I had been on Beaver Island for a length of time and heard a great deal of their local history of their King James, he seemed not to anxious to speak further on the history," after Utah the article wraps up with brief descriptions of Idaho and the final destination of Oregon.

Seasonal boat slips fees will increase

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-4558 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Some boaters will be paying more when the season starts in 2016 because the fees at the Charlevoix City Marina are going up.

"The City Council agrees the rates for seasonal slips at the public marina should be increased," said city manager Mark Heydlauff. Heydlauff spoke to the Michigan State Waterways Commission and received information that rates could increase to the next tier if council desired to make that change.

The rates are set in different tiers that range from A to F with F being the highest. Council will raise seasonal slips from Tier B to Tier C. A 154-day seasonal charge at Tier C would generate $56,418.

Council's decision to raise fees on seasonal slips was made during 2016 budget discussions and once the budget is approved in February the fees schedule will take effect, said councilmember Shirley Gibson.

The marina schedule will be open for a 154-day season beginning May 15 and ending after Apple Festival on Oct. 15. Before council finalized its decision to raise fees on seasonal slips harbor master Hal Evans spoke on the matter. Evans is not in favor of the increase because boaters were asked to make a decision if they were coming back in December.

"Everyone said they were coming back at the previous fee rate," Evans said to council.

Councilmember Luther Kurtz reminded the board that raising rates were discussed last year.

"We had this discussion last year and we did say that everyone was on notice that fees are going up," Kurtz said.

Councilmember Leon Perron agreed and thanked Kurtz for reminding council that this decision was made in the previous year.

"We have discussed this over a year ago," Perron said. "Boaters were made aware the seasonal slips rates would increase this year."

There are only eight seasonal slips and the waiting list consist of 34 people who are non-resident and 29 who are considered residents waiting for seasonal slips. Residents are people who own property or live in Charlevoix County, according to city officials. The long waiting list also has council concerned they are interfering with private business.

"Because there is a waiting list for the seasonal boat slips council believes our rates are undercutting businesses like Irish and Northwest Marine," Gibson said. "We don't want to compete with a private business. That's not our goal. We all agreed to this. The rate increase is the right thing to do."

Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital Wellness Wednesday Program to be held next week

CHARLEVOIX — Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital will be hosting the Wellness Wednesday Program from 8-11 a.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 3, in Classroom B of the hospital's lower level.

This program started back in 2008 provides low cost screenings for people in the area.

"I started this program in 2008 to provide low cost screenings," said Kathy Jacobsen, RN, director of Community Health Education at Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital.

"Some health insurance companies, at that time, would only pay for a screening every five years. There are things people want to work on and not have to wait five years for their next screening so this is an option for them," she said.

The program started out small and only at the Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital. Since then it has grown and there are multiple screening locations in Charlevoix, Boyne City, and East Jordan. Every month, the screenings, in total, see around 30 different people.

"We've had a request for East Jordan and Boyne City as well too. We don't get a ton of people at other ones but we get a good amount. The main bulk of the people come into Charlevoix for their screenings," Jacobsen said.

The Wellness Wednesday Health Screen includes: total cholesterol, high-density lipoprotein, ratio, and glucose levels, Body Mass Index score, muscle and fat percentages, and a blood pressure reading.

No fasting for the screening is required. However, if you choose to do so, you can also be screened for your triglyceride levels and low-density lipoproteins.

The cost for the screening service is $15. Hemoglobin A1C Levels are offered for known or borderline diabetics for an additional $10. All participants will receive a blood pressure log, pedometer and all test results at the time of the screening. Health consultation and educational materials will be adapted to individual results and there is no appointment is required.

Charlevoix's City Manager to be guest speaker at featured Chamber event

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-4558 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce hosts its annual meeting and awards breakfast at 7 a.m. on Friday, Feb. 5, at Castle Farms. The meeting is a feature chamber event that will review 2015 and acknowledge and honor the area Business/Member of the Year, New Business of the Year, Young Professional of the Year, Customer Service of the Year, Ambassador of the Year and Outstanding Citizen of the Year.

"This is a key event for the chamber because not only do we update the community and the membership on our accomplishments in 2015, but we also celebrate and award our annual award winners," said Allison Hubbard, chamber president.

The process for choosing the businesses and individuals for the six categories begins in early December. The Chamber solicits nominations from the community from four of the six categories.

"Once we have our nominations, our board of directors and our Chamber ambassadors then meet to review the nominations and vote by secret ballot," Hubbard said. "You do not need to be a Chamber member to nominate, however you do need to be a Chamber member to be awarded."

The other two categories are decided differently. "The Member of the Month is awarded from the 12 monthly award winners and the Chamber Ambassador is selected from our Chamber ambassadors, again the winner is selected by secret ballot," Hubbard said.

This year's event will feature city manager Mark Heydlauff as the speaker. Because the event is a morning of celebration when discussion took place for this year's speaker, Heydlauff's name was at the top of the list, Hubbard said.

"Mark's name rose to the top of the list," Hubbard said. "Not only is he new in his role as city manager, but our relationship with the city is an important one and we felt this was perfect time for our members and the community to get to know Mark."

The 2015 Award Winners are:

- Outstanding Citizen: Craig Boss
- Business of the Year: Fox Charlevoix and Fox Ford Charlevoix
- New Business of the Year: Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company
- Young Professional of the Year: Chelsea Townsend
- Customer Service Award: Terry Osterhout

— Chamber Ambassador Award: Larry Levensgood

The event will be catered by A Matter of Taste and House on the Hill. Approximately 20 tickets remain for this event. For ticket call (231) 547-2101 or email info@charlevoix.org.

Introducing...Pet Obituaries

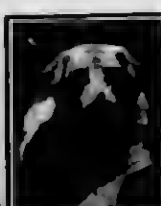

Pets are a part of the family, and we are offering a new way to share your pet's memorial with the community, family and friends that they shared their life with and help bring legitimacy to mourning the family pet.

As with humans, pet obituaries assign value to a life, define its highlights, extol socially validated accomplishments, and serve as models of living. To assign value to an animal's life is a fine thing, and an excellent match with the growing movement to treat animals of all kinds - not only our pets - with care and dignity.

The next Pet Obituary page will run in the News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times or Charlevoix Courier on a monthly basis. Up to 300 words and a photo is $185.

Please e-mail pet obituary and photo to: eanderson@petoskeynews.com along with contact information for us to contact you regarding payment or call 231-439-9375.

Kade Robert Michael Swenson
May 19, 2015

Kade Robert Michael Swenson, mixed breed dog, 12.5, crossed the rainbow bridge on May 19, 2015, at the age of 13. I am confident he was met by Pavo and James and congratulated on a life well lived.

Kade came into my life on February 15, 2004. He was a spectacular Golden Retriever who always kept his work very serious. He was also a great dog who thought someone was for him and who could be overly concerned with his physical well being. But, most of all, he was a gentle giant of a dog - a big polar bear.

Kade could no longer guide me this past year when his eyes and legs began to fail. He retired retirement. On May 19th, I came home from Charlevoix with Jimmy. Jimmy loved Kade and was happy and relaxed. They gave each other a big hug and Jimmy followed Kade into the house. For the next three days Jimmy would often lay with Kade on Kade's bed and they'd sleep side by side at night in our bed. Jimmy always checked in with Kade the minute he walked to the door at the end of the day. For a couple of days Kade pulled up and had a hard spring in his step. Dr. John, Kade's vet said he was more relaxed than he had been in months. But last Saturday he started to slip away. Last night after we struggled to get upstairs and up the ramp to our bed Kade let me know it was time to let him go. This morning only confirmed it was time. Kade was not to pain and when he took his last breath he was peaceful. After he departed his world we carried him out of the house wrapped in a blanket on a special cart with him following closely behind all the way to the house. On the way Kade's front legs came out of the blanket and of course they were crossed.

The bond between a Golden Retriever and handler is unique and it is strong. Kade left indelible footprints on my heart that are new and will never go away. I will love him and cherish the time we had together for the rest of my life. And when time comes I hope and pray that Kade, Pavo and James will greet me on the other side.

I would like to thank Charlevoix for the gift of Kade. Anyone wishing to honor Kade may do so in his name at www.goldenretrievers.com.

I would also like to thank Dr. John Townsend at Pet City Animal Rehabilitation and his staff for the love and support they provided to Kade to keep him moving without pain.

Social Security Administration provides focus on women's issues

About every minute, a woman dies of heart disease. Social Security encourages individuals to participate in National Wear Red Day on Feb. 5, which aims to raise awareness about preventing heart disease and stroke among women.

According to the American Heart Association, "heart disease is the number one killer of women, causing one in three deaths each year." The American Heart Association reports 80 percent of this is preventable with education and lifestyle changes. Changes in diet and exercise can help prevent these events, along with obtaining preventative healthcare. People can take part in raising awareness by wearing red on Feb. 5, to show support. Learn more by visiting goredforwomen.org.

Social Security plays an important role in many women's lives as nearly 60 percent of people receiving Social Security benefits are women. Social Security provides important financial assistance to women in times of need.

Women may face different situations than men throughout their lives that can affect their need for benefits. For instance, women are more likely to live longer. Women earn less on average than men do. Women are more likely to be stay-at-home parents or spouses. All of these circumstances can cause women to have different Social Security needs than men.

In order to address these concerns in one place, there is a website designed for women. This website includes information that may be useful to women working, women who receive Social Security benefits, brides, new mothers, wives, divorced women, caregivers and widows. Our website also contains links to Social Security publications relevant to women's issues, such as our publications What Every Woman Should Know and Understanding the Benefits.

LETTERS to the editor

Editor:

Since we're not yet ready for life without using fossil fuels, and fossil fuels must be transported to where we live, and pipelines are the safest method of transporting our most commonly used fossil fuel, oil, why shouldn't pipelines follow the safest routes possible?

Enbridge's Line 5 crossing the Straits of Mackinac primarily feeds Western Canada oil to Eastern Canada. Why must Enbridge carry that oil twice across Great Lakes waterways, across the five-mile wide Straits of Mackinac and again across the one-mile wide St. Clair River to Sarnia, Ontario?

Enbridge's super-sizing of its pipeline infrastructure from Lake Superior across Wisconsin to Illinois is scheduled to be completed this coming summer. If needed, Enbridge should increase its capacity on this route, and from Illinois to Ontario, necessitating just a single one-mile crossing of a Great Lakes waterway.

Enbridge Line 5's elimination would mean the loss of considerable tax revenue to Emmet County's Wawatam Township (and elsewhere on both sides of the Straits).

How significant is the tax loss compared to the devastation we would experience from an oil spill?

Enbridge has had more than six decades to profit from and recoup its investment in Line 5.

Enbridge is buying advertising and sending its skillful varsity public relations team to convince us they wouldn't dream of harming our homeland, that they're a "born again" pipeline operator after their 2010 "oops" into the Kalamazoo River.

Please, be skeptical of their assurances. Their history demands our skepticism. They haven't earned our trust.

For the good of us all in the Straits of Mackinac area, urge your governmental representatives to call for the cessation of Line 5's use for oil, if they haven't already done so.

Daniel Robbins,
Mackinac City

Civil debate is a refreshing change

Often I face criticism over my news coverage, but I stand by my reporting and if required I will admit if I make a mistake with a printed correction.

Last summer I reported on the airport and skydiving and I admit my mistake was getting caught up in a frenzy of misinformation and I don't blame anyone but myself for not taking my time when dealing with that issue. In the beginning, the legal jargon confused me, but as more reports came out and after speaking with attorneys I understood and reported on the issue.

I believe the main concern with the airport and skydiving last summer was about proper insurance and protecting the city. The few council members who brought up insurance questions about the legalities and liability of skydiving at the airport did the right thing even though it was not popular. The skydiving business did have insurance, but questions remained about ordi-

Lonnie Allen
A scribe's view

regarding the airport.

Instead of addressing the insurance error, the issue was portrayed as a personal attack on business, which ended up deceiving city residents. I applaud the council members who dug into this issue and faced public and private criticism. They didn't waver to keep public interest first. Each elected official who played a part in the petty game of "us against them" is at fault because they forgot about the interest of city residents for their own personal gain. Those actions are not how you move this city forward to a "Positive Charlevoix." This winter, a different story was told and it appears a move in the right direction has begun. The last regular city council meeting was respectful and the facts were presented about what was really happening at the airport. The open, civil dialogue helped council pass a resolution for a schedule of insurances. This resolution was responsible act for our elected officials to do. This very legal and logical step corrects an error dating back to 2012 and according to city documents this is an ordinance requirement.

Monday night's meeting was an honest, transparent, civil government meeting. It is a refreshing change and one I hope to see more of as I enter my second year providing the news for the residents of Charlevoix and the surrounding areas.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Bridge after being taken to East Jordan in 1901 and reassembled.

More bridge history

The third bridge across the lower channel, and first swing bridge, was installed in 1878 at a cost of $5,200. It was a beautiful, perfectly symmetrical addition to the cityscape with its delicate crosshatched archway in the middle and bright red paint job. The thin double cables on each side helped support the wood plank roadbed. But by the end of the century, it was becoming apparent that this structure would not last much longer. Its foundation was "very precarious" from rust and rot according to the Charlevoix Sentinel newspaper, and "at the most, cannot be used more than eight years longer." Plus more and larger lake vessels now needed to get into Round Lake, but to do so the channel had to be widened. So a $20,000 bond issue for a complete renovation and replacement was put to a vote, and with the encouragement of the Sentinel succeeded, for a "broad, modern bridge." In February of 1901 the wreckers came in, and "the old iron bridge, which we once thought was the only thing on the earth of its kind, is practically all taken down and piled up in chunks on the revetment." South Arm Township paid $1,200 for many of the chunks and hauled them south over the Lake Charlevoix Ice where they were reassembled to serve as a major component of a causeway across the tip of the lake's south arm into downtown East Jordan. Where before the roadbed had stood about sixteen feet above the channel, now it sat only a few feet above the water's surface. There it remained until the late 1920s when a new causeway was constructed. A portion of the old bridge was again recycled when it was removed, cut to size, floated north, and installed as the entry bridge to Holy Island a couple of miles south of Ironton where it remained until 2008.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Safe Families for Children finds first volunteer families, looks for more participants

MATT MIKUS
(231) 439-9394 • mmikus@petoskeynews.com

A program launched by local churches like Genesis of Petoskey, Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix, and Petoskey Church of Christ, is designed to be an in-between for a family that may need additional support. The organization helps a family in crisis by taking the children into their house for a short stay.

Known as Safe Families for Children of Emmet and Charlevoix counties, leaders of the group are starting to prepare families, and are looking for more volunteers.

"It's about providing a temporary relief for families in crisis. So for example, in my family, if a crisis happens, I have plenty of families and friends that can help us out. But there are people who don't have that support, so we want to provide that in the community," said Candice Wells, a member of the team that launched the program.

Wells mentioned an example where a parent might need a medical treatment, and has no one who could watch their children for the few days while they recover. Another example is if a parent may suddenly be looking for a new house or apartment, but has nowhere for the children to stay while looking.

"And unlike a foster program, it's much more voluntary. The families can retain their power and their voice. It'd be my goal that we'd have enough families around the community who could keep the child in the same school so that the child can avoid a disruption," she said.

Janet (left) and Richard May of Charlevoix decided to participate in Safe Families for Children as a way to help families who have no support network in their community.

Currently the organization has one family in Petoskey and one family, Richard and Janet May, in Charlevoix.

The Mays are looking forward to opening up their home for a family in need. As active volunteers, they have helped orphans and families around the world, including in Haiti and Africa. But during the summer, while home in Charlevoix, they're excited to be able to help families in the community.

"We both feel blessed, and we want to help where there's a need," said Richard. "It's a good fit where we can still help while we're at home."

As part of the approval program, families like the Mays are subject to a background check and homes are inspected to make sure the environment is safe for young children.

"We thought the process was really easy. They just come to make sure the house has safe windows, and everything" said Janet.

She hoped the idea of background checks and an approval process doesn't discourage anyone who's interested. Though she added that since they are used to volunteering, she understands how some may feel intimidated.

The Mays have yet to take on a family since joining Safe Families, which only recently began approving families to participate. But they hope to also encourage other families and volunteers to help out.

"This is all voluntary, it's not court imposed. It's as simple as someone saying I need help and could you help do that. And it's not just for the children, volunteers could help mentor or guide the parents through whatever their crisis is," said Richard.

Janet added that she's anxious and excited to help when she can. Since the two have grandchildren, she said they already have a lot of toys and supplies.

"I'm really excited. I'm ready," she said. "It will be interesting to see how much the program is used. Once it gets going, I think it'll be a good thing."

Michigan Tech Dean's List for Fall 2015

Two Charlevoix residents were named on the Michigan Technological University Dean's List for the 2015 fall semester.

William Larsen and Christopher Young, each mechanical engineering students and Charlevoix High School graduates were among the 1,541 students who achieved Dean's List status out of 7,100 students enrolled for the Fall Semester.

To qualify for the Dean's List a student must take 12 or more grade point credits and achieve a semester grade point average of 3.5 or better.

OBITUARIES

Gary H. Schmidtke, 68

Gary H. Schmidtke, 68, of Charlevoix passed away at home, after a long illness, on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 2016, surrounded by family.

He was born in Saginaw on July 14, 1947, the son of the late Harold A. and Deloris L. (Courtland) Schmidtke. Gary attended St. Peter and Paul Catholic School for 12 years, graduating in 1965. He continued his education at Chicago Technical College, Wayne State University and Delta College. He was employed by General Motors Corporation for 39 years as an Engineer/Designer, retiring in 2004. In 1995, he obtained his Builders License and, in 2004, proudly designed and built their retirement home overlooking Lake Charlevoix. Gary was a member of Ducks Unlimited, Friends of the Boyne River, American Foundrymen's Society, Pioneer Club (golf) of Saginaw, Boyne Highlands Men's Golf League, Boyne City Yacht Club, Clinton River Ski Club, Charlevoix Historical Society, Crooked Tree Art Center and several other organizations. He was an avid outdoorsman, enjoying hunting, fishing, boating, golfing and skiing. He inherited his love of the outdoors from his parents.

Gary is survived by his loving wife of 30 years, Kathleen. Also surviving are his stepson, Jason Haucke of Hendersonville, Tenn.; his sister, Eileen (Michael) Chrzanowski of Kingwood, Texas, and East Jordan; his nephews, Alex (Amanda) Medler and Ethan Medler, both of Kingwood, Texas; his great-nephew and niece, Lukas and Adaline; and many special friends.

A Celebration of Life Service will take place at a later date. Those who wish are asked to make contributions in Gary's memory to Friends of the Boyne River, The Charlevoix Historical Society, or the charity of your choice. A special thanks to our friends who loved and supported us through this difficult time.

Chuck was born in Detroit, Mich., the son of Emil J. and Yvonne G. (Williams) McDermott. He grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1958. His first paying job was as gatekeeper on the Ironton Ferry.

Chuck started his 30-year career with General Motors as a sweeper in the Bay City plant and retired as a production superintendent at their plant in Adrian. He retired in 1988.

On June 18, 1983, in Hudson, Mich., he married Debra Sue (Fowler) Riddle. Twenty-seven years ago, they moved to Stonehedge, which is a 163-year-old working farm. Among many products produced there on the farm, they produce yarn via their 17-year-old company, now known as Stonehedge Fiber Mill, LLC. Yarn made at Stonehedge was used in the Ralph Lauren's sweaters worn by the 2014 Winter Olympians. Chuck also designed and sold fiber milling equipment worldwide.

Chuck was a member of the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge — No. 282 and the Michigan Fiber Industry Coalition Cooperative. He enjoyed keeping himself busy. Chuck loved to celebrate St. Patrick's Day and cherished his Irish heritage.

He is survived by his wife, Deb

S. McDermott of East Jordan; five children, Kelly McDermott of Ann Arbor, Mark McDermott of Florida, Ron (Dawn) Riddle of East Jordan, Jodi (Doug) Peck of East Jordan and Jamie Sparks of East Jordan; 12 grandchildren; and three great-grandchildren.

He was preceded in death by his parents; and one son, Jeff McDermott.

A celebration of life gathering will be held on Sunday, Jan. 31, at 2 p.m. at the Harvest Barn Church, 210 S Lake St., East Jordan. The Rev. Peter Elliott will officiate.

In memory of Chuck, the family asks those attending the gathering to wear attire appropriate for St. Patrick's Day. A potluck meal will follow.

Conservancy expands system of groomed trails

HARBOR SPRINGS — Thanks to generous donations from local foundations and conservancy supporters, Little Traverse Conservancy is now equipped to expand its system of groomed trails at neighborhood nature preserves.

Grants from the Potoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation and Chemical Bank provided the needed funding to purchase a snowmobile and trailer. Adding these efforts to those of many volunteers who have been grooming neighborhood trails, groomed trails are now available in four of the five counties served by the nonprofit organization.

Walkers and snowshoers are asked to respect and avoid the groomed tracks as much as possible.

"Northern Michigan is a great place to live and visit in all seasons and for many people, winter is the best," said Kieran Fleming, conservancy director of land protection and stewardship. "We wanted to expand on the opportunities for using these beautiful preserves found within the communities we serve, both for locals and for the visitors who come up north to enjoy the scenery and solitude these places provide."

Emmet and Charlevoix county trails groomed this season are:

Emmet County:
— Goodhart Farms Preserve, 3.5 miles
— Offield Family Preserve, 4.5 miles — McCune Preserve, 2.5 miles
— Waldron Fen Preserve, 2 miles

Charlevoix County:
— Driggers Preserve, 1 mile
— The Hill Preserve, 2 miles
— Rogers Family Homestead, 1 mile — Wisser-Saworski Preserve, 1.5 miles

BUSINESS

Teaming up to create a cultural corridor in Charlevoix

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Executive director Gail DeMeyere, a recent appointment by the Circle's board of directors, has taken her job to heart and her enthusiasm is contagious. There is a surge of energy in her agenda including plans to "build community" through providing, even more, activities, demonstrations, speakers and exhibitions at the Circle. One pairing is local artist and tour business owner — Edith Pair.

"Going forward, our plan is to program in tandem with other community entities including the library, Chamber, Historical Society and downtown businesses," DeMeyere said. "Edith Pair's participation, not only as an artist, but joining us with her Earl Young Ellair & Company Signature Tours, will provide an added dimension to the Circle's outreach."

Pair has been providing walking tours of Earl Young's "Mushroom Homes" for more than six years. Her latest partner was Elements Gallery which provided the downtown Bridge Street exposure and advertising necessary to take off as a viable business venture. She feels confident that her Mushroom House Tours will give people more rea-sions to come to Charlevoix and enjoy all that it has to offer.

"I have spent years researching Earl Young and his architecture," Pair said. "Along with my well-founded facts and stories accumulated throughout the years on Charlevoix's general history, these tours will be a light, fun and entertaining learning experience that folks will treasure long after they leave."

Pair grew up in Charlevoix and is proud to call it home. She is looking forward to passing her enthusiasm along to visitors and locals alike.

Walking tours, group or private, will depart from the Circle of Arts on Clinton Street and make a loop down the Pine River Channel, up to the hill to Park Avenue, and back down Clinton to the art center. They will include viewing and discussing the lighthouse, the library, and the Park Avenue section of the Mushroom homes.

This year, Pair will be planning horse and buggy tours as well, partnering with Boyne Valley Equine Tours and Services.

"We will begin with two scheduled tours a week with the option to book private wagon tours by appointment," Pair said. "We are also looking into the possibility of providing Gem car tours...Between the walking, horse and wagon, and Gem car tours, we will have covered all the bases and look forward to making this a successful venture for patrons, the city and Mushroom House Tours."

Both DeMeyere and Pair are excited about the coming year and all they have to offer the community. They hope to provide a "cultural corridor" for visitors to Charlevoix to discover all that lies beyond Bridge Street: The Circle of Arts, the library, the Harsha House Historical Museum, the lighthouse and pier and of course, the Mushroom Houses of Boulder Park.

For more information, schedules and prices, Pair may be reached at Ellair & Company Signature Tours at (231) 445-0770, at palredlth@gmail.com, or visit her on Facebook: Earl Young Mushroom House Tours.

Charlevoix Circle of Arts' kick-off with their winter exhibition, "Invincible Summer" last weekend, provided a brief reprieve from cabin fever and the January chills. It was presented along with a promise of more offerings to come.

Bringing the community together appears to be what the Circle's mission is to be for the coming year. The summer-themed show in the newly painted facility was the first event on the schedule. Others events include: Friday Night Live entertainment and/or demonstrations the first Friday of each month beginning Feb. 5, Monday Morning Coffee the second Monday of each month beginning Feb. 8, — featuring Mary Stewart Adams of the Dark Sky Park, and a special Valentine's Day interactive Armchair Theater program for the whole family at 2 p.m. on Feb. 14.

For Circle of Arts information and schedule of upcoming events, including tours, call Charlevoix Circle of Arts (231) 547-3554, charlevoixcircle@gmail.com, or stop in the Circle of Arts at 109 Clinton St.

Bringing tourists to Charlevoix the Beautiful

When I was approached about writing a monthly tourism column, I have to admit I was geeked. After all, tourism has long been Charlevoix's largest economic driver and it just so happens to be what I have done day-in-and-day-out for the past five years, since I began my adventure as the executive director of the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau.

I can't even count the number of times I have told a complete stranger that I have the best job in the world. Seriously, it is my job to promote Charlevoix. There is truly no better place to visit, live, work and play.

If you have never heard of the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau (CVB), you are not alone, as I am often asked what exactly the CVB does. The CVB is a nonprofit destination marketing organization run by a board of directors, whose mission is to positively impact the area's economy by promoting Charlevoix as an overnight travel destination. The focus of CVB marketing is directed outside of Northern Michigan, so you most likely haven't seen, heard or watched much of our advertising.

CHARLEVOIX
TOURISM

Charlevoix advertising is found in many U.S. states and even in Canada with major concentration in lower Michigan, Chicago, Ohio and Indiana. Our marketing mix has grown quite a bit in the past few years to include some larger advertising buys such as the Pure Michigan campaign, a Times Square billboard, Chicago bus wraps and significantly increased digital media. We have also begun collecting more data on our visitors to learn how to better reach their markets more effectively.

I'm hoping this monthly column will give you an inside peek about exactly what CVB does and what a great benefit the organization provides for the community. In the coming months I am excited to share more details about upcoming marketing campaigns we have planned, as well as tourism impact on our economy and even some marketing tips and tricks.

Toast to Literacy to benefit local reading program

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Opening a world of imagination to children in Charlevoix and Emmet counties is the reason behind the annual Toast to Literacy fundraising event.

Char-Em United Way's Toast to Literacy helps fund the Dolly Parton's Imagination Library. The Imagination Library is a literacy initiative sponsored by Char-Em United Way and provides free books to children from birth to age five in Charlevoix and Emmet counties, said Lorraine Manary, executive director of Char-Em United Way.

"Early childhood literacy is one of the things we really support," Manary said. "This event helps support the program so we can help foster a love of reading in preschool children."

Each child receives a book in the mail every month until the child reaches the age of five. The cost to provide a book is about $30 per-year for each child. It costs Char-Em a little more than $40,000 to provide the books to 1,348 children in the program.

"When we began the Imagination Library in 2012 we had a goal to reach 500 children," Manary said. "We ended up with 750 and after three-and-a-half years of providing books we are still seeing an expansion in the program. That is why the Toast of Literacy is an important fundraiser, it is the one fundraiser to support the program."

Parents who have children in the program have commented on how much of a positive impact the free books have had in their kids reading habits.

"I have always read to my son, but he loves getting these books in the mail," one parent said. "He can't wait to read them and I love the questions provided at the back."

The Toast of Literacy fundraising event, will be from 7-10 p.m., Feb. 6, at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

"It is a really fun event," Manary said. "We have wine and beer tasting, food, live music and a silent auction."

The silent auction includes the chance to bid on Tom's Mom's Cookies; a tablet computer; a Jordan Valley canoe rental; dining from Wine Guys, Roast and Toast, Which Wich, and Side Door; gift certificates and gifts from Reusch Jewelers, Sturgeon River Pottery, Bearcub Outfitters, American Spoon Foods and much more.

New this year will be carnival style games, a take home shopping list on which guests can note their favorite libations, and an opportunity to directly sponsor children to participate in the Dolly Parton's Imagination Library.

Admission is $35 at the door or $30 in advance and includes a souvenir glass and food tastings. For more information, call (231) 487-1006 or go to charemunitedway.org/content/toast-literacy.

"It is our goal to raise enough to fund this program for every child who participates," Manary said.

Charlevoix foundation adds two new trustees

CHARLEVOIX - The Charlevoix County Community Foundation announced the appointment of two new trustees: Evelyn Howell and Josette Lory.

Evelyn Howell is a registered occupational therapist for Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital, providing out-patient therapy for children and adults at the Boyne Rehabilitation Center. Howell also is a member of the hospital's WorkRight team, providing ergonomic services to local businesses and industries. Howell's professional career also included 25 years as a pediatric Occupational Therapist with the Char-Em Intermediate School District. Howell has served on the Evangeline Township Planning Commission and zoning board of appeals, and is also a member of the Petoskey Audubon Society and other civic groups.

"It's a special honor to have the opportunity to serve on the community foundation's board of trustees," Howell said. "I've long admired the foundation's good work in the community, and I'm so pleased to be a part of that effort."

Howell lives in Boyne City with her husband, Jim. She will represent the Boyne geographic area on the board of trustees, and also will serve as a member of the foundation's distribution committee.

Josette Lory is the Human Resources Manager at Industrial Magnetics in Boyne City. Lory is engaged in her community, serving as the Evangeline Township Clerk. Lory also is involved with the Northwest Michigan Industrial Association Workers Compensation Board. An active volunteer, Lory also serves on the Boyne District Library Board and is a member of the Boyne City Economic Development Corporation/Local Development Finance Authority. She also enjoys participating with the team at Classic Instruments, which is owned and operated by her husband, John McLeod. The Lorys live in Boyne City, and she will represent the Boyne geographic area on the board of trustees, while also serving on the distribution committee.

"I believe in giving back to the community, and I'm humbled to have the chance to be of service to the community foundation," she said, "the foundation's good work in the community is something I am proud to be a part of."

Michelle Cortright, chair of the foundation's board of trustees, looks forward to working with the new trustees.

"Evelyn and Josette represent what the community foundation's board of trustees is all about," Cortright said. "They're outstanding citizens who are actively engaged in their community, and respected by all who know them."

Including the new appointments, the foundation's board of trustees includes 15 members, representing all regions of Charlevoix County. Other trustees include: Don Spencer and Dana Hodgson, of Beaver Island; Bill Aten, of Boyne Falls; Michelle Cortright and Lori Meeder, of Boyne City; Perry Irish Hodgson, Ann Hollis, Dave Leusink and Paul Witting, of Charlevoix; and Scott Diller, John Kempton, Barbara Malpass and Jack Poindexter, of East Jordan.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds - all of them established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come. For more information about the grant-making process, establishing a fund, or making a gift, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at (231) 536-2440, or online at ccf.org.

Valentine's Day benefit concert

PETOSKEY - Thoughts of chocolates, hearts and tokens of affections are taking center stage with spouses, families, lovers and romantics across Northern Michigan. With that in mind, yoga retreat Song of the Morning will partner with folk musician, Laz Slomovits for a special Valentine's Day benefit concert from 7-9 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 14, at the theater at Crooked Tree Arts Center, 461 E. Mitchell St., Petoskey.

Slomovits is one of the twin brothers from Ann Arbor's folk music duo Gemini. He has set to music the poetry of the ancient Sufi mystics Rumi and Hafiz (considered by some to be among the greatest love poets in the world.) The evening's performance is titled "The Subject Tonight is Love."

The Golden Lotus, a nonprofit operation in charge of Song of the Morning, connected to Slomovits through its board member Dr. Gary Saks who happened to be a long-time friend of the performer to organize an event to share the poetry of the ancient mystics and to raise funds for the ongoing mission of Song of the Morning to sustain the work of providing a sacred space for those who need help and support in their inner search.

Tickets are $25 per person and $40 for couples. They may be purchased at the door or by phone via credit or debit card at (989) 983-4107. For more information visit songofthemorning.org or visit Song of the Morning Facebook page.

BEER

choosing the plan with best information."

"The board's facilities committee will meet with the stakeholders to evaluate a lease to make sure the responsibilities of each party is clear, said board member Kirby Dipert.

"The point was made because of the accommodation of Lake Charlevoix Brewing and L.C. Brewers there might be a reallocation of some of that space and it makes sense to pair the lease terms for the space that goes with the particular use at the time," Dipert said.

It is unclear if licensing will be approved for L.C. Brewers because of Kellar's association with Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company as its head brewer. The Michigan Liquor Control Commission has licensing rules that separate supplier, retailer and wholesaler.

Section 603 of the Michigan Compiled Laws (MCL 436.1603(12)) speaks to three specific, independent licensing tiers (i.e. supplier, wholesaler and retailer). The act further dictates (under subsection 13) how the Commission cannot allow any of those three tiers to hold interest (directly or indirectly) in one another, said Michael Loepp, communications representative for the Michigan Department of Licensing and Regulatory Affairs.

A company that brews beer, and sells that brewed product in its establishment along with wine and liquor to patrons, but then decides it would like a brewer's license and then starts a new company making its current brewer the contact for this company would not be acceptable, Loepp said.

Even if a brewer took over the brewing operation in a current pub facility, as a separate entity, while the other company continues to sell the beer, liquor and wine under its Class C liquor license is most likely unacceptable under state law.

"The Class C licensee could apply for and be issued a Brewpub license to sell the beer it produces for consumption on or off the licensed premises, subject to limitations on the amount it brews, and is not sold or purchased by a wholesaler for distribution," Loepp said. "A brewer's license could not be applied for or issued, as state laws would prohibit the issuance of a wholesale license and a retail license from being issued together (again see MCL 436.1603(13)).

"The licensee would need to make a decision on what it wants to be; a brewer or a retail licensee for the same reasons stated above as it appears that the retail licensee would still hold interest in the proposed wholesale license type," Loepp added.

If Kellar remains associated in any way with Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company and Round Lake Group LLC it is considered a business conflict under state law.

"It still presents an ownership conflict and under state law would be prohibited as listed in section 603," Loepp said.

Dipert and the board wasn't aware that the company may not be able to get a license, but doesn't feel that would stop them from renting the space to the brewery if that was the final decision by the state.

"As a board our concern for the space was the information we had provided to us for the space," Dipert said. "We are comfortable renting the brewery the space because they provided the details of their plan."

The details of licensing to distribute beer will require more work from attorneys that understand the legalities of the state liquor code, Hagen said.

"We are working through the process of licensing with the MCLC," Hagen said. "If we don't get approval we will still wait to rent the space."

donated and this will make it easy to find for shoppers."

The idea for a furniture department at the resale shop was discussed more after a furniture garage sale that took place last summer, said Suzanne Muma, Bergman Center executive director.

"One of the resort homes donated to us a large collection of furniture and other household items," Muma said. "Because it was such a large donation we had a garage sale that brought in $4,600 for the resale shop."

The resale store has remained open amid the construction and remodel of the new space, which was warehouse space De-Sta-Co once leased. Volunteers have been painting and doing much of the renovations including some light electrical work.

The Bergmann Center is a day program for adults with disabilities. The shop opened in 2010 and gives these adults work and an income. The employees learn how to work in retail, but are also able to stay in their community. The Bergmann Center relies on volunteers and is always looking for people who can help out.

"If you have some time available we can use your help," Muma said.

The new space is expected to be open for the public at noon on Feb. 25.

"We're very excited about the added space," Muma said. "We feel the added space will really open up the store."

The problem with shorter shutdowns would require the airport construction to start in September instead of October because this would prolong the construction because of possible weather interruptions. Also the grooving of the runway has to wait 30 days after the paving process, which is another concern about starting in October.

"There is weather and temperature constraints on when we do the paving," Joyce said. "If we push this project much further into the fall we are going to have more issues with weather and more potential delays."

Another choice would be to do paving at night, but that also would have more cost and a less quality pavement, Joyce said.

Advisory committee member Dan Seelye was concerned that any airport shutdowns would affect operations for Island Airways and Fresh Air Airlines because each run service to and from Beaver Island.

"I hate to see our two flight services shut down for four days," Seelye said. "There is mail, Fed Ex and UPS, and passengers. Beaver Island really depends on this airport and being closed three and four days is tough."

Rachel Teague of Fresh Air understands the city and the engineers have to find a way to complete the project and hopes for less airport closure.

"Every effort that is given to reduce the downtime is much appreciated," Teague said. "I do understand that (the city) has to balance the project. There are other creative ways I have been thinking about as far as maybe having to work from another airport for a few days out of the week, which is not impossible."

Closing the airport for any amount of time would be a hardship for Island Airways, said co-owner Angel Welke.

"We fly seven days a week," Welke said. "In 2015, we did 2,800 passengers and in a typical month we do around 100,000 pounds of freight. It's a concern to face four day shut down times. Twelve days off is almost impossible for us."

A determination about when the airport will shut down during fall construction still has to be determined. The discussion that took place during the airport advisory committee gave each stakeholder more information about the upcoming project, said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

"The aviation engineer came to explain construction plan scenarios and get information from the operators about closures," Heydlauff said. "The plan is to help find the least disruptive plan for construction that can be done."

Engineers will take the information gathered at the meeting and discuss it with the Federal Aviation Administration before finalizing the construction plans.

"The city wants to work with the operators as much as possible before the project begins," Heydlauff said.

We did it! You can, too!

Veronica and Candy are doing fabulously because they are following all of the necessary steps to achieve and maintain good health. I am proud of them and excited about the great results they are getting.

Veronica had the surgery first. As Candy watched her mother's sleep apnea vanish and her life improve in every way, she decided it was right for her, too. "It's the hardest thing you will ever do, but it's the most life-changing and rewarding decision you will make," she said.

Before weight loss surgery, Candy rarely ventured outside. Now, she's looking forward to her first 10K race with her mom this summer.

It all began by attending a bariatric seminar. Are you ready for a change?

Diocese of Gaylord

Diocese of Gaylord Catholic Schools MISSION STATEMENT

The Catholic Schools of the Diocese of Gaylord will work together to provide a faith-centered Catholic Education rooted in the Gospel Message and evidenced in Worship of God, and Works of service to others.

The mission and intent of Catholic schools in the Diocese of Gaylord is to provide a distinctly Catholic education and an environment with the highest standards of academic excellence for all who participate in the life of our school communities. As we look to the future of our Catholic schools, we must remember the words of Jesus as He sent His disciples into the world to "go and teach" and to "make disciples of all nations...teaching them to observe all I have commanded you."

St. Mary School PHILOSOPHY

St. Mary Catholic School is a Faith Community — students, parents, staff, parishioners and friends. Teachers, in partnership with parents, are dedicated to providing the spiritual and academic development of each child.

Each person is a child of God, a unique and gifted individual. The curriculum is designed to nurture creativity, academic excellence, and spiritual, physical and emotional growth.

We instill responsibility, respect and compassion for all people. We are committed to making our students aware of social issues while providing the foundation and experiences necessary to be living examples of the Gospel.

St. Mary School MISSION STATEMENT

The St. Mary Catholic School community empowers students to grow spiritually, academically, artistically, and physically so they may experience, understand and live their responsibilities to God, family, community and self.

Catholic Schools Week

Theme- Catholic Schools: Communities of Faith, Knowledge and Service.

Key elements of Catholic education are faith development, academic excellence, and dedication to service. These elements set St. Mary School apart from other educational options. These are reasons why families make sacrifices to provide their children with a Catholic education.

Rayders on the rise after big wins over Boyne City, Kalkaska

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Even with three conference losses, there's no doubt that Charlevoix is a team few look forward to seeing next on their schedule in the LMC.

The Rayders showed exactly why they're not a team to be taken lightly on Tuesday, riding a scorching hot first half to a comfortable 83-56 victory over visiting Kalkaska.

Austin Putman scored eight of the Rayders' first 10 points to spark a 19-7 run to open the game, and finished with 20 points and 10 rebounds on the night.

Kevin Pearl scored 11 first half points as well and Arvo Viitaharju came off the bench to put up double figures in the first two quarters as the Rayders scored 49 points and took a 22 point lead into halftime.

"We just got off to a tremendous start tonight," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "We did a great job moving the ball, our big men stepped up and did a great job of getting rebounds and put-backs, and we were hitting our outside shots." "The biggest thing is we were able to keep it going at both ends of the floor and build off it."

Viitaharju finished with 15 on the night, and Pearl chipped in 14 points, six rebounds and two assists as the Rayder starters sat for most of the fourth quarter with the game out of reach. Walker Drost chipped in eight points and three assists, Forrest Noirot chipped in seven points and Caleb Hart added five for Charlevoix.

Offensive spark leads Charlevoix to first win of the season over Boyne City

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — The question all season long for the Charlevoix girls basketball team has been, where will the scoring come from?

On Friday against visiting Boyne City, the answer to that question was everyone, as eight Rayder players scored five or more points to help Charlevoix snap an eight game losing streak to start the season with a 53-46 win over the Ramblers.

The Rayders led 9-4 after the first quarter and outscored Boyne City 34-21 in the second and third before holding off a late Rambler rally for the victory.

Sophomore Natalie Nesburg was the catalyst for Charlevoix, finishing with a team-leading 10 points and pacing the Rayders early at both ends of the floor.

"I thought we started a little slow, but Natalie was a spark for us at both ends of the floor, and hit some big shots in the second quarter," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "With young players, once they start feeling success, it's contagious, and those first few baskets gave everyone confidence at that end of the floor."

Kelsey Engstrom chipped in eight points for the Rayders, Olivia

Jeakle added seven, and Emily Chomiczews, Beth Veenstra and Hannah Zipp all finished with six. Raigan Novotny and Alex Snabes each chipped in five as well as Charlevoix built an 18 point lead through three quarters.

Boyne City came back strong with 15 points from Hannah Hoth, including back-to-back 3-pointers in the fourth quarter to cut the Charlevoix lead to seven, but the Rambler couldn't dig their way out of the hole they were in after the first three quarters.

Keyrsten Gillinghouse chipped in 10 points for Boyne City, Katie Hoth added eight and Liv Looze finished with seven.

"I thought our energy to start the game wasn't very good, and that can't happen in a rivalry game," Boyne City coach Keith Fitzpatrick said. "I'm proud of the way our girls fought and I thought our effort was much better in the fourth quarter, but if we're not playing hard for 32 minutes, it's hard to win in this league."

"As a young team, we're not skilled enough yet to win on nights where our effort isn't at its peak for the entire game. We have to bring the intensity from start to finish if we want to compete, and that's our challenge moving forward."

CHARLEVOIX — Kelsey Engstrom's ability to overcome adversity wasn't necessarily what earned her a spot as a finalist for the MHSAA Scholar Athlete Award.

But it couldn't have hurt the Charlevoix senior's case, either.

On Jan. 22, the MHSAA announced that Engstrom was one of 12 female finalists for three $1,000 scholarships given to athletes at Class C schools who have a cumulative GPA of at least 3.5, have won at least one varsity letter and submitted two letters of recommendation and a 500-word essay on the importance of sportsmanship to the MHSAA.

MIO — The Charlevoix wrestling team has two grapplers who made the state finals last year in Camden Alden and Mick Hinkle.

With the form he's shown in recent weeks, Rayder junior Tyler McCallum looks like a safe bet to join them this year, as well.

McCallum took first at 130 for the Rayders in the annual Josh Chartier Invitational hosted by Mio on Saturday, claiming the title with a stunning upset of state placer Isaac Nave of Onaway in a 12-4 major decision in the final.

Alden (135) and Hinkle (189) each took third in their weight classes for Charlevoix at the Invitational, and Jordan Chernauckas (119) took fourth as well for the Rayders.

Charlevoix will travel to St. Ignace on Wednesday for a tri against the Saints and Gaylord, and will also compete in the Northern Michigan Championships in Gaylord on Saturday. Their JV team will join Petoskey in competing in Gaylord on Friday as well.

Rayder girls take third despite being shorthanded at conference meet

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

MANCERLONA — It's still early in the season, but the race for the Lake Michigan Conference boys and girls ski titles is already proving to be an exciting one.

After winning the opening LMC meet last Thursday, Jan. 14, the Harbor Springs boys couldn't edge past the Elk Rapids/TC St. Francis boys squad in the second meet on Thursday at Schuss Mountain, forcing a tie atop the standings midway through the season.

On the girls side, Harbor Springs also took second over TCSE, with the Rams taking the slalom event by four points but losing the giant slalom by 11 for a 47-54 edge to the co-op team in the final standings.

Charlevoix's boys and girls teams had a solid meet as well, with the boys bringing home a third place finish.

Brad Klinger led the Rayder boys with a third place finish in the giant slalom (53.86) and a fourth place finish in the slalom (1:13.32), and Ben Peterson took 11th in both the slalom (1:19.59) and the giant slalom (58.83).

Hunter Cox finished 18th in the giant slalom (1:02.35) and 19th in the slalom (1:39.87) as well for Charlevoix's Abbey Scholten earned top five finishes in both races at Thursday's LMC Meet at Schuss Mountain.

Charlevoix, and Josh Hinkley finished 24th in both the giant slalom (1:18.82) and the slalom (2:13.83).

On the girls side, a short-handed Rayder squad had just two competing skiers, but Abbey Scholten took fourth in the slalom (1:14.36) and fifth in the giant slalom (58.27) to lead the way.

Sarah Rockafellow took 19th in the giant slalom

(1:10.98) and 20th in the slalom (1:45.70) as well for Charlevoix.

The third of six LMC meets takes place next Thursday, Jan. 28 at Nubs Nob, beginning at 5 p.m.

to manufacture a consistent offensive threat to keep pace with the Rayders thanks to decent defensive play by Charlevoix.

"Kalkaska is a very similar team to East Jordan in the way they like to spread the floor with shooters and take any open look they can get, and they're pretty good about knocking them down," Erskine said. "In a way it was really good practice for us to see a team like this and be forced to work on paying attention to shooters and closing out as the ball rotates.

"We've got teams on our schedule that are very, very good at that and we need to be on point with our response if we want to win those games."

Joe Stosio came off the bench to lead Kalkaska with 14, and Gavin Peterson chipped in 10.

Charlevoix (5-5, 3-3 LMC) is back at .500 in the league and overall with the win, and looks to keep the momentum going with a trip to Elk Rapids on Friday.

Though the Rayders will need a lot of help to contend for a league title with TC St. Francis undefeated and East Jordan sitting at one loss, Charlevoix is far from out of it if it can put together a lengthy winning streak in Lake Michigan Conference play.

"Ultimately, it comes down to the kids and how they play and how they execute on the floor," Erskine said. "I think they've really embraced that in the last couple of weeks.

"They had a few team meetings among themselves and since that happened, they're working harder, they're talking more to each other on and off the court, and they're talking more with us coaches when they come off the floor, asking us questions and giving us more feedback on what they're seeing out there. It's great to see them taking ownership, and I think it's going to be a big key for us moving forward."

Charlevoix 58, Boyne City 51

CHARLEVOIX — Recent meetings between Charlevoix and Boyne City on the basketball court have been similar enough to almost follow a script: physical, intense, hard-fought games that ended with the Ramblers coming out on top.

On Friday, the two teams followed that formula almost exactly — but this time, the Rayders came out on top for a well-earned 58-51 win on their home court.

"(Senior) Austin (Putman) has played three years on the varsity, and neither he or I had beaten Boyne City in our time here," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "I think we were both 0-8 headed into tonight, and I know that was motivation for him and the other seniors on the squad to go out and get one."

Putman played a big role in the Rayders' rewrite of the script that had haunted them in the past few seasons, scoring 22 points and grabbing eight rebounds to lead both squads.

The senior also went 8 for 8 at the line in the final minutes to thwart Boyne City's late comeback attempt.

"We talk about it a lot, and Austin knows that as a guy who grabs a lot of rebounds for us, he's going to be at the line a lot late in games when we have the lead," Erskine said. "He puts in a lot of work in general, and that extends to his free throws as well.

"He really leads by example with the way he practices and plays the game."

Walker Drost chipped in nine points and five assists for Charlevoix, and Kevin Pearl, Colin Smith and Arvo Viitaharju each added eight as the Rayders seized control with a big third quarter that put them up by 11 heading into the fourth.

Smith and Viitaharju each hit two 3-pointers for Charlevoix, and Pearl added multiple long 2-pointers as well.

"We've got confidence in our kids as shooters, but sometimes they miss a couple and they let it get to them," Erskine said. "We tell our kids that even Michael Jordan missed 20 shots in a game sometimes, but he would turn right around and make the next one."

"Good shooters don't let their last shot affect their next one, and it seems like our players are starting to understand that."

The Rayders also had a strong night at the defensive end through three quarters, holding Boyne City to 37 percent from the floor and forcing the Ramblers into 20 turnovers.

"Give credit to Charlevoix, they played really hard at that end and made it tough," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "On our end, we just didn't execute very well and made a lot of mental mistakes."

"We dug ourselves a hole in the first half by not taking care of the basketball and not executing the way we needed to, and that made it tough the rest of the way."

The Ramblers kept themselves in the game with their offensive rebounding, especially from forward Tanner Kruzel, who got several putbacks and kept plays alive in the fourth quarter as the Ramblers cut the deficit to four at one point.

Kruzel and Derek Willis each finished with 12 points to lead Boyne City, Mason Gardner chipped in 11 and Luke Sage finished with 10 as well.

CHARLEVOIX — The fifth and sixth grade teams in the Charlevoix Youth Basketball League wrapped up their season with a tournament on Saturday, Jan. 23, and Team Carson was the big winner.

Team Carson beat Team Trimper in the finals, 28-13, to claim the title, led by 18 points from Taylor Petroskey and a season-high eight points from Jadyn Herriman.

Mabel Carson and Makayla Sharrow each scored two points as well for Team Carson in the win.

Lauren Jensen led Team Trimper in the final with eight points, and Lily Byra, Camryn Turkleson and Olivia Vollmer all contributed as well.

Team Carson beat Team Dorst in the semifinal to reach the final, led by 14 points from Petroskey, who finished as the high scorer on the day.

Isabel Kenwablke chipped in four points and Herriman, Sharrow and Carson all scored as well.

Kyri Titus led Team Dorst with six points, AnnaKato Smith and Emma Phillips each chipped in four, and Caili Mueller and Kylee Dorst each scored two.

In the other semifinal, Team Trimper defeated Team Lentz in a 20-17 thriller. Vollmer led Team Trimper with eight points and Turkleson and Jensen each chipped in six.

Katherine Wagner scored eight points to lead Team Lentz, Kylie Williams added six and Emma DeYoung and Abbey Johnson also scored.

With the conclusion of the league season, travel basketball season is now on the horizon for Charlevoix, starting on Jan. 30 at Petoskey High School. There are travel teams for sixth graders, fifth graders and third and fourth graders, and interested parties can contact Liz Shaw at lshaw@rayder.net for more information.

committee of school coaches, counselors, faculty members, administrators and board members to be finalists.

Engstrom is a three-sport athlete at Charlevoix, participating in cross country, girls basketball and soccer and is playing a key role on all three teams as a senior despite missing the entirety of her junior year with an ACL tear.

"Kelsey has worked extremely hard in physical therapy to get back to competitive form," Charlevoix AD Travis Garrett said. "We are very excited she is a finalist for the MHSAA Scholar Athlete Award, and I can't think of a more deserving student."

All three of Engstrom's varsity coaches weren't surprised to see her honored as a finalist by the MHSAA.

"I'm really proud of her effort and contribution to the program," Charlevoix girls basketball coach Liz Shaw said. "It really says a lot about her determination and character to fight back (from her injury), and she's a great example of a warrior on the court and in life."

Charlevoix girls soccer coach Pete Scholten was also impressed with Engstrom's determination.

"When Kelsey got injured in the fall, she worked extremely hard to beat her expected recovery time and get back by the end of the soccer season last spring," Scholten said. "It really shows her dedication, love and passion for the sport."

"She's just someone who is naturally a hard worker."

Charlevoix cross country coach Doug Drenth tabbed Engstrom's leadership qualities as her greatest asset.

"She epitomized what it meant to be a good teammate, and she always worked hard and set a great example for the underclassmen," Drenth said. "She never complained and always carried a positive attitude."

"Her response to any request I made was 'Sure, coach' and I never had to worry about whether or not she'd follow through."

Engstrom will find out if she is the winner of one of the three scholarships given to Class C female athletes on Feb. 2, when the MHSAA announces all the Class C and D recipients of the Scholar Athlete.

CHARLEVOIX — Two Charlevoix swimmers topped the podium for the Stingray swim club at their first meet of the season in Rudyard on Saturday Jan. 9.

Thomas Gardner (16) brought home first place finishes in the 100 yard freestyle (56.07) and the 100 backstroke (1:10.30) for the Stingrays, and also took second in the 50 freestyle (25.19).

Gardner will also be getting special recognition at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool for his backstroke time according to Stingray coach Phillip Marilugh, which will include a photograph with his name in the lobby.

McKenna Ebert (17) also brought home two first place finishes for the Stingrays, winning the 500 freestyle (6:35.48) and the 100 backstroke (1:14.73).

Griffin McFadden (10), was a double medalist for the Stingrays as well, bringing home third place in the 50 freestyle (42.07) and in the 50 backstroke (58.19), and Dan LeBlanc (16) won two medals as well, taking second in the 100 backstroke (2:09.42) and third in the 100 freestyle (1:53.90).

Kennedy Gardner (9) took second in the girls 25 butterfly (49.07) and Jacob Walz (13) took second in the boys 100 backstroke (1:42.41) for the Stingrays, and Katerina Schlueter (6) took third in the girls 25 backstroke (46.83) and Jacob Gardner (12) took third in the boys 50 backstroke (49.74) as well.

Three relays earned medals for the Stingrays, as the team of Aidan Boop (11), Walz, Gardner and Hunter Simon (11) placed second in the 200 freestyle (2:58.85) and 200 mixed medley (3:32.06) relays, and the team of Rachel Lalonde (16), Katerina Lalonde (17), McKenna Ebert (17) and Elizabeth Lalonde (18) took third in the girls 200 freestyle relay (3:01.68).

where the Rayders got another crack at LMC champion Grayling and a test from Big North foe Ogemaw Heights.

Charlevoix split those matches, falling to Grayling by a narrow 42-31 margin but knocking off the Falcons 53-30.

Five Rayder wrestlers went undefeated on the night, led by Camden Alden (135 and 140 pounds) and Mick Hinkle (189 and 215), both of whom are in the top 10 in their weight classes in Division 4 according to michigan-grappler.com.

Brothers Jeremy Chernauckas (112 and 119) and Jordan Chernauckas (119 and 125) also went undefeated for Charlevoix, as did Tyler McCallum (130 and 135).

Mike Webb (130 and 135), Jake Seger (152), Max Hinkle (171) and Jake Petrosky (285) each won a match on the mat as well for Charlevoix on the night.

Kalkaska 77, Charlevoix 23

KALKASKA — THE Kalkaska girls basketball team defeated Charlevoix 77-23 Tuesday night.

Natalie Nesburg led Charlevoix with 10 points and Hannah Zipp finished with five rebounds.

Kalkaska improved to 11-0 overall, 5-0 in the Lake Michigan Conference. Charlevoix fell to 1-9 overall, 1-5 in LMC play.

Charlevoix looks to regroup on the road against Elk Rapids, while Kalkaska hopes to stay unbeaten when it travels to Harbor Springs.

Both matchups are scheduled for Friday at 5:30 p.m. respectively.

Defendant
Cleave Twentyman, et al.,

THE COURT FINDS:
Service of process upon defendant Cleave Twentyman cannot reasonably be made as provided in MCR 2.105, and service of process may be made in a manner which is reasonably calculated to give defendant actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.

IT IS ORDERED:
Service of the summons and complaint and a copy of this order may be made by the following method(s):

1. X First class mail to last known addresses at:
455 N. Ridge Circle,
Mantoloking, IL 60002
4330 W. Bermuda Dr.,
Peapack, AZ 85392

2. X Delivery at 11330 W. Bermuda Dr., Avondale, AZ 85392 to a member of defendant's household who is of suitable age and discretion to receive process, with instructions to deliver it promptly to defendant(s), which was completed on November 23, 2015.

3. X Other: Publication in the Charlevoix Courier for 3 consecutive weeks.

For each method used, proof of service must be filed promptly with the court.

It is further hereby ordered that the Defendant(s), Cleave Twentyman, shall file with this Court, an Answer to Plaintiff's Complaint to Quiet Title and serve a copy upon Darren Findling, 414 West Fifth Street, Royal Oak, MI 48067, attorney for Plaintiff(s), or take such other action as may be permitted by law. Defendant(s) failure to comply with this Order may result in a Default Judgment being entered against the Defendant(s) for the relief sought in Plaintiff(s) Complaint to Quiet Title. Order for service of process by publication

At a session of said Court held in the 33rd Circuit Court for Charlevoix County, Michigan, on the day and year set forth below.

PRESENT: Honorable Roy C. Hayes III
33rd Circuit Court Judge

Plaintiffs filed a Verified Ex Parte Motion for Service of Process in the discretion of the court. After reading the motion, the court finds that Plaintiffs have shown that service of process cannot reasonably be made on Defendants by the methods provided in MCR 2.105(A), in that Plaintiffs have demonstrated that Defendants and their whereabouts are unknown. The court further finds, pursuant to MCR 2.105(I), that service of process by publication is the best available method of service of process reasonably calculated to give Defendants actual notice of the proceedings and an opportunity to be heard.

IT IS ORDERED:
1. Plaintiffs may serve process on Defendants by publishing the following notice once each week for a period of three (3) consecutive weeks in the Charlevoix Courier:

"An action alleging adverse possession and seeking to quiet title to real property located in the City of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, commonly known as 230 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, and fully described as:

All that part of Lot 2, of Block 5, of the original Plat of the Village (now

City) of Charlevoix, according to the recorded plat thereof, described as follows: Beginning at the Southwest corner of said Lot 2, of Block 5; thence East along the Southerly line thereof (and along the North line of Clinton Street) 80 feet; thence North parallel with the East line of Bridge Street 25 feet; thence West parallel with the Southerly line of said Lot 2, 80 feet to the East line of said Bridge Street; thence South along the East line of said Bridge Street 25 feet to the place of beginning.

has been commenced by Plaintiffs, Gary J. Mordick and Jeryl E. Mordick, against Defendants, The Unknown Heirs, Devisees, or Assigns of F. Jerold Mordick, Esther M. Mordick, Harold E. Lang, and Muriel V. (Lang) Archer, in the 33rd Circuit Court for the State of Michigan, and Defendants must answer or take other action permitted by law within twenty-eight (28) days after the last date of publication. If Defendants do not answer or take other action within the time allowed, judgment may be entered against them for the relief demanded in the complaint."

2. Plaintiffs are not required to mail a copy of the Order, as Defendants are unknown and, as such, their addresses cannot be obtained.

IT IS SO ORDERED.

We won't know the answer to that question until the morning of Groundhog Day. Until then, here is a game for you to play with the kids.

To play, you will need some pennies to use as tokens and a die. Place all tokens on start, select a player to go first and then have that player roll the die. The player should move their token the number of spaces indicated on the die and follow any instructions listed on the space on which they land. Play should continue in this fashion with each player until someone reaches the finish and is declared the winner.

New plan reduces airport closures

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — A new plan to minimize the amount of time the Charlevoix Municipal Airport will be closed during the fall runway construction project was presented to city officials on Thursday.

The airport advisory committee met in special session on Thursday to hear from David Joye, an aviation engineer of RS&H, about another concept that would be the least impactful to the operators flying to and from Beaver Island.

The plan will relocate the threshold to 3,000 feet — relocating a threshold reduces the length of runway available for landings.

This concept will add an additional $30,000 to $60,000 to the project, which would be eligible under the airport's current grant funding, Joye said.

"This will keep one of the two runways open daily for the duration of the project," Joye said. "It does include additional nighttime construction, which is the added cost."

Compared to the other options, which included temporary closures of the airport, the newest is the one the committee recommends, said Scott Woody, the airport advisory committee's vice chairman.

"The committee is for the plan with the least amount of impact on the airport operators," Woody said.

The new proposed plan on construction will lessen the impact on the two airlines serving Beaver Island.

"The other plans would have really impacted Beaver Island and Island Airways," said Angel Welke, Island Airways owner. "We appreciate what the engineers came up with."

Rachel Teague of Fresh Air Airlines also was encouraged by the new proposal offered by the engineers.

"These are really good ideas," Teague said.

CHARLEVOIX — Twenty-two-year-old Nataleigh Musser loved horses, life and her 13-month-old son, Noah. Her family and friends remember her as someone that was fearless, smart and "she was life" — a life gone too soon.

"She touched so many people," said Cathy Musser, Nataleigh's mother. "She gave you encouragement when you thought you didn't have any. She was life and she is going to be greatly missed."

As her family grapples with Musser's unexpected death, police are wrapping up their investigation after a search team found her body along the shore of Round Lake around 8:30 p.m. Friday in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan said the investigation at that time revealed a single CHARLEVOIX — Police in Charlevoix said it does not appear that foul play was involved in the death of a young woman who was found in Round Lake Friday.

City of Charlevoix Police Department Police Chief Gerard Doan said Monday that all the evidence officers have collected so far in the investigation into the death of Nataleigh Musser, 22, of Charlevoix points to Musser being alone at the time she went into the water.

Doan said the first indication of a problem came late Thursday when a Charlevoix Police Officer found Musser's car parked on Burns Street near Dixon Avenue and Musser was nowhere to be found. Doan said he's not aware of there being any problem with the car.

In the early afternoon, Friday, Musser was reported missing to police. Doan said further investigation at that time revealed a single set of footprints heading toward the lake on Burns Street, where it dead-ends at the water's edge.

He said tracks and other impressions in the snow show the location where Musser entered the water from a retaining wall near CHARLEVOIX — News of the passing of Lou Hollow was followed by a flood of remembrances from friends and colleagues in the Charlevoix community. Hollow's passion for community banking and dedication to a life of community involvement were two recurring themes from those who knew and worked for him.

There are many other stories told about Hollow who was lovingly referred to as "Uncle Lou." He will without a doubt live on through each and every one.

"He helped so many people, myself included," said Beth Egler, a former Charlevoix classmate of Lou's son, Mark Hollow. "My family used to call him 'Uncle Lou' because you could always go to him if you had a problem or needed some advice. I remember him with his big cigar and even bigger smile. He was truly a big part of my life and the lives of a lot of people in Charlevoix. God bless him."

Each life he touched all had the same sentiment to share: Lou Hollow was a "humble good guy." Hollow's daughter, Michele O'Donoghue lives and works in Longmont, Colo., spoke about Hollow's love for Charlevoix and his humility.

"He loved Charlevoix so much," she said. "I think he told the Chamber when he was contacted about his Citizen of the Year award that 'They got the wrong man.' That's just who he was."

"He was always doing nice things for people, whether financial or otherwise, and sometimes they didn't even know it," O'Donoghue added. "Everybody seemed to know and like him. When we'd go downtown to the coffee shop, he carried doggie treats in his pocket. Even the dogs loved him."

Quilts from the heart

ANNIE GILLY

Special to Charlevoix Courier

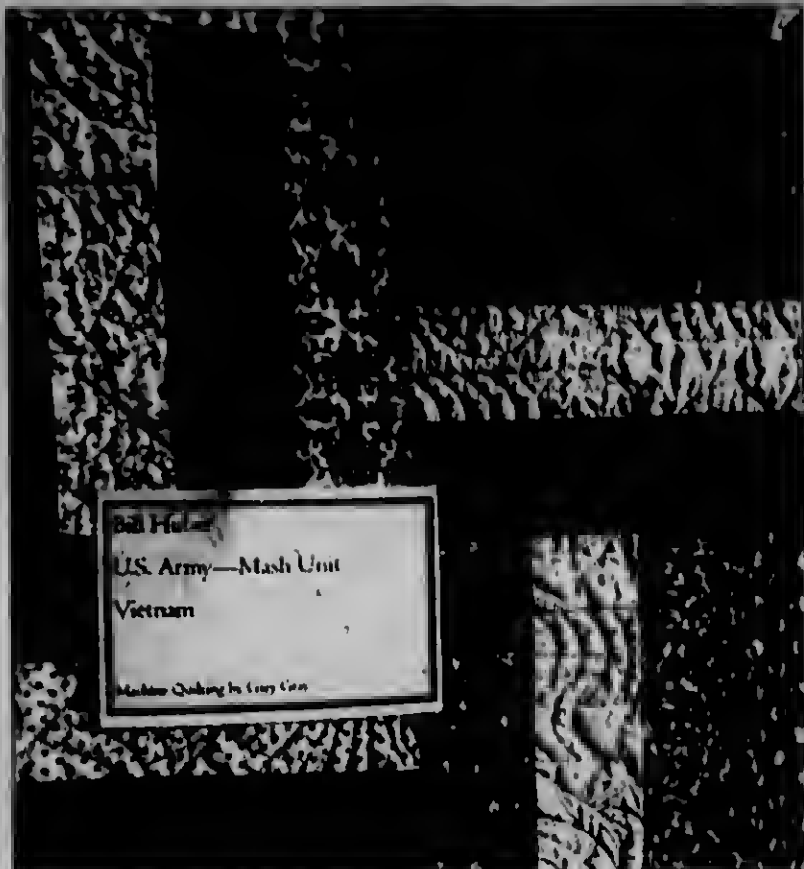

CHARLEVOIX — Extending throughout the month of February, the Charlevoix Public Library is exhibiting "Quilts of Valor" in the community room foyer, a project presented by the Little Traverse Bay Quilt Guild of Petoskey and Hearts to Holly Quilt Shop of Charlevoix. These are patriotic themed quilts made by area quilters and donated to Northern Michigan veterans as a sign of appreciation and respect for their service.

"Approximately 65 quilts have been made and presented in the two years since the outreach program began in our area," said Linda Fry, a member of the group from Boyne City. "We recommend neighbors, family members or friends who may have served in the armed forces, and make them quilts."

Bill Huber is a recent recipient of one of the Quilts of Valor that is on display this month. His wife, Mary Lee, is a member of the Little Traverse Bay Quilt Guild. Huber served in Vietnam in 1970-71. He received the 50th quilt presented to a local veteran.

"The Vietnam War was not a popular war," Huber said, "so, when we came back, there was very little recognition that we had served. It really meant a lot to me after so many years, to finally have that happen."

Huber served in a M.A.S.H. unit (Mobile Army Surgical Hospital) in Vietnam as first, a pharmacist, then out of necessity, a medic. After returning from the war, he finished school at Ferris State University and taught at Hart Public Schools. He became involved in politics by supporting Congressman Bob Davis in 1993. He served as a Chief of the District Staff in the Michigan Senate for two years, and subsequently 14 years in the United States House of Representatives when Davis ran for and was elected a Michigan Representative.

"He has never stopped serving his country," Mary Lee said, referring to his current position on the Government Relations Committee of the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce.

The Little Traverse Bay Quilt Guild meets every first Wednesday of the month at the Hearts to Holly Quilt Shop in Charlevoix where quilters cut, sew and assemble twin sized bed quilt tops. Volunteers rely on the generosity of materials and donations as well as "long arm" quilters and binders who finish off the quilts. Each is a work of art given lovingly from the heart. Any veteran of any branch of the United States military is eligible to receive one of these quilts.

The Quilts of Valor project is only one of many ways area quilters donate their time and talents. The Little Traverse Bay Quilt Guild of Petoskey meets on Wednesdays at the Hilland Cottage to sew quilts for Hospice patients. Other projects are place mats for Meals on Wheels, and pediatric quilts and pillowcases for kids from birth to 18 years old that are patients at McLaren Northern Michigan Hospital.

In Charlevoix, Hearts to Holly also provides a meeting space for a Friday morning Chatter Time group. Here one can find congeniality, conversation and hearts and hands ready to take on many charitable quilting projects. Gene Steele and his wife Barb in Charlevoix Area Hospital Infusion Center. Gene was given the quilt to keep him warm and cozy during his chemo session which can last upward to 8 hours. The quilt was hand quilted by Peggy Spang who donated it to the Hospital. She was delighted to know that it found a happy home.

"We started out as a core group of five quilters, and now we might have as many as 12," Seidel said. "It sort of branched out from the core group into the community. We are so grateful to Hearts to Holly, the Rainbow Shop and to the Petoskey Sewing Center for their generosity in providing material and/or donating or refurbishing machines needed for our groups' outreach projects. First we made quilts for the Joppa House, Charlevoix's women's transitional shelter, and now we provide quilts for patients at the infusion center at Charlevoix Area Hospital."

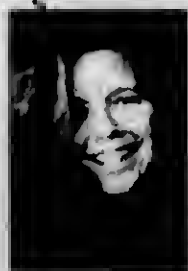

Gene and Barb Steele of Charlevoix are appreciative of the quilt that keeps Gene comfortable during his, often chilly, infusion treatments. Gene has battled various forms of cancer in the past 15 years. Between the view from Charlevoix's new infusion center that allows patients to look out over Lake Michigan rather than being stuck in a basement room in an area cordoned off by curtains ... and the quilt, Gene is cozy and warm during sessions that may take upwards of six hours.

"Our quilting group is wonderful," Seidel said. "All the ladies are so helpful and kind. There is never criticism, just encouragement. We learn from one another and have fun helping others."

Monday Morning Coffee series at Circle of Arts

The Charlevoix Circle of Arts will introduce their new lecture series "Monday Morning Coffee" with the work of Mary Stewart Adams, Headlands International Dark Sky Park program director. The coffee series begins at 10 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 8, at the Charlevoix Circle of Arts, 109 Clinton St.

While New Year in the Gregorian calendar is fixed to Jan. 1, the Chinese calendar moves through the early weeks of the season aligning itself to the wandering ways of the Moon every year. And Adams will celebrate as Feb. 8, 2016, marks the Chinese New Year of the Monkey. Adams will discuss how the year animal is determined from one year to the next, and how it relates to the celestial events of the year.

Adams is a star lore historian and storyteller dedicated to a human-centered approach to the celestial world, and the arts and sciences it inspires. She has received numerous honors for her work, and in addition to being a featured presenter and host at Headlands, she can be heard each week on Interlochen Public Radio with her "Storyteller's Guide to the Night Sky."

For Adams, this humanities-based approach demonstrates how natural darkness is essential to harmonious human living, while emphasizing that protection of the night sky. Like the protection of land, air and water the night sky is fundamental to success in the art of stewarding natural and human resources. Adams led the initiative that achieved International Dark Sky Park designation for Emmet County's Headlands property in 2011, and now serves as its program director. In addition, her work has taken her far and wide: From the main stage at Northern Michigan's Blissfest to Dubai, from Hlawa National Forest in Michigan's Upper Peninsula to Switzerland, all out of the ideal that, in order to safeguard and nurture healthy human imaginations, Adams maintains that we must protect our access to the night sky and its stories.

"Monday Morning Coffee" series will be presented on the second Monday of the month throughout the calendar year. The Monday Morning Coffee series is sponsored by Johan's Café of Charlevoix. For more information, call (231) 547-3554 or visit charlevoixcircle.org.

Charlevoix schools awarded safety grant

NICOLE SEYMOUR

Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Just in the last few weeks Charlevoix Middle/High School and Charlevoix Elementary School implemented some pretty big changes to their daily routine all in the name of safety.

On Jan. 25, the school installed a "buzzer system" at the front entrance of the building. The system was put in place with the safety of students and staff in mind and to allow the school to remain locked and secure during regular school hours. All entrances, including the front doors, will be locked from 8:10 a.m.-3 p.m. when school is in session. All those who arrive during regular school hours will be requested to buzz in at the front door with the administrative assistant for entry.

"We want to make sure we have a secure building when school is in session," said superintendent Mike Ritter.

The buzzer system will not be in effect after 3 p.m. due to high usage of the building for after school activities.

"The building gets used a tremendous amount after school," Ritter said.

While it may cause for a change in routine for some visitors, school officials are happy with the implementation of the system and see it as a benefit to the school.

"We feel this is another step to keep our students and staff as safe as possible during school hours," said Suzanne Klinger, school principal.

The funds for the system were provided by a grant interim Superintendent Tom Stobie applied for last January.

"Tom wrote the grant," Ritter said. "Tom did a great job while he was here and was very helpful. We received $25,000."

The system cost the district an additional $2,500 after the grant funds were applied. The school district will monitor the new security system and will make changes in future, if necessary, Ritter said.

"We never had one of these systems before and what we will do is observe how it works before we spend more money on it," Ritter said. "After we evaluate the system it is possible to make upgrades, but we want to wait and do it in a fiscally responsible way by making sure this approach works for us."

Snyder shows contempt for the people

Editor:
Gov. Rick Snyder's Financial Emergency Manager Law has created a State of Emergency in Flint. In 2011, newly elected Gov. Snyder signed Public Act 4 giving him the freedom to take over any city government his office found financially bankrupt, with power to override any decision of elected city officials. This law showed his primary motive—money before people. In November 2012, the people of Michigan voted down his Financial Emergency Manager Law as they resented losing control of their cities. In December 2012, he showed his contempt for the people's vote and signed a revised version. The revised law did not give power back to the people as Snyder's henchmen still retained financial control.

In 2011, Snyder appointed the first of four Emergency Financial Managers to run Flint. In 2014, for economic reasons only, Flint's water supply was switched from Detroit's water system to the polluted Flint river. The Governor and his staff saw no red flags when residents immediately noticed discolored, off-taste, smelly water. The public health alarm was sounded by Dr. Hanna-Atrisha with Hurley Medical Center, when her testing showed twice as many children with excessive blood lead levels. This travesty has now resulted in the poisoning of approximately 8,600 children under age 6. There also has been an increase in Legionnaires disease in which 10 adults have died and many others experienced severe pneumonia most likely from the toxic Flint water.

Snyder in his State of the State address played up the blame game. However, the real culprit is Gov. Snyder with his money-hungry laws, inaction when aware of the problem, and total lack of leadership to prevent permanent harm to Flint's children and measurable suffering to the elderly and high risk individuals.

I suggest going to the Governor's website: michigan.gov and express your opinion.

Early education is critical

Editor:
I have always known how important education was, but never realized how critical early education is, until I started working at Char-Em United Way. My name is Becca Marcott and in November of 2015, I began my year of service as an AmeriCorps VISTA. As part of my orientation, I was introduced to the Dolly Parton Imagination Library. I learned that this program, founded by Dolly Parton, provides a new, free book each month to children from birth to age five. As part of Char-Em United Way's education focus area, they started the program here in Charlevoix and Emmet counties in 2012 and have put more than 44,000 books into the hands of young children. Overall, there are more than 1,300 children in the program receiving free books each month. Parents can register their kids by going to the Dolly Parton Imagination Library website or calling Char-Em United Way at (231) 487-1006.

Research has shown our brains grow and develop the most in the first few years of life. This program not only helps that development but also encourages parents to spend time reading together with their children. Reading helps fuel our imagination and having a love of reading allows us to possibly keep it longer.

I relocated for my position as an AmeriCorps VISTA from Linwood, MI. The Dolly Parton Imagination Library program isn't available in Linwood. I found out after starting here that 1,400 communities in 48 states, the UK and Canada have a similar program. I am impressed with how far the program has got so far and excited for what I can do to help it succeed even further. On Feb. 8, A Toast to Literacy will be held to support the Dolly Parton Imagination Library.

President Obama's gun control plan misfires

Some of the fondest memories of my youth involve heading out into the woods of Western Upper Peninsula to hunt with friends and family. My father had been killed in a mining accident when I was a kid, but I learned to hunt and shoot from people in our community who knew the importance of passing on this tradition in our culture, just like my dad would have taught me. Today, one of the most rewarding parts of being a father and grandfather myself is passing on this heritage to my kids and grandkids like so many other families in Northern Michigan do.

Guns are a part of our way of life; they put food on our table and keep our families safe. Michigan's 1st District sent me to Congress because they know I will do everything in my power to protect their rights. Up North, we understand that the Constitution clearly enshrines each individual's right to keep and bear arms to protect their lives and property. The Supreme Court has even ruled that this right applies to every American, and that it is just as fundamental to our liberty as the freedoms of speech and assembly. In Congress, I am working to fight those who would ignore these rights in favor of political optics.

The Constitution also states that it is the power of Congress to write the laws and it is the responsibility of the President to responsibly implement them. When I meet with students in grade school, even they can recite these basic truths about how our government is intended to operate. Sadly, it would seem the President of the United States skipped this chapter in civics class.

The President's recent executive orders on gun control undermine the basic tenets of our democracy and set a dangerous precedent for administrative power over our Constitutional rights. While I believe we must do more to ensure that weapons stay out of the hands of those who are mentally ill or have criminal intentions, any changes to existing gun law should be deliberated and passed by Congress before taking effect. While it is unfortunate that the President finds the democratic process to be inconvenient, that does not grant him the power or authority to make an end run around the Constitution in order to advance his policy goals.

In the House, we are currently working on bipartisan legislation that will reform how we provide resources for the mentally ill in this country. It is my belief that this legislation, the "Helping Families in Mental Health Crisis Act," will do much more to prevent mass shootings than the President's ill-advised anti-gun agenda. I call on the President to be a willing partner in the legislative process as we work through these issues instead of poisoning the well with executive orders that circumvent the will of the people's elected representatives.

Our Second Amendment rights are too important to leave to the judgement of one man. Our founding fathers saw these rights as so essential to our liberty that they dedicated an entire amendment to their protection. Any change to the administration of these rights should be vetted and evaluated by Congress, and to ignore this process in favor of political posturing is unbecoming of a President and a leader. For this reason, I have joined with my colleagues in co-sponsoring a resolution to formally censure the President for his executive actions. We should never stand by when our rights are being threatened by a government that is out of touch with the American people. Northern Michigan can count on me to stand up in defense of their rights at every opportunity, and I will continue to fight for the Second Amendment for the remainder of my time in Congress.

Donations help children learn to ski, enjoy summer camp

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6556 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — A program that provides opportunities for children of low-income families to participate in Mount McSaubia summer camp and winter ski school received new life this year based on fundraising efforts of the Charlevoix parks and recreation department.

"We have had tremendous success," said Tom Kirinovic, Charlevoix parks and recreation director.

The department raised approximately $15,000 for its program. The money primarily funds the costs for children to participate in summer camp and the ski school in the winter where the children come in for four weeks to learn the basics of skiing.

The effort to raise money began in the spring of 2015, after a longtime donor to the department was no longer able to help fund these programs at Mount McSaubia that are geared toward children in low-income families.

"At the time I knew this is going to impact us short-term, but also long-term if we never saw funding from this source again," Kirinovic said.

Not knowing what would happen in the future Kirinovic decided to go out and seek financial assistance from the Charlevoix community. With help from the local service clubs, local churches, businesses and the Charlevoix Community Foundation the department raised enough money to reach more children in need than ever before.

"Last year we didn't get very far, obviously, because we had that one donor back out," Kirinovic said. "This year it has exceeded our expectations."

To reach the children who could benefit from these recreational services Kirinovic goes to area schools and asks staff to distribute applications to children that are either on free or reduced lunch. The children receive the applications and then families interested in the programs for the children fill them out and send them in.

"All of these kids are kids that are probably not going

The Charlevoix Parks and Recreation Department received a $5,000 check from the Charlevoix Rotary Club to help children of low-income families participate in summer camp or ski school programs at the Mount McSaubia recreation area. The Rotary Club donation was one of many donations that helped the city recreation department raise $15,000 for the children in the community. to get the chance to have that experience and memory of either winter skiing or going to summer camp," Kirinovic said. "With the help of all these groups, clubs and entities we can now make that experience and memory possible."

In typical years children in low-income families face an educational desert unless they receive one of a limited number of scholarships to summer camp and other recreational activities, but this year the program was able to accept more children, Kirinovic said.

"Not only have we been able to help the children on free lunch, we have been able to get into the next tier of children on reduced lunch," he said.

This year the program has also been able to do other things they were unable to do in the past. One example is a child who trying to lose weight. The parks department has been able to provide this child with snowshoe rentals to use the trails and paths at Mount McSaubia.

"The donations have really given us some flexibility that we never had before," Kirinovic said.

The department fundraising will be an ongoing process even though this year's goal was reached because the department wants children to enjoy the beauty of the Mount McSaubia recreation area.

"We are going to ask the community for assistance because that need is always going to be there," Kirinovic said. "We are not going to let any dollar raised go to waste because those children should have the financial opportunity to enjoy those activities."

Feast and Film potluck happens Saturday

EAST JORDAN — The Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center in East Jordan will have its annual, family-friendly Feast and Film potluck at the farmhouse beginning at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 6, at 5745 North M-66, East Jordan.

The event will focus on wild food or game harvest. Attendees are asked to bring a dish to pass if they are able; although, the dish is not required and need not necessarily be made out of wild game. After dinner, there will be a documentary about the foreboding Siberian countryside that explores the challenging relationship between humans and their environment. There will be a discussion to follow. Feast and Film potluck joins the East Jordan Sno Blast weekend. Suggested donation is $5. Coffee, tea and table service will be provided.

For more information, call (231) 536-0333 or find them on Facebook.

LOOKING BACK...

Changing water levels has caused billions of dollars of damage over time

For a number of years up through 2013, deep concern grew all over the Great Lakes about the worrisome, and in some cases dangerous, low water levels throughout the entire lake system. Several mild winters had passed with much lower than normal precipitation. The reduced waters were interfering with commercial shipping, causing hundreds of thousands of acres of unwanted and in many cases unhealthy shoreline growth, and forcing shoreline property owners to install longer docks. But that changed after the wild, extremely snowy winters of 2014 and 2015 brought the lake levels back up to more comfortable heights. There is a downside to this, however, during the occasional consecutive years when there is no respite from snow. The mid 1980s was the last time such a period occurred. With it came record high lake levels that caused billions of dollars of damage in the United States and Canada. These Charlevoix

Courier photos show the washout of Lakeshore Drive in front of Boulder Park, taken after a tremendous storm in October of 1986, while down in East Park, the city had to construct docks on top of docks that year so yachts could get off their boats and walk directly onto the park grass over the submerged cement waterside walkway. That is one reason the renovation of the Round Lake city marina completed in 2008-2009 now enjoys floating docks and an esplanade many safer feet above the water level.

Short's Brewing to begin national distribution

Elk Rapids — Short's Brewing Company of Bel-Aire announced plans to distribute its beer and Starcut Ciders outside of Michigan beginning Feb. 5. The brewery, which was founded in 2004 by Joe Short, has distributed only to the state of Michigan since opening its production facility in 2009.

Short said the decision to move away from the company's Michigan only sales philosophy was not an easy one. He feels a responsibility to make decisions that help the company continue to excel at providing for their staff, investing in their community, and pushing the boundaries of creativity in their craft.

In 2015, Short's increased their distribution in Michigan by 24.2 percent. With the Michigan craft beer scene thriving and shelf space getting tighter, Short's decided to implement a plan that would allow for sustained growth amidst the increasingly crowded market. Short's has never sold to any outside investors or other breweries, and remains independent.

"My role is to ensure that we continue to thrive as a business and take care of our staff," Short said. "Over the past couple of years, we have built a dream team of staff and infrastructure needed to produce our hand-crafted beer on a scale that ensures a constant supply to the state of Michigan. We currently have both the capacity and the personnel to sell more beer and cider than just the Michigan market, without compromising the quality of service to our home state."

Short's looks forward to the opportunity to provide beer lovers across the country with Short's brew and connecting them with Northern Michigan.

Councilman offers to pay city back $200

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6556 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — First-term city councilman Bill Supernaw offered to return money to the city for questionable per diems he submitted and was paid for during his first year as a city council member.

According to documents received through the Freedom of Information Act, Supernaw had the highest per diem pay at $1,800 in 2015. Shirley Gibson followed him at $1,350, Leon Perron at $900, Campbell at $600, Kurtz at $550, and Shane Cole at $400.

Supernaw requested and was paid for a handful of meetings he wasn't required to attend, including an Airport Advisory Committee and Charlevoix Recreation Advisory Board meeting. He also was paid for attending the Michigan Department of Transportation bridge closure information meeting at the library and the public meeting regarding the 2016 infrastructure project.

"I want to pay back the

Supernaw

$200," Supernaw said.

He questioned if the city could remove it from his next paycheck and City Clerk Joyce Golding said she would have to check with the city treasurer on how to handle this situation.

A review of city council pay and per diem sheets showed that Supernaw was the highest earner on the publicly elected board coming in beneath mayor Gabe Campbell in 2015. During the city council meeting on Feb. 1, Supernaw pointed out to council that in early 2015 much of his per diem pay came from attending required meetings.

"When I turn in my per diem request I always ask them to let me know if I am eligible for that request," Supernaw said. "I haven't got a clear answer about it."

Perron said in defense of Supernaw that he also did not understand per diem pay when he first started serving on council and suggested a pamphlet to help new members of council.

"This is retribution," Supernaw said, referring to the Petoskey News-Review article from Jan. 29 was intentionally focused on only his finances. "It's a hit job."

According to documents obtained through Michigan's Freedom of Information Act, Campbell received $3,290 and Supernaw received $3,120 for the last four quarters they were paid. Shirley Gibson followed Supernaw at $2,820, followed by Shane Cole at $2,600, Leon Perron at $2,370, and Luther Kurtz, at $1,870.

The mayor and city council members receive quarterly stipends for serving the city of Charlevoix. The quarterly rate is set by the term of service to the city. Shane Cole has served the longest, earning a quarterly rate of $555 each quarter or $2,200 for the year. The rate for newly elected officials begins at $330 each quarter or $1,320 for the year, which applies to Supernaw and Kurtz. The mayor is paid $660 each quarter or $2,640 for the year.

Elected officials also receive $50 per diem pay for appointed boards and committees along with special meetings or work sessions that Golding submits. For attendance at certain out-of-area meetings, those payments increase to $75 including mileage reimbursement.

"I turn in per diem pay for any special meetings/work sessions or Board of Review," Golding said. "Each council person is responsible for turning in their own per diem slips for attending appointed committee meetings."

The Charlevoix Compensation Commission passed a resolution in 2007 that states council members shall be paid a per diem for required attendance at city business meetings in addition to regular council duties.

"It has always been that way," Campbell said. "You don't pay yourself for sitting in the audience."

Perron has never submitted a per diem pay request personally, but believes the resolution appears to be self-explanatory.

"The key word is 'required,'" Perron said. "I'm not required to go to a DDA meeting or airport advisory meeting. I go because I want to be there to hear the information. I shouldn't be paid for that."

Kurtz also has not submitted a per diem request. He believes submitting requests are the personal responsibility of the council member.

"It is up to each member to decide what should be submitted under the rules and for staff to review it," Kurtz said.

To avoid any misrepresentation of taxpayer money, Gibson suggests some type of oversight.

"I'm not privy to other council members per diems," Gibson said. "If there is any confusion on per diem sheets maybe we need a better system of checks and balances."

OBITUARIES

Karen Marji Smith Lewis, 79

Karen Marji Smith Lewis, 79, of Charlevoix passed away Monday, Feb. 1, 2016, at home with her sons at her side after a short illness.

She was a Charlevoix native, as were her parents, and her husband, Jim, of 51 years. She and Jim were active in the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club and the Charlevoix Historical Society.

As the Historical Society's Museum Committee Chair, she was instrumental in Harsha House renovations, organized the Depot historical quilt exhibition, and developed the "Artists of the Past" program responsible for acquisition and preservation of local art. She co-authored many Historical Society books and organized some of the Society's most popular exhibits, for which she earned the Margaret Duerr Award in 2006, given to an outstanding individual who has advanced the preservation of history or enriched the quality of life in Northern Michigan.

Her most recent project was a comprehensive history of Civil War Veterans in Charlevoix County. She delighted in exploring cemeteries throughout the county with her Wednesday lunch crew, searching for veterans' grave sites. A tireless researcher, she balanced her duties as housewife by volunteering with Beta Sigma Phi, and as curator of the Pilgrim Haven Museum while living in South Haven. When she lived in Spring Arbor, she organized the "Arts Go To School" program at Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson.

Along the way she wrote numerous informational and educational books on Native American culture and history, and Michigan botany and geology. As an expert in Native basketry and art, she was a popular lecturer for adult organizations and school groups alike, dragging along hands-on materials and unique artifacts for the enjoyment and education of others.

Karen is survived by her sons, Terry

Lewis of Charlevoix; Mike (Pat) Lewis of Palm Bay, Fla.; Jim Lewis of Stevensville; Andy (Kerry) Lewis of East Lansing; five grandchildren, Gordon, Gavin, Elizabeth, and Iain Lewis, Pam Laboda, and Shawn Boyer; two great-grandchildren, Ethan Laboda and Aydra Lewis; and one sister, Georgie (James) Smith Raulerson of Boynton Beach, Fla.

She was preceded in death by her husband, James G. Lewis; and by her parents, George and Marj Smith.

Celebration of life will be held June 19, 2016, in Charlevoix. Interment will take place at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Charlevoix Historical Society, 103 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

FUNERAL HOME

Jerry R. Stewart, 67

Jerry R. Stewart, 67, of Grand Rapids, formerly of Gaylord, passed away peacefully at home, surrounded by his family on Wednesday, Jan. 27, 2016.

The son of Harry and Freda (MacMillan) Stewart, he was born on March 4, 1948, in Charlevoix. Jerry graduated from Charlevoix High School and Central Michigan University with a Master's Degree in Education.

On June 17, 1972, he married his wife, Suzanne (Bradford) Stewart. They built a home in Gaylord, where they raised their three children, Joshua Stewart, Jacob Stewart and Molly Stewart. Jerry was a teacher at Wolverine Schools for 33 years until he retired in 2005. He spent his summers selling real estate at Century 21 of Gaylord.

You could often find Jerry on the golf course with his usual foursome. Jerry loved spending his free time on the golf course, at the bowling alley, and taking trips with his family. He enjoyed playing and watching sports, especially the Detroit Lions. His love for the game of golf inspired his youngest son to pursue a career in the golf industry. His love for real estate inspired his oldest son to become a real estate photographer, and the kindness he showed to everyone around him inspired his daughter to follow a career in social work.

Jerry was preceded in death by his parents; and sister, Jill Stewart.

When Jerry said goodbye, he was surrounded by his family and his heart was filled with love. Surviving are his devoted wife of nearly 44 years, Suzanne; sons, Joshua Stewart of Grand Rapids and Jacob Stewart of Berkeley, Calif.; daughter, Molly Stewart of Grand Rapids; and brothers, Jon (April) Stewart of Berkeley, Calif., and Dr. F. James (Kate) Stewart of Charlevoix.

Memorial services are at 11 a.m. Saturday, Feb. 6, at the First United Methodist Church of Charlevoix, 104 State St., Charlevoix, with a luncheon following.

In lieu of flowers, the family requests memorial contributions be made to United Methodist Church of Charlevoix or Spectrum Health Hospice.

To share a favorite memory, send a message of sympathy to Jerry's family, or to sign his online guest book, please visit www.MichiganCremation.com.

Louis J. Hollow, 85

Louis J. Hollow of Charlevoix, Mich., passed away peacefully at his winter home in Venice, Fla., on Friday, Jan. 29, 2016, at the age of 85.

Lou was a veteran of United States Air Force. He received his BA from The University of Detroit and master's in finance from the University of Michigan. He married Barbara Hollow in 1953, with whom he had five children.

He began his banking career at National Bank of America and moved to Charlevoix in 1973, where he served as the President of First State Bank of Charlevoix and later was the founder and CEO of Charlevoix State Bank. He retired in 2000.

Lou was an active member of Charlevoix community. He was a Charlevoix Yacht Club member and commodore; member of committees for Michigan Bankers Association; past president and board member of First State Bank of Charlevoix; retired president and founding board member of Charlevoix State Bank; board member of North Country Community Mental Health; Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce's Citizen of the Year; member of St. Mary's Catholic Church; board member of Charlevoix County Foundation; longtime member of Charlevoix Lions Club; president of Charlevoix Hospital board.

He appreciated the beauty of the northwest where he enjoyed sailing, skating, running and reading.

Louis is survived by his sister, Elise Divian; son, Mark (Mary) Hollow; daughters, Deborah (Steve) Trent, Karen (Bob) Sussman, Lori; Hollow and Michele (Mark) O'Donoghue; and many loving grandchildren, nieces, nephews and extended family. Louis was a loving father, grandfather and friend to all.

A memorial service will be held in the summer. Details to be announced.

Memorial donations may be made to Lou's name to the Little Traverse Conservancy, <http://landtrust.org/Donations/LtCMemorialForm.htm>, 3264 Powell Road, Harbor Springs, MI 49740, (231) 347-0991; or, Charlevoix Area Humane Society, <http://www.charlevoixhumane.org/support/online-donations/view=Contributions>, 614 Beardsley Street, Boyne City, Michigan 49712, (231) 582-6774.

BUSINESS

Generations come together Charlevoix company finishes long-standing project

NICOLE SEYMOUR
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — This past year, Walter Pair of Midwest International got to a very special call to oversee the revamping and completion of a project his father oversaw some 42 years ago. The project was to replace six loading spouts at the boat loading berth at the St. Marys Cement plant. For Midwest, the project would be the second time they were part of a major renovation to St. Marys Cement.

When the initial bulk loading spout project began back in 1972, it was one of Pair's father's most innovative ideas and helped change the way Medusa Cement Company (now St. Marys Cement) delivered product. Through the use of bulk loading spouts companies were then able to upgrade production, distribution and storage capabilities to the companies they serviced, as well as deliver products faster. When Pair received the call regarding replacement of the bulk loading spouts he knew it was a unique opportunity to bid on hometown business and keep the monies local, but moreover pay homage to the project his father, Ron Pair, began years ago.

"When a customer bypasses the formalities and works with you because they believe in you and believe in the product that you build, that's where the magic happens," Pair said. "That's the type of relationship Midwest had with Medusa back in the 1970s and that is the type of relationship we had with St. Marys last year."

For Pair and his employees, being part of such a long-standing company is more than just being able to work on generational projects, it's also witnessing the changes in technologies and seeing how they have advanced through the years.

"Our steel cutting system, which is the lifeblood of our manufacturing process, can process the templates created by the 3D software, and precision cut them with beautiful accuracy," Pair said. "Today, we can go from a concept on the white board to a finished product in a fraction of the time it took just a decade ago."

While Pair looks forward to the company's 50th anniversary next year, he also takes the time to reflect on the company's history. Beginning his first days in the company's sales office at 14 years old, Pair has seen his family's legacy go through turmoil in the way of issues with employee's embezzling from the company and the bankruptcy that ensued because of it. Yet, the Pair family and its many employees held strong to their belief in what they were doing and saw themselves through those darker days.

"The Midwest family has employees that have worked here a long time, some more than 30 years," Pair said. "These are individuals that I have known essentially my whole life. Midwest is as important to them as it is to me. Midwest represents who we are professionally, and it is the foundation for our life here in Northern Michigan."

Focused on the future, Midwest continues to service its clients through its determination and drive to build products that stand the test of time. With 3D modeling software and the use of technology the company foresees a continuation on being able to service clients faster and smarter, as well as continue on in the spirit of Pair's father so many years ago.

"A couple years ago I received a call from a plant in Manistee that has a lot of Midwest equipment installed," Pair said. "The gentleman was looking to replace one of their loading spouts on one of their truck loadouts. He gave me the serial number and I looked up the job while he was on the phone. I said, "Hmm, this project was shipped out on my birthday". He replied, "Oh yeah, the same day as your birthday". I said "No, it was shipped on the actual day that I was born." It is a good feeling when those kind of situations arise. It keeps our focus in the right direction," Pair said.

Representing Charlevoix at State of State address

Recently, I was in Lansing representing Charlevoix as part of our Northern Michigan Chamber Alliance during the State of the State address.

The Alliance is a partnership of 14 Chambers of Commerce that comprise 14 counties in Northern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula. The partnership is premised on the fact that many business public policy issues impact Michigan's northern region in similar ways. In total, we represent more than 6,500 business members throughout the region.

It is always an honor to spend time in Lansing with our Representatives and Senators from the Northern Michigan region. We had a busy 24 hours in Lansing hosting lunch for the Governor and Lt. Governor staffs, one on one meetings, receptions at the Capitol and a Legislative breakfast.

The Governor's speech addressed a number of important issues including the Flint water crisis. If you have not yet had a chance to hear the State of the State address I would encourage you to visit michigan.gov/snyder. By visiting this link you will find a video of his speech, the transcript of his speech as well as the Flint water timeline.

This speech was unlike any I can remember in my lifetime. Key moments in my speech are as follows: Michigan will continue to work on our state's infrastructure challenges, support Detroit schools in making a transformational change to support the Soo Locks for a second lock and the important impact it has now and into Michigan's future, and finally the commitment to ensure Flint residents have clean and safe drinking water.

Sometimes it's hard to relate these priorities to our community, but it's important to remember that we are impacted greatly by the issues in Flint, Detroit or even the Upper Peninsula. When the alliance visits with the Governor's staff, and our Representatives and Senators, our priority is to have a voice for Northern Michigan in Lansing and to keep the following commitments in mind:

— Making it easier for businesses in Northern Michigan to be competitive, — Helping strong business sectors remain strong and continue job creation in our region.

— Ensuring our workforce is educated and prepared for the future needs of northern Michigan businesses.

— Promoting investment in our public transportation and business infrastructure including energy development, road systems, harbors, airports and broadband connectivity.

The Alliance 2016 priorities include: workforce housing and education, transportation infrastructure, health care, energy, tourism, and business growth and development.

For more information on the Northern Michigan Chamber Alliance visit charlevoix.org.

Alison Hubbard is the president of the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce. The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce is a non-profit organization with 440 business and individual members, and growing strong. Our Mission is to support commerce and provide leadership to enhance the quality of life.

together, and these days that includes shopping, dining and other fun outdoor activities. Weight loss surgery dramatically changed both of their lives.

Veronica had the surgery first. As Candy watched her mother's sleep apnea vanish and her life improve in every way, she decided it was right for her, too. "It's the hardest thing you will ever do, but it's the most life-changing and rewarding decision you will make," she said.

Before weight loss surgery, Candy rarely ventured outside. Now, she's looking forward to her first 10K race with her mom this summer.

Rep. Triston Cole, R-Manistota, welcomes Richard and Wendy Friske (left) of Ellsworth as his guests during Gov. Rick Snyder's State of the State address at the Capitol on Jan. 19. Friske is a farmer and owner of, the multi generation, Friske Orchards. "Richard and his wife are very involved contributors to their community in Northern Michigan. It is an honor to have them joining me for Gov. Snyder's speech," Cole said. "The agricultural industry is a vital resource to the Northern Michigan economy both from the grassroots at the production level as well as an additional tourism benefactor."

Dogman coming to Mount McSaubia

LOUIE ALLEN
(231) 237-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Fat tire bikes will take to the trails at Mount McSaubia during the fourth annual Dogman Challenge at noon on Saturday, Feb. 20.

In the challenge, bicyclists will repeat a two-mile loop over a period of two hours. Whoever completes the most loops wins.

The event is designed to promote Charlevoix's gain of a recreation area — Mount McSaubia, said Chet Morris, race organizer and owner of Revolution Bike and Boards, in Charlevoix.

"We want people to know about the outdoor recreation available in Charlevoix in the winter," Morris said. "We get racers from all over and we hope they stick around a few days and enjoy the town."

Morris encourages spectators to come and view the sport and bring a cowbell to cheer on the race participants.

"The entire community is invited to come out and bring a cowbell to ring and cheer for the bikers," Morris said.

The after race party will be located at the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company where the awards ceremony will take place, Morris added.

Race registration is available at dogmanchallenge.net and the race will begin with a mass start at the ski hill.

For more information, email Morris at art.yahoo.com, or call (231) 237-0900.

Back Porch music announces lineup

CHARLEVOIX — The Back Porch community music events continue for the 2016 season with an eclectic lineup. Performers will range from folk to retro country to indie rock.

Each event begins at 7 p.m. with the scheduled performers sharing until 8:30 p.m. A circle jam will follow the headliner. Donations are a suggested $5-$10 per person and the door and go to performers. Soups, cookies, coffee and tea are available at no additional charge. Make your own instrument activities available for young people. Upcoming performers are:

- Saturday, Feb. 13 featuring Bob Fawcett
- Saturday, March 12 featuring Charlie Millard
- Saturday, April 9 featuring Northern Michigan group ECHO
- Saturday, May 14 featuring Ruby John and The RETROS

February's guest, Bob Fawcett, a songwriter for 16 years, regularly attends Lamb's Retreat for Songwriters where he has learned from such masters as Joel Mabius, Jack Williams, Michael Camp and Dick Segal. He has been picking and singing for more than a decade at Blissfest's Song Tree and Third Stage and at other Michigan music festivals. Fawcett has performed solo of with his daughter Susan at Boyne Arts Collective, Charlevoix Library's Winterfolk series, Traverse City's Cedar House, Petoskey's Red Sky stage and at Short's Brewery. He was a guest artist on TV Channel 189's Northern Michigan Musician's Journal and on The Elsie Mindel Show. With finger style guitar, harmonica and occasional banjo he serves up a tantalizing gambo of musical styles from ballads to blues, from humorous musical tales like "The Sultan of Psychopharmacology" and "The Virgin Vampire" to sad and pensive pieces like "Where did my mother go?" about Alzheimer's disease. His concert will include original songs, parodies and covers of traditional tunes and songs by other Northern Michigan songwriters. His book, "Limericks from County Emmet" includes some songs from his CD "Unsung Heroes" appear as poems in his book "Limericks from County Emmet." Fawcett will sign books or CDs after the performance.

The Back Porch is a community event for all ages, held at the Charlevoix Senior Center building. The Center is located at the corner of Carpenter and Sheridan streets, and is fully accessible. For more information, call (231) 622-2944.

Warm things up at soup-off, card party

CHARLEVOIX — The St. Mary's Rosary Altar Society will host its annual soup cook-off and card party at 12:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 14, in the parish hall of St. Mary Church.

Members of the parish will be participating in the soup cook-off by donating their favorite pots of soup and their time. For an admission fee of $5 per person sample sizes of each soup will be enjoyed along with rolls, a dessert bar and beverage of choice. After enjoying the array of soup offerings, the fun of casting a $1 vote for your favorite soup takes place and the winner collecting the most money for a charity of choice will be crowned king or queen for 2016. Following the crowning ceremonies there will be a 50/50 drawing and for those who wish to participate card and board games will be available.

For more information contact the parish office at (231) 547-6652.

Everest Tragedy" will be presented at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 16. Near the top of Mount Everest, on May 10, 1996, eight climbers died. It was the most historic tragedy in the mountain's history. Lou Kasischke was there. Now he tells the harrowing story of what went wrong, as it has never been told before, including why the climbers were desperately late and out of time. His personal story tells about intense moments near the top, and the moments that revealed the love story that saved his life.

Adult services librarian Talia Hofacker will present

"Internet Travel Planning" at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 23. She will share popular online sites for flights, hotels, and activities for both domestic and international travel, and how to search the sites for the information you need.

The final program in the series features the "History and Legends of Spain" with world travelers Al and David Eicher at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 8.

They will include stops in Madrid, the Spanish Riviera, the Sierra Nevada Mountains near Granada, Seville and many more.

Travel the countryside and cities, and explore the history and culture of Spain through this amazing visual presentation.

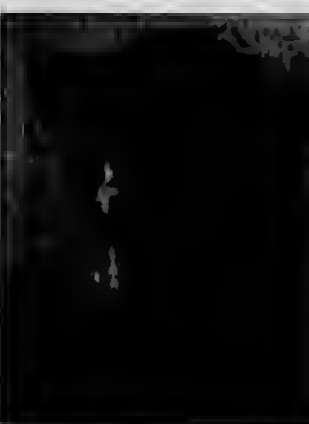

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St. The series is free and all are welcome. For more information, call (231) 237-7340.

Voices Without Borders welcomes new president, new artistic director

PETOSKEY — Voices Without Borders, a non-profit performing arts organization based in Petoskey, is pleased to announce the election of a new president of the Board of Directors and the appointment of a new executive/artistic director.

Brenda Bell steps into her role as president after having been active with Voices Without Borders for several years, both as a board member and as parent volunteer in the Little Traverse Youth Choir, the performing branch of Voices Without Borders.

New executive/artistic director Owen James has been the Little Traverse Youth Choir Touring Choir director since fall of 2015. He steps into the shoes of Jack Kukuk, Voices Without Borders' co-founder, and outgoing executive/artistic director. Kukuk will remain associated with the company as a board member, providing valuable services as a consultant and fundraising specialist.

Brenda Bell (left) is the new president of the Board of Directors for Voices Without Borders and Owen James is the new executive/artistic director for Voices Without Borders.

"I owe a huge debt of gratitude to Jack Kukuk for the strong foundation he has laid for Voices Without Borders," James said. "When he and his wife, Sara Russell, founded VWB in 2009, Jack brought with him an unbelievable wealth of knowledge and experience in performing arts administration and production. I look forward to his continuing guidance and insight."

For his own part, James has established himself as a uniquely sensitive music director, and a successful educator of young musicians. Through more than 20 years as a private instructor, many of his students have gone on to successful music careers of their own, whether as performers, recording artists or educators.

"It is such a joy to work with young musicians"

James said "I am privileged to share with students and Youth Choir members the uplifting, unifying power of music. With Voices Without Borders, we take that further: through the concerts we present, the international choirs we host and the other music services we offer, we can build bridges within and between communities both locally and globally."

In the coming months, Voices Without Borders, through its choirs, will continue to offer music performances for area organizations such as American House and Independence Village, share in community-themed singing events, and embark on a Great Lakes area concert tour.

The Little Traverse Youth Choir Treble and Touring choirs are open to Northern Michigan singers ages 7-19.

community from the time he arrived in Charlevoix, according to O'Donoghue. The list of his community participation is lengthy. He was a member of Lions, did a lot for the Charlevoix Public Schools, and was an active member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club to name a few.

"I am so proud that he was my father," O'Donoghue said. "I only hope I learned something from him."

Hollow's son, Mark, who lives and works in Elk Rapids, said, Hollow loved to sail and they often sailed together.

"It was a father-son thing we did," Mark said.

"He would tell me that if he ever had stress, he would just go out on the boat on Wednesday nights and the stress would just blow away."

Many members of the Charlevoix Yacht Club could offer Lou Hollow stories of endearment. Mike Carland, who was introduced to sailing by Hollow in the mid '70s, said Hollow always enjoyed the sailing in the Red Fox regatta.

"His favorite race was the year-end event on Lake Charlevoix, in the The Red Fox," Carland said. "His last racing years were spent behind the wheel of his beloved boat the 'Bald Eagle'. On race nights, Lou had a secret weapon for light air, cigar smoke. He would light up a cigar to see which way the wind was going. You could smell it a long way away on still nights."

Hollow, who had always worked in banking, was passionate about the idea of forming a community bank here and he succeeded in doing just that. In 1994, he established the Charlevoix State Bank at its present location on State Street and created a hometown banking legacy that continues today. Richard Hodgson II is the current chairman of the board there. Hodgson's father was one of the bank's original founders and incorporation partners.

"When they started the bank, Lou promised to be bank president for five years followed by five years as president of the board," Hodgson said. "He pretty much kept with his plan. I worked as a board member under Lou, and then assumed his position as chairman when he left. He was so good with customers. If a customer wanted a loan and it was a bad idea, Lou wouldn't tell him that... he would just say, 'tell me about it.' In talking through the plan, invariably the client would realize that it really wasn't a great idea and would go away satisfied he had come to the right conclusion."

John Kurtz, who had been with Hollow during his years with the National Bank of Detroit, followed him to the First State Bank and worked there for 17 years where Hollow was president and CEO, Kurtz was vice president. Kurtz became bank president when Hollow left his position to become chairman of the board.

"The thing that always impressed me," Kurtz said, "was how good he was with people. His motto was that anything is possible... that you needed to take care of the customer, sometimes even helping out in the teller line when necessary. I've never forgotten that."

Mike Hinkle, the current president of the Charlevoix State Bank said Hollow recognized the need for a community bank. "I started working for the bank in 1997, while Lou was still president," he said.

"He was a caring guy, always looking out for people around town," Hinkle said. "After he retired, he continued to look out after others. He drove people to doctor's appointments, chemotherapy sessions, and dialysis if needed. He truly established the model of a local banker, one that we all try to emulate today. He was a good guy and I'm so sorry to hear that he's passed."

Attorney Scott Beatty has been a friend of Hollow's for 40 years. He said Hollow was a good friend who listened and offered good advice.

"When I was making the decision to leave the Prosecutor's office to enter private practice, Lou listened, gave great advice and support," Beatty said. "He has been there for me and many others in their private and financial lives. It's been hard to give back to Lou. He will be missed."

"We spoke about Noah and she shared he was her greatest accomplishment so far in life and I agreed because I am the grandma," Cathy said. "She was excited about starting her new job on Monday at Wojan. She decided to go out and asked her sister to babysit. That was the last we saw her."

Musser was involved with horses all of her life, she was an accomplished rider with a drive and passion for horses that was unmatched. Her ribbons, trophies, and medals cover the walls of her bedroom.

As a rider, she was helpful and outgoing, said friend of the family, Terri Hazzard.

Musser had a love for animals and enjoyed being outdoors. Her friends describe her as the kind of person you loved to be around.

"Nataleigh was bright, cheerful person who always had a smile on her face," said family friend Cyndy Shaw. "She was a free spirit and courageous."

On the horse circuit Musser was known to help others and loved to work with the younger kids who were just learning.

"She was helpful to the younger kids on the equestrian team or the 4H kids," Shaw said. "She made everything fun and she was always there to help everybody. She was generous to give her time and knowledge of riding horse to those kids."

Musser was a friend, daughter, sister and mom and gifted musician who could play any instrument she picked up, Cathy said.

"She was talented at everything she touched," Cathy said. "She was a drum major of the Charlevoix High School Marching Band."

Musser also was a talented artist and her art continues to hang in the library at North Central Michigan College, where she studied architectural design. But her greatest joy in life was Noah, Cathy said.

"That baby boy was her pride and joy," Cathy said. "She was so proud to be his mom. She lived and breathed this baby. She put her whole life into Noah."

A memorial service for Nataleigh Musser will be at 1 p.m., Saturday, Feb. 6, at the old Charlevoix Middle School Gym, 108 East Garfield St.

"She touched thousands of lives," Cathy said. "She never met anybody that she didn't like or become friends with."

Lions Club supports resale shop expansion

EAST JORDAN — The East Jordan Lions Club recently presented East Jordan's Crossroads Ecumenical Resale Shop with a $4,000 check to support the Crossroads project.

The resale shop plans to add approximately 4,500 square feet to the existing building, giving more resale space as well as indoor space for clients of the Care and Share Food Pantry. Office space will also be provided for those needing financial assistance. Furniture and off season items, currently being stored at the Family Fare Plaza, also will find a permanent home within the new space.

The East Jordan Lions Club has pledged an additional $2,000 per year for the next five years toward this project in the East Jordan community. The Club is dedicated to serving others locally and encourages anyone interested in becoming a part of this great organization to contact Denny Gocha at (231) 536-0837.

Rayder boys, girls take second at Invitational

JAMES CHRISTENSEN

BOYNE FALLS—The Charlevoix boys and girls ski teams got a chance to race against downstate competition in the Boyne City Invitational on Saturday at Boyne Mountain, as the Ramblers played host to Detroit Country Day, Grand Blanc and Okemos as well as the Rayders.

Charlevoix brought home runner-up finishes on both the boys and girls sides, falling to Grand Blanc 64-68 on the boys side and 67-84 to the Bobcats on the girls side.

The Rayders' Brad Klinger was the top skier on the mountain on Saturday to lead Charlevoix, taking top honors in both the slalom (1:24.77) and giant slalom (1:01.20), and Matt Good took third in the slalom (1:28.31) and 12th in the giant slalom (1:05.10) as well.

Ben Peterson was sixth in the slalom (1:33.14) and 15th in the giant slalom (1:07.29) as well for the Rayders, and Walker Fogle finished 13th in the slalom (1:42.93) and 17th in the giant slalom (1:10.26).

On the girls side, Abbey Scholten won both the giant slalom (1:01.89) and the slalom (1:27.42) to lead Charlevoix, and Jenna Good finished second in the slalom (1:28.30) and fourth in the giant slalom (1:03.43).

Jessl Windon finished 15th in the slalom (2:09.94) and 19th in the giant slalom (1:25.98) as well for Charlevoix, and Izzy Witthoef took 18th in the slalom (2:24.37).

Rayders end regular season on high note, prepare for conference, district tournaments

GAYLORD—With conference and state tournament meets the only things remaining on its schedule, this weekend's invitational represented the last chance for the Charlevoix wrestling team to prepare itself for meaningful competitions to come.

Charlevoix put itself to the test at the 32-team Northern Michigan Championships hosted by Gaylord on Saturday. The Rayders brought just five wrestlers to run the gauntlet at the invite, but all five did well against tough competition.

Charlevoix's trio of state-ranked wrestlers, Tyler McCallum (130), Camden Alden (135) and Mick Hinkle (189), each took second in their weight classes to lead the way, each going 3-1 and losing to ranked wrestlers in the final.

Jeremy Chernauckas (112) rebounded from an opening round loss to finish the day 2-1 and earn seventh place overall, while Jordan Chernauckas (119) finished 1-2.

The remainder of the Rayder team competed on Friday in the junior varsity tournament, led by Jake Petrosky (215) and Jake Seger (152), who each tied for first place in the round robin format.

Elliot Bartelli (160), Max Hinkle (171) and Justin Bond (189) all took second for the Rayders, and Justin Adkins (140) and Tyvin Whittaker (160) each took third.

Stacy Kenney (285) won a match as well for Charlevoix, which competes in the LMC Championships in Grayling on ELK RAPIDS—Charlevoix boys basketball Coach Brett Erskine said his team "came out flat" in the second half of its 61-59 loss to Elk Rapids, and that was the difference.

The Elks trailed 28-21 after the break, but used five 3-pointers and an 18-8 run in the third quarter to gain the momentum and escape with the close victory.

"We had a bad third quarter," Erskine said. "We didn't close out on their shooters, and they made their shots, and the rest was history."

The Rayders trailed 61-57 with eight seconds to play and scored to cut the deficit to two points.

Charlevoix got a steal with one second remaining and was able to get off a fast-second shot attempt, but it was to no avail.

"We did fight back hard in the fourth quarter," Erskine said. "We just ran out of timeouts and ran out of opportunities. It was a good game, they just beat us."

A part of the reason the Elks had so much success in the second half was thanks to senior point guard Shae Somers, who finished the game with 30 points, but also effective distributing the ball.

"He's fast and quick with the ball," Erskine said of Somers. "He's one of the best point guards in the ELK RAPIDS—The Elk Rapids girls basketball team increased its winning streak to three games pulling away from Charlevoix for a 64-28 win Friday night.

After a 12-12 first quarter, the Elks outscored the Rayders 21-5 in the second quarter to take a 33-17 lead into the break, and put the game out of reach with a 15-5 third quarter performance.

"I thought we played a good first quarter, but basketball is four quarters," Charlevoix Coach Liz Shaw said. "We gotta stay mentally tough for four quarters."

Charlevoix (1-10, 1-6 Lake Michigan Conference) was unable to get back into the game in large part due to shoot-Charlevoix's next meet, a Lake Michigan Conference Meet, was this Thursday, Feb. 4 at Boyne Mountain. The results of that meet will be in next week's Courier.

LMC Meet at Nub's Nob

HARBOR SPRINGS — The Rayders were in action on Thursday, Jan. 28 at Nubs Nob as well in the third Lake Michigan Conference Meet, putting up strong finishes on both sides.

Charlevoix took third on the boys side, behind Elk Rapids/TC St. Francis and Harbor Springs, led by Brad Klinger, who took third in the giant slalom (57.11), and Matt Good, who took sixth in the slalom (1:01.08) and ninth in the giant slalom (58.63).

Ben Peterson took 10th in the slalom (1:05.74) and 15th in the giant slalom (1:02.18) for the Rayders, Hunter Cox took 15th in the slalom (1:13.78) and 18th in the giant slalom (1:03.59) and Walker Fogle took 16th in the slalom (1:18.55).

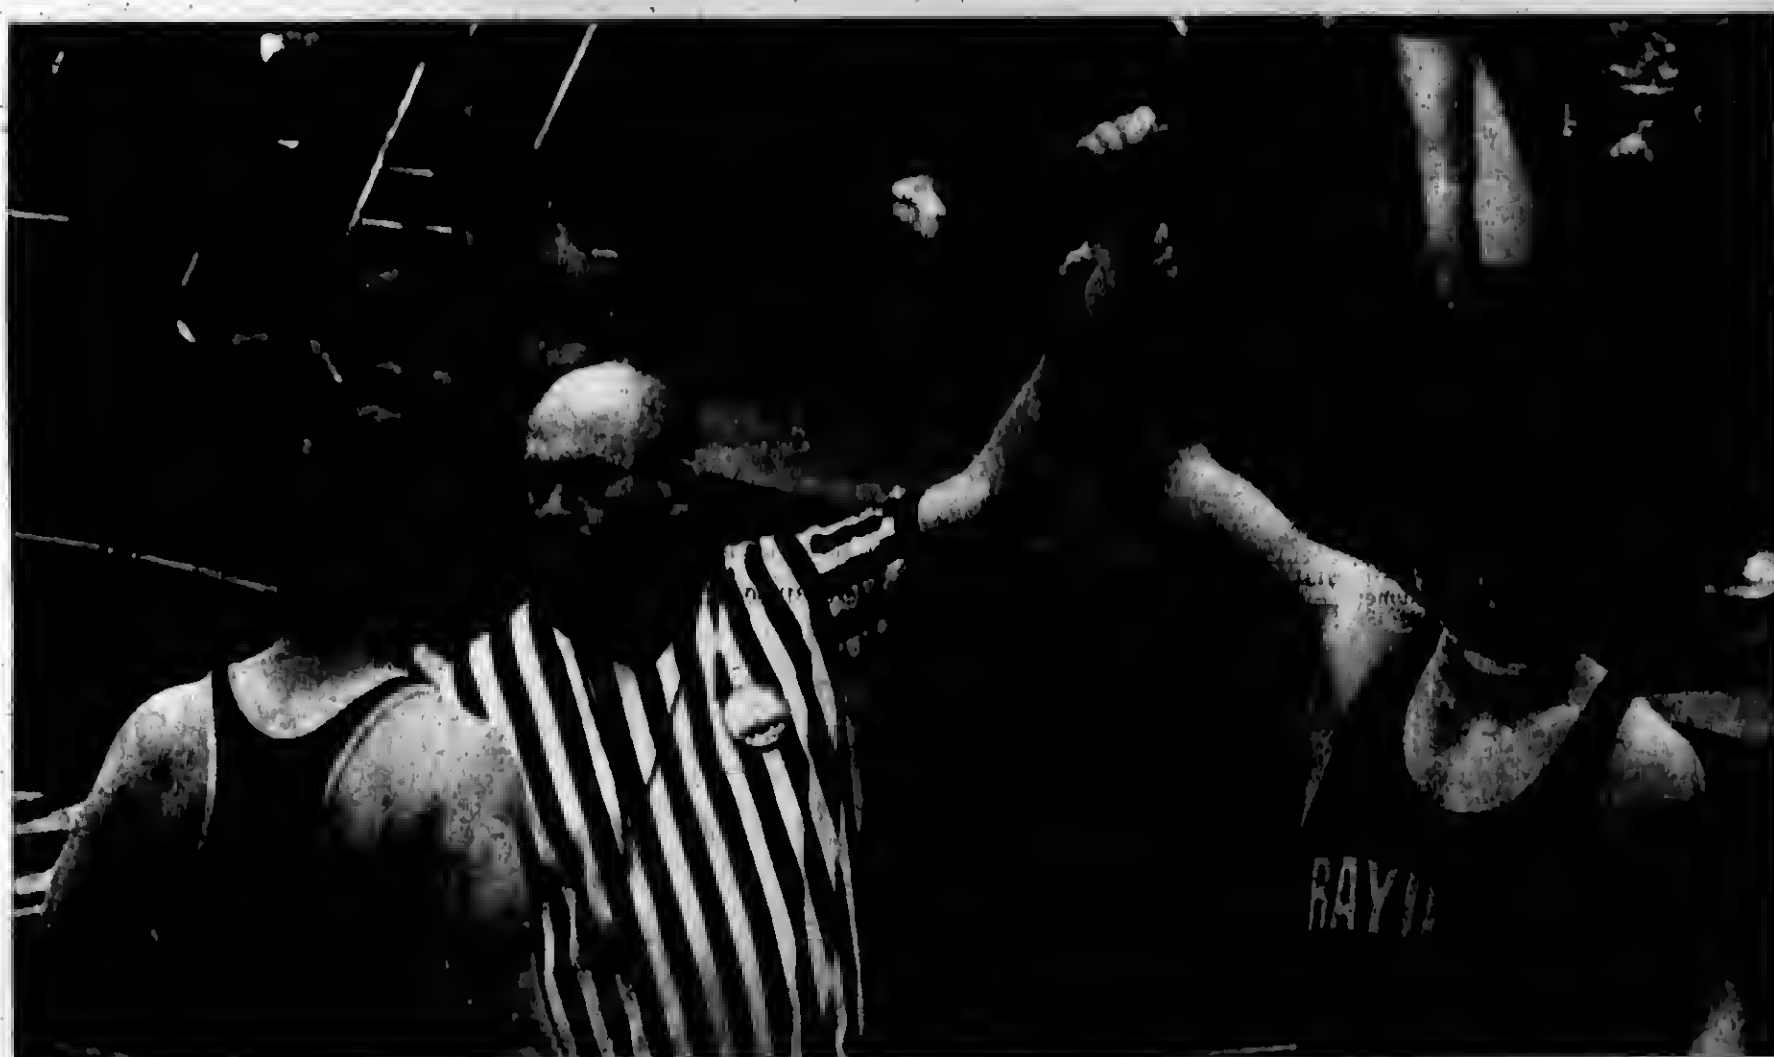

On the girls side, Charlevoix took fourth, behind ER/TCSE, Harbor Springs and Boyne City, led by Jenna Good, who took third in the slalom (1:00.13) and eighth in the giant slalom (1:00.96), and Abbey Scholten, who took fourth in the slalom (1:15.36) and fifth in the giant slalom (1:00.96).

Kylee Scholten took 21st in the slalom (1:15.36) and 22nd in the giant slalom (1:12.91) for the Rayders, Miranda Steiglitz took 25th in the slalom (1:36.37) and Jessie Windon took 26th in the giant slalom (1:24.83).

Tri at St. Ignace

ST. IGNACE — With the wrestling season winding down, Charlevoix appears to be hitting its stride.

The Rayders went above the bridge on Wednesday for a tri with St. Ignace and came away with two dominant wins over Upper Peninsula foes, beating the host Saints 63-18 and Rudyard 60-12.

Several wrestlers went 2-0 for the Rayders on the night, including Jeremy Chernauckas (112 pounds), Jordan Chernauckas (119), Tyler McCallum (130 and 135), Camden Alden (135 and 140), Justin Adkins (145), Eifelt Bartell (160), Max Hinkle (171), Mick Hinkle (189) and Jake Petrosky (215 and 285).

Stacy Kenney (285) and Justin Bond (215) each won their only match of the night for the Rayders, and Mike Webb (130 and 135) won a match as well.

ing 4-for-22 from the free-throw line.

Hannah Zipp, Kelsey Engstrom and Raigan Novotny all scored eight points for the Rayders. Zipp also grabbed eight rebounds, and Olivia Jeakle recorded six rebounds.

Bellaire 38, Charlevoix 12

BELLAIRE — The Rayders struggled in the second half on the road against a tough Bellaire team on Monday, scoring two points in a 38-12 loss.

Hannah Zipp led Charlevoix with six points and eight rebounds as the Rayders hung tough for the first half to go into the locker room down 18-10, but Charlevoix couldn't keep pace in the second half.

league if not the best, and he just got by us.

"We had no answer to contain him, and when we did contain him he would hit one of guys for a 3. He was distributing the ball nicely in the third quarter and those guys were knocking down shots."

Austin Putman continued his consistent play, pacing Charlevoix with 21 points and 14 rebounds. Walker Drost scored 14 points and Arvo Viikaharju added 13.

The loss snapped a two-game winning streak for the Rayders and dropped them to 5-6 overall, 3-4 in the Lake Michigan Conference, all but putting the league title out of reach.

"We had a chance to get right up there

Charlevoix's Austin Putman had his fourth straight game of 20 or more points and his sixth double-double of the season in a road loss to Elk Rapids on

(in the conference standings)," Erksine said. "We thought we would have a shot at the league (title), but now I think that's gone, so we're trying to get better and get prepared for the districts."

Charlevoix is back on the court Friday, Feb. 5 against Harbor Springs. The Rayders defeated Harbor Springs earlier in the season 54-41.

MORTGAGE SALE - Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage made by John Neil Wilson, Jr. and Karen E. Angst, formerly known as Karen E. McMahon, as tenants in common, husband and wife, to Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., as nominee for lender and lender's successors and/or assigns. Mortgagee, dated February 21, 2011 and recorded May 10, 2011 in Liber 957, Page 675, Charlevoix County Records, Michigan. Said mortgage is now held by Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., by assignment. There is claimed to be due at the date hereof the sum of Eighty-Five Thousand Two Hundred and 35/100 Dollars ($85,200.35). Including interest at 4.125% per annum. Under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises, or some part of them, at public venue at the place of holding the circuit court within Charlevoix County, Michigan at 11:00 AM on FEBRUARY 26, 2016.

Said premises are located in the Township of Bay, Charlevoix County Michigan, and are described as: Lot Seventeen (17) Mar-Jean Charlevoix Shores, part of the government Lot 3 and part of the Northwest 1/4 of the Southeast 1/4 of Section 15, Township 32 North, Range 5 West, Bay Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan, as recorded in Liber 2 Plat, Pages 193-194 Charlevoix County Records.

The redemption period shall be 6 months from the date of such sale, unless determined abandoned in accordance with MCL 600.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be 30 days from the date of such sale. TO ALL PURCHASERS: The foreclosing mortgagee can rescind the sale. In that event, your damages, if any, are limited solely to the return of the bid amount tendered at sale, plus interest.

If the property is sold at foreclosure sale, pursuant to MCL 600.3278, the borrower will be held responsible to the person who buys the property at the mortgage foreclosure sale or to the mortgage holder for damage to the property during the redemption period.

Introducing...Pet Obituaries

Pets are a part of the family, and we are offering a new way to share your pet's memorial with the community, family and friends that they shared their life with and help bring legitimacy to mourning the family pet.

As with humans, pet obituaries assign value to a life, define its highlights, extol socially validated accomplishments, and serve as models of living. To assign value to an animal's life is a fine thing, and an excellent match with the growing movement to treat animals of all kinds -- not only our pets -- with care and dignity.

The next Pet Obituary page will run in the News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times or Charlevoix Courier on a monthly basis. Up to 300 words and a photo is $185.

Please e-mail pet obituary and photo to: eadersson@petoskeynews.com along with contact information for us to contact you regarding payment or call 231-439-9375.

Kudo Robert Michael Swenson
May 19, 2015

Kudo Robert Michael Swenson, retired Guide Dog 3x26, crossed the rainbow bridge on May 19, 2015, at the age of 13. I am confident he was met by Perro and Janson and congratulated on a life well lived.

Kudo came into my life on February 15, 2004. He was a spectacular Guide Dog who always took his work very seriously. He was also a great dog who thought furniture was for him and who could be overly concerned with his physical well being. But, most of all, he was a gently giant of a dog -- a big polar bear.

Kudo could no longer guide me this past year when his eyes and legs began to fail. He hated retirement. On May 10th, I came home from Guide Dogs with Sammy. Magic happened the moment they met. Kudo sniffed Sammy and knew he was a Guide Dog. Sammy knew Kudo was a Guide too, and it seemed as though Kudo knew Sammy was here to take care of me and was happy and relieved. They gave each other a lick and Sammy followed Kudo into the house. For the next nine days Sammy would often lay with Kudo on Kudo's bed and they slept side by side at night in our bed. Sammy always checked in with Kudo the minute he walked in the door at the end of the day. For a couple of days Kudo perked up and had a little spring in his step. Dr. Julia, Kudo's rehab vet said he was more relaxed than he had been in months. But last Saturday he started to slip away. Last night after we struggled to get upstairs and up the ramp to our bed Kudo let me know it was time to let him go. This morning only confirmed it was time. Kudo was not in pain and when he took his last breath he was peaceful. After he departed his world we carried him out of the house wrapped in a blanket on a special cot with Max following directly behind all the way to the hearse. On the way Kudo's front legs came out of the blanket and of course they were crossed.

The bond between a Guide Dog and handler is unique and it is strong. Kudo left indelible footprints on my heart that are raw now and will never go away. I will love him and cherish the time we had together for the rest of my life. And when time comes I hope and pray that Kudo, Perro and Janson will greet me on the other side.

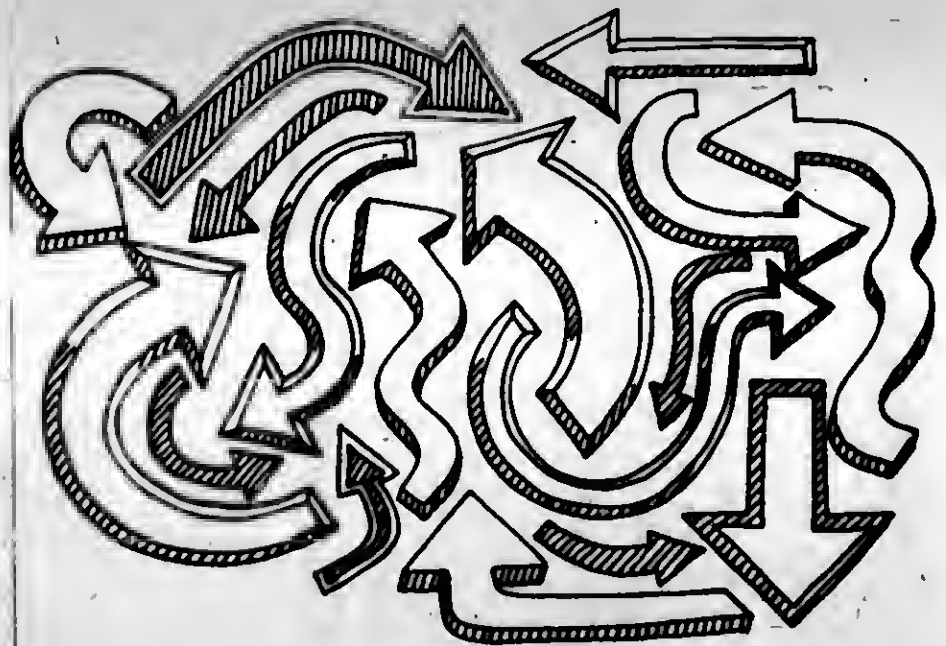

I would like to thank Guide Dogs for the Blind for the gift of Kudo. Anyone wishing to honor Kudo may do so in his name at www.guidedogs.com.

I would also like to thank Dr. Julia Tomlinson at Twin City Animal Rehabilitation and her staff for the love and support they provided to Kudo to keep him moving without pain.

City to save DDA $300,000 on bond refinancing plan

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — City Council members voted to move forward with a plan to refinance the marina bonds that will save the city hundreds of thousands of dollars in interest payments by combining them with the new bonds for the upcoming infrastructure project.

"The city also has the opportunity to save on filing fees by running this as one bond rate," said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

'This is very similar to refinancing a home mortgage.'

Mark Heydlauff, city manager

City Council members approved the bond sale by a vote of 6-0.

The Downtown Development Authority stands to save a total of about $300,000 over the payback span of the bonds, he added.

By refinancing the bonds, he told the council on Feb. 1, the Downtown Development Authority will pay a lower interest rate. The rate is expected to go from 4.1 percent to 2.2 percent.

"This is very similar to refinancing a home mortgage," Heydlauff said. "The DDA will now pay off the CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce's annual meeting and awards breakfast at Castle Farms Friday, Feb. 5, combined business with celebration to honor last year's best people and businesses in Charlevoix.

Chamber President Alison Hubbard informed attendees about the Chamber's successes for 2015 and recognized the business community for making those successes possible.

"We would not be able to do all that we do without the support and investment of our members," Hubbard said.

Chamber board president Dennis Halverson spoke about a strategic review that will take place in 2016 that is expected to benefit, build and strengthen membership.

"We are looking at our priorities and a possible new direction for the Chamber," Halverson said.

"That will give people reasons to be members of the Chamber. It is exciting times and we want people to be part of it."

One of the highlights of the event was the annual award ceremony where each award winner was introduced by video and then brought up to the stage to receive an award. Two businesses were recognized for their role

H. Dale Glass

Friends remember Glass for leadership, friendship, humor

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Former Charlevoix Township supervisor H. Dale Glass, known for his mild-mannered style, steady hand of leadership and always present humor, died Feb. 1, at his home.

He was 83.

Glass had a long record of community service, which was highlighted by his eight-year tenure as supervisor of Charlevoix Township from 2004 to 2012. He also served 35 years as a trustee on the Charlevoix Township Board, where he was instrumental in the creation of the North Point Nature Preserve.

"That was one of his proudest moments on the township board," said Theda Williams, Charlevoix Township treasurer. "He enjoyed talking about the North Pointe Nature preserve and was proud to be part of a board that saw the value of keeping that land preserved for generations to come."

Williams got to know Glass through the church they attended and as a colleague when she was elected to the board as a trustee in 1984. Williams said what struck her most about Glass was his "brilliant mind."

"He remembered every detail about everything," Williams said. "He was so well read, and you can be well read, but not be able to retain things, but Dale's retention was amazing right up to the end of his life."

Williams also remembered Glass as a kind, honorable and humble man.

"I think he was one of the most ethical people I ever met," Williams

City to hear public debate for Mount McSauba protections

The Charlevoix City Council will decide if the people of Charlevoix should have the opportunity to vote for protecting the nature trails, dunes and beach area from being developed at the Mount McSauba Recreation Area during a public hearing scheduled at 7 p.m. on Feb. 15.

CHARLEVOIX — Many Charlevoix residents would agree that protecting the Mount McSauba Recreation Area from developers is the best course for Charlevoix to take.

But should residents have the opportunity to vote for that protection will be up for debate at the next City Council meeting on Feb. 15. The public hearing will let council members hear from residents if they support a ballot measure that would allow Charlevoix voters to decide if they want to protect the parks from future development with a conservation easement.

Some members of the city council are in favor of a ballot measure that would let residents make that determination of protection for the Mount McSauba Recreation Area — not

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier

Editors Note: The year is 1908 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoix-library.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

On the front page of the Charlevoix Courier in the Feb. 12, 1908 issue was the report of a devastating fire. The headlines read: "LOSS WAS VERY HEAVY" followed by "Charlevoix Had Disastrous Fire Saturday Night" and "Pagan's Warehouse Destroyed Loss of Goods Was Heavy"

The fire occurred at 10 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 8, at Pagan's warehouse on Bridge Street. The building was used as a storehouse in the winter and according to the paper different parties had goods stored there. "The cause of the fire is unknown, and had it occurred any other time than Saturday night would undoubtedly caused a far more serious loss than it did, although it was heavy as, in absence of any fire alarm, the first knowledge firemen had was the fact that some of them were in attendance at the Electric Theater, close by, and were able to get others out and keep the fire confined to the building." The article goes on to report that John Pagan's loss on the building was about $500, insurance $100. Loss on the Electric Theater building about $500 fully covered by insurance and Mike Green faced the heaviest loss during the fire with a net loss of $5,000, which was $2,000 insured. All this insurance was carried by Burnett Agency, according to the article.

The article goes on to talk about the tobacco loss of Charles Novak, who was covered by Insurance carried by E.A. Kenyon, but Bert Beaudoin and Hermann Meyer each lost stored buggles with no insurance coverage and Mr. Osborne of Inn also suffered a slight loss on stored goods. The Courier article ends with some final thoughts on the fire, "Since the fire we have heard much criticism of the lack of a fire alarm, or if there is one, the failure of it to act at a critical times, and certainly there should be some way to let our citizens know when there is a fire in town."

Rumplestiltskin show will provide after school entertainment on Friday, Feb. 19.

Rumplestiltskin comes alive at the Charlevoix Library

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Library welcomes Stevens Puppets and their famous Rumplestiltskin marionette show at 3:45 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 19. After-school snacks will be followed by the show at 4 p.m. The show features Martin Stevens' hand crafted marionettes. Rumplestiltskin is a fast paced, action filled, rhyming rendition of the classic tale, following the Miller as he weaves a web of lies to convince the King that his daughter can spin straw into gold. Enter the outrageously outspoken and never happy villain, Rumplestiltskin, whose preposterous demands create even more mayhem in the land of Stiltskin. Top it off with a ground-breaking marionette that flies to pieces right before the eyes. In addition, Stevens Puppets adds a touch of humor and authenticity, to get a highly rated, pleasing program. For more information on Stevens Puppets visit stevenspuppets.com/shows/rumplestiltskin/. This is a free performance for children of all ages. No reservation is required. For more information, call the youth desk at (231) 237-7350. The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St.

City approves power purchase, transformer installation discount

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council unanimously approved a long-term electrical capacity purchase along with giving a break in transformer installation costs for Advanced Clean Air Technologies (ACAT Global) upcoming expansion.

The city owns small portions of several power plants, which supply base power needs. To fill in the gaps left after utilizing what the city owns the electric department purchases contracts for future power supplies that fit future load predictions. The city does this by purchasing contracts for future blocks of capacity and energy that locks in prices. "If we did not do this we would be subject to whatever the market prices are in the future and that leaves us with too much risk of having to pay higher prices," said Don Swem, city engineer.

Swem continued to brief council on the proposal to purchase a ten-year block than a five-year block of capacity based on a low price being offered. The capacity purchase through the year 2030 would be for under $4 per kilowatt for each month. The maximum commitment price would be $9,200 per month or $1.104 million from June 1, 2020 to May 30, 2030.

"It is strongly believed that we should take advantage to lock in this rate," Swem said. "If we wait we could pay a higher rate." Recently, ACAT Global approached the city about expansion plans. The company's expansion will require more power than is presently available. ACAT Global presently uses one 1,000 KVA (kilovolt-amps) transformer that supplies the plant, but with the expansion the company will need an additional 500 KVA transformer at a different voltage. The estimated costs for the upgrade is approximately $15,500, Swem said. The company asked for a discount on the installation cost, based on the fact that its expansion will benefit the city and its utility department.

"The company already spends $47,000 a year for electricity, and now will be increasing that significantly in the coming years," Swem said.

Swem predicts the added electric use will add up to around $15,000 per year. Swem proposed that the city install the transformer for $7,750.

Council agreed to the discount price because the expansion could produce some long-term benefits for the city, said council member Shane Cole.

"I looked at the request with the possible long range benefits to Charlevoix," Cole said.

"The expansion could add another 30 good paying jobs to the area. It also will increase utility use as the company grows.

"I also rely on Don's recommendation," Cole added. "He knows what he is doing and his advice is good."

No more lifeguards at Lake Michigan Beach

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558
allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — This summer, visitors to Lake Michigan Beach will follow most other Michigan beaches in swimming without lifeguards on the Great Lakes.

Recreation director Tom Kirilovic presented the plan at the Feb. 1, city council meeting. Kirilovic made the proposal because the city has had problems filling lifeguards positions and last August the city ceased lifeguard service for the rest of the season because they could not cover shifts.

"We began the season with five lifeguards and by August we were at one," Kirilovic said.

The city still will section off a swimming area and will use the money saved to hire a new seasonal police officer to police the beaches during the summer months.

"This will be a better utilization of our resources," he said. "A seasonal police officer will allow someone to be at all three beaches and be able to be on the piers and other places. The officer will give us a presence at our city-owned beaches."

Researching other communities still using lifeguards Kirilovic concluded there are only two other beach communities on Lake Michigan that provide lifeguards.

"We seem to be in the minority by providing lifeguards," Kirilovic said.

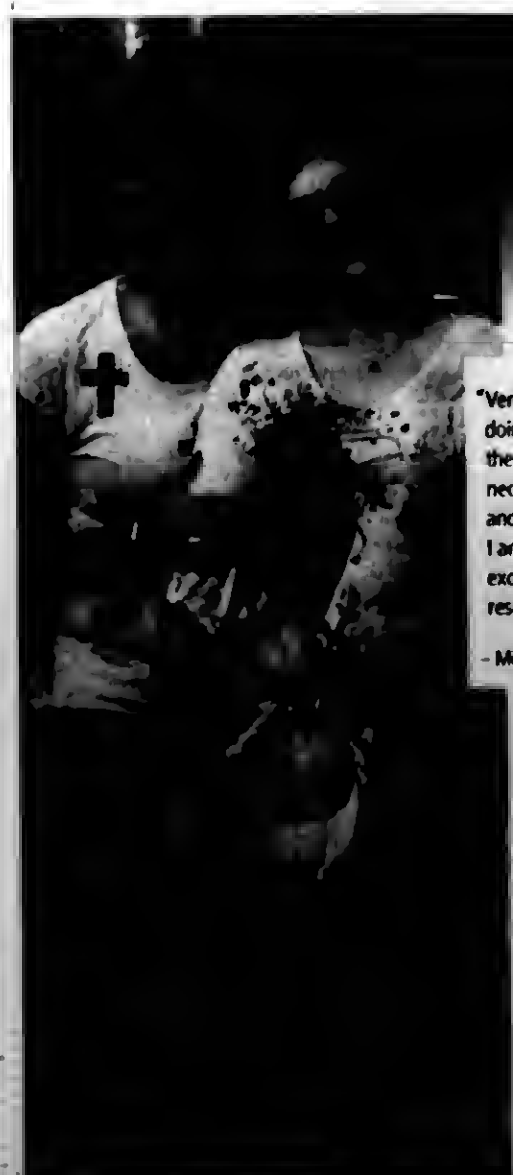

City manager Mark Heydlauff said seasonal staffing has not begun at this time. Staff wanted to get council approval before moving forward.

"At this point we simply wanted to know if council would approve that plan," Heydlauff said. "It is too early in the season to begin the process for seasonal job postings."

Council members also approved restructuring of the parks advisory board by changing the bylaws to allow Kirilovic to add committee members. The Recreation Advisory Board will include seven adult members and two student members. The advisory board will meet on the second Wednesday during the months of April, June, September and December.

Council member Shirley Gibson thanked Kirilovic for the job he was doing and was pleased with his work on revising the bylaws. "I like the proposed changes and the work being done," Gibson said.

- Michael A. Nizzi, DO

We did it! You can, too!

Veronica and Candy are doing fabulously because they are following all of the necessary steps to achieve and maintain good health. I am proud of them and excited about the great results they are getting.

Veronica had the surgery first. As Candy watched her mother's sleep apnea vanish and her life improve in every way, she decided it was right for her, too. "It's the hardest thing you will ever do, but it's the most life-changing and rewarding decision you will make," she said.

Before weight loss surgery, Candy rarely ventured outside. Now, she's looking forward to her first 10K race with her mom this summer.

It all began by attending a bariatric seminar. Are you ready for a change?

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Keeping the public interest first

In 1914 Walter Williams wrote "The Journalist's Creed," which begins: "I believe in the profession of journalism... I believe that the public journal is a public trust; that all connected with it are, to the full measure of their responsibility, trustees for the public; that acceptance of a lesser service is a betrayal of this trust."

I first read "The Journalist's Creed" as a freshman working for my community college newspaper, and it inspired me to do what is right and fair. Its core principles of clarity, accuracy, fairness, truth, independence and, above all, public service are what I believe the heart of journalism is supposed to be. I also see the public trust not just as a consideration, but with a firm desire to connect on a human level. The public is not just an audience. The public is a community, of which journalism is an integral part. As a journalist in the community of Charlevoix, I feel it is important to connect with the people of this community and develop that public trust. I also feel obliged to ask tough questions and look out for the average person. I look at the community as a whole and not just a few. As a journalist, I will review pay records of city officials whether there is something there or not. I will ask questions about taxpayer money and I will look at laws and regulations on businesses that rent space where taxpayer money is associated with that space.

One such question led me to learn about state

SCRIBE'S VIEW

appointed officials.

I heard an official say that it is no big deal if there might be a problem with owners of a local brewery getting a distribution license under the state's liquor licensing rules because that is what attorneys are for. It is the attorneys' job to figure out a way to get the license, the official said.

Well then, by all means it is OK because the attorneys will take care of it. If that is what the people of Charlevoix want then who am I to question that reasoning?

Perhaps I also should not question the four meetings that a city councilman was not required to attend in his capacity as an elected leader of the city, but requested $200 to be compensated for his time. Sure, it was only a few hundred dollars for a handful of meetings, but what happens if the practice continues? Is it OK to take a little out of the city coffers every now and then as long as it is in small amounts and then pay it back when questioned about it?

Perhaps I should never question how much of the city money will go liquor licensing rules and in the end the one thing that concerned me most was the response from our local, public to repair a building that was not designed for its current use. Perhaps there shouldn't be questions about the legality of drinking alcohol in downtown parks. Even though, of course, these issues are happening on the public dime.

Do the people of Charlevoix want me to walk away from the not so flattering articles? Have I entered the "Twilight Zone" or some parallel universe where integrity no longer means the quality of being honest and fair and having strong moral principles; moral uprightness? It appears to me that some Charlevoix leaders have their own version of integrity.

C.S. Lewis once said that integrity is doing the right thing, even when no one is watching. I guess I should stop watching and hope for the best because apparently I misunderstood what integrity means to some in Charlevoix.

I refuse to believe that is the case, though. I have met many people in the Charlevoix community who want me to keep our public officials accountable. There are many in this community who want to see their leaders — including business leaders — to have integrity and keep the public interest first.

LETTERS to the editor

BASES expresses thanks

Editor:
BASES staff and board of directors would like to extend our thanks to the many helpers in making our 1/23 Recovery Day event in Charlevoix on Jan. 23, a huge success. The event saw more than 85 people participate in a movie, lunch and/or presentations. Many thanks to Mary and Luther Kurtz at Charlevoix Cinema

III, Carol Kerr at Oleson's Deli, Richard O'Leary and the Board of Directors at the Serenity House/Alano Club in Charlevoix, and Linda Adams and all of the staff at Charlevoix Public Library for their help in making this event such a positive experience. We achieved our goals of making a beginning to offset the stigma of addictions by promoting recovery, encouraged multiple pathways to recovery and established meaningful social connections. All are invited to join us as we conduct monthly follow-up meetings through our Recovery Advocates program. Please call BASES to learn more at (231) 547-1144.

Thank you,
Scott Kelly

Charlevoix grocery store of yesteryear had real character

The store at the northwest corner of Bridge Street and Park Avenue has seen a great number of various types of businesses come and go during its many decades of existence. Currently it is the premises of Jimmy Simonson's café. The first occupant was the L. S. See grocery store, which also specialized in crockery and china ware, seen on the shelves at left. Everything on every shelf and counter top was lined up or arranged with military precision. A graduated lead weight scales is mounted on the counter at right. Cracker barrels stand by the left counter. At the rear appear stacks of coffee boxes below the stepladder that gave access to the topmost shelves. The manual coffee grinder, looking like an upside down bell into which the coffee beans were poured, is situated on fancy iron legs just beyond the break in the counter at right. Everything was pretty much up to date now in Charlevoix city, and they'd gone about as far as they could go.

Social Security Administration helps provide a Valentine's Day Gift

There are traditional ways to show love on Valentine's Day. Cards, chocolates, flowers, new cars, property deeds can all convey depth of feeling proportional to one's net worth. But a powerful and lasting way to express love might be to show concern about a family member or friend's future. Everyone probably wants to enjoy retirement once they decide to stop working. Preparing for that future takes planning and careful thought about when and how to do it.

Social Security is a safety net that keeps millions of elderly Americans out of poverty. At socialsecurity.gov/planners/retire the Social Security Administration have valuable resources that help provide of future benefits for those still working; get a letter with proof of benefits for those who currently receive them; manage benefits; change an address; start or change a direct deposit; get a replacement Medicare card; and get a replacement SSA-1099 or constant access from the comfort of home. From there participants may keep track of earnings and verify them every year; get an estimate

SSA-1042S for tax season.

Showing love also might take the form of letting a family member know when a realistic retirement date might be. An online estimator offers an instant and tailored estimate of future Social Security benefits based on earnings records. Participants can plug in different anticipated yearly earnings to discover different retirement options and learn how benefits could increase by working longer. Try the retirement estimator today at socialsecurity.gov/estimator.

Love comes in many forms. Helping someone prepare for retirement will improve the overall quality of their life for years. Spread the love, and let everyone know that Social Security is available continuously at socialsecurity.gov.

OBITUARIES

H. Dale Glass, 83

H. Dale Glass of Charlevoix passed away at home on Monday, Feb. 1, 2016, at the age of 83.

Dale's long record of community service was highlighted by his eight-year tenure as Supervisor of Charlevoix Township from 2004 to 2012. He served a total of 35 years as a Trustee on the Charlevoix Township Board, where he was instrumental in the creation of the North Point Nature Preserve and the upgrading of Shannah Field's sports and recreational facilities. In recognition of these accomplishments, the township dedicated its new baseball park as H. Dale Glass Field in 2012.

Dale was born in Zeeland, Mich., and raised on a farm outside nearby Holland. He joined the U.S. Navy upon graduation from high school in 1950, just as the United States began sending tens of thousands of soldiers and sailors to the Korean War. His service on the USS Intrepid took him to the waters off Korea, as well as other ports along the Pacific and Atlantic oceans and the Caribbean Sea.

Dale continued to travel after leaving the Navy, enrolling at the University of Mexico in Mexico City. He studied accounting there and also acquired a lifelong love of soccer. He played on local teams in Charlevoix County, coached youth soccer and never missed a World Cup telecast.

He left Mexico and finished his work toward a bachelor's degree in business administration at Central Michigan University, where he met fellow student Janis Arbuckle. The two were married in 1959.

Dale was employed as head accountant for the Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier until his retirement in 1995.

He is survived by wife, Jan; children, Craig and Laura (Scott Thomas); and granddaughters, Lindsay Thomas, Lauren Glass and Hannah Glass; as well as sister, Marilyn Cookingham; brothers, Lloyd and Ron Glass; and many nieces and nephews.

A private service will be held at Charlevoix Community Reformed Church, where Dale and Jan have been longtime members.

In lieu of flowers, the family asks for donations to the Bergmann Center, 8888 Ance Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720, www.bergmanncenter.org, or the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 Clinton, Charlevoix, MI 49720, www.charlevoix-library.org.

Please visit Dale's guestbook at www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

Winchester
FUNERAL HOME

Lois A. Beswick, 87

Lois A. Beswick, 87, of Petoskey passed away Saturday, Feb. 6, 2016, in Arizona with her family beside her.

Lois was preceded in death by her husband, William; and infant son, Merlin.

She is survived by her son, Robert (Ruthanne) Garrett of Manistiquette; grandchildren, Kelly (Benjamin) Allcandro of White Lake and Travis (Jackelynn) Garrett of Petoskey; great-grandchildren, Ava and Paxton Allcandro, and Vilah and Monroe Garrett.

Lois was born in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to Harold and Agnes Osborn. She was preceded in death by her brothers, Bud and Bill; and sister, Ruth. She grew up on the Osborn Dairy Farm in the Soo. She married William Beswick and lived on Kincheloe Air Base, eventually settling in Petoskey.

Lois is survived by a brother-in-law, Barry (Becky) Beswick of Harbor Springs; a sister-in-law, Mary Workman of Florida; and many nieces and nephews in Michigan, New Jersey and Florida.

Her greatest passion was love for her family, especially doting on her great-grandkids. She will be missed by many.

We will celebrate her life with a memorial service in June.

Gallery owners continue circle of giving

Ward and Eis Gallery owners Don Ward and Jennifer Eis could be described as uncommon, even unorthodox. Their humble gallery in Petoskey featuring Native American jewelry, leather goods and art has flourished for more than 30 years without much in the way of traditional advertising. They do not maintain a website nor have they tweeted their own horn via Twitter. They simply put people first, provide quality products and participate in philanthropy.

Amazingly, their local giving has reached a total of $390,000.

Ward and Eis explained the Native American tradition known as the give-away ceremony at a recent donation presentation held at the gallery. This is the practice of giving away useful, even beloved possessions to others.

"The Give-Away is a gift from the heart, it teaches the importance of giving," Eis said. "When you reach a point of transition or a significant stage of life, you give gifts to everyone in your community as a thank you for helping you reach that point in your life."

Ward further explained that if you hold onto gifts with a tightly closed fist from fear of losing it, you are unable to reach out your hand to help another person. Yet if you give these gifts away, they move in a free-flowing manner and their value increases.

"We are here to be something beautiful," said Ward, referencing a Native saying. "If the reciprocity of receiving and then giving stops, we stop being human."

In that same spirit of giving, Ward and Eis have made financial gifts to several local health and human service nonprofit organizations. The donated dollars represent two percent of annual store sales, 20 percent of holiday weekend sales and all of the proceeds of the book "Maggie Papers," co-authored by Ward and Eis. The result was $20,500 total and was shared between the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, $4,500; Manna Food Project, $3,500; Friendship Centers of Emmet County, $3,000; Nehemiah Project, $3,000; Petoskey Club, $3,000; and Health Department of Northwest Michigan,

Over the past 28 years, the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan has received financial support from Ward and Eis totaling $70,500.

"Don and Jennifer's commitment to this community is compelling," said Gail Kloss, executive director of the center. "They wholeheartedly abide by the notion that when each individual flourishes, so does the whole community."

Antrim County Relay For Life recognized

BELLAIRE - The American Cancer Society recently recognized the Antrim County Relay For Life with the All-Star Award at the 2016 Michigan Relay For Life Leadership Conference held in Grand Rapids.

Each year the All-Star award is presented to a Relay For Life event in the Lake-shore Division. While there is no standard definition for the award, the division leadership selects an event that has had success in virtually every way of doing Relay For Life.

There were several things that made the Antrim County event stand out. One of the biggest was the fact that the event exceeded the monetary goal months out from the event. This was accomplished by several fundraising events that were not only successful, but original and outside the box, these included Team Shanty Creek's Laps For Life ski relay which will be held again this year on Saturday, March 19. Laps For Life is a skiing and snowboarding event which takes place at Schuss Mountain. Participants solicit pledges based on the number of laps they can complete on the Pink Lift between 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Shanty Creek Resorts donates season passes for the most laps completed and the most money raised. Another fundraiser which caught the divisional leadership's attention was the Torch Lake Yacht Club team's online fund raising challenge which included donating a dollar for your birthday and doubling it for someone else's birthday.

Other aspects of the event that earned recognition were the increased number of teams, the great online presence, and the community ownership of the event. Members of the event leadership team took ownership of the event and gave it an individual identity based on what the team and community wanted the event to be instead of being run by the American Cancer Society staff.

The 2015 event leadership team consisted of Christina Dennis, Julie Winslow, Steve Kershner, Cyd Paul, Stephanie Becmer, Rhonda Washburn, Dawn Leech, Pam Ellison, Cheryl Moran, Zac Washburn, Katie Washburn, Sierra Butler, Alan Leech, Syrina Dawson, and Holly Mortensen. Many others were instrumental in making this event such a success including the many team captains, and Mark Heffner and Kyle Cutler of the Lake-shore Division visited the event in June.

"I think what truly helped this event get noticed was exceeding the goal so far in advance of the event, which is clearly correlated to many of the other points above," Cutler said. "It is easy to say they were just awesome."

The Antrim County Relay For Life Kick-Off for the 2016 event will be held from 6-8 p.m. on Tuesday, Feb. 16, at the Bellaire Medical Center on M-88 South. The public is invited to attend and learn more about Relay For Life and this year's event. This year's national theme is Paint the World Purple, and the Antrim County team is planning to do that by throwing a very large and exhilarating beach party luau while the group hopes to "Let Cancer to Rest." Food and refreshments will be provided.

Proceeds from Relay For Life go not only to research and education, but also to programs such as Road To Recovery, which provides transportation to treatment for cancer patients; Reach To Recovery which matches specially trained breast cancer survivors to patients currently battling breast cancer; and Hope Lodge which provides lodging for patients undergoing cancer treatment away from home. Michigan has a Hope Lodge in Grand Rapids. These are just a few of the ways the American Cancer Society helps cancer patients.

The Antrim County Relay For Life will begin at 10 a.m. on Saturday, June 18, through 10 a.m. on Sunday, June 19, at the Shawn Davies Track in Bellaire.

For more information, see the website at relayforlife.org/antrimcountymi or call Julie Winslow at (231) 350-3254 or Syrina Dawson at (231) 675-2492.

Shingles vaccine available at health department

CHARLEVOIX — In the United States, one million people get shingles every year, and about one out of every three people will get shingles in their lifetime. Fortunately, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan has the shingles vaccine, known as Zostavax, in stock.

At the Health Department, clients ages 60 years old and older may be eligible to receive Zostavax for only $10 if they're uninsured, or if their insurance does not cover the vaccine. People interested in the vaccine should verify coverage with their insurance providers; if insurance covers any portion of the cost, they are not eligible for the reduced fee. Those with Medicare Part B only and no Prescription (Part D) coverage may be eligible to receive the discount.

Yvonne Louiselle, public health nurse at the Health Department, said the vaccine is a one-dose shot that may prevent shingles altogether.

"Everyone who had chickenpox is vulnerable to shingles," she explained, which is why receiving the vaccination is so important. "Zostavax will help reduce your risk of shingles and the long-term pain it can cause."

The Centers for Disease Control recommend the shingles vaccine for people age 60 years and older, even if they've already had the virus. Zostavax reduces the risk of developing shingles by half and significantly lowers the chance of suffering complications like extreme pain.

Shingles, also known as zoster or herpes zoster, is a painful skin rash caused by the varicella-zoster virus, the same virus that causes chickenpox. Shingles usually develops on one side of the body, often the face or torso. The rash forms blisters that typically scab over in 7 to 10 days and clears up within two to four weeks. The most common complication of shingles is severe pain, which can last for months or even years. Some patients may suffer from multiple episodes of shingles.

"Shingles can be more than a temporary inconvenience," Louiselle said. "Complications from the virus can seriously derail your life."

For more information about Zostavax, please contact a health care provider or the Health Department. To schedule an immunization appointment at the Health Department, call (800) 432-4121.

Visit nwhealth.org to learn more about the Health Department's services. The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

Discover your inner child at The Rocking Horse Toy Company

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — At The Rocking Horse Toy Company, it's all about getting in touch with your inner child, or if you happen to be a parent or grandparent, getting in touch with the children you love at a place that provides quality toys and sales provided by real, not virtual, salesperson. With three locations: Harbor Springs, Petoskey and Charlevoix, The Rocking Horse Toy Company has thrived and thrived since inception. The original store was the brain child of owner Andy Bultman and his wife, Kathy. The Bultmans were teachers in Grand Rapids in their previous careers. When in 1980, the Grand Rapids School System settled a strike contract with its staff, offering teachers the option to take a year's leave of absence or "career exploration," as it was called, the opportunity for the Bultmans to explore something presented itself. "We decided that it would be fun to try something other than teaching," Andy Bultman said. "I had been making wooden toys when my daughter was small, and it became a hobby. One of the first toys she had was a little wooden rocking horse, the first one for my daughter and then the ones for friends on request. When it came time to name the store, 'The Rocking Horse Toy Company' just seemed right."

man's opened their first store in Glen Arbor. It featured Bultman's wooden toys along with kites and other seasonal items. The location offered workshop space, so it served Bultman well. The following Christmas, the Bultmans spent a weekend in Harbor Springs. That was the weekend they made the decision to go into the toy business ... at least during their years' leave of absence from teaching.

The couple was familiar with the area having been boaters and up-north vacationers while working and living in Grand Rapids. Bultman had experience in business since his parents had owned a grocery store, and Kathy from her early childhood education experience and their young daughter, knew kids' toys and books. The pieces were falling into place. They found a retail rental in Harbor Springs and got a one year's lease on the building.

"I left over spring break to come up and get things organized," Bultman said. "Kathy finished out her school year and then joined me. The deal was sealed for the long term when our Grand Rapids home was sold two weeks after listing it."

Committed to their new endeavor, the couple opened a store in Petoskey two years later (1983) and the following year (1984) in Charlevoix to expand the operation. During the first couple of years, Kathy did some substitute teaching and taught one year at Cross Village School to help them through the long slow months of up-north retail business.

Bultman rotates his eight employees among the three locations to keep them familiar with all stores and the placement of inventory.

"I call them my kids," he said. "Most of them are in their 20s and they're all game players ... here's been a real resurgence in table games in the last few years."

Bultman's employees help keep him up to date on the latest trends in toys and games; Rocking Horse also has a Facebook presence which features the store's most current picks.

"When we first started we didn't have any guidelines for inventory," Bultman said. "We bought what we liked. We got into quality suppliers like Playmobil, which was our first major line. My wife was fond of Madame Alexander and other collectible dolls, so we stocked them as well as popular children's books."

In addition, The Rocking Horse Toy Company also carries Ravensburger puzzles and Bruder trucks to form a quality base with which to supplement the wide variety of other popular brand name items offered in all three locations.

"Toy stores in big cities are a fourth quarter industry," Bultman said. "They make all their money over Christmas. We wouldn't have been able to survive in a metropolitan area. The only reason we are still here is that we have learned to prepare for the down seasons and concentrate on the high percentage of sales during the summer months, especially July and August."

The Rocking Horse Toy Company is proof that knowing the toy market with its supply and demand implications for small town Michigan can pay off with customer loyalty.

"I enjoy managing my stores," Bultman said. "It's a happy business to be in."

The Rocking Horse Toy Company's first Charlevoix location was on Bridge Street downtown next to the former Koucky Gallery.

"It was the Koucky's who convinced us to come to Charlevoix in the first place," Bultman said. "They found us in Petoskey and told us that Charlevoix needed a toy store."

Apparently Charlevoix did, because the store has made a home here for more than 30 years. It has been in its present location at 325 Bridge Street since January of 2012.

In Charlevoix, Rocking Horse Toy Company hours are 10:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. except for limited hours Tuesday through Thursday. For more information, call (231) 547-5258. Store hours for the off-season in Petoskey and Harbor Springs are 10:30 a.m. - 5:30 p.m. seven days a week. The Petoskey store is located at 201 Howard St.; call (231) 347-0306. In Harbor Springs, find the toy store at 154 E. Main St.; phone (231) 526-7236.

Wine, beer tasting celebration benefits literacy

Wine and beer was flowing and food was being served during Char-Em's annual Toast of Literacy at Castle Farms on Feb. 6.

Attendees were able to enjoy beer and wine from Cheboygan Brewing, Barefoot Wines, Petoskey Brewing, Petoskey Farms, Shorts Brewery, Crooked Vine and Vineyard and Winery and Beards Brewery. They also enjoyed treats from BJ's Restaurant, Rental and Catering, Grey Gables Restaurant, A Matter of Taste and Pigs Eat'n' Ribs.

The event is designed to raise funds to allow Charlevoix and Emmet county children ages birth to 5 to sign up, and participate, for free, in the Dolly Parton Imagination Library program. The program allows participants to receive a book, once a month until they reach the age of 5.

"Early childhood literacy is one of the things we really support. This event helps support the program so we can help foster a love of reading in preschool children," said Lorraine Manary, executive director of Char-Em United Way.

Visit charemunitedway.org for information about the Dolly Parton Imagination Library program.

A large crowd views the many items being offered in a silent auction during the Toast of Literacy event on Feb. 6 at Castle Farms.

Ron Moore enjoys one of the many food items being offered during the Toast of Literacy event. Moore was trying one of the dessert showers prepared by BJ's Restaurant, Rental and Catering in Gaylord.

Lynda Christensen of Boyne City views silent auction items. The fundraiser supports Charlevoix and Emmet county children from birth to age 5 to receive a book, once a month until they reach the age of 5.

in the Charlevoix business community, along with four individuals, who were honored for their own contributions to the community.

This year the Outstanding Citizen recognition went to Dr. Craig Boss, Young Professional of the Year recognition went to Chelsea Townsend, Customer Service Award was awarded to Terry Osterhout, and Chamber Ambassador Award was awarded to Larry Levengood. Business of the Year went to Fox Charlevoix and Fox Ford Charlevoix and the New Business of the Year was the Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company, which is the second consecutive year for business run by the Round Lake Group LLC to win the award.

Through all the festivities and awards the main highlight of the event was guest speaker city manager Mark Heydlauff, who used his speech to remember the accomplishments of mayor Robert Bridge. As a role model Bridge was a man of integrity and vision. Someone whom the community respected, trusted, and appreciated, Heydlauff said in his speech.

"Let us who sit here today be role models for future generations as Robert Bridge is a role model for us today," Heydlauff said.

Heydlauff explained that his speech was bring together the people of Charlevoix and have them consider what the future could be like if the community was to work with the same integrity, vision and trust that Robert Bridge was remembered for.

"Bridge was a great man in his time who had the vision of what Charlevoix could be and is for us, today," Heydlauff said. "As Bridge helped build the future that is now in his time, we now have to look at the long term principal sooner thus saving them the $300,000."

The $1.4 million marina bonds were first issued in 2006 and are paid by tax revenue the authority collects.

Most municipal bond issues have provisions, which allows the issuer to refund or refinance the existing bonds by buying the outstanding bonds at a pre-determined price, and replacing them with new refunding bonds.

The provision, known as an optional call date, usually kicks in 10 years from the date of issuance of the bonds.

The total city debt will be approximately $7.7 million, with $3.6 million of that being for the upcoming infrastructure project, which will be paid for by the city's current infrastructure millage and the city's portion of the county road millage, Heydlauff said.

The remainder of the debt will remain the responsibility of the Downtown Development Authority, Heydlauff said.

Council member Shirley Gibson is impressed with the Heydlauff's initiative on this issue.

"I'm pretty amazed by his financial savvy," Gibson said. "He has taken the bull by the horns. He has not waited 50 years to get these infrastructure projects done and in the same time saved $300,000 by refinancing these bonds."

Main Street/Downtown Development Authority director said the refinance savings will be addressed after the DDA reviews its budget.

"The board has made no determination on what the savings will be used for," Doyle said. "There is talk about possible upgrades to the Bridge Park Building, but nothing has been determined."

YMCA
3-on-3
Basketball is back

PETOSKEY - The YMCA of Northern Michigan's 3-on-3 Basketball Tournament is back. The 2016 tournament will be begin at 9 a.m. on Saturday, March 19, at Petoskey High School. This double elimination tournament is open to all children in grades 3-10, with both male and female brackets.

As with all YMCA programs, we will reinforce our core values: responsibility, honesty, caring, and respect through healthy living, youth development, and social responsibility. Proceeds from the 2016 3-on-3 Tournament helps fund the YMCA's financial assistance program.

If the tournament is cancelled because of the weather, the reschedule date is March 26.

For more information and registration documents, call (231) 348-8393 or visit kmantheiymcanm.org or email KManthei@ymcanm.org or stop by 434 E. Lake St., in Petoskey.

Introducing...Pet Obituaries

Pets are a part of the family, and we are offering a new way to share your pet's memorial with the community, family and friends that they shared their life with and help bring legitimacy to mourning the family pet.

As with humans, pet obituaries assign value to a life, define its highlights, extol socially validated accomplishments, and serve as models of living. To assign value to an animal's life is a fine thing, and an excellent match with the growing movement to treat animals of all kinds -- not only our pets -- with care and dignity.

The next Pet Obituary page will run in the News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times or Charlevoix Courier on a monthly basis. Up to 300 words and a photo is $185.

Please e-mail pet obituary and photo to: conderson@petoskeynews.com along with contact information for us to contact you regarding payment or call 231-439-9375.

Kado Robert Michael Swenson
May 19, 2015
Kado Robert Michael Swenson, retired Guide Dog, crossed the rainbow bridge on May 19, 2015, at the age of 13. I am confident he was met by Perro and Janna and congratulated on a life well lived.

Kado came into my life on February 15, 2004. He was a spectacular Guide Dog who always took his work very seriously. He was also a great dog who thought furniture was for him and who could be overly concerned with his physical well being. But, most of all, he was a genuinely great dog -- a big poodle love.

Kado could no longer guide me this past year when his eyes and legs began to fail. He battled bravely. On May 16th, I came home from Guide Dogs with Jimmy. Jimmy suggested the moment they met. Kado sniffed Jimmy and knew he was a Guide Dog. Jimmy knew Kado was a Guide dog, and it seemed to Kado that Jimmy was here to take care of me and was happy and relieved. They gave each other a lick and Jimmy followed Kado into the house. For the next nine days Jimmy would often lay with Kado on Kado's bed and they slept side by side at night to our bed. Jimmy always checked to with Kado the minute he walked at the door at the end of the day. For a couple of days Kado perked up and had a little spring to his step. Dr. John, Kado's vet said he was more relaxed than he had been in months. But last Saturday he started to slip away. Last night after we struggled to get upstairs and up the ramp to our bed Kado let me know it was time to let him go. This morning only confirmed it was time. Kado was not in pain and where he took his last breath he was peaceful. After he departed his world we carried him out of the house wrapped in a blanket on a special car with him following directly behind all the way to the funeral. On the way Kado's front legs came out of the blanket and of course they were crossed.

The bond between a Guide Dog and handler is unique and it is strong. Kado left indelible footprints on my heart that are now and will never go away. I will love him and cherish the time we had together for the rest of my life. And when time comes I hope and pray that Kado, Perro and Janna will greet me on the other side.

I would like to thank Guide Dogs for the Blind for the gift of Kado. Anyone wishing to learn Kado may do so in his honor at www.guidedogs.com.

I would also like to thank Dr. John Swenson at Petoskey Animal Rehabilitation and his staff for the love and support they provided to Kado to keep him moving without pain.

GLASS

Glass also was involved in with the upgrading of Shana-Kan Field's sports and recreational facilities.

In recognition of these accomplishments, the township dedicated its new baseball park as H. Dale Glass Field in 2012.

"He was really all about the kids and having facilities available for them to enjoy," Williams said. "When he retired we told him it would be named after him."

One of Williams' fondest memories of Glass was his humor and the many conversations they had at the township offices.

"He could talk about anything," Williams said. "It was always a surprise with Dale because his sense of humor was genuine and it was always fun to watch because on a good night he could be pretty entertaining."

Glass joined the U.S. Navy in 1950 after graduating high school where he was on the USS Intrepid in the waters off of Korea, as well as other ports along the Pacific and Atlantic oceans and the Caribbean Sea.

After the Navy he enrolled at the University of Mexico in Mexico City where he studied accounting and acquired a lifelong love of soccer. It was that love of soccer that helped the township develop soccer fields for residents to play on, said former Charlevoix Township clerk Carol Martin.

"He played soccer and then he coached youth soccer," Martin said. "He worked very hard on those fields and worked hard completing the new baseball fields. He cared about the parks and recreation areas for the residents. We all worked hard on those projects."

Martin said she never ceased to be amazed at Glass's passion for serving the community, who listened patiently to members of the public and helped out wherever he could.

"He was the most helpful supervisor I ever worked with," Martin said. "If things were getting hectic he would offer to help. He would do anything he could to take the pressure off his colleagues. He was so easy to work with."

Martin also recalls Glass as a person who never ceased his education.

"He was a very humble and intelligent man," Martin said. "He knew something about everything, but always was always willing to learn. He would go to all the municipal conferences and classes he could to learn how to do things better for the township."

Dale was employed as head accountant for the Petoskey News-Review and Charlevoix Courier until his retirement in 1995. Shirley Gibson worked with Glass and said he was a smart, good man who loved to tell stories.

"Dale was a person you enjoyed to be around," Gibson said. "He was a good story teller and could make you laugh. He was a very smart man."

including the ski hill and its facilities — and the Lake Michigan Beach Area.

The area of protection does not include the ski hill or its facilities, thus letting the city continue to do what it wants with those areas. The protected areas would be the dunes, beaches and nature trails, said council member Leon Perron, who supports a ballot measure that allows the people to decide the course of action to take.

"I'm 100 percent letting the people have the say in this matter," Perron said. "It is city property that belongs to the residents of Charlevoix. They should have the right to vote."

Conservation easements are voluntary, binding agreements that place permanent restrictions on how a property can be used to protect natural resources and open space. The city does not regulate conservation easements and the agreements usually are entered into with a third party, typically a public agency such as the Little Traverse Conservancy. Under such an easement, the city would maintain ownership of the land but be prohibited from dividing the property, conducting any commercial, industrial or mining operations, dumping, most types of construction, most tree cutting and most excavation in the Mount McSaubia Recreation Area — not including the ski hill or its facilities — and the Lake Michigan Beach area.

Council member Luther Kurtz, who requested to be interviewed through electronic correspondence, wants to protect the natural beauty of the parks, but remains hesitant on allowing a ballot measure with the conservation easement option.

"All I am asking council to do is give the people the choice to decide the course they want to take to protect the lands. This does not mean we are approving a conservation easement. This is an opportunity for the people to vote."

"I would rather know more information about the Charter Amendment option before making a decision about which option is best," Kurtz said in an electronic correspondence. "Both options have restrictions against future development but one option seems to allow more flexibility for future generations. Another, third, option is to continue with the protections that currently exist."

Council member Aaron Hagen, who requested an interview through electronic correspondence, would like to look more at a Charter Amendment to protect the land instead of allowing voters to only consider the conservation easement, but he does want the people to vote on the matter.

"Council should not be the final voice on a topic such as the future of our shared lands," Hagen said in an electronic correspondence. "There are decisions though that warrant a referendum, and I believe the future of this land is one of them. I also believe that as an elected official by the people of this community it is irresponsible to look only at one option. We always need to give our citizens all of the information, and in this instance I believe all the possible ways to protecting our land should be looked at."

Council member Bill Supernaw said he is still researching the issue, but has heard from some of his constituents that the site is already adequately protected and that granting such an easement must be considered carefully.

"Some of the people are for it and some of the people are against it," Supernaw said. "Maybe we should leave it like it is because it has to go to a vote of the people anyway."

Supernaw is referring a similar prohibition in the city charter that prevents the city from selling or "disposing" of park lands without a vote of the people.

John Campbell who brought the proposal to the city that would let Charlevoix residents vote on the park protection said the charter does not protect the land from government "whims." A Charter Amendment could still be changed by government officials if they chose to develop the land.

Because there is a rule for government to follow it does not necessarily mean it will be followed, Campbell said.

"The city would not have to go to the people to do something on that property," Campbell said. "The charter does not give the same type of protection of a conservation easement."

Campbell went on to explain that this is only a vote to let residents decide the course they want to take on the property.

"All I am asking council to do is give the people the choice to decide the course they want to take to protect the lands," Campbell said. "This does not mean we are approving a conservation easement. This is an opportunity for the people to vote."

Council member Shirley Gibson also is for protecting the dunes and recreation area. Gibson also agreed that this issue should be left to the people and not the city council.

"All we are doing on Monday is deciding if citizens should be the ones to decide on the course of action to protect the area for future generations," Gibson said. "It is not our job as council to decide who gets to make this decision. We cannot deny the voters their chance to voice their opinion."

Rayder boys beat Harbor Springs, lose to East Jordan

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

EAST JORDAN — For the past couple of seasons, East Jordan has become known by its fireworks show of an offense.

This season, however, it's been the Red Devils' defense that has propelled East Jordan to a 12-1 start, and defense was a big factor as the Red Devils picked up a 62-48 win at home over rival Charlevoix for its ninth straight victory on Tuesday.

East Jordan held the Rayders to 31 points through three quarters and built a 18 point lead on the way to the victory.

"We were up 12 at the half, and I told our players that the first two or three minutes of the third quarter was going to determine how the game went," East Jordan coach Darrin Weber said. "We talked about winning the quarter, and when we came out with a great effort, I thought that really put us in a good position the rest of the way."

East Jordan got numerous forced turnovers from its guards, and post players Thomas Brandell and Collin Bajko did a strong job on the defensive glass, each finishing with 11 rebounds for the Red Devils.

Offensively, the Red Devils were almost perfectly balanced, with Jordan Weber scoring 17 points to lead four double-digit scorers.

Donny Cutler chipped in 15 points, Bajko added 10 and Collin Petrie finished with 10 points to go with eight assists, while Brandell just missed giving the Red Devils five starters in double figures with eight points.

Austin Putman led Charlevoix with 15 points and Walker Drost chipped in 13 despite both battling foul trouble throughout the game.

Kevin Pearl chipped in 10 for the Rayders, who struggled to rebound early in the game and only began to pull back East Jordan's lead in the fourth when they started to make an impact on the glass.

"East Jordan's just not a team you can afford to get jackadassical with as far as rebounding goes, and we did that in the first half," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "They were boxing out and using good technique, and we were just running in and going over people's backs to try and get the ball."

"I thought our effort and execution was a lot better in the second half as far as rebounding goes, and it made a difference."

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix girls basketball team used a big third quarter to defeat visiting East Jordan 51-42 Tuesday.

The Rayders (2-13, 2-7 Lake Michigan Conference) outscored the Red Devils 14-5 in the third quarter after being tied at 17 at halftime, and used that run to create enough cushion to hold off the Red Devils in the final quarter.

"We did a good job of mixing it up and getting the ball inside and driving and finding opportunities offensively," Charlevoix Coach Liz Shaw said. "We had pretty balance scoring."

Charlevoix senior Kelsey Engstrom finished with a team-high 13 points, while senior Hannah Zipp recorded a double-double for the Rayders scoring 12 points and grabbing 12 rebounds and junior Beth Wenstra added 12 points and six rebounds.

Shaw credited her bench with helping lead the way, specifically underclassmen Hannah Solomon and Alex Snabes.

"Everyone one of our players contributed tonight and I was super proud," Shaw said. "Our bench players did a really great job coming off the bench and playing great minutes."

The Red Devils sophomore Kendall McNitt had five rebounds, and Kaitlyn Hines and Abby Peterson each had three steals.

Charlevoix's Kelsey Engstrom scored 13 points to help the Rayders beat East Jordan on Tuesday.

"We struggled tonight," East Jordan coach Steve Hines said. "We won the first quarter, but lost the next three. It was an uphill battle for us tonight, unfortunately."

Charlevoix is back in action Friday at Grayling, while East Jordan (5-9, 2-7 LMC) will host Kalkaska Thursday.

Charlevoix native Thompson earns spot in softball coaches hall of fame

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 - jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

FRANKFORT — Growing up in Charlevoix, Mike Thompson had the privilege of playing for legendary coaches, but he couldn't have known then that he'd someday join their company.

This January, Thompson officially joined the club when he was inducted into the Michigan Softball Coaches Association Hall of Fame on Jan. 29 in recognition of a successful 13 year run at the helm of Frankfort's softball program.

"To have the association and your peers recognize you, it's definitely an honor," Thompson said. "There's a lot of wins, tradition and doing right by kids in that room, and to have that group select you to be honored is something special."

Thompson has put together a sterling record at the helm of the Panthers program, racking up 324 wins since taking over the program in 2003, and guiding Frankfort to the state finals in 2007 before losing to Allen Park Cabrini.

In doing so, Thompson returned Frankfort to a place it had reached twice under legendary coach Sue Harris in the early 90s, including winning a Class D state title in 1990.

After Harris' retirement in 1998, the program had fallen on hard times, including a

Thompson

7-25 mark the season before Thompson took over.

But Thompson, then the baseball coach at Frankfort, saw a sleeping giant waiting on the softball slide, and within five years of taking over had posted back-to-back seasons of 36 or higher wins.

"It's not a legacy I created by any means; Sue deserves all the credit for that and for everything she was able to accomplish," Thompson said. "I just picked it up from where it had failed and put it back to where it had been."

"The potential was always there in this community, and I was lucky enough to be able to step in and take advantage of that."

Thompson learned much of his coaching style while in high school at Charlevoix, playing for well-known coaches like Pete Spieles, Brian Certa and Hal Evans during his four years with the Rayders.

"I learned from them how to teach discipline and to motivate kids to work hard and give their best effort," Thompson said. "They also taught me, especially Hal, how important it

GRAYLING — A team title wasn't in the cards for either Charlevoix or Boyne City at the LMC Championships in Grayling on Saturday, but there was still plenty to be happy about for both wrestling programs.

Both the Rayders and Ramblers put three wrestlers at the top of the podium in their weight classes, and had several other athletes place as well as the two teams finished behind LMC champion Grayling.

Charlevoix junior Tyler McCullum became a three time conference champion, winning at 130 pounds to lead the Rayders and give himself a chance to become a four-time winner next season.

Brothers Jordan (112) and Jeremy (119) Chernauckas each also won their weight class for the Rayders, while Jake Seger (152) and Mick Hinkle (189) each took home runner-up honors.

Elliott Bartelli (160) and Max Hinkle (171) each took third place to end up on the podium as well for Charlevoix.

The regular season has now ended for all wrestling squads, and the Rayders now head into districts this week.

Charlevoix hosts a Division 4 district with Onaway and Mancelona on Wednesday, starting at 5 p.m., and seeks its first team crown in several years.

Charlevoix will also send its wrestlers to Farwell on quarter, but couldn't get enough shots to fall quickly enough to get any closer than that.

"We had opportunities, and if a couple more of them fell, then we might have had a chance to win the game down the stretch," Erskine said. "But at the end of the day, East Jordan is just a very good basketball team, and they brought it at both ends of the floor."

"They deserved to win tonight, and our challenge is to find a way to close the gap between them and us by the time we get into districts."

East Jordan (12-1, 8-1 LMC) hosts Kalkaska on Thursday before heading into a big week with road games at Grayling and Elk Rapids.

The Red Devils are five conference wins away from clinching a share of its first conference title since 1987, and could win the title outright in TC St. Francis falls and East Jordan wins out.

Charlevoix (6-7, 4-5) looks to get back on track with a trip to Grayling on Friday. The Rayders lost 65-49 at home to the Vikings on Jan. 15.

Charlevoix 55, Harbor Springs 39

HARBOR SPRINGS — The Rayders and Rams were tied at the half in a rivalry matchup on Friday, but an 18-2 run by Charlevoix in the third quarter proved to be the difference in a 55-39 victory.

"We just came out hot in the third quarter, and we got on a nice run," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "The game was tied at 25 at the half and we each scored 12 in the fourth quarter, so putting together a run like that in the third quarter really was the difference for us tonight."

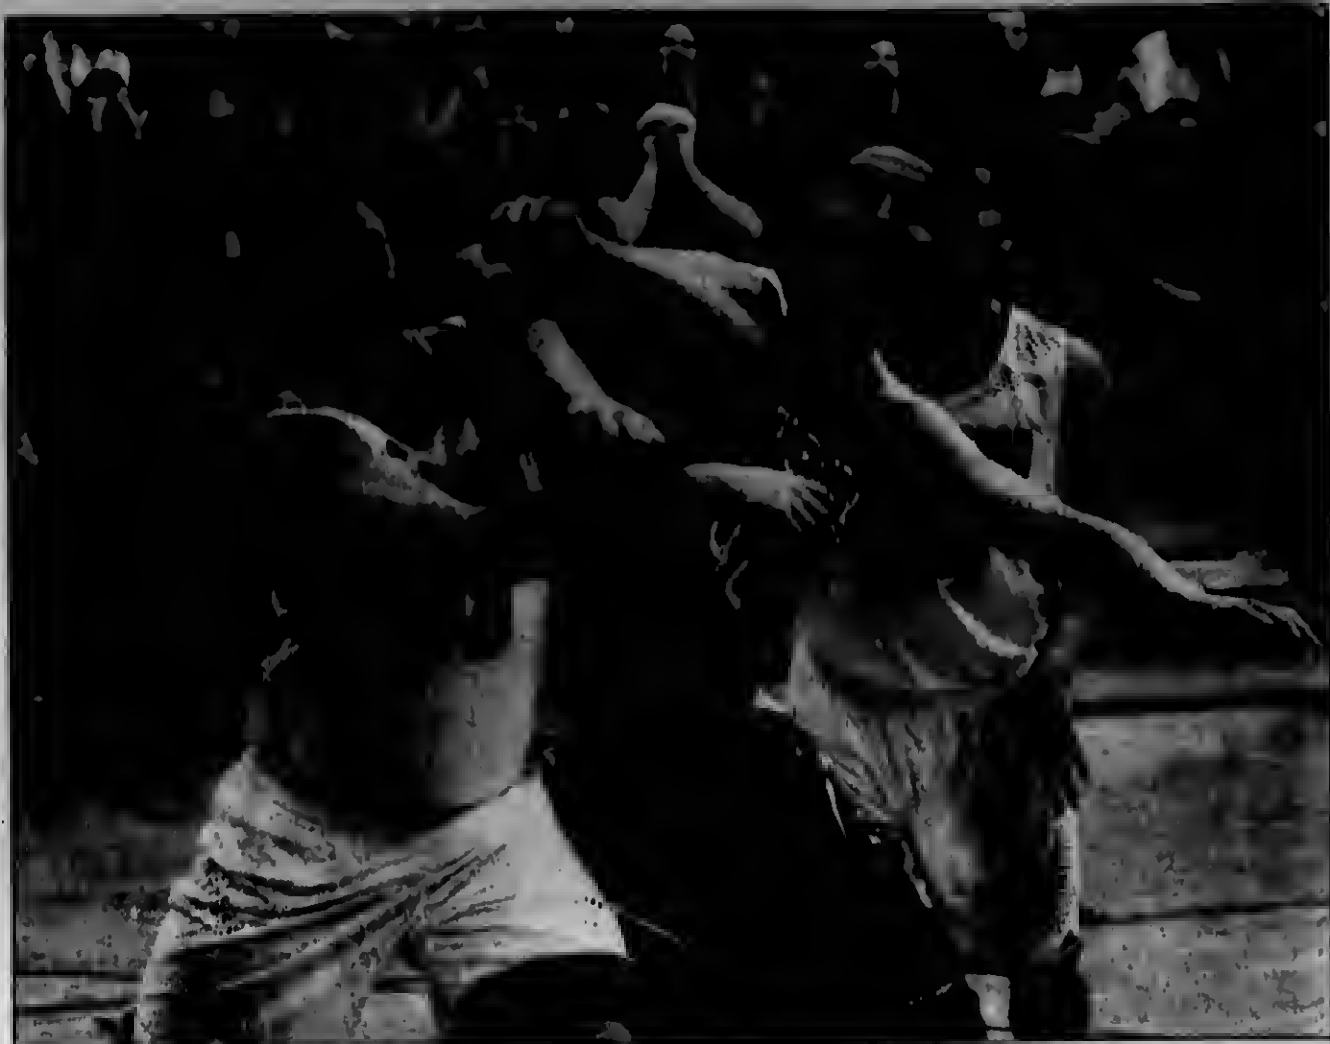

Austin Putman missed most of the second quarter with foul trouble, but still led Charlevoix with 17 points and seven rebounds.

Arvo Viitaharju chipped in 10 points and Kevin Pearl nine for the Rayders, who had nine players score on the night.

Mark Leonard and Noah Erxleben each scored nine points to lead Harbor Springs.

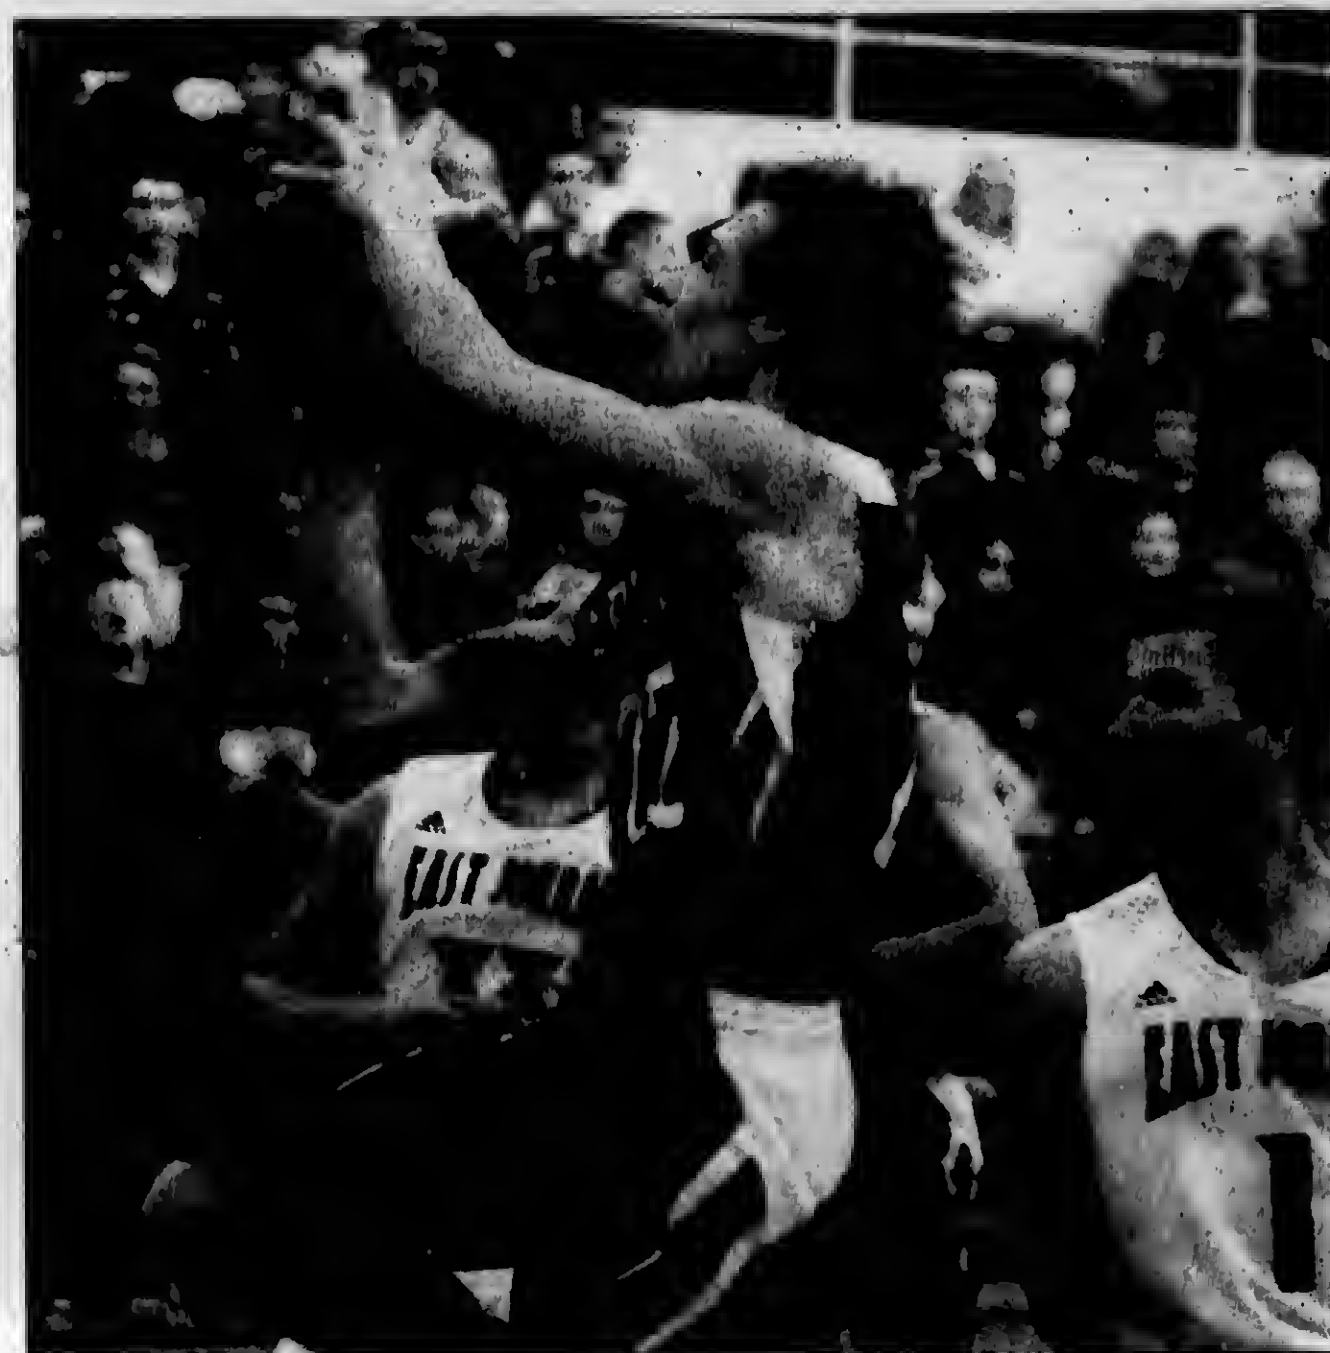

"This season we've played a lot of good halves, but we haven't had a game yet where we put together two complete halves," Harbor Springs coach Adam Wood said. "I think it's just a confidence thing, these guys have shown they can compete but now they have to go out and believe they can win, and not let that belief waver throughout the night."

"We're making strides with every game, and now it's about putting it all together."

Saturday for individual districts.

Mick Hinkle and Cam Alden are returning state final qualifiers for the Rayders, and McCallum and both Chernaukas brothers are also threats to make it to the Palace of Auburn Hills for the final.

If Charlevoix wins the district, which is taking place after the Courier goes to print and will be in the Feb. 19 edition, the Rayders would advance to the team regional at LeRoy Pine River on Feb. 17, and a win there would put them in the state finals at McGuirk Arena in Mount Pleasant.

Individuals who advance past the district on Saturday would travel to Rogers City on Feb. 20 for the regional, with the state finals on March 3-5 at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

is to have fun and enjoy the sport you're playing if you want to be successful.

"The most important thing, and I talked about it in my acceptance speech, is that at the end of the day the game is always about the kids. Wins and losses and awards are like fantasy football, they only matter to you, but what matters to everyone else is that we're helping kids grow as people and enjoy their time on the field. That's what's most important."

Although it's been a while since his high school days in Charlevoix, Thompson still returns home every summer to visit family and friends and play in local recreational softball leagues.

"I started playing softball over the summer in Charlevoix over 30 years ago, and I wouldn't miss it for the world," Thompson said. "Charlevoix will always hold a special place in my heart, wherever I go."

Charlevoix boys third, girls fifth at LMC meet

JAMES GONTERBLUM

BOYNE FALLS — It's going to be a tight race for the LMC girls skiing title, thanks to Harbor Springs.

The Rams rebounded from runner-up finishes to Elk Rapids/TC. St Francis in the first two Lake Michigan Conference meets with a victory at Nub's Nob on Jan. 28, and added to that breakthrough with a first-place finish at Boyne Mountain last Thursday to move into a tie with their co-op foes at the top of the standings with two meets remaining.

Harbor Springs won 45-56 at Boyne Mountain, taking a narrow lead after the slalom and pulling away in the giant slalom to claim the victory.

On the boys side, Harbor Springs finished runner-up for a third straight meet to ER/TCSE. After a close race for second with the Rams, Charlevoix's boys finished third overall, while a short-handed Rayder girls squad took fifth.

Brad Klinger led the Rayders with a third place finish in the giant slalom (1:05.59) and a fourth place finish in the slalom (1:29.77), and Matt Good finished sixth in the giant slalom (1:06.26) and seventh in the slalom (1:32.88).

Ben Peterson took 10th in the slalom (1:37.45) and 19th in the giant slalom (1:11.70) for the Rayders. Hunter Cox took 16th in the slalom (1:52.14) and Kenn Taylor took 17th in the giant slalom (1:11.51).

On the girls side, Abbey Scholten led the Rayders with third place finishes in both the giant slalom (1:06.11) and slalom (1:32.02), and Jenna Good took fourth in the giant slalom (1:06.52).

Kylee Scholten took 18th (1:56.19) and Lukila Wittthoeft 21st (2:43.17) in the slalom as well for Charlevoix, and Jesse Windon took 24th (1:28.56) and Izzy Wittthoeft 25th (1:29.17) in the giant slalom.

The next LMC meet is Thursday, Feb. 11, also at Boyne Mountain.

HARBOR SPRINGS — Neither McKenna Ebert, 17, or Thomas Gardner, 16, were expected to bring home first place medals for the Charlevoix Stingrays at the Winterblast Invitational on Jan. 30 in Harbor Springs.

That didn't stop them from doing so anyways.

Ebert shaved 6.89 seconds off her personal best time in the 200 yard individual medley to upset a heavily-favored first seed and win in 2:35.16, while Gardner brought home first place (6:03.98) in his first-ever attempt at the 500 freestyle.

Joe Gaffney, 8, also brought home a first place finish in the 25 yard breaststroke. In 23.07, and Charles Kelly, 8, took third for the Stingrays (26.67) in the same race.

Kelly and Gaffney teamed with Griffin Frenzt, 7, and Jack Frenzt, 7, to take first in the mixed 100 medley relay (2:04.87) and second in the 8 and under 100 freestyle relay (1:49.83) as well.

Dan LeBlanc and Joe Suter also had strong finishes for the Stingrays, with LeBlanc taking third lead the Harbor Springs girls' basketball team past Charlevoix on Friday.

Dickinson added six rebounds and Rushing, four steals, as the Rams, 8-5 overall, 5-3 in the Lake Michigan Conference, got off to an 11-6 lead after the first quarter and 22-12 lead at the half.

"Our defensive pressure was the best it's been all season," Harbor Springs coach Tom Brogger said. "We executed a little better offensively, showing some patients, which is a step in the right direction."

The offensive end picked up for Harbor in the second half, as they rolled to a 36-18 lead following the third.

Brogger credited Jessica Worm with an outstanding game on both ends and Alexa Jensen-Phil-brick added eight steals on the defensive end.

For Charlevoix, 1-13, 1-7, Beth Veenstra and Kelsey Engstrom each scored eight points.

"We played solid half court defense, but we struggled to take care of the ball on the offensive end," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "Solid effort on defense though. I was proud of their effort. We'll just keep working at it and try to get better every day."

Gaylord 55, Charlevoix 35

CHARLEVOIX — Despite a strong night from seniors Kelsey Engstrom and Hannah Zipp, the Charlevoix girls' basketball team fell to Gaylord in their non-conference matchup.

Engstrom totaled 14 points and six rebounds, while Zipp added seven points and 10 rebounds for the Rayders, who were tied 12-12 after the first with the Blue Devils, and trailed just 26-24 at half.

"We came out and had a great first half. I thought we did a good job of taking Gaylord out of their offense," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said.

"We had good ball movement and patience. Gaylord did a better job taking care of the ball in the second half."

Gaylord came out with a 13-3 advantage in the third and pulled away with the win.

"Our seniors did a great job of stepping up tonight," added Shaw of Engstrom and Zipp. "They really worked hard and that makes a big difference too. I was real proud of their effort."

Olivia Jeakle added six points for Charlevoix, now 1-12 overall.

Residents enjoy Shadowfest celebration

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

The prediction of an early spring was one more reason to celebrate in downtown Charlevoix this past weekend. Visitors, family and friends filled the tents in East Park on Feb. 6, to take part in the second annual Charlevoix Groundhog Shadowfest that featured activities throughout the day. Television personality Joe Charlevoix kicked off the ceremonies as children enjoyed games and prizes, a magic show, sledding and more, while adults participated in card tournaments, Jenga and other fun. Family activities included movies, horse drawn wagon rides and performances by the Petoskey Steel Drum Band. See video highlights of Shadowfest at petoskeynews.com/life/multimedia/video-charlevoix-groundhog-shadowfest/video_f4ab3678-cd56-11e5-8b8e-93f7bb3c9e37.html

$22M SPENDING PLAN:

Charlevoix budget $8M less than last year

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — After considerable discussion, community input, and refinement, the Charlevoix City Council unanimously approved a $22 million spending plan for the 2016-17 fiscal year— Council member Shane Cole was absent.

The approval comes after two-months of budget discussion and a two-hour-long work session during which city manager Mark Heydlauff and city treasurer Kelly McGinn went over each of the city's various funds, comparing the outgoing year's budget to the proposed budget and answering the council's questions. The work sessions followed a budgeting process in each of the city government's departments.

The budget is $8 million less than the previous year's budget.

"The big difference is in our sewer and water funds," Heydlauff said.

In the previous year the sewer fund was budgeted for $11.4 million because of the mandatory upgrades to the wastewater treatment plant that were taking place. Now that the plant construction is nearing completion the fund is budgeted for $3.8 million.

As approved Monday night, the budget dips into the fund balance by $211,600 to adjust for differences between revenues and expenditures in the city's general fund leaving a 29 percent general fund balance. Officials based the budget on revenues that were comparable to the previous year, but did not include an increase to tax revenue. Heydlauff remains comfortable with the budget because of this approach.

"I'm using a much more conservative approach to budgeting than the city used last year," Heydlauff said. "I took the approach to not assume we would see an increase in tax revenues from the previous year."

During the public hearing council member Shirley Gibson said it was the most efficient process she

Icy waves

A strong north wind produced large waves on Lake Michigan on Friday, Feb. 12, throughout Northern Michigan. As the waves crashed into the pier in Charlevoix, water splashed high and combined with single-digit temperatures it froze to surfaces creating many ice formations on the pier and along the shoreline at Lake Michigan Beach. City joins calls to shut down oil pipeline

(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City Council joined the trend of Michigan communities calling on state officials to shut down Line 5 — an aging oil pipeline between the state's Upper and Lower peninsulas. Council members voted 5-0 to send the non-binding resolution to Lansing during their regular meeting on Feb. 15.

"This sends a message that we value our water all over the state of Michigan," said council member Shirley Gibson. "I believe the Great Lakes define our lives environmentally and economically."

The oil pipeline is at the bottom of the Straits of Mackinac where Lake Michigan and Lake Huron meet and is owned by Enbridge Inc., a private Canadian company. Line 5 now operates at more

Council directs staff to prepare conservancy ballot language

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — After 90 minutes of public input and open debate, the Charlevoix City Council voted unanimously to direct staff to construct ballot language for a possible conservation easement.

A public hearing that was poised to go either way actually remained civil allowing each person in attendance to direct his or her support and concerns for a public vote to decide if the Mount McSaubia Recreation Area — not including the ski hill or its facilities — and the Lake Michigan Beach area should be protected under a conservation easement. The debate began when each council member expressed their view of the proposed vote, which was more difficult for some members to approve.

Where is Henry?

COURTESY PHOTO

The depot at Henry, date unknown. Editors Note: "That was then in the Charlevoix Courier" has generated some inquiries from a couple in Ellsworth who wrote they think they will enjoy the new "That was then" series, but would like to know where these places are that get mentioned in the articles. In the "Terrible Storm" piece that was published on Feb. 5, the article mentioned the No. 225 Freight on the Pere Marquette got stuck at Desmond cut near Henry. The question was, "Where is Henry?" In a day when information is at our fingertips this mystery could not be solved by typing on a keyboard and a click of the mouse. This required some more traditional research and some help from the Michigan Historical Center. According to the book, "Michigan Place Names: The History of the Founding and the Naming of More Than Five Thousand Past and Present Michigan Communities," by Walter Romig, Henry was the crossing of the Pere Marquette and the Arcadia and Betsey River railroads, in Springdale Township in northern Manistee County.

JORDAN SPENCE

Nichole Moblo knows why every minute counts. Moblo was pregnant with daughter, Myra Lea Moblo-Wynkoop, when she found out at 20 weeks of her pregnancy Myra had a congenital defect called gastroschisis (when there's a hole in the abdominal wall that allows organs to protrude through the body).

Later in her pregnancy she was told the defect would be fatal.

"It was devastating. It's hard to put into words. There's a quote that says 'It makes it saying hello and goodbye worth it one day.' She was worth it."

Moblo gave birth to Myra on Jan. 14, 2015, at Charlevoix Area Hospital (now Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital). Myra was alive for 37 minutes after birth. The family was able to spend about 16 hours with her before she was taken to the funeral home. During this time Moblo said siblings, grandparents, aunts and uncles were able to come and visit.

"We had a Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep photographer come in (which is a nonprofit which provides remembrance photography for parents whose babies have died). We did the lock of hair, moldings of her hands and feet, and just spent time."

Moblo said she wanted to take the devastation of Myra's death and make it worthwhile.

"For me I had to ask myself 'How can I give back?'"

While she did some research online Moblo discovered a medical device called a Cuddle Cot. The device acts as a refrigerated bassinet which keeps the baby cool after death.

"Babies deteriorate quickly," said nurse Debi Turk. "It (cuddle cot) keeps the baby cool and makes it so the family can spend

Last summer Moblo started a Go Fund Page to raise money for the cots. She raised the $2,765

Man arrested after break-in

(231) 439-9346 • szucker@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Alert observations by employees of a Charlevoix auto repair business led to the arrest of a man who police believe broke into the business and stole several hundred dollars recently.

Charlevoix Police Department Police Chief Gerard Doan said an officer was called to Lakeshore Tire at 1405 Bridge St. at about 5:30 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 25, to a report of suspicious situation there.

Once on the scene, some Lakeshore employees reported to the officer that they were at the Burger King across the street from the shop shortly after closing time when they noticed a man they recognized as, Larry Dale Gardner Jr.,

39, of Charlevoix, walk out from behind the store.

Doan said additional investigation revealed that the back door to the business was unlocked and open and more than $400 was missing from the day's deposit and the cash register.

Based on additional information, officers located Gardner a short time later riding a bike along M-66. Police said when they stopped Gardner he had $321 on him and several bags of groceries.

Although police said Gardner denied entering Lakeshore Tire and taking the money, they eventually arrested Gardner and he has since been charged with breaking and entering a building with intent to commit a larceny, a 10-year felony. His bond was set at $25,000 cash or surety.

Teaming up to make people aware about distracted driving

Have you ever been distracted while driving, perhaps while texting your friends, eating dinner or talking to your passenger? Many people are distracted while they are driving and because of that Boyne City High School pairs up with Michigan State Police to bring more awareness to about distracted driving to teens and our community.

ADVENTURES WITH ALEXIS

Alexis Weaver

Boyne City High School's Pride Team is a team of students with bright and positive ideas that celebrate the academic and athletic hard work throughout the school. The Pride Team meets monthly to plan activities that encourage students to do better and achieve their goals in school and out. Members of Pride are always positive people and are willing to speak up to make a positive impact on our community.

The grant provided by Michigan State Police allows 44 schools in Michigan, including Boyne City High School, to get more attention to distracted driving by having people pledge to not text, read a map or talk to passengers while driving.

This program is called "Strive for a safer driver" and is 3 months long. During the month of January, Boyne City High School students were treated to an assembly led by officer Dan Mercer of the Boyne City Police Department. Mercer spoke about the risks and consequences about consequences of distracted driving. In the last year, 3,300 people were killed and 40,000 were injured because of distracted driving. Every 16 minutes, someone dies because someone that was distracted by their phone or a passenger. If you are a passenger in a vehicle with a distracted driver, speak up. Don't let your life be at risk because of a distraction. If you want to be a better driver, put away the phone, map, or turn off the radio and keep your eyes on the road.

In February, students, staff and local members of the community will have a two day chance to sign a pledge to never talk or text while behind a wheel. February 18 and 19 are the days to come down to Boyne City High School and sign your name. In March, students can participate in using a driving simulator provided by Michigan State Police and will be given access to Ford Driving Skills program to complete with various driving activities while distracted.

Kelsey Raffaele, a Sault St. Marie native, was 17-years-old and had her whole life to look forward for. Kelsey had been talking on the phone when she went to pass a car on an icy road when she lost control of her car. Kelsey's death led to a Michigan Law being passed called "Kelsey's Law" which forces teen drivers to hang up the phone before they drive. Kelsey's mother and aunt travel throughout Michigan to speak with college and high school students about distracted driving.

If you have a history of texting while driving, talking or doing anything that takes your eyes off of the road, try and better our world by taking a pledge to never drive while distracted. So, come down to the high school and take the pledge.

Bridge Street business location is home to the oldest continuing family business in town

In 1895, the Noble Hotel that stood at the southwest corner of Bridge and Clinton Streets intersection suffered a severe fire. The structure had been the first building south of the bridge erected for hotel purposes, originally named the Ingleside until just a couple of years before the fire. The Noble moved across the street and a little way south where East Park is today, and reopened. E. N. Chapel (pronounced Tchay-pull) bought the damaged building, rebuilt it higher, and opened an up-to-date pharmacy complete with a fancy soda fountain. Office spaces and rooms for rent filled the upper floors. Chapel sold the building and business several years later to pharmacist B. A. Herman, who renamed it the Central Drug Store because of its location in the center of town. One of his assistants was Harley Ochs, who started in 1911. Ochs in turn bought Herman out in 1929. The structure became increasingly unsteady over the next three decades. By 1958 it had to come down and be replaced with the one-story brick building there today. Harley's grandson, John, and his wife Lani carry on the Central Drug tradition, making them the oldest continuing family business in Charlevoix. A reliable pharmacy has now occupied that corner for almost five generations of Charlevoix life.

LETTERS to the editor

The benefit of the doubt

Editor:
The Jan. 8, 2016 issue of the Charlevoix Courier included a letter to the editor written by a Miss Julie Roth in which my name with an adjective were referenced (conflict-of-interest-councilwoman - Peggy Brennan) as a statement of fact thus impugning my character.

FACT: As a council member I took an oath, upheld it, and served with dedication and integrity.

FACT: I conducted myself in every vote in accordance with the principles set forth in the Ethics Handbook for Michigan Municipalities (Chapter 3 regarding Conflict of Interest) with which the city of Charlevoix subscribes.

"A public servant shall not... (numerous items...) in which the public servant, or member of his or her immediate family has an ownership (for financial or personal) interest."

"A public servant shall not participate, as an agent or representative of the city, in approving, disapproving, voting upon, abstaining from voting, recommending or otherwise acting upon any matter in which he or she (or relative) has direct or indirect financial interest without disclosing the full nature and extent of their interest."

A. I never had a conflict of interest by even the wildest stretch of the imagination on any matter before the council.

B. No conflict, thus no disclosure.

C. This was affirmed by legal counsel. A council member voting at both the committee level and council is not a conflict of interest. A conflict of interest would prohibit a vote at both levels. Voting at both levels is and has been the common and standard practice for members of the Charlevoix City Council for decades.

I am willing to give Miss Julie Roth the benefit of doubt and attribute the incorrect statement to one of misinformation/ignorance.

New bill bad for us, good for them

Editor:
The Michigan legislature has done it again, passing a bill to restrict public officials from informing voters about ballot proposals. Its purpose is to prevent libraries, schools and local governments from spending public money attempting to influence the electorate within 60 days of an election. With the election "silly season" about to begin in earnest; our legislature again passed a restrictive law that exempts themselves.

Soon our mailboxes will be stuffed with "public service" and "educational" literature from our lawmakers, prominently featuring themselves and all touting their "accomplishments." Of course, all paid for by Michigan taxpayers.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Red Cross: Blood urgently needed

PETOSKEY - The American Red Cross urges eligible donors to help ensure a sufficient blood supply for patients by giving blood this February.

During the winter months, inclement weather and seasonal illnesses can keep regular donors from giving blood. Healthy donors of all blood types are needed to help maintain an adequate blood supply for patients in their own communities as well as areas where donors were unable to give due to severe winter weather. Individuals with types O, AB, B negative and A negative blood are especially needed.

Dnnor Loreta Brandon knows how important it is to have a readily available blood supply. Her late husband required transfusions from generous strangers multiple times for health conditions. She gives blood as often as she can.

"Every time I give blood, I am filled with a sense of gratitude for all I have and for the fact that I can share with others," Brandon said.

Make an appointment to help maintain an adequate blood supply for patients in need this winter by downloading the free Red Cross redcrossblood.org/bloodapp or visit redcrossblood.org or call 1-800-RED CROSS (800) 733-2767.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities include:

noon - 5:45 p.m.
Monday, Feb. 22, Christ

Lutheran Church, 1250 Boyne Ave., Boyne City
noon - 5:45 p.m.,
Friday, Feb. 26, American Red Cross Petoskey, 2350 Mitchell Park Drive, Petoskey

All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 18 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood donors can now save time at their next donation by using Rapid-Pass to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, prior to arriving at the blood drive. To get started and learn more, visit redcrossblood.org/rapidpass.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

Northern Michigan Brass Band presents winter concert

CHARLEVOIX - The Northern Michigan Brass Band, directed by Ralph Schweigert, will present a winter concert, at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 28, at First Congregational Church, 101 State St., Charlevoix.

This 28 piece, British-style brass ensemble will perform a wide range of music by composers including Gustav Holst, William Walton, Herbert Clark and George Gershwin.

Renowned band director, Tim Topolewski, professor emeritus at the SUNY Potsdam Crane School of Music will share the conducting duties with Schweigert. Members of the Charlevoix High School band, under the direction of Tom Harder, will also join the Northern Michigan Brass Band for "King Cotton," a rousing march by John Phillip Sousa.

Schweigert said when he plans a concert program he tries to keep in mind that people listen to music in different ways.

"Some people listen with their heads, others with their hearts and still others with their feet," Schweigert said. "I try to include music that will appeal to all these listening styles. A highlight of this particular concert is sure to be Sousa's 'King Cotton' where the band will be augmented by outstanding brass players from Charlevoix High School."

This winter concert will include a wide variety of repertoire composed or transcribed for brass bands beginning with Walton's Crown Imperial, a stately march played for several royal occasions including the wedding of Prince William and Catherine Middleton. Holst's "First Suite in E flat for Military Band," is a cornerstone of all band literature. "Dancing in the Park" by Peter Graham is a set of variations with ever-changing rhythms that will keep the audience on their toes. The program also includes selections from Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess" and "Maid of the Mist," by Herbert Clark, featuring cornet soloist Keelin Reid, who is a senior at Petoskey High School.

Since 1999, the all-volunteer Northern Michigan Brass Band has attracted enthusiastic adult brass players from across Northern Michigan.

"We draw on such a wide area for our membership that we really don't consider ourselves tied to any one community" said Edward R. Bahr, Northern Michigan Brass Band president. "We belong to all of Northern Michigan which is why we perform concerts in so many different venues throughout the area."

Cost is $10 for adults; students are free. For more information, visit northernmichiganbrassband.org.

Website matches available volunteers with nonprofits

PETOSKEY - Char-Em United Way continues to match volunteers with local nonprofits through the use of Volunteer Connections. Currently, there are 521 people registered as volunteers and 86 agencies have 113 opportunities listed. There were 697 people visiting the site seeking volunteer opportunities in the previous month alone.

Volunteer Connections is a free resource that benefits the entire community. First introduced in late 2009, Volunteer Connections, a virtual volunteer center, is a tool Char-Em United Way uses to match available volunteers with needs that meet their skills and interests. There are projects available for all ages and talents.

Nonprofit agencies in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties list their volunteer needs on the website. Volunteers then help with these requests, based on their skills, interests and availability. By logging on and becoming a fan of an agency, volunteers receive an email whenever a new need is posted. Volunteers then can connect to agencies they have a passion for and would like to support. As a volunteer, job seekers can find opportunities to gain valuable experience, high school students can explore career possibilities, and retirees can share their knowledge and remain active in the community.

Volunteer Connections is one of the strategic initiatives developed by Char-Em United Way and is supported through donations to the United Way campaign as well as proceeds from the annual spring fund raising event, Instant Wine Celler on April 22.

Lorraine Manary, Char-Em United Way executive director, believes that volunteering is an integral element of citizenship.

"This United Way program is helping to harness community spirit. Volunteer Connections continues to grow and serve the communities of Charlevoix and Emmet counties," Manary said.

OBITUARIES

James C. Bergmann, 71

Love is patient, love is kind, love never fails — Corinthians

James C. (Jim) Bergmann, 71, beloved husband of Eileen Bergmann, went home to be with his Lord on Wednesday, Jan. 20, 2016.

Jim had a long and difficult struggle with chronic lung disease but is now at peace. He fought the good fight.

Jim was born on Aug. 16, 1944, in Cheboygan, Mich. He was one of seven children of the late Frederick and Agnes Rose (Tegerdine) Bergmann. The family relocated to Charlevoix, Mich., where Jim grew up and graduated from Charlevoix High School. Best times for Jim included hours hunting and fishing with his five brothers, his Uncle Al Bergmann and nephews. Jim had great stories to tell of times spent at their "huntin' shack."

Jim enlisted in the U.S. Navy in July 1962 and saw active duty on three submarines, the USS Diablo, the USS Clamagore and the USS Von Steuben. While in the Navy, Jim met and married his first wife, Diana Marie Hartman. They had two children, James (Monty) and Christina (Tina). Jim was discharged from the Navy in August 1967.

Jim and his family moved to Ohio in 1971 and resided in Richfield for nearly 40 years. Jim's main employment over the years was with the Gardiner-Trane Company, installing industrial heating and air conditioning in just about every major company, hospital, school, church, etc., in the northeast Ohio area and beyond.

Jim was generous with his time and always willing to help friends and neighbors with their furnace or air conditioner problems even after a full day's work. He was a very kind man who loved to tease but never in a hurtful way. Jim loved working on projects in his basement with his son and friends and always encouraged the boys to think things out for themselves rather than being told how or why. "Olympics of the Mind" were favorite projects.

Jim was also an extraordinarily talented woodworker and took great pride in the hammered dulcimers he built for daughter Tina and others throughout Ohio and beyond and totaling more than 75 instruments. His dulcimers, constructed of the finest quality woods, are beautiful to the eye and ear. Jim's first wife died in 2006 after being in poor health for a number of years.

In 2008, at his retirement party he reconnected with a former music student of his daughter's from nearly 20 years prior — the former Eileen Narraway. Jim and Eileen were married in January 2009, and they settled at one of the Portage Lakes. Their plans had been to spend a lot of time boating and fishing from their pontoon boat, appropriately named, "Second Time Around," but as the saying goes, "Life happens when you're making other plans," i.e., Jim's struggles with his lung condition.

Jim was a proud member of Immaculate Heart of Mary Church in Cuyahoga Falls and, with his wife, was a Eucharistic Minister for a short time until his health issues necessitated giving that up.

Jim was predeceased by his brother, Charles (Sheryl).

Jim is survived by his wife Eileen; children, Monty (Robin) and Tina (Bryan); and stepchildren, Jeff (Danielle) and Jennie Narraway. Jim is also survived by his sister-in-law, Sheryl Bergmann of Charlevoix; sister, Lois (Paul) Michelin of Newberry, Mich.; brothers, Bruce (Sue) of Moran, Mich., Douglas (Louise), and Jack (Sherrel) of Charlevoix and Kenneth (Sue) of Alanson, Mich. Grandchildren include Danielle, Valerie, James, Hanna, Isa, Theo and Maggie. Great-grandchildren include Lincoln, Asher and Gracie. Jim is also survived by countless others who all considered it an honor to be among his many friends. He also leaves his dog, Riley, who is missing him very much.

Visitation and funeral plans are incomplete.

Betty Norton, 92

God welcomed Betty Norton home Tuesday, Dec. 29, 2015, at the age of 92.

She was preceded in death by two husbands, Hazel Keene and Wallace Norton; and by one daughter, Julia Yerks.

Betty is survived by daughters, Claire (Ginger)

Maue, Virginia (Jenny) Keene Avery and Marjorie Norton Lohmeyer; nine grandchildren, Claire Keene, Larry Yerks, Tony Yerks, Markus Yerks, John Rodes, Kim Lepore and Karri Valot; 14 great-grandchildren; and four great-grandchildren.

Organization 'ISLAND' becomes 'Crosshatch'

TRAVERSE CITY — The Institute for Sustainable Living, Art and Natural Design is now Crosshatch Center for Art and Ecology.

Eleven years ago, co-founders Brad and Amanda Kik started the Institute for Sustainable Living, Art and Natural Design, a small, impassioned organization tasked with creating stronger communities through the intersections of farming, art, ecology, and economy.

In the past decade, and then some, it has evolved into a well-loved organization known for putting on workshops and courses on various food and farming topics such as beekeeping, food preservation, mushroom cultivation, and soil management.

The organization also is known for putting on the Northern Michigan Small Farm Conference. This annual event that brings more than 1,000 small farmers and business owners together to promote and build a vibrant local agriculture community, and to provide tools and networking opportunities within the small farm community.

Crosshatch is more than just food and farming, they're also home to a national-level artist residency program, annually bringing in 18 to 20 artists from as close as Traverse City and as far away as Brazil. Crosshatch is dedicated to providing space, time, and resources to give writers, musicians, painters, poets, dancers, and actors opportunities to grow as individuals and as artists.

The organization's name speaks more specifically to their commitment to the arts; the word Crosshatch describes a shading technique used often in illustration.

Like that it's an art term," Amanda Kik says. "Sometimes the art part of ISLAND got lost."

The word Crosshatch also speaks to the organization's ability to draw connections between different facets of culture — like their tagline says: where art meets earth — as well as their ability to build completely new programs from the ground up. Cross: to integrate, and Hatch: to incubate.

"We're really good at connecting seemingly disparate issues," Brad Kik said, "and we're not bad at throwing a bunch of stuff at the wall, and maintaining that open, flexible, artistic state of mind."

The organization's first life-cycle was a lot of experimenting and learning from trial and error.

"We were running on a lot of passion and Ramen noodles," Brad said. But Crosshatch is a tween now, they're old enough to know what they're doing and where they're going: Phase Three.

Phase three will be the development of the Crosshatch property located in Belialre. While Crosshatch currently is, and always has been, a "homeless" organization, the property will someday be the location of a working farm, workspace and residences for artists, a community building, and more. The Crosshatch property will materialize the organization's longstanding concept of integrating art with farming and ecology.

"We have an amazing board and we've got this rock star staff," Brad said. "People are excited about our programs and projects, and we're excited about our new growth. All of these things mark our evolution as an organization, and our new name, Crosshatch, represents that transition for us."

Visit crosshatch.org for more information about the organization and to stay in the loop about events and programs.

Good Stuff Cacao owners Samantha Mietling (left) and Barbara Mietling (far right) are working with Amazonia Vision for an integrated Sustainability project leaders Nancy Dammann and Edgardo Pisco Gomez to launch development projects in Peruvian Amazon and bring chocolate to Michigan.

Local efforts promote sustainability in Peruvian Amazon

PERU — Can a chocolate connection between growers in the Peruvian rain-forest and purveyors of fine chocolate in Michigan make a difference to people in the Amazon struggling for a sustainable way to live?

"Yes," said Nancy Dammann, of Charlevoix, a member of the team of rural community leaders, students, and Peruvian, American, other South American and European scientists who lead Visión Amazónica para la Sostenibilidad integral (VASI), or in English — Amazonia Vision for an Integrated Sustainability.

Chocolate is the centerpiece of a three-pronged project involving planting and harvesting of sustainable crops, serious scientific research in poorly understood areas of Amazonia, and scholarships to enable students to continue studies beyond the small rural schools.

The concept of direct importation of cacao from Amazonia has caught the attention of several Michigan chocolatiers including Just Good Chocolate of Leelanau, Grocers' Daughter of Empire, and Good Stuff Cacao of Metamora.

"What an honor and privilege it is to be a part of VASI," said Barbara Mietling, co-owner of Good Stuff Cacao.

The cacao project comes at an opportune time for Jody Hayden owner of The Grocer's Daughter.

"The world demand for quality cacao continues to outpace supply and if the project succeeds in building a successful exporting business, both producers and chocolate-makers stand to benefit," Hayden said. "More and more, consumers want to know that their chocolate purchases are supporting small farmers and VASI intends to make this integral to their work. As a chocolate-maker committed to fair trade practices, we applaud VASI for their efforts."

Dammann, a conservation biologist, who began researching conditions in the poorest parts of the Peruvian Amazon as a Harvard undergraduate in 1996 and continued through her PhD at Columbia, has joined the effort to work with nine rural Amazonian communities to create legal and sustainable projects.

"The project involves rigorous scientific research on issues that are relevant to both Peru and Michigan, especially the Great Lakes, which like the Amazon constitute one of the world's major bodies of fresh water," Dammann said. "There is increasing conversation about climate change. The work we will be doing will both study the effects of climate change and potential adaptations to deal with it, and through the agroforestry directly contribute to mitigating it — growing healthy, productive forests (that will capture carbon) and creating sustainable legal alternatives (decreasing activities that contribute to climate change). This is how chocolate plays an important role."

People in rural Amazonia are marginalized and live in extreme poverty, according to Edgardo Gomez Pisco, former governor of the District Sarayacu, in which the nine communities lie. Gomez acknowledges that the extreme poverty often forces people into dangerous and illegal fishing and logging as well as drugs in order to sustain their families.

"The concepts for the project and the organization has come from local people," Gomez said.

To make the Michigan connection Gomez and Dammann met with the local chocolatiers.

"We met with chocolatiers in February and then again over the past summer before we returned to Peru," Dammann reports. "And in Lima, we have been reaching out to leading Peruvian chefs and chocolatiers."

After meeting with Gomez and Dammann this past summer, Mietling gave enthusiastic support to the project.

"We pray for God's blessing and guidance and protection as they move forward with bravery and conviction out of the love for their children, community and future generations," Mietling said.

The Peru organization works with Utopia Foundation in Traverse City and the web-based crowdfunding program indiegogo to raise funds to support the organization. For more information, visit indiegogo.com/projects/vision-amazonia-vision-for-an-integrated-sustainability/x/5931991/.

"We have set an initial budget of just over $100,000," Dammann reports. "We are raising funds through the Indiegogo campaign and through Utopia, which with its nonprofit status makes all donations tax deductible. We also are talking with other foundations and nonprofits. Our goal is that within five to seven years, VASI will become self-supporting, generating income that helps increase the farmer's quality of life and community health, and able to spread in a sustainable way."

Veteran of the Month: Lloyd Joseph Prevo

The Veteran of the Month for February 2016 is Lloyd Joseph Prevo. Born on April 23, 1922 in the village of Sheldrick, Sheldrick Township, Chippewa County in Michigan's Eastern Upper Peninsula. Prevo spent his younger years in the Upper Peninsula during the lumber era and then moved with his family to the Green River area south of East Jordan. For a short time Prevo attended the Bush Country School and following another family move, to the Hogs Back Hill area, where he attended the Bennett School, completing the eighth grade. Prevo helped with the farming chores and later moved down state seeking work while living with his half sister.

Prevo registered with the selective service on June 30, 1942 in Detroit, and shortly after was inducted into the U.S. Army receiving basic and advanced training at Fort Sill, Okla. Prevo was assigned to the 601st Tank Destroyer Battalion and sent to North Africa and following the North African Campaign, the unit was re-equipped with 10 Wolverine Tank Destroyers, loaded aboard LSTs and landed at Salerno, Italy with Operation Avalanche in September 1943. The unit was an Elite Special Unit formed with the intent to destroy Hitler's Panzer Tanks, and was involved in 10 campaigns and 546 days of lethal combat. During combat operations, on Oct. 21, 1943, Private Lloyd Joseph Prevo died in action when his tank took a direct hit and exploded.

One month prior to Prevo being killed in action, his father, Joseph Prevo passed away from cancer. A telegram was sent to notify him, however he never received the notification. On Nov. 8, 1943 his mother was notified by military personnel that her son had been killed in action. The Army official told her that she could have him buried in the American Cemetery in Nettuno, Italy or could have him flown back to the states, however it may take up to five years for his return.

Lloyd Joseph Prevo is February's Veteran of the Month.

Making a very hard decision, she asked that he be buried over there. As funds would allow, flowers were sent every Memorial Day to decorate his grave. At the age of 84, in 1984, when asked by her children what she wanted for her birthday, she said she would like to visit her sons' grave, as his final resting place was always on her mind. Mrs. Alena Prevo Stenke got her wish, and with her son Herman and daughter Eda accompanying her, they made her wish come true. Mrs. Stenke was always present as a Gold Star Mother during Memorial Day Services in East Jordan and was very proud of the sacrifice her son Lloyd Joseph made for his country, and also proud of her other three sons Miles, Ervin and Herman for their Military Service. Alena was presented with her son's Purple Heart medal that she always cherished. On Oct. 21, 1943 Private Lloyd Joseph Prevo answered the final call and is being honored by the Prevo family.

To honor a veteran, call the program chairman at (231) 588-6067 or between 3:30-8:30 p.m. on Tuesdays call (231) 582 7811. The ceremony may be witnessed at 4 p.m. on the first Thursday of each month at The American Legion Post located on the corner of South Lake and Main streets in Boyne City.

Local organization supports the efforts of abuse, trafficking and prostitution victims

CHARLEVOIX - Selling candles to help women locally and beyond Northern Michigan was the goal of a fundraiser initiated by the Episcopal Church Women of Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix. The Hope candles they sold this holiday season were manufactured by survivors of trafficking, prostitution and abuse employed at Thistle Farms in Nashville.

Episcopal Church Women committee members also decided to support local survivors of domestic abuse and sexual assault by donating dollars raised from the Hope candle sale to the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan.

According to Thistle Farms executive director,

Becca Stevens, they make candles to give women who have survived violence, prostitution and trafficking as an opportunity for healing and economic freedom. Staff members symbolically light a candle at the start of every day for other women who are still being impacted by violence and abuse and who are trying to find their way home.

Thistle Farms is a social enterprise nonprofit that includes a two-year residential program and advocacy services for up to 700 women yearly. They provide education and training annually through speaking events and workshops. Christ Episcopal Church and the Episcopal Church Women committee plans to host a program this fall featuring Becca Stevens of Thistle Farms as the speaker.

Fat bike race scheduled for Saturday

CHARLEVOIX - Revolution Bike in Charlevoix will hosts its fourth annual Dogman Challenge Fat Bike Race with a mass start at noon on Saturday, Feb. 20, at the top of the bunny hill on Mount McSaubia. Riders will race fat bikes on a 1.5 mile loop through the trails of Mount McSaubia Recreation Area and North Point Nature Preserve. The rider to complete the most laps in two hours is the champion and will be awarded a Dogman medal and cash prize. Medals and prizes will also be awarded to the first, second, and third place winners in the men's and women's division both expert and sport.

The course is spectator friendly. There will be fire pits, smores, and excitement galore at the competition. Spectators can even get in out of the cold and watch the action unfold from the upper level of the ski lodge.

Race award ceremony will be at 4 p.m. at Lake Charlevoix Brewing Company.

For more information, call (231) 237-0900 or visit dogmanchallenge.net.

Congratulations to Ellsworth Community School Future Farmers of America members (from left), Trent Drog, Marie Groenink, and Kaylee Humphrey who competed in the Future Farmers of America Leadership Skills contest on Friday, Feb. 5, in Cadillac. Drog placed second in prepared public speaking and Groenink took fourth, while Humphrey placed second in extemporaneous public speaking. Drog and Humphrey will represent Ellsworth Community Schools at the Future Farmers of America regional competition. Thanks to agriculture teacher Dr. Randall for ensuring that students have the opportunity to participate in Future Farmers of America.

Charlevoix City Council prepares to take a brief break before starting the 2016-17 budget hearing on Monday night. Council unanimously approved the budget for the coming fiscal year.

BUDGET

has experienced. "This is the first time in nine years I wasn't baffled by stuff," Gibson said, as she thanked Heydlauff and McGinn for their work.

This year's budget process was completed under new leadership and council member Leon Perron said he was pleased with the entire process.

"What was presented to us was precise and clear," Perron said. "We were not overburdened with excess data."

The city's budget is a working document that lays out a roadmap for the government's financial transactions over the coming year, and there will almost certainly be changes in revenues and expenditures as the year progresses, Heydlauff said.

"Even if we do not see an increase with tax revenue I am comfortable with a 29 percent general fund balance," Heydlauff said.

Charlevoix residents will pay the same millage rate as last year, which equates to around $1,200 for a family with a market value home of $200,000.

Residents will also see only an 18 percent increase to sewer instead of the forecasted 24.5 percent increase after Heydlauff and staff discovered the fund was performing better than projected.

"This will be the last of the planned large rate increases to residents," Heydlauff said.

What this means for residents is they will see roughly an $8 to $10 increase in sewer bills in 2016-17.

Residents also will see a 15 percent increase in their water bill, which means for a family that uses between 3,000 to 8,000 gallons of water they are looking at paying an extra $3 to $5 per month, Heydlauff said.

Line 5 now operates at more than 80 percent of its original design capacity. Environmentalists say they are afraid it will rupture.

A 2014 University of Michigan study called it the worst possible place to have an oil spill in the Great Lakes.

"It's not 'if' there will be an oil spill with Line 5. It's when," Gibson added. "Water is our most precious commodity."

Michigan officials are looking at alternatives for moving the oil. A Traverse City-based environmental group says alternative routes do exist that do not pass through the Great Lakes.

"The issue of Line 5 is one of the top environmental issues of the Great Lakes," said Liz Kirkwood, For Love of Water executive director. "It is a painful reminder that we must prioritize to protect our water over anything else."

Kirkwood said she wonders why state officials are not acting immediately, and local communities increasingly send resolutions opposing the pipeline to the governor and state lawmakers.

Council member Bill Supernaw said the resolutions the communities are passing including Charlevoix means nothing to lawmakers in Lansing.

"This was addressed by great length by state representative Triston Cole on Saturday," Supernaw said. "(Cole) said this probably is the safest pipeline that he is aware of, period. I will vote for this thing because (Cole) said resolutions are meaningless and will have no weight (in Lansing)."

Supernaw believes the Enbridge pipeline concerns are a "Chicken Little" scenario that environmentalists are getting the people worked up over.

There are 17,700 Enbridge employees in Michigan and its state tax bill $25 million and much of that money goes to counties in the Upper Peninsula, including Cheboygan, Mackinaw and Emmet counties, Supernaw said.

"There would be a financial impact if we put them out of business," Supernaw said. "The thing has been there without incident for over 60 years. This is just another meaningless resolution that carries no weight. This sky is falling thing has got to stop."

At least 15 townships and counties have voiced concerns to state officials about how detrimental Line 5 could be to the Great Lakes, according to the Michigan Environmental Council, a coalition of environmental groups.

Council member Aaron Hagen said this issue is important for Charlevoix to take a stand on, and that the resolution passed on Monday strengthens the message being sent down to Lansing.

"As more communities send this message, the people's voice becomes louder," Hagen said.

Hagen also reflected on the economics of the Great Lakes pointing out in documents provided to the city council cited information prepared by Food and Water Watch that recorded the Great Lakes brought in $1.2 billion in visitor spending in 2013.

"Think about what the crowd would look like down at Lake Michigan Beach in July if oil lined the coast," Hagen said. "The beach would be empty, and why risk that?"

Hagen also pointed out that the Great Lakes is an industry and water supply for Northern Michigan.

"Among the many industries affected, including fisheries and agriculture that are so important to us locally, this is our communities water source, as well as the other communities on the shoreline," Hagen said. "Another industry at risk if a spill were to take place in the Straits of Mackinac, the craft brewing industry. Currently an $800 million industry quickly approaching $1 billion, this water is one of the key ingredients for our brews and the exceptional quality of this water is what makes our beer rise among the rest. We can't put Michigan's beer at risk, we just can't." City manager Mark

A proposed conservation easement ballot measure would prevent the city from building structures similar to the city's water treatment plant on park property at Lake Michigan Beach and the Mount McSaubia Recreation Area.

Heydlauff said that it was important to be behind this resolution because Charlevoix's fresh water supply comes from Lake Michigan.

"We rely on Lake Michigan to be our water source," Heydlauff said. "We have to encourage lawmakers to look out for our interest in the lakes."

EASEMENT

idea and might confuse them."

For councilwoman Shirley Gibson the idea to let the community vote on the matter is an easy choice.

"The community should vote to decide on if they want a conservation easement," Gibson said. "The community has the right to vote and I don't know why anyone on this council would not want the community to have a say in this."

Kurtz then presented the idea that if every time someone came to council to ask their elected representatives to do something should it also be put to a vote of the people. Kurtz was referencing the fact that council members are elected to make decisions for the city. Gibson agrees that she is elected to make decisions for the city, but believes this issue should not be left up to six people sitting on a bench.

"We are elected to represent our constituents, but there are some issues that come before city council that should be referred back to the citizens of this city so they can vote on it personally," Gibson said. "This is a good example where the council should not make a decision for the people of Charlevoix."

Conservation easements are voluntary, binding agreements that place permanent restrictions on how a property can be used to protect natural resources and open space. The city does not regulate conservation easements and the agreements usually are entered into with a third party, typically a public agency such as the Little Traverse Conservancy. Under such an easement, the city would maintain ownership of the land but be prohibited from dividing the property, conducting any commercial, industrial or mining operations, dumping, most types of construction, most tree cutting and most excavation in the Mount McSaubia Recreation Area and the Lake Michigan Beach area.

The area of protection does not include the ski

'We all agree we want the area to be preserved, but I don't want it so restrictive that people that use that area right now will lose that freedom in what they are able to do down there if a conservancy takes over.'

Diane Preiss, Charlevoix resident hill or its facilities, thus letting the city continue to do what it wants with those areas. The protected areas would be the dunes, beaches and nature trails.

John Campbell, who proposed the conservation easement ballot measure, said good things happen by having public input.

"This is a big deal and I don't take it lightly," Campbell said. "I would like the people to vote on this. It does not mean you support an easement by allowing the public to have the final decision with a vote."

Charlevoix resident Diane Priess has concerns for a conservancy. She is concerned how a vote would work and how the people could voice what they want protected. Priess also did not want this to be a big controversy like Fisherman's Island was during the land swap discussions. She also is concerned that a conservancy might cause the loss of hiking trails, bonfires and other recreation opportunities on the property that residents have grown to enjoy over the years.

"We all agree we want the area to be preserved, but I don't want it so restrictive that people that use that area right now will lose that freedom in what they are able to do down there if a conservancy takes over," Priess said.

Mary Eveleigh also spoke to the fact that ordinances can be changed depending on who is elected and in charge when something comes across the table.

"Ordinances change and our city master plan has not always reflected the protections we have," Eveleigh said. "A conservation easement is a protection for the life of Mount McSaubia for generations to come and look what has happened in the world and the environment and this is something we should protect."

Charlevoix resident Tony Duerr said if council was to move in the direction to let people vote on a conservation easement than ballot language should be written first so the people can understand what they are voting for.

"It seems to me council's direction to staff should be to draft the language of a conservancy easement," Duerr said. "Then you can go to the voters and see if that is what they want."

After all the debate and discussion council agreed unanimously to allow staff to develop ballot language on a conservation easement so the public would understand what they would be voting for in November.

"It's a baby step to get this to the people," Gibson said. "Once staff gets the language back to council then we will decide if the people will have an opportunity to vote on it."

Council member Leon Perron supports a ballot measure and looks forward to letting the people make the final decision.

"I hope the people of city get to vote on this," Perron said. "I hope this doesn't get dropped by council after all the time and money city staff will put into it. The people should get the final say."

BUSINESS PROFILE

J. Phillips of Charlevoix
... a passion for fashion

ANNE KELLY

Special to Charlevoix Courier

J. Phillips with its unique and timeless merchandise and classy window displays attracts customers that come back after year. J. Phillips' longevity is proof that stores can survive and thrive in downtown Charlevoix.

"My mom used to say, 'Windows are like a Bible,'" said Patrice Stieglitz of Charlevoix's J. Phillips store. She was making reference to the late Jackie Kennedy who worked there 19 years, embracing the sense of style that continues to be the trademark of this upscale women's clothing boutique. "My sisters and I used to hang around the store on our way home from school. We called it 'The Clubhouse.'"

The other day I ran across the letter of application my mom typed and sent to Judy Phillips in 1983: Please accept this letter as an application to work in your Charlevoix store part time beginning this summer or this fall. Your Traverse City and Petoskey stores have always been a must when visiting either city as you have such great merchandise.

"I showed the letter to Judy, and it brought tears to our eyes. My mom really loved working here," Stieglitz added.

If it is the window displays that draw customers with their guide to current yet classic trends, it is Stieglitz who keeps them coming back.

"Fashion is my passion," she said. "Merchandising is just my thing. I just love to put outfits together."

Stieglitz learned merchandising by osmosis watching her mom doing for clients what she excels in today.

"I always worked in retail," she said of her career. "I started at J. Phillips in May of 2000, but before that, I worked in Breckenridge, Col., as a buyer for Bahnhof for 15 years. I first started working for Rod and Judy (Phillips, owners) at Country Casuals in Petoskey."

Her experience is evident, not only in her salesmanship, but in the way she displays merchandise from buying trips throughout the year. Quality sweaters, skirts, dresses and slacks are mixed and matched and augmented with suggested scarves and jewelry to complete the outfit.

"Many customers see an outfit in the window and want to buy the whole ensemble," she said. "They stop in just before taking a trip or dressing for a special occasion and ask for help in putting an outfit together."

J. Phillips is not a bargain boutique by any means. High end merchandise comes at a price. But periodic sales can net some real finds.

"Most of our items are unique and timeless," Stieglitz said. "When we go to market I often take pictures of new finds for clients who buy clothes from us when they come to Charlevoix. Many are returning customers who have been coming in for over 15 years. They stop and check out the window display on their way into town to their second homes, then come down to shop soon thereafter. Some say they only buy from us."

J. Phillips stores today, are located in Charlevoix and Petoskey...with a junior market store called Expressions, also in Petoskey. Country Casuals, pops up in the summer in Charlevoix, and offers apparel at a reduced price. There is still one Country Casuals store in Gaylord.

Stieglitz and her sales associates love to help couples and husbands shop. For husbands who opt out of the process, a "hubby bench" is provided at the door.

"You have to keep up with merchandising to keep fresh looking, and keep customers coming back," she said.

Stieglitz joins Judy Phillips on buying trips to New York, Dallas, Atlanta and Chicago. The Phillips, who reside at Bay Harbor, travel extensively all over the world and bring back unique clothing and accessories for their stores. One of their new and popular lines is a Canadian label called Bylyse.

"Charlevoix is an incredible city for retailing," said owner Rod Phillips. "Being on the highway helps us for year-round business. We feel that it is a quality store that has done well since the 1990s."

Business hours are from 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m., Monday-Saturday and from noon-4 p.m. on Sunday.

Comeback wins help Charlevoix claim district title

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix wrestling program has a long history of strong individuals.

But on Wednesday, the Rayders did something that hasn't been done in a long time in Charlevoix, bringing home a team district title with wins over Mancelona (51-30) and Onaway (57-24).

It's the first state team trophy for the Rayders in at least 15 years, and possibly in the program's history.

"The thing that's meaningful to me about it is the team aspect," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "We've got some state ranked guys, but to be successful in this format, it's about what the rest of your wrestlers can give you."

"They really stepped up tonight and showed how far they've come as wrestlers with some big wins, especially our seniors."

The most intense action on the night came in the semifinal against Mancelona, where the Rayders won several close matches to turn a tight contest into a rout.

his match at 130 pounds over Division 4 honorable mention Aris Morgan in stunning fashion, using his body to pin both of Morgan's shoulders to the mat despite being in a hold at the time.

Charlevoix senior Jake Seger (152) got a second period reversal that led to two near-falls to win a 10-7 decision over Mancelona's Collin Bilyeu after trailing early, and the biggest comeback of the night came from Elliot Bartell (160) who went from spending a minute on his back fighting off a pin to land a sudden reversal and get a pin of his own on Mancelona's Caleb Nguyen late in the third period.

The 15 points from those wins were the difference between a competitive match and a comfortable Rayder win.

On the Run: Rayders solve Traverse City St. Francis press in 62-52 home win

JAMES GENSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgensterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Traverse City St. Francis has ridden its patented pressure defense to a strong start in the Lake Michigan Conference this season, and the Gladiators used it to great effect in a 61-58 victory Charlevoix in their first meeting.

But on Tuesday, the Rayders turned the tables on St. Francis' full-court press, getting up and down the floor for transition layups to pull off a 62-52 upset at home.

"You know what you're going to get when you're facing a team coached by (St. Francis coach) Keith Haske, and it's going to be a very well-run and aggressive press," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "We felt that if you could take care of the basketball, be decisive and make good passes, you can break that press and give yourself some good looks at the other end."

"It's not easy to do that, but I thought our players did a good job of breaking the press in the first half and getting us off to a good start."

Austin Putman's versatility played a big role for Charlevoix, as the senior's ability to post up defenders and handle the ball made him a matchup nightmare for the Gladiators.

Putman finished with a 16 point, 18 rebound double-double, his eighth of the season, and Arvo Viitaharju also finished with four points and nine rebounds inside for the Rayders.

Sophomore Colin Smith hit four 3-pointers to finish with 12 points, and Walker Drost added eight for Charlevoix, who led 26-18 at the half and by as many as 16 early in the fourth quarter.

Two new starters also played a big role for Charlevoix, as senior Jordan Adkins and junior Brad Klinger made a strong showing on the night.

Adkins scored six points and put in a strong performance defensively, and Klinger added seven points, including a big 3-pointer with under four minutes to go that helped to seal the victory.

"Jordan and Brad work so hard defensively and bring so much energy to the floor that they're big assets for us in that regard alone, and anything they give us offensively is just a bonus," Erskine said. "We've got confidence in them that if we need them to, they'll come through with a big shot when they're called upon."

"We had nine guys score tonight, and our depth has been a big part of the success we've had this year. We need the energy the bench brings on a night-to-night basis to win games."

Gabe Callery scored 14 points to lead St. Francis, and Sam Ludka chipped in 10 for the Gladiators, who struggled offensively for most of the game but put on a late run and closed the gap to five points with a minute to play before bowing out.

"Finishing games is a skill, and it's something we have to keep working on and improve at," Erskine said. "You know a team like St. Francis isn't going to roll over for you when they're down, they're going to bring pressure and fight with everything they have to get back in it.

care of the ball than we did, and make better decisions, but I expect it's something we'll learn from."

Rayders find silver lining in 56-39 loss to state-ranked TC St. Francis CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix girls basketball team isn't on the level of Traverse City St. Francis just yet.

But in a 56-39 loss on Tuesday to the fourth-ranked team in Class C according to the Associated Press poll, the young Rayder squad showed they wouldn't back down from that challenge, either.

Despite falling behind 26-5 to the Gladiators in the first quarter, the Rayders kept fighting, outscoring TC St. Francis 25-16 in the second half and 13-3 in the fourth quarter.

"We did a lot better job of controlling the tempo, rather than letting the defense control it for us, and taking good shots instead of forcing up any look we get," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "We're just having more patience and taking more pride in making good decisions and playing the right way out there."

Seniors Kelsey Engstrom and Hannah Zipp each led the Rayders with eight points, and Zipp chipped in another double-digit rebound night on the boards.

Beth Veenstra, Natalie Nesburg and Ellie Louiselle each chipped in six points for Charlevoix as well.

"I'm really proud of my seniors and our guys just refused to break," Hinkle said. "Even when we were on our backs, we were still fighting and trying to find a way to turn it around."

"The most important lesson this sport teaches you is to never quit, and you could see how crucial that ended up being tonight."

Those big turnarounds also added fuel to the fire of Charlevoix's other wrestlers, helping propel the Rayders through the night.

"Nothing's better than watching your teammate win a match like that," Charlevoix wrestler Mick Hinkle said. "Elliot's done multiple times this year, and every time it's exhilarating and fun for everyone."

Junior (112) and Jordan Aiden (135) and Jordan Aiden (135), Justin Bond (189), Mick Hinkle (215) and Jake Petrosky (285) all won by fall as well for the Rayders against Mancelona.

In the final, Charlevoix had little trouble downing depleted Onaway squad, earning seven wins by void to clinch the title.

On the mat, both McCallum and Petrosky each pinned their Cardinal opponent to help Charlevoix win.

With the title, Charlevoix gets an extra week of wrestling as a team for the first time in a long time.

The Rayders will travel to LeRoy Pine River next Wednesday for the regional, facing Frankfort in the semifinal round.

Frankfort is making its first regional appearance in a long time as well, as the Panthers ended a 22-year district title drought tonight.

"It's exciting, because we get another chance to wrestle as a team," Mick Hinkle said. "All the guys who don't make it out of individual districts on Saturday get an extra couple days of practice as well and come back stronger next year, which is great for them."

Individual Districts at Farwell

FARWELL—Charlevoix had a banner day at the Division 4 Individual district hosted by Farwell on Saturday, advancing six wrestlers to the regional and just missing sending three more.

State ranked wrestlers Tyler McCallum (130) and Cam Aiden (135) led the way for the Rayders, rampaging through their brackets to go undefeated and bring home district titles.

McCallum, ranked seventh at 130 in Division 4 by michiganrappler.com, won a 12-9 decision over 14th ranked Tucker Fansier of Pine River in the final to claim a title, and Aiden, ranked ninth at 135, pinned Austin Sandel of Farwell in the finals to win a title as well.

McCallum also earned his 100th career victory during the tournament, joining teammates Aiden and Mick Hinkle in reaching that milestone this season.

Hinkle, ranked eighth at 189, just missed bringing home a district title himself after losing a hard fought decision to fourth ranked Josh Jackson of Pine River 4-2 in the final.

Three other wrestlers qualified for Charlevoix, as junior Jordan Chernauckas (119) and senior Jake Seger

(152) each won blood round matches to grab the fourth and final qualifying spot, and sophomore Stacy Kenney (285) finished fourth as well to advance.

Charlevoix's Jeremy Chernauckas (119), Justin Adkins (145) and Jake Petrosky (215) each made the blood round for the Rayders, but came up just short of getting the win they needed to qualify for regionals.

Elliot Bartell (160) and Max Hinkle (171) each also won a match in the district tournament for Charlevoix.

The six advancing Rayders will head to the regional tournament in Rogers City on Saturday looking for a berth in the state finals at the Palace of Auburn Hills from March 3-5. Aiden and Hinkle are wrestling for return trips after earning a spot at the state finals last season.

BOYS

Charlevoix (8-7, 6-5 LMC) is above .500 for the first time since beating St. Ignace to open the season with the victory, and will look to build on its momentum during a trip to rival Boyne City for a game on Friday.

The Ramblers are sitting a game back of the fourth-place Rayders in the conference standings, and both teams are looking to build momentum heading into district play.

Charlevoix 70, Grayling 50

GRAYLING—In what coach Bret Erskine said was the Rayders' best performance of the season to date, Charlevoix avenged an earlier loss to the Vikings and moved into sole possession of fourth place in the LMC with a 70-50 road win on Friday.

Austin Putman led the Rayders with a monster performance, finishing with 25 points, 18 rebounds and six assists. Kevin Pearl added 12 points, six rebounds and six assists and Walker Drost finished with 13 points as Charlevoix pulled away early and never looked back.

"When you look at the number of assists that Austin and Kevin had, that really tells you a lot about the way our team was working together and sharing the ball at the offensive end," Erskine said. "We got off to a great start and our team stayed focused and didn't let up until the final whistle.

"It was just really great to see them put it all together and play 32 minutes at a high level like that."

Also key to the victory was the Rayder defense, which held Grayling's star trio of Troy Summers, Spencer White and Trey Moffitt to 33 points after giving up 51 to those three in a 65-49 loss on Jan. 15.

"We gave up a lot of points to them the first time, especially to (Summers, who had 21), and I think our kids remembered that and took it personally," Erskine said. "As coaches, we were expecting their guys to get their points, but our players really stepped up and made a commitment to containing them defensively."

GIRLS

tonight, they led us again at the offensive end, but they showed a lot of leadership on the floor as well," Shaw said. "It starts with effort and they led by example at both ends of the floor in that regard."

Lauren McDonnell scored 14 points and Anne Lyman 12 to lead the Gladiators, who remained unbeaten in the Lake Michigan Conference with the win.

Charlevoix (2-15, 2-9 LMC) travels to Boyne City on Friday looking for its third win of the season. The Rayders beat the Ramblers 53-46 on Jan. 22 for their first win this year.

Grayling 44, Charlevoix 33

GRAYLING—Charlevoix hung around but couldn't quite keep pace with host Grayling in a 44-33 road loss on Friday.

The Rayders trailed by two after the first and by five at the half as the Vikings steadily built their lead and pulled away late.

Kelsey Engstrom led Charlevoix with 10 points, Hannah Zipp added 18 rebounds, six assists and five steals and Emily Chomiczewski chipped in six points.

"We were in the game and we played decently, but we didn't have the same intensity that we had against East Jordan (in a win on Tuesday)," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "As a team, we don't have a big scorer or someone we can turn to to get us back in the game by herself."

"That means that if we want to win, we've got to have consistent energy and consistent effort from everyone on the floor to make it happen, and I think our players are starting to understand that and realize that everyone needs to contribute."

NOTICE OF

Mortgage Foreclosure Sale
THIS FIRM IS A DEBT COLLECTOR ATTEMPTING TO COLLECT A DEBT. ANY INFORMATION WE OBTAIN WILL BE USED FOR THAT PURPOSE. PLEASE CONTACT OUR OFFICE AT THE NUMBER BELOW IF YOU ARE IN ACTIVE MILITARY DUTY.

ATTN PURCHASERS: This sale may be rescinded by the foreclosing mortgagee. In that event, your damages, if any, shall be limited solely to the return of the bid amount tendered at sale, plus interest.

MORTGAGE SALE: Default has been made in the conditions of a mortgage made by Charles Pop, a single man, original mortgagor(s), to Mortgage Electronic Registration Systems, Inc., Mortgagee, dated September 9, 2011, and recorded on October 4, 2011 in Liber 969 on Page 641, and assigned by said Mortgagee to Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. as assignee as documented by an assignment, in Charlevoix county records, Michigan, on which mortgage there is claimed to be due at the date hereof the sum of Ninety-Nine Thousand Fifty-Nine and 23/100 Dollars ($99,059.23).

Under the power of sale contained in said mortgage and the statute in such case made and provided, notice is hereby given that said mortgage will be foreclosed by a sale of the mortgaged premises, or some part of them, at public vendue, at the place of holding the circuit court within Charlevoix County, at 11:00 AM, on March 11, 2016. Said premises are situated in Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, and are described as: Unit 1, Meadow Ridge Estates, according to the Master Deed as recorded in Liber 674, Pages 444 through 487, inclusive, Charlevoix County Records, and designated as Charlevoix County Condominium Subdivision Plan No. 150, together with rights in general common elements and limited common elements as set forth in the above Master Deed and amendments thereto, and as described in Act 59 of the Public Acts of 1978, as amended.

The redemption period shall be 6 months from the date of such sale, unless determined abandoned in accordance with MCLA 600.3241a, in which case the redemption period shall be 30 days from the date of such sale.

If the property is sold at foreclosure sale under Chapter 32 of the Revised Judicature Act of 1961, pursuant to MCL 600.3278 the borrower will be held responsible to the person who buys the property at the mortgage foreclosure sale or to the mortgage holder for damaging the property during the redemption period.

Frozen formations

Ice caverns formed along Lake Michigan in Charlevoix over the weekend after high winds and sub zero temperatures battered the shore line on Feb. 12.

Ice formations around Lake Michigan Beach in Charlevoix had people out exploring the area on Sunday, Feb. 14.

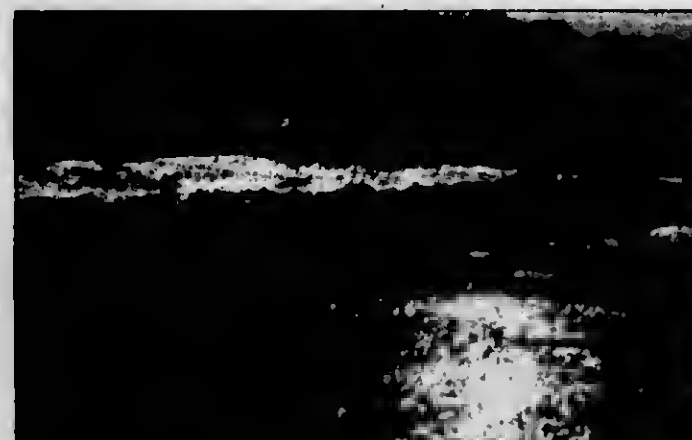

A fragile ice bridge formed over a narrow trench of water at Lake Michigan Beach near the DNR fishery station in Charlevoix.

Last weekend, Feb. 12 and Feb. 13, wild winds and sub zero temperatures created huge iceberg type formations along the Lake Michigan beach shoreline in Charlevoix and elsewhere in Northern Michigan. On Sunday, the sun was shining and people were out exploring the ice layers at the pier and beach.

Hospital school nurse program recognized for 'excellence'

CHARLEVOIX — The Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital School Nurses Program was among 10 programs from across the country named a Program of Excellence by the Hospital Charitable Services Awards, a national program sponsored by Jackson Healthcare.

The multifaceted School Nurses Program was created by Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital and serves community residents who experience the greatest disparities in health status and access by providing four registered nurses in nine local school systems — where previously there were none — at no cost to the schools.

The ten programs were commended for exceptional work in setting new standards for impacting the under served in their communities in sustainable ways. At a banquet that was the culmination of the National Hospital Charitable Services Conference in Atlanta, Ga., each winning program was presented with a very generous $10,000 investment toward their growth. There to receive the award were Kathy Jacobsen, Director of Community Health Education for the hospital and one of the school nurses, Chris Signs-Warstler, RN. "Through the dedicated hard work of the school nurses, not only has the medical safety in the schools greatly increased, but students have been given the opportunity to learn about healthy lifestyle habits that will last a lifetime," said Kathy Jacobsen.

Friday Night Live new monthly event at the Circle of Arts

 smiller@petoskeynews.com

In March, the Charlevoix Circle of Arts will host Friday Night Live, a new monthly event that will showcase artwork from local high schools.

Friday Night Live is an idea from Circle executive director Gail DeMeyere. Her thought is to bring people together to celebrate the arts in a festive new approach.

"This is a new concept we are just getting off the ground," DeMeyere said. "I just wanted to bring more exposure to the Circle of Arts, the talent in the region, and bring more opportunities for people to come together to celebrate the arts."

Friday Night Live will premiere from 5-7 p.m. on March 4, and will always occur on the first Friday of the month. The night will be split into two parts; the opening of a new exhibit, and an open mic night for high school students.

"This will basically be a night for high school talent," DeMeyere said. "The first part of the night will be an opening of an exhibition. The exhibit will feature art from high schoolers from 10 different schools in the area."

CHARLEVOIX — More than 150 years ago the Greensky Hill Indian Methodist Church, located off of Old U.S. 31 in Hayes Township was first established on the shores of Susan Lake.

Greensky Hill has served as a significant Native American heritage and cultural site for almost two centuries and now has the ability to benefit residents for another century thanks to a generous grant from the Grand Traverse Bay Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians.

On Feb. 11, 2016, the Grand Traverse Bay Band granted the organization $53,000 to assist building preservation efforts. Several years ago church officials started noticing some rather significant structural

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier Two fires, letter from Nevada

COMPILED BY LONNIE ALLEN

Editors Note: The year is 1908 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

Among the recorded headlines of 1908 front page Charlevoix Courier on Feb. 26 were two fires and a letter from Ava Smith to George W. Dennis.

The fires took place in Mancelona and Boyne City. The Feb. 20, Mancelona fire destroyed three brick buildings owned by John Otis and caused an aggregated loss of more than $75,000, according to the Courier.

"The fire started from an unknown source in the dry-goods store of Jacob Barnett and quickly spread to adjoining buildings. Four families occupied rooms above the stores and these were driven out, some without time to dress. Mrs. Frohman, who occupied the room over the rear of Barnett's escaped in her night clothes, with her baby in arms. In her haste, she stumbled at the top of the flight of stairs and rolled to the street, still with child clasped to her breast. Neither the woman nor child were seriously injured," the Courier reported. Firefighters had the fire under control by midnight.

On Feb. 24, one of the Boyne City's finest business blocks suffered losses into the thousands, according to the Courier. Smoke was discovered issuing from the Hub Clothing Company's store owned by S.E. Edelstein, occupying a room in the bank block owned by First National Bank. The fire threatened the entire block, but heavy snow on building rooftops and the fire department kept it confined to the one building, but the principal office and office block of the city is in ruins the Courier reported.

Ava Smith wrote a letter to friend George W. Dennis from Lovelock, Nev., about gold strikes. "The other day two prospectors dug into a mountain about 20 miles from here and struck it rich as the saying goes," Smith wrote. "it was worth a dollar a pound. At daylight the next morning a horse could not be found in town. Every wagon and buggy was gone. To let you know how quick a town will spring up out here: A man made a strike in a valley east of here last autumn. Now there are more than 3,000 people are there, three printing offices, about a dozen hotels, telegraph and telephone lines and doctors and lawyers galore. How's that for building up a town?"

Library to host strategic planning public forums

CHARLEVOIX — Throughout the spring and summer the Charlevoix Public Library will conduct a strategic planning process. The library board of trustees have hired Kimberly Bolan and Associates, an organization known for its understanding of library services and expertise on future library trends. The organization's goal is to "help libraries survive and thrive in an environment of constant change."

Strategic planning looks at collections and services that are currently offered, evaluates how effective they have been and identifies collections and services for the future. The first part of the process is to look at library statistics and data from the community.

"We are looking at this initial data now, and our next step is to ask the community what they think," said Linda

Adams, library director. "Please consider taking part in a focus group, a community forum or complete the online survey. In these open sessions the public will learn what the future of public libraries could look like and we will ask for your ideas on what this library should do to move forward."

Open forums will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday, March 1 and 2, in the community rooms. The final session will be at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, June 28, to include more of Charlevoix's summer residents. All sessions are open to the public and the library invites everyone to join. During the planning stage is the appropriate time to share comments or ideas. The information gathered in the community forums and from the survey will help our planning team define our future goals and the methods we use to meet those goals.

Another way to have your voice heard is to complete the online survey at tinyurl.com/ChxLibrary. Once voices are heard, the library will look at our community's strengths and weaknesses to help define opportunities for growth and collaboration.

"The Charlevoix Public Library prides itself on being a leader of library services in Northern Michigan," Adams said. "We set a standard when we opened this facility in 2006. As we enter our tenth year in this facility, we look forward to hearing what you think. We will continue to listen to your needs, provide the collections and services you want, and be the 'living room' of the community."

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St. in Charlevoix. For more information, or to register for one of the open forums, call (231) 237-7340.

Spaghetti dinner will support local school worker after accident

TWILLA JOHNSON
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Organizers at Charlevoix Public Schools will host a fundraiser dinner from 5-7 p.m. Friday, Feb. 26, at the commons in Charlevoix Middle/High School, 5200 Marion Center Road.

The spaghetti dinner event will raise money for school employee Jackie Towsley to pay for medical expenses from an automobile accident in which she sustained injuries that have required multiple surgeries.

The benefit will coincide with Winterfest Homecoming games at the school. The girl's varsity basketball game will begin at 5:30 p.m. and the boy's varsity basketball game starts at 7 p.m.

Cost for the dinner is $10 and will include spaghetti, salad, bread sticks, bottled water and dessert.

Towsley's friend and co-worker Elizabeth Shaw said, "Jackie seems upbeat and in good spirits even though her injuries have been serious."

There also will be an auction to help raise funds and donations are appreciated. All proceeds will go to Towsley to help with medical expenses. For more information, to donate or to volunteer for the benefit, email ishaw@rayder.net or call the school at (231) 547-3222.

OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

Aren't all hospices the same?

Northern Michigan is mostly rural and sparsely populated. Living here means we don't have as much variety in shopping, dining and recreation as those who live in major metropolitan areas; it also means employment opportunities, health care and other services are more limited. Yet there are at least eight different hospice organizations serving Northern Michigan. They include for-profit and not-for-profit hospices. They include hospices that are affiliated with major companies outside the area, and those that are independently managed right here in our own community. The number and variety of hospice options is a testament to how important hospice care can be to those in need.

Even though we may not want to think about end-of-life issues, it's great to know that we have such a robust network of these essential resources throughout the region. We have a choice in hospice care, and we should choose wisely, just as we would choose the best possible family physician, or the best possible specialist in the event of an illness.

HOSPICE OF NORTHWEST MICHIGAN EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Amy Wieland

Like physicians and specialists, hospice organizations all strive to do good work, but each has its own strengths and limitations. Each follows different protocols and offers different programs; some may fit well with your family's needs, and some may not. While they all operate on the same basic premise — that hospice provides support and care for persons with life-limiting illnesses, and recognizes death as a normal part of the life cycle — their philosophies on how to carry out their work may differ vastly.

Many people rely on a physician, hospital or other care provider to connect them with hospice when the time comes. While they may have the best of intentions, they may not be fully familiar with the services offered, or with the needs of the patient's family. Only you can know which hospice is the right choice for you. By allowing someone else to make that choice, you're giving up control over one of the most sensitive and important parts of the life cycle.

Choosing a hospice for end-of-life care can be just as important as choosing a health care provider for pregnancy and childbirth. Hospice professionals specialize in comfort care, just as other providers focus on healing and curing. Hospice supports peace and dignity, on removing obstacles and supporting a family during a time of extreme anxiety and grief.

The best way for you to make the choice is to ask questions. Ask friends, co-workers and family about their hospice experiences. Ask hospice care providers themselves about the services they provide. And perhaps the best piece of advice, coming from someone who's learned the hard way: Make your hospice care decisions before the moment you or a loved one need hospice services.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan offers a free tool to assist you in choosing a hospice that fits your needs. Visit www.hospicenwm.org and print out our "Questions you should ask a Hospice" which can be used to interview any hospice nationwide.

Not all hospices are the same. You have a choice.

American Mold plant on Ferry Avenue.

Detroit Mold Engineering founder was ahead of his time

Industrialist I. T. "Ted" Quarnstrom, founder of Detroit Mold Engineering (DME) in 1942, fell in love with Charlevoix after he discovered the town in the early 1950s. So he established a subsidiary tool and die company called American Mold Engineering, here in 1952. In the beginning the company occupied a small building outside of town on U.S. 31 North until the brick and glass plant on Ferry Avenue shown here, at first only the long skinny front two-thirds of the north portion, opened in 1954. Eventually the plant grew to three times its original size. Quarnstrom brought a much needed boost and stabilization to the local post-World War II economy. Because of him, many people in town were able to build houses, buy cars, feed and clothe their families and send their children to college over a career spent at American Mold. At its peak, the plant employed around 130 people. Quarnstrom claimed he never laid off one person here or in Detroit for lack of work. Earlier, he had been impressed by the high quality of the industrial work he had seen women produce during the war. In an age when the term "equal opportunity employer" was unknown, he placed women on the line with no hesitation. When Quarnstrom was in Charlevoix, he lived in Earl Young's Mushroom House at the corner of Clinton and Grant Streets. Unfortunately, he died in late 1966 shortly after suffering severe injuries in one of the most terrible plane crashes ever at the Charlevoix airport. The business continued for a time, later changing its name to DME after the parent company, and closed several years ago. But the empty, unused plant is still there, now only a reminder of the important legacy that Ted Quarnstrom brought to a broad spectrum of Charlevoix's population.

LETTERS to the editor

Protect our public lakefront

Editor:

Imagine it's 1984. You're walking down the beaches of Boyne City, Mich. The grainy, hot sand is stuck between your toes. You lay a towel down on the beach to watch the sunset fall behind the hills on the other side of Lake Charlevoix. Then, right before the sun disappears... Condos. Condos. Condos.

Boyne City residents probably know about the condos on Boyne City's waterfront. Down by Cafe Santé they are building many, many condos. At first, I thought they were pretty cool, but as they started to duplicate, they began blocking the water and the views. I used to love to sit on the balcony at Cafe Santé, but now I cannot even see the water; there's no point. People that live in the condos are only here one fourth of the year, and yet they get to experience beautiful views, relaxing beaches, and the smooth, silky water splashing against their shoulders. On the other hand, people like me, who live here year-round, can't swim at this waterfront.

Now obviously I'm not saying that they should knock these structures down, but they're still building more as we speak. Some people might argue that we get a large amount of tax revenue from these condos for our schools systems; however, we should keep some of the space open for everyone. If we stop building these, we could potentially save some of our beaches and views.

I like living in Boyne City because it's such a cute little town. I like being able to see the lake and I'm sure many of you do as well.

'Once Upon a Mattress' to open Saturday

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Take a king with a curse, a kingdom where a queen has decreed that no one can marry until a suitable princess has been found for her drab son and the appearance of an improbable match for the prince, and you have the makings of a delightful spoof that promises to make you laugh.

Once Upon a Mattress is a musical comedy based on a book written by Jay Thompson, Marshall Barer and Dean Fuller, with music by Mary Rodgers and lyrics by Marshall Barer; the Charlevoix Middle High School's Performing Arts Group spring production this season.

Caught up in the perplexing plot of this timeless fractured fairy tale, Princess Winnifred "Fred" played by Rachel Thompson, manages to be matched by Sir Harry (Tristan Simpson) with Prince Dauntless the Drab (Caleb Pittman) despite the contrary interventions of Queen Aggravain (Hannah Ennis) who devises an seemingly impossible test for the feisty princess-to-be.

Of course, the tangled web woven in the pursuit of a suitable princess is the crux of the comedy and gets worse before getting better.

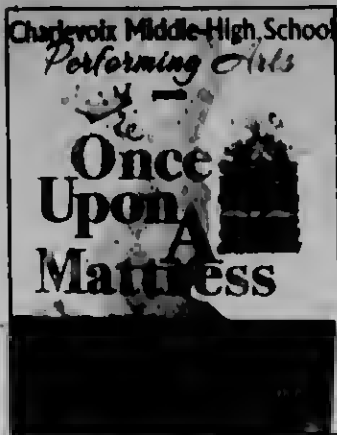

As the story goes, Winnifred must complain of the discomfort caused by a pea, placed under 20 mattresses. The Queen is positive that she will sleep well and never even notice the pea. The Queen's wizard (Sean Bradley) has come up with this fool proof test of elimination for prospective candidates for the princess position, and promises it will be successful. Will "Fred" pass the test? The smitten Prince Dauntless hopes so.

Music teacher and performing arts director Jodi Thompson, whose passion for youth theater is evident in her productions, is dedicated to exposing her students to music and musical theater.

"This is an extra-curricular activity," she said. "Kids who try out and join are enthusiastic and want to perform in some capacity. Often kids who don't fit in to other areas of the school curriculum find an immediate family here. We have a wonderful time together."

One cast member, Caleb Pittman concurs. He is a freshman this year and tried out as the urging of his mom.

"Before performing arts I was not a social butterfly," he said. "I have made great friends here and also have gotten some lead parts. The experience has helped me feel good about myself."

Thompson's daughter, Rachel who plays Princess Winnifred, is a natural on stage.

"She's much more effervescent than I ever was," said her director mom. "Performing is something that was engraved in me from an early age. My sister and I have been putting on plays since we were little kids, dancing around the house and doing living room performances. I enjoy every aspect of the theater."

Rachel received further tutelage in the performance arts as a member of Charlevoix's Ragamuffin Theater before joining the Charlevoix High School - Middle School productions. She is a senior this year and will pursue art therapy and psychology at Olivet Nazarene College next year, where she hopes to incorporate her theater talents.

Another senior, Brian Musser, joined performing arts through the invitation of a friend.

"I found it enjoyable," he said, "and have made friends that I might not have known otherwise."

Musser has the responsibility of stage manager, which involves keeping track of everything scene and production related. He also has a cast position in the show's ensemble.

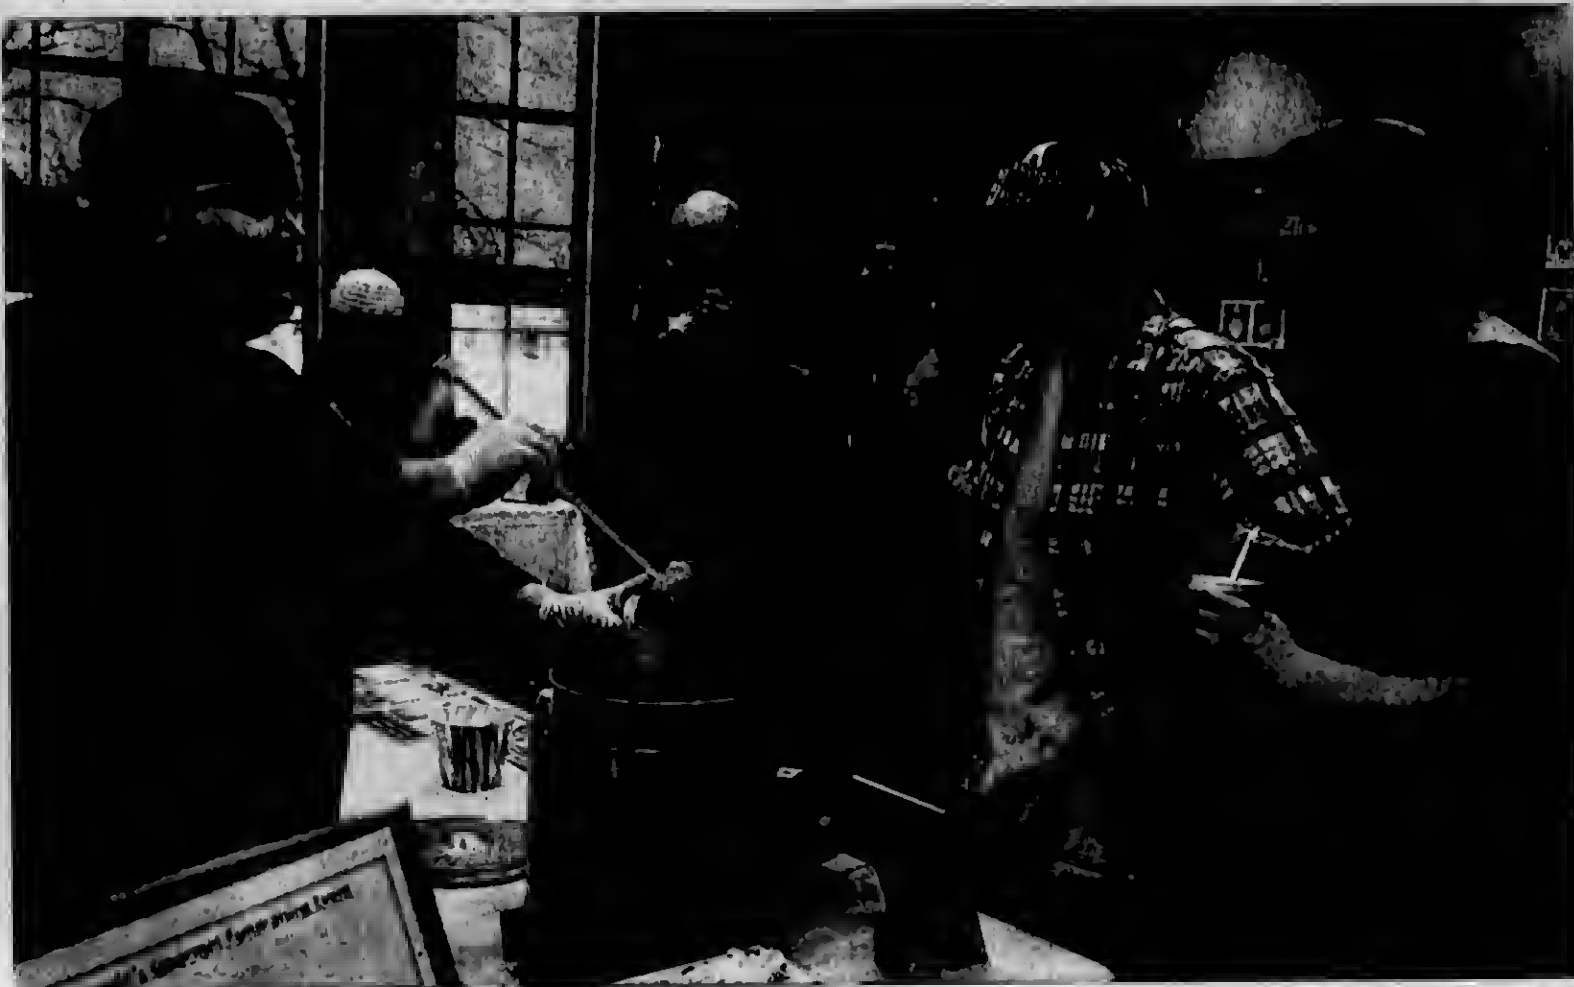

The littiest (and youngest) member of the Once upon a Mattress cast is sixth grader Camryn Turkelson. Turkelson has had previous performing experience in the Sound of Music and Disney Revue shows. She will perform in the ensemble and will be the sound of the nightingale in the show. A supporting cast of enthusiastic performers rounds out the comedic drama. Musical numbers interspersed throughout the production add an enjoyable accompaniment; Pitt musicians are Phillip McClellan on piano, Patrick O'Connor on bass, and Jack Longstreet on percussion.

Performances are Saturday at 7 p.m. on Feb. 27 and March 5, and Sunday at 2 p.m. on Feb. 28 and March 6, in the high school-middle school auditorium.

Participating restaurants included Kelsey's Lakeside Grille, Friske's Farm Market, Grey Gables, Front Porch, That French Place, Smoke on the Water, Villager Pub, Scovie's and Stafford's Weathervane.

Foundation fills director of donor services position

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has selected Sara Ward as the organization's new director of development and donor services.

A 2003 graduate of the University of Michigan, Ward comes to the Community Foundation having previously served as the program officer with the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, where she has worked in community philanthropy for the past 8 years. Ward has extensive experience in the nonprofit realm, having also served on the staff at the Women's Resource Center.

"I am delighted to join the talented team at the Charlevoix County Community Foundation," Ward said. "They have a focus on the future, and I look forward to learning more about making a difference close to home through community philanthropy in this donor-focused role."

At the community foundation, Ward will work to grow the foundation's grant-making capacity, with a focus on short and long-term development objectives, stewardship activities and planned giving.

"Sara is a terrific addition to our team," said foundation president, Chip Hansen. "She has all of the characteristics we looked for; experience; a passion for community philanthropy; a friendly and compassionate nature, and more. She will play a major role as we work to grow the community foundation's ability to meet the needs of Charlevoix County in the future." Being prepared for the future is a focus of the board of trustees, too.

"Adding this position is a key target in the foundation's strategic plan," said board chair, Michelle Cortright. "As a board, we've been so pleased to see our growth over the past several years, both in asset size and grant-making capacity," she said. "We see this position as an investment in our future, and are delighted to attract an individual of Sara's caliber to the community foundation."

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds — all of them established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County now and for generations to come. First, they lure the lamprey, then they stage the battle

BY LIAM TIERNAN
Capital News Service

LANSING — It's no secret that sea lamprey are one of the most costly and destructive invaders in the Great Lakes region — vicious blood-suckers that ruin lake trout and whitefish fisheries across every Great Lake, shutting down fisheries in the mid-20th century and continuing to demolish native species today.

But better understanding of the functions and behaviors of these animals has given researchers a new way to try to combat this invasion, including the first vertebrate biopesticide ever registered.

The Environmental Protection Agency registered it, a lamprey pheromone, as a biopesticide in November, according to the U.S. Geological Survey.

This is a lamprey's love

A pheromone is a chemical cue for communication," said Michael Wagner, associate professor in the Michigan State University fisheries and wildlife department. "A pheromone is an odor that's intentionally released for the purpose of communicating with another individual."

It could take several more years of research to make sure the biopesticide does not have unintended consequences and is ready for use. But registration gives the compound the legal foundation needed for eventual mass production.

"This pheromone (3kPZs) is released by a mature male, and initially we found that it will lure mature females to the spot it was released," said Weiming Li, professor in MSU's Fisheries and Wildlife Department whose lab conducted the experiments leading to the breakthrough. "But it was found that immature males smell the compound and think, 'Hey, there's a mature male there. That means there's good spawning ground there, and maybe some other females,' so they will go too."

That means good news for those who are fighting invasive species in the Great Lakes.

"U.S. EPA registration of the sea lamprey mating pheromone opens the door for use of the pheromone in the commission's sea lamprey control program, which protects Great Lakes fisheries from destruction caused by invasive sea lampreys," said Robert Hecky, chair of the Great Lakes Fishery Commission in a news release from the Geological Survey.

Suzette Kimball, the director of the Geological Survey, called the pheromone "a milestone for control of invasive species and protection of natural biodiversity."

Today, the most common

way of attempting to control lamprey populations is with a chemical called 3-trifluoromethyl-4-nitrophenol, which kills larval lamprey in their spawning grounds. This chemical has been used since the fishery collapses of the mid-20th century and has shown good results. However, this pesticide is sometimes harmful to other fish and to the larvae of other, nonparasitic species. 3kPZs might fix that.

"We can, in theory, modify the behavior of the animal to our advantage, for example directing them to a site where a pesticide will be more effective and less detrimental to existing wildlife, or direct them to a place where the larvae cannot survive, and then you don't have to do anything," Li said.

Other researchers, including Wagner, say that there may be other compounds that have even greater effects on lamprey behavior. Wagner's research lies in "the smell of death," an odor given off by a lamprey that has been attacked by predators. This odor is not a pheromone, but rather something called an "alarm cue," a public information signal that other lampreys detect and avoid.

"We believe this is a compound that is aggregated in the skin, and when the animal is attacked, the skin is ruptured, and the compound is released into the environment," Wagner said. "The species has evolved to smell it to detect predation events."

"Imagine being dropped off on a college campus to go to a football game. You've never been to the campus before and you don't have a map. To find the stadium, you listen for the sound of the crowd. That's what the odor of lamprey larvae does for a lamprey attempting to spawn," Wagner added. "Now you know where the stadium is, but you have no information of where your seat is. You look at your ticket to find out. That's the mating pheromone (3kPZs). However, when you get to the stadium, there are three guys fighting by one of the doors. You'll go around and try to find another way in. That's the alarm cue."

With this analogy Wagner says that using these chemical signals, humans can possibly modify the behavior of migrating lamprey, using the "alarm cue" compounds to deter lamprey from delicate ecosystems and into larger waterways where fewer larvae will survive and more pesticides can be applied. In addition, 3kPZs and other mating pheromones can be used to concentrate the spawning population to increase the effectiveness of the pesticides.

"The dream is to one day map out their decision-making process as they travel from large lake to watershed, from watershed to smaller bodies of water and use that information to try to acclimate them to a smaller number of rivers than they currently inhabit in order to kill more larvae with fewer pesticides," Wagner said.

Boy Scouts brave cold temps at Northern Trails Klondike Derby

PETOSKEY — St. Francis Xavier Boy Scout Troop 7 hosted the annual Northern Trails Klondike Derby at North Central Michigan College on Saturday, Feb. 13. The college partnered with Troop 7 and many volunteers who braved the coldest day of winter to date to run a very successful event. More than 100 Boy Scouts and Webelos Scouts participated from Petoskey, Cheboygan, Bellaire, Charlevoix, Gaylord, Alanson, East Jordan and Boyne City.

This year's theme for the Klondike was Higher Learning. In which Boy Scouts visited campuses to compete for credits by demonstrating different outdoor winter survival skills. In addition, the Boy Scouts were able to work toward earning the Boy Scouts of America Scholarship Merit Badge. College staff engaged the Boy Scouts to learn about

New license plates fuel MADD campaign

LANSING — Mothers Against Drunk Driving applauds State Sen. Tonya Schuitmaker, R-Lawton, for legislation that will help save lives by raising money to fight drunk driving in Michigan.

Senate Bill 808 allows for creation of a new Michigan license plate that will help pay for efforts by MADD Michigan to serve drunk driving victims and advocate for stronger laws. The legislation was referred to the Senate Committee on Transportation.

"MADD thanks Senator Schuitmaker, one of our 2010 Legislators of the Year, for her dedication to eliminating drunk driving," said MADD national president Colleen Sheehy-Church. "These license plates will help spread MADD's message to always find a safe and sober ride home, as well as contribute to our mission of serving victims of this completely preventable crime."

In November, MADD named Senator Schuitmaker a Legislator of the Year for her efforts to strengthen Michigan's ignition interlock law — one of MADD's top legislative priorities. MADD has called on every state to pass ignition interlock laws for all drunk drivers. In Michigan, ignition interlocks are currently required for only drunk drivers with a blood alcohol concentration of .17 or higher — more than twice the illegal limit of .08 BAC.

"Working with partners like Senator Schuitmaker, MADD will continue to remind everyone to find a non-drinking driver to get them to their destination," Sheehy-Church said. "We will keep pushing to create roadways free of drunk drivers until we reach our ultimate goal — no more victims."

Founded in 1980 by a mother whose daughter was killed by a drunk driver, Mothers Against Drunk Driving is the nation's largest nonprofit working to end drunk driving, help fight drugged driving, support the victims of these violent crimes and prevent underage drinking.

Jump-starting spring at local flower shop

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

It may still be winter in downtown Charlevoix, but at Petals at 101 Mason St., it can be spring every day. For only $10, it is possible to jump-start the season, by picking up Petals' daily fresh flower bouquet.

Surrounded by the fresh blooms and potted plants that she procures from suppliers in the Flint and Grand Rapids area, owner operator Karl Davis feels blessed to be working in the profession she loves. Davis, has been in the floral design industry for 27 years, and went into business for herself seven years ago.

"I absolutely love it," Davis said. "I love the location here in Charlevoix."

Davis has a team of experienced designers to help her out, especially for special events and the summer season: Diana Speigl who operated her own flower shop in Harbor Springs, Karen Bueby from Bellaire who specializes in events, and Janice Hilligan, who drives up from Spring Lake when needed.

"We make a great team and have a wonderful time," Davis added.

Davis, originally from Las Vegas, began by experimenting with silk flowers and took a basic design class there. She launched her career in the industry with on-the-job training, working for The Mirage Resorts, Inc., in a busy design shop which allowed her to design floral pieces for the big casino resort hotels: Bellagio, Mirage, Treasure Island, and the Golden Nugget in Laughlin, Nev.

"I designed lobby pieces, arrangements for villas and boutiques, and executive offices," Davis said. "I worked at the Mirage for weddings and at the Bellagio I was part of the crew that designed for the galas thrown by Resort owners Steve and Elaine Wynn, who engaged Martha Stewart's team. I worked right along with her crew. I had a great time and worked with many exceptional designers for seven years."

Davis moved from Las Vegas in 2000 with her husband and two small children. They had family connections in Charlevoix and decided, after visiting Davis' sister here, that this would be a more wholesome environment than Las Vegas in which to raise their family. Her husband, Sean, landed a job with Wilmet Electric and Davis' first position was with Plain Jane, a Petoskey floral shop. Two years later, she joined the designers at Charlevoix Floral and worked with that shop for six years before going off on her own. Davis attributes her continued success in the floral business to all those from whom she learned, but also to her family.

"My husband Sean, daughter, Leah, and son, Collin have supported me 110 percent through this chapter in my life," Davis said. "I could not have gotten this far without all of their love and support. My dad was with me from the get go at Petals. He did deliveries and any other odd jobs I had for him for at least four years before he moved from Charlevoix."

Petals specializes in flowers for weddings and special occasions, but also caters to local customers.

"Many of my clients have become good friends which really makes it nice," she said. "Every year, on the second week in November, I hold a customer appreciation party for my long-standing clientele. It is so rewarding to see the outcome of my designs and the look on the faces of satisfied customers who receive an order, or the bride who is thrilled by her wedding flowers."

Petals is affiliated with The Flower Shop Network wire service. Davis encourages arranging for consultation appointments for weddings and special event planning early in the process so that she can give personal attention to clients and meet all their expectations in a timely fashion. Her shop averages 35-40 weddings in a season.

Shop hours are from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 10 a.m.-3 p.m. on Saturday.

For more information about weddings and other floral designs call (231) 237-9335 or visit charlevoix-florist.com or email karl.davis@att.net.

Donated teddy bears used to help comfort children

Lite 96.3 and Blarney Castle EZ Mart stores donated bears collected through the Teddy Bear Patrol Drive to local first responders and organizations that help children in traumatic situations. Representatives of Lite 96.3, Tim Nixon (left) and Diane Shannon Hansell (right), are pictured donating 80 of the bears to Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan's executive director, Gail Kloss.

PETOSKEY - Over the past few months, thousands of bears have been donated to the Teddy Bear Patrol Drive sponsored by Lite 96.3 and Blarney Castle EZ Mart. The bears are being shared with first responders in Emmet, Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties to comfort children during traumatic or frightening situations.

Teddy bears were collected by many groups and organizations, including Girl Scout Troop No. 04569, of Petoskey. A large box decorated by troop members was positioned at Cross of Christ Lutheran Church in Petoskey with a plea for new or gently used bears to share with children in need of a bear hug. The 80 bears they collected have been donated to the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan's Safe Home.

"We are grateful for this thoughtful donation," said Jamie Winters, Safe Home coordinator. "Domestic abuse survivors and their children may arrive at the Safe Home with very few personal belongings. It's essential for us to provide a caring and supportive environment for these families who are experiencing very difficult situations."

Last year the Safe Home provided shelter and temporary housing to a total of 165 women and children from Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

As one youngster said of his time at the shelter, "This is the best place to feel safe and keep your head up with everyone's help."

Creating a year-round vibrancy in Charlevoix

CHARLEVOIX
TOURISM
REPORT

Amanda Wilkin, CVB executive director

It is no surprise that the summer season is the most popular time to visit Charlevoix. People have been summering in Charlevoix since the late 1800s because of the beauty, temperatures and clean air—a time before air conditioning and when large cities were plagued with industry byproducts.

Summer vacations have evolved in many ways, but the reasons people vacation here are essentially offshoots from more than a 100 years ago. But, is summer all we have?

To me, Charlevoix is incredible throughout every season. During recent years the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau has shifted its main focus to increasing tourism during the less traveled months between September and May. Charlevoix's economy is built on tourism and by concentrating on fall, winter and spring, we believe we can help to build the year-round economy.

In order to show that Charlevoix is a year-round destination we have implemented a plan that involves digital, print and outdoor advertising, increasing written and photographic content, and partnering with community members and organizations to increase off season vibrancy. In the past five years, we have seen our off season tourism numbers go up more than 5 percent each year. Anecdotally, I have heard from a number of businesses that have recently had their best years ever.

The efforts of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau are merely a piece of the puzzle. Every person living, working and visiting Charlevoix plays a major role in vitality of our community. I would like to challenge everyone reading this article, to take another few minutes to figure out how you can play a part in promoting our off-season. Post some beautiful off-season photos on social media, open a new business in Charlevoix, volunteer for an off-season event, smile at someone downtown you have never seen before, join a Main Street committee, remind yourself to appreciate tourists, shop and dine in Charlevoix. The opportunities are endless, but we can all be part of growing the year round vibrancy of Charlevoix.

Feel free to share your ideas with us by emailing Amanda@visitcharlevoix.com.

Northern Michigan Beer and Wine Tours uses this Cadillac limousine to transport clients.

Business offers winery, brewery touring in high style

DANIELLE MCINTOSH
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — When Mike and Sharon Doherty were looking for a new business venture in Charlevoix, they consulted with good friends — who also happen to own a winery in Traverse City. The Dohertys took a leap of faith and purchased a Cadillac limousine in hopes of providing a much needed service to local wineries and microbreweries.

The couple have lived full-time and semi-retired in Charlevoix for the past five years, and visited in the summers for many years before that.

Northern Michigan Wine and Beer Tours will officially begin tours this spring, though they have taken on a few gigs this fall and winter. The nine-passenger stretch limo has six large doors "that also fit big formal dresses," Mike Doherty hinted.

Doherty, is currently licensed to drive the limousine. He previously worked in real estate for 40 years and is a retired chief of the Lansing Fire Department.

Doherty said, "While we were cool with the life adven-daughters happened to be driving wine tours part time in Traverse City. We decided it sounded fun."

The couple added that the hope for the business is to one day expand with the purchase of additional vehicles and for it to become a family venture that can be passed down to the Doherty's three adult children.

The Dohertys are impressed with the success and popularity of wineries and breweries in the Little Traverse Bay area. Since they are located in Charlevoix, they also hope to take advantage of business from Charlevoix's Castle Farms. The Doherty's said they are willing to travel to Traverse City as needed, and insteron staying flexible in order to grow.

"In fact, this weekend, I am driving a couple for a Valentine's date to a play and dinner. We are really open to whatever people need right now — as long as it is legal," Doherty added last week with a chuckle.

Last spring, The Doherty's toured local wineries and other businesses, including local hotels and resorts, to spread the word about the tour service.

"We were really encouraged by how well we were received," Sharon Doherty said.

Petoskey's newest winery, Maple Moon Sugarbush and Winery, sees services like this one as a win for all involved. Owner Christi Petersen said that when customers have a designated driver, it keeps them festive and relaxed.

"Tours help us to retain that ambiance of comfort and joy that we hope for," Petersen said.

Over at Walloon Lake Winery, owner Tim Dennis explained how wine tours have become an attraction that has really increased tourism in the area.

"The Traverse City wineries are great but also very busy. With expanding our wine trail in this area, we hope to attract people and offer them a more relaxed setting. It is great that the touring companies are seizing this opportunity," Dennis said.

For rates and to schedule a tour, call Northern Michigan Wine and Beer Tours at (231) 348-7339.

Workshop on using herbicides to control invasive species

PETOSKEY — The Charlevoix, Antrim, Kalkaska, Emmet Cooperative Invasive Species Management Area will host a herbicide workshop from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 2, at North Central Michigan College's Library Conference Center. The workshop will cover important topics such as herbicide application, best management practices, high priority invasive species, equipment calibration, and will include a field identification/demonstration component.

Vern Stephens, owner of Designs By Nature, will host the workshop. Registration begins at 8 a.m. and the cost is $40 and includes lunch and workshop materials.

Register by phone at (231) 348-6613, or online at ncmich.edu by navigating to community events-corporate and community education, then select register for workshops. This workshop qualifies for six Michigan Department of Agriculture and Rural Development pesticide applicator re-certification credits.

Traffic deaths rise, bucking decade trend

By JASON KRAFT
Capital News Service

LANSING — The number of traffic deaths in Michigan rose nearly 10 percent in 2015 following a 7.9 percent decrease the previous year.

The 972 deaths reported so far is up 9.7 percent from the previous year, according to the Traffic Improvement Association of Michigan, a coalition of groups that analyze accident data. It is just the fourth time Michigan has seen an increase in annual traffic fatalities in the past 11 years.

"They've been trending down over the last decade," said Anne Readette, communications manager of the State Police's Office of Highway Safety Planning. In 2004 there were 1,159 reported Michigan traffic deaths.

The increase is part of a national trend. Nationwide there was an 8 percent increase in traffic deaths over the first half of 2015 compared to the year before, according to a recent report in Governing, an online news organization covering state and local government.

Final 2015 Michigan traffic statistics are still being compiled by the State Police. Officials expect to release them in the spring. There could be multiple reasons for the increase.

"We can't point to one direct cause — there are several things that contribute to fatalities increasing," said Jamie Dolan, who represents Northern Michigan on the Michigan Traffic Safety Network, a part of the Office of Highway Safety Planning.

For Michigan and the rest of the country, many people die in car crashes because they don't use seat belts or because of drug and alcohol abuse, Readette said.

"The number-one thing drivers can do to prevent deaths in a car crash is to wear their seatbelt," Dolan said.

But fewer people are. Michigan's seatbelt use rate fell from 98 percent in 2009 to 93 percent in 2014, according to Dolan.

"It doesn't seem like a big fall, but if you look at the population of Michigan as a whole, that's quite a few drivers not wearing their belt," Dolan said.

Another way to reduce traffic deaths is for drivers to keep the amount of alcohol in their systems below the legal limit of .08 or to get a designated driver, Dolan said. And increased drug use, especially heroin and opioid drugs, contributes to many crashes. Reducing speed in inclement weather is also important, she said.

The biggest way to prevent traffic deaths is by staying aware of your surroundings, and driving for the conditions, said Jocelyn Hall, the media representative for the Department of Transportation.

"We can't generalize car crashes and say that there's one contributing factor, but it's always the driver's responsibility to be in control of their vehicle," Hall said.

issues affecting the integrity of the historic building. Areas of concern included the rotting of original pine logs, damage to the exterior by invasive bugs and birds, less than ideal roof conditions and so on to name a few.

One of Charlevoix County's few landmarks on the National Register of Historic Places, the main building stands almost exactly as it did when first built in the 1840s. The structure was built from local timber harvested from Grand Traverse Bay and Pine Lake — Lake Charlevoix. The building was constructed using hand hewn timbers and notched corners. The church is still used each week for services and a multitude of different cultural and educational events.

"Since Pastor Peter Greensky and other Native Americans built our hewn-log church, Greensky Hill Indian has been a sanctuary of love in a setting of natural beauty; a sacred place where we celebrate our current ethnic diversity, while preserving our unique Native American heritage," said pastor Jonathan Mays. "From the ancient time, when chiefs held council meetings around crooked trees on Greensky Hill, to the time when our local tribes regained their sovereignty, we remain a safe place for tribe members, lineage Indians, and others to gather, to worship, to bury their loved ones, and to create community."

Since the problems were identified, church trustees wanted to be sure that they did what was necessary to keep the building safe and stable; however, they also wanted to ensure the historical and cultural integrity of the facility for future generations.

"We could have hired someone to come in and just start removing and replacing things for a much lower cost; but, we want to be sure to do it right, and not jeopardize our listing on the National Register," said church trustee Ray Dice.

So the church hired a

Michigan State Historic Preservation Office approved architect to come and do an assessment of the facilities and provide input regarding what could be saved, what needed to be replaced, and how much it would cost. Once faced with a $73,000 estimate, the church began the daunting task of figuring out how to raise the funds within their small congregation.

The grant funding comes from the tribe's two percent gaming revenue allocation they are required to grant twice a year to local governmental units, in this case Hayes Township, who will serve as the fiduciary to the church on this project.

"This building truly is a historic landmark in our township and is worth preserving," said Hayes Township clerk Marlene Golovich. "We were so happy for the church and glad we could assist them in this effort."

In addition to Hayes Township supporting the church with the grant process, the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance, a nonprofit servicing all of Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet and Cheboygan counties worked hand-in-hand with the grant documents and technically advise the church trustees. This relationship will help ensure the continued recognition as a National Historic Place.

Church officials now begin the task of raising the remaining $25,000 so that they can begin the project this spring. Volunteers are planning some fundraisers and accepting donations from the public. The church is also preparing an application to the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

"The 175 years have taken a toll on our historic log church, so we are honored that the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians have given us such a generous grant and we are faithfully seeking the additional $25,000 in matching funds to complete this important restoration project," Mays said.

Anyone interested in learning more about the church or attending a service are welcome. The church serves an interracial congregation; however, the services place an emphasis on Native American culture with traditional hand drum music, prayers and songs sung in the native language.

To make a tax deductible donation to the building restoration and preservation efforts send a check to Greensky Hill-Building Restoration, 88484 Greensky Hill Road, Charlevoix, MI 49720 or call Mays at (231) 498-8067.

Jackson Healthcare instituted the Hospital Charitable Services Awards in 2010 to honor exemplary hospital-sponsored community programs, share their stories and make them models for other programs. Jackson Healthcare also uses the awards to cultivate a community hospital programs that want to encourage and learn from one another, and establish best practices. Each nominee had to demonstrate excellence in at least one of five areas: community impact, innovation, collaboration, transferability and/or best practice.

"These initiatives are not alone in giving back to their communities," said Charles R. Evans, FACHE, chairman of the Hospital Charitable Services Awards program. "What makes them truly extraordinary is the impact they achieve through their commitment to serving others, and the outstanding ways they make substantial and caring contributions."

Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital is a 45-bed, critical access hospital located in Charlevoix, Michigan. Part of the Munson Healthcare system, the hospital was

The Hospital Charitable Services Awards is a national program sponsored by Jackson Healthcare. It recognizes hospitals whose commitment to their community — whether defined locally, regionally, nationally or globally — goes beyond community benefit and free care and has led to innovative efforts to improve community health and increase access to healthcare education and services. All hospital-funded charitable programs are eligible to participate regardless of the size, tax or ownership model.

Introducing... Pet Obituaries

Pets are a part of the family, and we are offering a new way to share your pet's memorial with the community, family and friends that they shared their life with and help bring legitimacy to mourning the family pet.

As with humans, pet obituaries assign value to a life, define its highlights, extol socially validated accomplishments, and serve as models of living. To assign value to an animal's life is a fine thing, and an excellent match with the growing movement to treat animals of all kinds — not only our pets — with care and dignity.

The next Pet Obituary page will run in the News-Review, Gaylord Herald Times or Charlevoix Courier on a monthly basis. Up to 300 words and a photo is $185.

Please e-mail pet obituary and photo to: eaderson@petoskeynews.com along with contact information for us to contact you regarding payment or call 231-439-9375.

Kado Robert Michael Swenson

May 19, 2015

Kado Robert Michael Swenson, retired Guide Dog, crossed the rainbow bridge on May 19, 2015, at the age of 13. I am confident he was met by Pervo and Jensen and congratulated on a life well lived.

Kado came into my life on February 15, 2004. He was a spectacular Guide Dog who always took his work very seriously. He was a great dog who thought furniture was for him and who was a very concerned with his physical well-being. But, most of all, he was a genuinely great of a dog — a big pain in the butt.

Kado could no longer guide me this past year when his eyes and legs began to fail. He had a heart condition. On May 10th, I came home from Guide Dogs with Sammy. Magic happened the moment they met. Kado sniffed Sammy and knew he was a Guide Dog. Sammy knew Kado was a Guide dog, and it seemed as though Kado knew Sammy was here to take care of me and was happy and relieved. They gave each other a lick and Sammy followed Kado into the house. For the next nine days Sammy would often lay with Kado on Kado's bed and they slept side by side at night to my bed. Sammy always climbed in with Kado the minute he walked in the door at the end of the day. For a couple of days Kado perked up and had a little spring in his step. Dr. John, Kado's vet, said he was more relaxed than he had been in months. But last Saturday he started to slip away. Last night after we struggled to get upstairs and up the ramp to our bed Kado let me know it was time to let him go. This morning only confirmed it was time. Kado was not as pain and where he took his last breath he was peaceful. After he departed he would be carried him out of the house wrapped in a blanket on a special cart with him following closely behind all the way to the house. On the way Kado's front legs came out of the blanket and of course they were crossed.

The bond between a Guide Dog and handler is unique and it is strong. Kado left indelible footprints on my heart that are raw now and will never go away. I will love him and cherish the time we had together for the rest of my life. And when time comes I hope and pray that Kado, Pervo and Jensen will greet me on the other side.

I would like to thank Guide Dogs for the Blind for the gift of Kado. Anyone wishing to learn more about Guide Dogs for the Blind please visit www.guidedogs.com.

I would also like to thank Dr. John Tomlinson at Petoskey Animal Rehabilitation and his staff for the love and support they provided to Kado to keep him moving without pain.

Rayder boys rally for state final bid

Two Charlevoix girls qualify at ski regionals

BOYNE FALLS — The odds were not in the Charlevoix boys ski team's favor at the Division 2 regional on Wednesday, Feb. 17 at Boyne Mountain.

That was especially true after a giant slalom run that had the Rayders in fifth place and 21 points behind Harbor Springs for the third and final state qualifying spot.

But Charlevoix made up the gap with a brilliant run in the slalom to finish three points ahead of the Rams for third place, nabbing the Rayders' first state qualifying berth since Charlevoix dissolved its co-op with East Jordan and set out as a solo program.

"We knew coming into the meet that we had a shot at the last spot, but after giant slalom we were way off the pace," Charlevoix coach Pete Schoiten said. "We knew heading into the slalom that anything less than our absolute best probably wouldn't be enough, and thankfully our guys stepped up and delivered."

"We've been a better slalom team than a giant slalom team all season, so we knew it was possible."

KALKASKA — Following a last-second defeat to Boyne City last Friday, the Charlevoix boys basketball team took down Kalkaska 47-44 in a last-second duel Tuesday.

The Rayders fell to Boyne City 58-56 after a 3-point attempt at the buzzer by Cameron Clark went begging.

However, this time Charlevoix was the team on the right side of luck.

The Rayders trailed by one point at halftime, but used a 12-1 run in the third quarter to take a 10-point edge into the fourth quarter.

Kalkaska battled back making two consecutive 3-pointers to cut the deficit to four, and the contest was close for the rest of the fourth quarter.

A potential game-tying shot from Kalkaska bounced off the rim as time expired and the Rayders escaped, moving to 9-8 overall, 7-6 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"It was just a close game right until the end," Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said. "We showed a lot of determination not to get back-to-back losses in the league and we showed character by playing really hard."

Charlevoix's senior guard Walker Drost finished the game with 14 points and was a key reason for the team's victory.

"(Drost) kept us right in there when we were struggling," Erskine said. "He would just take the ball and pretty much just go shoot a layup. He doesn't like to get beat. He has a big chip on his shoulder which is great. I need about 14 of him that would be awesome."

The Rayders have been on both sides of a final missed shot and Erskine said the competition level in the LMC provides those dramatic finishes.

"That's how it is in our league," he said. "At any point anybody can beat anybody and

The deeper you get into the individual state tournament for wrestling, the more of an asset experience becomes.

So it's no surprise that of the three Charlevoix qualifiers for the state finals on March 3-5 at the Palace of Auburn Hills, two have been there before.

Charlevoix's Cam Alden and Mick Hinkle are making return trips to the state final after finishing in the top four at their regional meet this past Saturday, while Charlevoix's Tyler McCallum is making his first appearance after failing in the blood round at the regional last year.

Alden, who earned Division 4 all-state honors as a sophomore last season, is returning as the regional champion at 135 pounds after a 3-0 day on Saturday at Rogers City.

The Rayder junior, ranked 11th in Division 4 at his weight by michigangrappler.com, pinned Dylan Threifali of Rudyard in 28 seconds in his first match, beat Tony Giftos of Manton in a 6-1 decision in the semifinal, and pinned 13th ranked Cameron Symonds of Newberry in 5:19 in the championship match to claim the title.

McCallum also brought home a regional crown at 130 pounds for Charlevoix after coming up a match short of the state final last year.

The junior, ranked seventh at 130, pinned Andrew Haseihuhn of Rogers City in 56 seconds, won a 6-2 decision over BOYNE CITY — The Boyne City girls' basketball team saved its best run of the game for the final stretch against rival Charlevoix Friday.

The Ramblers trailed 27-25 heading into the fourth quarter, but turned it on in the final minutes of the game to defeat the Rayders 43-34, avenging a loss from earlier in the season.

Boyne City took the lead for good when Abby Gardner hit one-of-two free-throws to give the Ramblers a 30-29 lead with 3:24 remaining.

The Ramblers put the game out of reach with a 9-3 run in the final three minutes with a key steal and four free-throws from senior Hannah Hoth.

Hoth finished the game with 16 points to lead Boyne City, whom improved to 2-15 overall and 2-10 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"I'm so happy for our girls, they've worked hard all year," Boyne City coach Kevin Fitzpatrick said. "It's been some ugly basketball at times, but they've continued to come in with great attitudes and this is the reward when it comes together."

Down the stretch, Fitzpatrick said his younger players played a big role in the outcome of the game.

"Everybody rose up and did everything we asked them to," he said. "We lost over there and we were able to defend our home court. That makes (the rivalry win) sweet."

Charlevoix (2-15, 2-10 LMC) was led by senior Hannah Zipp, who finished with 14 points for the Rayders. Despite the outcome, Coach Liz Shaw said she saw growth in her team Friday.

Brad Klinger finished fourth in the slalom (1:06.55) and sixth in the giant slalom (1:08.71) to lead Charlevoix, and Matt Good took 12th in the slalom (1:13.29) and 14th in the giant slalom (1:12.53) as well for the Rayders.

However, though Klinger and Good's contributions were important, the difference-maker was the Rayders' third and fourth place slots at the meet.

Ben Peterson finished 28th (1:16.46) and Keon Taylor 34th (1:18.89) in the giant slalom, but both improved significantly in the slalom, with Peterson taking 20th (1:18.22) and Taylor 24th (1:25.34) to help the Rayders close the gap.

"It always comes down to your third and fourth skiers in events like this, and ours really did a great job," Scholten said. "Even when one of our skiers fell in the first round of the slalom, Ben and Keon were there with great runs to pick up the slack."

Sophomore Abbey Scholten and freshman

Scholten took fifth in the slalom (1:09.64) and ninth in the giant slalom (1:10.51) to lead the Rayders, and Good finished seventh in the giant slalom (1:10.46) and eighth in the slalom (1:10.01) as well.

BOYNE CITY — When a rivalry game comes down to the last shot, it makes bragging rights even more crucial.

The Boyne City boys' basketball team earned that right for at least two more weeks with a 58-56 win over Charlevoix Friday night at the Wheelhouse.

The Ramblers flirted with disaster as the Rayders battled back from a 14-point deficit in the fourth quarter and came within one basket of pulling off the comeback.

After Boyne City's Derek Willis connected on a free throw to give the Ramblers the two point lead with 8.9 seconds to play, it left Charlevoix with a shot to steal the headline.

The Rayders got the ball to junior Kevin Pearl, who spun out of a full court trap to find Walker Drost.

Drost made a mid-air pass to sophomore Cameron Clark, who got up the potential game-winning shot from the right corner that bounced off the back rim as time expired.

As the shot was in the air, Boyne City senior Luke Sage said it was a nervous moment.

"It was very scary," Sage said. "I kind of watched (the ball) there at the end, but as soon as it hit the rim, a sigh of relief kind of went through my body and I felt a lot better about it."

When the shot didn't fall, the Ramblers and their fans were finally able to celebrate and could now forget about their loss to Charlevoix earlier in the season.

"It's a rivalry game, so you knew the kids would be up for it," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "Anytime you beat Charlevoix it's a big win."

On the wrong side of the last-second shot was Charlevoix, who fell to 8-8 overall and 6-6 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"If that last shot falls we're a winner," Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said. "But we just came up on the short end. Like any coach, you're proud of your kids when they don't quit. They could have folded, but they didn't."

Boyer City (8-8, 6-6 LMC) took control of the game in the third quarter when the Ramblers went on a 13-3 run pushing their lead to 40-25 with three minutes remaining.

Four players scored in double figures for Boyne City. Senior Tanner Kruzel led the Ramblers with 13 points.

"It's a rivalry game," Kruzel said. "If you can't get up for Charlevoix, then you should stay on the bus."

Along with Kruzel's performance, Derek Willis had 12 points, while Colton Sieradski and Mason Gardner added 10 points apiece.

"We played hard and I'm proud of the team for sticking with it," Sage said. "It got ugly there at the end, but we played through adversity. Charlevoix is a good team, and credit to them."

Boyer City led 12-9 after the first quarter and held a 24-20 advantage at halftime before making their run in the third quarter.

Charlevoix was able to battle back into the game thanks to a breakout performance from Pearl, who finished the game with 17 points, 15 of which came in the final quarter.

"I got upset with (Pearl) at halftime so I put him on the bench," Erskine said. "I did that to get him mad at me, and he came out in the fourth quarter mad at me and he played like a young man that was possessed to be a good basketball player."

Charlevoix's Arvo Viitaharju also scored in double figures, finishing the contest with 11 points.

The two teams will meet for the third and final time this season in the first round of the district tournament.

"It's good for our confidence going into districts," Redman said. "It's a rivalry game, so no matter what our records are you're up and ready for that game. It'll be a dogfight we know that."

Dropped to the consolation bracket, Hinkle won a 4-1 decision of Jace Jenerou of Rudyard to punch his ticket, before taking a 7-3 decision over 11th ranked Quintin Kelly of Rogers City to clinch third place.

Junior Jordan Chernauckas fell just short of joining his Charlevoix teammates at the state final, losing in the blood round at 119 pounds by major decision, 10-1, to Pine River's Jacob Roberts.

Charlevoix senior Jake Seger competed at 152 but lost both his matches. On the back of sending three wrestlers to the state final and bringing home the program's first team district title, Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle also earned co-regional coach of the year honors, sharing the award with Tim Jones of LeRoy Pine River.

"Coaching the Charlevoix Varsity Wrestling program is a group effort shared with Coach DeYoung, Coach McCallum, Coach Monteith and other alumni who freely give their time and skills to help these young wrestlers progress in a sport that we all love," Hinkle said. "I accepted this award on behalf of our entire coaching team."

Alden, McCallum and Hinkle will all compete in the Division 4 individual state final on March 3-5 at the Palace of Auburn Hills, with all three wrestling opening round matches on Thursday, Mar. 3, beginning at 2 p.m., with additional matches to follow on Friday.

Division 4 Team Regionals at Pine River

LEROY — One step short of the promised land, but a big step forward nonetheless for the Charlevoix wrestling team.

In its first appearance in the team regional in program history on Wednesday, the Rayders showed they weren't just happy to be there, beating Frankfort 51-18 to advance to the final before bowing out to one of the top Division 4 programs in the state in host LeRoy Pine River in a 69-12 loss to conclude their season.

Individual regional qualifiers Cam Alden (135 pounds) and Jake Seger (152) were standouts on the night for the Rayders, each beating their opponents from Frankenmuth and winning by pin against Pine River for the only match wins for Charlevoix against the powerful Bucks squad on the night.

Fellow regional qualifiers Tyler McCallum (130) and Stacy Kenney (285) each won their match against Frankfort to finish undefeated as well for Charlevoix, while Jordan Chernauckas (119/125), Trevor McCallum (140), Tyvin Whittaker (160), Mick Hinkle (189) and Jake Petrosky (215) each finished 1-1 with a match win against the Panthers.

Although Charlevoix's team season has come to a close, it was an exciting campaign for the Rayders, who claimed their first team district title and matched last year's squad with six regional qualifiers.

By reaching the regional final, Charlevoix became one of only 16 teams in Division 4 to make it that far, boding well for the future of the program.

team," she said. "I'm excited about the future."

Kalkaska 69,
Charlevoix 15

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix girls' basketball team fell to Kalkaska for a second time this season on Tuesday.

Olivia Jeakle led the Rayders, who move to 2-17 overall, 2-11 in Lake Michigan Conference play, with four points and four rebounds, while Hannah Zipp had five rebounds.

Charlevoix will end the regular season on Friday, Feb. 26 against Elk Rapids at home.

Charlevoix girls' junior varsity basketball team defeated Kalkaska, 44-42. Jane Kelly had 14 points and eight rebounds, Lily Curtis had 10 points and six rebounds and Haley Coss had eight points and nine rebounds.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
PUBLIC NOTICE
IMPORTANT INFORMATION ABOUT YOUR DRINKING WATER

The City of Charlevoix Water Plant Did Not Meet Treatment Requirements

On February 10, 2016 the City of Charlevoix (City) violated State and Federal drinking water regulations for failure to completely treat its drinking water. Although this is not an emergency, as our customers, you have a right to know what happened, what you should do, and what we did to correct this situation.

What happened?
The City draws drinking water from Lake Michigan. State and Federal regulations require extensive treatment of surface water in order to kill and remove any pathogens that may be present. On February 19, the City under-fed and was at minimum effective level for a water treatment compound called alum. When mixed with water, alum attaches to and binds up pathogens that may be present in the water. Also for an indeterminate time period, a portion of the treatment plant, the flocculation unit was not operating. This flocculation unit allows for the alum to come into contact with pathogens. Because of their importance in removing pathogens, underfeeding alum and the flocculation unit not working are violations of State drinking water regulations. Operator error in setting the alum pump feed rate on February 19, 2016 most likely caused the under-feed. The cause of the flocculation unit not working is unknown.

What should I do?
There is nothing you need to do at this time. The problem was corrected.

What does this mean?
This is not an

Clerks, voters prepare for March 8 presidential primary

LONNIE ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

Michigan's Presidential primary is Tuesday, March 8, and while it may just be crossing your mind for city, township and county clerks it's been a constant thought.

Currently the Charlevoix City Hall's Council Chambers is set up as normal, but on March 8 it will transform into the voting precinct for the city's three wards.

Preparations begin nearly three months in advance to make sure Election Day goes just as it should, said Charlevoix City Clerk Joyce Golding.

"There is required training and we make sure the equipment is working properly," Golding said. "Also there are the absentee ballot request that need to be sent out."

Golding and the city election workers will be ready to go on March 8 for voters, but encourage voters to view the ballot and also, to beware of the closed ballot before they hit the polls this time around meaning voters will have to determine which ballot to vote on.

"Voters will have to choose between a Republican or Democrat ballot before voting," Golding said.

CHARLEVOIX — A child or parent with disabilities will no longer have to watch from a distance to see their siblings or children have fun at the playground near Lake Michigan.

The Charlevoix Parks and Recreation department was awarded a $45,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to add a handicap-accessible playground to Lake Michigan Beach Park.

The city's match to the grant will be $22,500. Parks and Recreation Director Tom Kirinovic said most CHARLEVOIX — A growing wave of public concern about Enbridge's Line 5 pipeline in the Straits of Mackinac has local environmental groups urging Michigan's municipalities to speak up to state lawmakers.

"We want Gov. Rick Snyder and his administration to act now to protect the Great Lakes from a disastrous oil spill," said Anne Zukowski, member of local environmental group, Water and Air Team Charlevoix. "It is a statewide effort to have more and more municipalities call on the governor to shut down Enbridge Line 5."

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier

Election petition, prominent wedding grace front page

COMPILED BY LONNIE ALLEN
Courier editor

Editors Note: The year is 1908 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

"Board of Public Works: Petition being circulated for an election to abolish it," "Cameron-Campbell: Two prominent young people of Charlevoix married Tuesday," were some of the headlines on page one of the Charlevoix Courier on March 4, 1908.

It appears that more than hundred people have been in favor of abolishing the board of public works according to an article in the Courier.

"During the past week, a petition has been circulated throughout the city, which is being well signed, asking the common council to submit the question to the people at the city election in April, whether the Board of Public Works be abolished or not," the Courier reported. If the people were to choose this option all board responsibilities would then fall to the common council according to reports. At the time people believed too many government entities were slowing the progress of the city, according to the Courier. "The argument is advanced that too many boards etc., makes too many officials who are of different opinions, and the multiplicity of ideas, means too little practical benefit is accomplished; that the responsibility of municipal government should be left to the common council, a portion of who each year have to render their account to the people for approval or disapproval," the Courier reported.

One of the prettiest of Charlevoix weddings took place and appeared on the front page of the Courier in early March. A wedding was held at noon on March 3 at the home of Captain and P.D. Campbell in honor of their daughter Jeanette Patience who was united to Mr. Arba H. Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cameron, the Courier reported.

"The bride was charmingly gowned in an ivory crepe du chene with fillet lace, and carried a bouquet of white stock and ferns. They were attended by Miss Louise Matteson, of Whitehall, who wore pink and a white silk mull and carried a bouquet similar to that of the bride; and J. Harvey Campbell brother of the bride," the courier reported. The Rev. R. A. Wright performed the ceremony and after congratulations were over Mrs. Matteson sang "I love you truly" and young friends of the bride and relatives assisted in serving a five-course breakfast. Mr. and Mrs. Cameron boarded the 4 p.m. train to Chicago where they would make their home, according to the Courier.

Last chance to see school production 'Once Upon a Mattress'

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Middle/High School's Performing Arts Group spring production of "Once Upon a Mattress" — a musical comedy — will run final performances this weekend.

The play is based on a book written by Jay Thompson, Marshall Barer and Dean Fuller, with music by Mary Rodgers and lyrics by Marshall Barer. The perplexing plot involving Prince Dauntless (Caleb Pittman), who needs to find a bride before anyone else in the kingdom can wed, is amusing as Dauntless' mother Queen Aggravaine (Hannah Ennis) keeps all candidates at a distance by inventing a series of seemingly impassable roadblocks.

The Queen is positive that the princess will sleep well and never even notice the pea under 20 mattresses. The Queen's wizard (Sean Bradley) has come up with this fool proof test of elimination for prospective candidates for the princess position, and promises it will be successful. Will "Fred" pass the test? The smitten Prince Dauntless hopes so.

Music teacher and performing arts director Jodi Thompson, whose passion for youth theater is evident in her productions, is dedicated to exposing her students to music and musical theater.

"This is an extra-curricular activity," Thompson said. "Kids who try out and join are enthusiastic and want to perform in some capacity. We have a wonderful time together."

The littlest (and youngest) member of the Once upon a Mattress cast is sixth grader Camryn Turkelson. Turkelson has had previous performing experience in the Sound of Music and Disney Revue shows. She will perform in the ensemble and will be the sound of the nightingale in the show. A supporting cast of enthusiastic performers rounds out the comedic drama. Musical numbers interspersed throughout the production add an enjoyable accompaniment; Pit musicians are Phillip McClellan on piano, Patrick O'Connor on bass, and Jack Longstreet on percussion.

Performances are at 7 p.m. on Saturday March 5, and at 2 p.m. Sunday March 6, in the high school-middle school auditorium.

Kathy Weber, who along with Sue Dixon, Joan Robinson, and Pam Smith of the Congregational Church, have added this diaper option for families who frequent the Charlevoix Food Pantry.

Diaper Pantry, open for business

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Almost everyone knows about Charlevoix's food pantry and the good it does providing food stuffs and necessities for those who, because of circumstances, need a helping hand. But there is another helping hand in town — The Charlevoix Baby Diaper Pantry.

The Charlevoix Baby Diaper Pantry is housed on the lower level of the Congregational Church, located on the corner of Park and State streets in Charlevoix. It will be open from 10 a.m.-noon the second Monday and Thursday of each month. Any family who resides in the Charlevoix School District is eligible to receive diapers. The next diaper pantry distribution day is Tuesday, March 8 and Thursday, March 10.

For many years, the food pantry was located on the lower level of the Congregational Church where it served its clientele with compassion and generosity. Its ministry outgrew the location and moved to its present site 100 W. Huribut St. After the food pantry moved, Congregational Church membership was looking for an outreach ministry, according to volunteer Sue Dixon.

"When some of the members heard that the pantry was looking for someone to take over the distribution of their diapers," she said, "we jumped at the opportunity."

Four women of the church, Dixon along with Pam Smith, Joan Robinson and Kathy Weber, spearheaded the project which was launched on Feb. 8. It is staffed entirely by volunteers and will be supported by churches, individuals and grants. Donations are always welcome.

School spotlight: Charlevoix Public Schools welcomes Mabel Carson

The Charlevoix Public Schools would like to welcome its newest educator Mabel Carson to its career tech education department.

Carson will teach health occupation. She is excited to begin work for the public school system because of her love of the nursing and medical field and working around children and young adults.

"I am excited to combine the both," Carson said. "I look forward to a new chapter in my nursing career ... educating the future."

She attended Grand Valley State University for her undergrad and South Western Michigan University for her nursing degree. She has been a Registered Nurse for 30 years and worked in adult, pediatric and neo-natal intensive care units. She has practiced in California, Florida and lived several years overseas in Bora-Bora and Thailand. Her most recent experience for the last six years has been working in the operating room at Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital.

Carson is married with five children. Four of her children —

Noah, Levi, Paige, Merette — attend Charlevoix Public Schools and the oldest, Logan, is a junior at Ferris State University. All are active in sports, and with the church the family attends.

"I love being involved in their extracurricular activities. I coach basketball and soccer," Carson said. "Most nights I am sitting on a bleacher cheering them in their activities."

She spends her summers are with family on the water.

"We love boating, and swimming," Carson said. "I enjoy all the weekend festivals Charlevoix has to offer."

It happened in my hometown

Yes, there really is a Kalamazoo.

It's the birthplace of Bell's beer. Gibson guitars were made here. We're home to Kalamazoo College and Western Michigan University. We proudly claim Derek Jeter as one of our own.

Now we're also the home to the Kalamazoo Massacre. And we have our own hashtags: #Kalamazooshooting, #KalamazooStrong, #PrayForKalamazoo. For the first time this week, Kalamazoo was trending.

Yes, there really is a Kalamazoo.

When I left Michigan, I quickly got used to explaining where I grew up by pointing to a spot in the bottom left corner of my right palm. Next time I won't have to point. And they won't say, "So there really is a Kalamazoo?"

Instead, they might say, "I'm so sorry" or "What a horrible tragedy." I suppose a shooting rampage will do that to any city or town. A couple months ago, I texted a friend who grew up in San Bernardino. Like me, he wasn't living in his hometown when the mass shooting took place there, but no matter how long you've been gone, it still feels personal.

Now it was his turn.

where all the shootings took place. I knew the places like the back of my hand. I may not live there anymore, but Kalamazoo will always be my first home.

Yes, there really is a Kalamazoo.

People from Kalamazoo will tell you the city has its own share of problems, but this kind of violence isn't normal. As they say, if it happens here, it can happen anywhere.

The city created the Kalamazoo Mall in 1959, the first outdoor pedestrian shopping mall in the U.S. Kalamazoo was known for its production of mandolins, automobiles, cigars, windmills and paper. There's the Kalamazoo Promise, promising students a free college education at Michigan state colleges and universities. At one time, the city was also known for growing cel-

I read about the rampage — ery and mint — on the right day, you can still smell the mint as you drive along Douglas Avenue on the north side of the city. There's art, culture, music, parks, beauty.

In May of 1980, an F3 tornado ripped through downtown, killing five and injuring 79. People still proudly wear their "I survived the Kalamazoo tornado" T-shirts.

Now the city is known for a massacre, another sad marker in the ongoing story of America's mass shootings.

It finally happened in my city. The place I was born, where I shopped, went out to eat and visited my mom at her downtown office. Where I played soccer, volleyball and tennis. Where I went out on first dates, learned to drive and spent my teenage years exploring my then world.

It happened in a city I call home.

When people ask me where I'm from, no longer will they say, "So there really is a Kalamazoo?"

Crowds line channel piers for Fourth of July Coast Guard demonstrations.

Charlevoix's first life saving station

In 1900, Charlevoix received word that a U.S. Life Saving Station would be established here. The buildings, placed just east of Lake Michigan Beach along the channel, were finished and ready for operation the next year.

From the beginning, the Life Savers, later to be called the Coast Guard, assiduously practiced their life-saving methods in the channel waters, in Round Lake, and in both the bigger lakes. Pictured is one of the more advanced lifeboat designs, said to be unsinkable. Along the north pier appears the metal trestle walkway that allowed the lighthouse keeper access to the lighthouse, which stood on that side until August of 1911. The trestle also was a favored promenade for residents and visitors alike. Every Fourth of July, the Life Saving Station held a huge public event that demonstrated the men's expertise in all the rescue methods they might have to use. Hundreds of people showed up from all over Northern Michigan, many bringing picnic baskets and blankets, some having come to town by train. It was not unusual for a crowd to be so big; there was no more room to stand on the south pier and revetment wall past the station and toward the bridge. This crowd is witnessing a breeches buoy operation along a rope slung from the bluff above the station across the channel to a pole on the north side. Once the demonstrations were over, it was considered a stroke of prestigious luck by an honored few to be invited for a rescue boat ride captained by the station commander himself.

LETTERS to the editor

Seventh annual soup cook-off success

Editor:

On behalf of Charlevoix Montessori Academy for the Arts, we would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the restaurants: That French Place, Front Porch Café, Stafford's Weathervane, Kelsey's Lakeside Grille, Scoville's Gourmet, Smoke on the Water, Grey Gables, Villager Pub and Friske's

Farm Market, for participating in our seventh annual Artsy Soup Cook Off held in the community room at the Charlevoix Public Library. We appreciate their contribution, as well as the use of the library's community room, in making this event a success. We would also like to thank McDonald's for the donation of cups and drink. Finally, a big thank you to the parents, students, staff and board members who donated breads, desserts and labor. This was a great evening spent tasting soup and viewing student artwork.

Business stories much appreciated

Editor:

I just want to let you know how much these stories about local businesses have meant to me. I live in Charlevoix and realize how little I know about the owners, how business started, etc. I eat lunch every Wednesday at Villager Pub and thought I knew Terry's story, but after reading your article I have learned so much more. I don't frequent Rocking Horse often, but appreciate knowing how the business started. Keep the stories coming about businesses in surrounding towns. I'm sure there are many like me who also enjoy them.

More than $6,000 raised for Dolly Parton Imagination Library

Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Char-Em United Way, I would like to thank the many donors, sponsors and volunteers who helped make our third annual Toast to Literacy a huge success. We want to extend a special thank you to our sponsors — Castle Farms, Bay Harbor Foundation, Petoskey Plastics, King Insurance, Huntington Bank, and Fox Motors Charlevoix.

The Toast to Literacy raised more than $6,000 in support of the Dolly Parton Imagination Library, part of Char-Em United Way's Education Initiative focusing on early literacy skills. This program mails one new, age-appropriate book each month to registered children under the age of five in our counties and the proceeds from this event will support 200 children. There are currently more than 1,300 children enrolled in the program.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Michigan carrier pigeon, gone but not forgotten

The passenger pigeon was once a dominant species in Michigan and a special presentation next week will discuss the bird's past.

Al and David Elcher will take participants of their presentation on a journey through the historic past of this majestic bird and now extinct species at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, March 9, at the Boyne District Library in Boyne City.

Al and David Elcher for the past 20 years have produced 26 visual history documentaries on Michigan. This presentation was developed over several years of collecting data, newspaper articles, photos, colorful artwork, visiting museums and libraries in the state. The one hour presentation will include artwork, specimens from the Cranbrook Institute of Science, plus sounds of nature as it was in the middle 1800s.

This program is free, and open to bird lovers of all ages. For more information, visit boynellibrary.org or call (231) 582-7881.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kimble, 2016

Charlevoix couple celebrates their 70th anniversary

CHARLEVOIX — Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kimble of Charlevoix are celebrating 70 years of marriage.

Jerome Hobson Kimble and Marion Mabel White were united in marriage on March 2, 1946, in Detroit, Mich. The Charlevoix couple have lived in the area for 56 years. Jerome was employed as a supervisor for the Ford Motor Company, as a farmer, wood worker and hardware store owner. Marion served as a mother, bank clerk, in the hardware store and painter.

The couple's five children are Melody Kimble of Charlevoix; Delight (Thomas) Kiebel of Petoskey; Jerry (Rochelle) Kimble of Germfask, Mich.; David (Bonnie) Kimble of Charlevoix; and Gay (Chuck) Kiteley of Charlevoix; they have 13 grandchildren and 24 grandchildren.

Women's transitional housing program receives $15,500 grant

CHARLEVOIX — Joppa House Ministries was awarded a $15,500 grant from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians.

Joppa House is a transitional home for women and their children that goes beyond giving them a bed for a night. The ministries program helps women in need of their services learn life skills and get out of the cycle of hopelessness.

The house runs on donations and private contributions.

The grant will go to pay for operating costs, medical services, food, and activities for the women and children living in the home, said founder and director pastor Ginger Stevens.

dren can stay at the Joppa House for up to 18 months.

While living in the house, the women are required to take a life skills curriculum called "Stepping Stones."

"The program transforms these ladies hearts and minds, and lives," Stevens said. "It is a blessing to see this right before my very eyes. They are grateful because someone cares about them."

Since the Joppa House opened in 2014, they've had six graduates and have helped 10 women get back on their feet.

Alexandria Evans is the most current graduate of the program. She said she's appreciated the program and looks forward to the next steps in her life.

"I am grateful for everything I have learned here," Evans said. "They really care for you here and listen to what you are dealing with."

Women that live in the Joppa House must be employed, pay room and board and participate in programming and community life, which Evans recommends to other women who may be facing the same troubles she was.

"This is a good place to get your stuff together and life on track," Evans said. "The program is very helpful and the home is full of good listeners."

Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center hosts full moon feast

EAST JORDAN — The Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center will host a full moon feast and show and tell event at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, March 23, at 5745 N. M-66, East Jordan.

Every year there are between 12 or 13 moon cycles, also called lunations, beginning with the new moon waxing into the full moon which begins waning into the next new moon. Indigenous cultures throughout the world acknowledge the significance of these cycles and give each a name, generally based on an abundant food source at the time.

Wagbo hosts a potluck meal each full moon, celebrating traditional, land-based cooking immersed in the rhythm of the seasons. After the potluck feast, Wagbo hosts an open mike — a show and tell for stories, poems, songs and dance. Anyone interested in sharing something this month, let the center know. Performances that relate to the season (or the moon) in any way (either universally or personally) are encouraged.

The current lunation begins locally with the new moon on March 9.

This moon cycle is frequently known as the Sap Moon. The Full Sap Moon falls on Wednesday, March 23.

For more information or to RSVP, call (231) 536-0333; email info@wagbo.org or find the Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center on Facebook.

The following full moon feast and show and tell will be on April 22.

OBITUARIES

Molly Lynn (Roznoski) Kirgis, 58

Molly Lynn (Roznoski) Kirgis passed away unexpectedly at her home, Wednesday morning, Feb. 24, 2016.

Molly was born in Duluth, Minn., on March 28, 1957. She was the daughter of Roger and Carole (Coombs) Roznoski.

She graduated from Middle Tennessee State University in 1978. Prior to marrying her husband and moving to Michigan in 2001, Molly worked at the Vanderbilt University School for Medicine, for several years as a senior lab technician in the Psychiatry Department. She contributed to several abstracts in scientific journals.

including The Journal of Neuroscience, Neuropsychopharmacology, Minerva Medica, American Journal of Geriatric Psychiatry and several other publications.

She also worked at the University of California at San Diego where she was involved in Parkinson's disease treatment practice research, where she also contributed to an abstract in the British Journal of Clinical Pharmacology.

Molly was an avid reader, but also enjoyed her flowering plants, hiking and even enjoyed walking the golf course with her husband. Molly's true passion, however, was her love of all animals — especially watching and feeding those birds, deer, raccoons and stray cats, etc., that would come to her many feeding platforms.

Molly is loved and survived her husband, Gregory Kirgis; by her mother, Carole; her sister, Linda (Roznoski) Matter; her brother, John Roznoski from Charlevoix; by her uncles, Carl and Steve Roznoski; and her aunt, Gail Roznoski from Green Bay, Wis.

She was preceded in death by her father, Roger; her sister, Kelly (Roznoski) Elzinga; and her brother, David Roznoski.

In keeping with her wishes, cremation has taken place.

A memorial service will be held at the Johnson Feuerstein Funeral Home in Beidling, Mich. Date and time is pending.

Remember Molly Lynn, "I love you — forever and a day" — we are not to forever, yet, Greg.

East Jordan Snowmobile Club donates to Crossroads Ecumenical Resale Shop

Crossroads Ecumenical Resale Shop president Rose Hines and treasurer Mary Ann Roberts recently received a donation of $1,000 from the East Jordan Snowmobile Club president Bonnie Thomas to be used toward Crossroads' upcoming expansion project. The 4,500 square-foot addition will allow room for furniture and off season storage items currently being stored off site, along with much needed resale space. More storage space and an indoor waiting area for clients of Care and Share Food Pantry and office space for meeting with those in need of financial assistance are also included in the plan.

The East Jordan Snowmobile Club hosts breakfast at their club house located on Mount Bliss Road each Sunday beginning in December and continuing through March 20. Breakfast is served from 7 a.m.-noon at a cost of $6. The Snowmobile Club is

Local farm teaches old time remedies

EAST JORDAN — Martha Wagbo Farm and Education Center will have a class on how to make herbal and healing salves from 10 a.m.-noon on Saturday, March 5, at 5745 N. M-66, East Jordan.

Herbal salves can be used to treat a variety of skin ailments. Everything from dry skin and chapped lips to cuts, scrapes and infections can be treated with an assortment of balms that can be prepared from home. Easy, effective and usually considerably less expensive than what can be purchased at even the least expensive of stores, homemade healing ointments will be created during the instructional.

Pre-registration is required as space is limited. Cost for the class is $10-$20 based on a sliding scale. Participants can expect to take home a jar of salve and the knowledge of how to do it again.

For more information, call (231) 536-0333; email info@wagbo.org or find them on Facebook to register.

BUSINESS

Adaptation keeps local frame store in business picture

ADAM KILLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX —

As the digital age continues to usurp the mom-and-pop stores of yesteryear, photography shops have become a dying breed, but Picture This, formerly Charlevoix Camera, once known as the place to go for one hour photo developing, made the quantum leap from film to the digital age more quickly than owner Marell Staffel imagined.

"In the 1970s and 80s our business was comprised of 70 percent photo processing, with selling cameras, framing and related services making up the rest," Staffel said. "Now most of our business is custom framing."

Staffel grew up in Maumee, Ohio, and later lived in a suburb of Detroit, where she was married and had two children. Her parents came to Charlevoix in the summers to show at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair and in 1984 bought a home here. Staffel is the daughter of artists, Bonnie Staffel, of Charlevoix, and the late Bill Staffel. Her father, Bill, was a painter, sculptor and blacksmith. He is attributed with two enduring local logos: the Waterfront Art Fair and the Crooked Tree logos, both his designs. Her mother Bonnie, now in her 90s, is a noted potter and ceramics artist.

After her divorce and in 1980, Staffel decided to move to Charlevoix, to be closer to her parents and raise her children here. She attended North Central Michigan College, studying business and receiving an Associate Degree in Marketing.

In 1983, Staffel began working part time for Charlevoix Camera, as it was known in the early days, with former owner Bruce Lanphar. A single parent with two young children, she juggled two jobs then, waitressing at Grey Gables Restaurant when she wasn't at the camera shop. Eventually she worked into a full time position at Charlevoix Camera and eventually bought the business in 1992. She changed the name to Picture This a few years ago.

"When I first tried to buy the business," she said, "it didn't work out. Between the owner and I not agreeing on terms and banks being nervous about loaning money to a single mom whose only financial asset was owning a house with a small amount of equity and no money in the bank, the prospects were slim."

One of Staffel's regular customers knew that she wanted to buy the business. One day he took her aside and asked if she would mind if he talked to Lou Hollow at the bank about her situation. She agreed.

Location: 106 W Antrim Street in Oleson's Plaza

Hours: 10 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and on by appointment on Saturday

For more information, call (231) 547-2561 or maeljean@gmail.com

"Lou researched my options and the customer loaned me the start-up cash I needed to make the bank happy," Staffel said. "The only condition was that he remain anonymous. They made it happen. Their determination and generosity changed the course of my life, and I am forever grateful."

Picture This is currently known for custom picture framing. Staffel also does digital photo restoration with Photoshop and can put movies and videos on DVD.

"My business is a mix of custom framing, digital printing, ready-made frames and greeting cards," Staffel said. "I can make prints from digital files including phones and memory cards, make enlargements and make copies of customers old photos from prints negatives and slides."

From original artwork such as pastels, watercolors, needlework and oil paintings to prints posters and kids' artwork, Staffel can take of it.

"I can frame almost anything that a customer wants framed," she said. "I also frame 3-dimensional objects such as medals, jewelry and fishing lures. I have framed things as small as a postage stamp to as large as a flag that was 8 feet long."

Staffel is a Charlevoix community supporter. She was co-chairperson for the Venetian Street Parade for three years, and last year spearheaded the revival of the Memorial Day Parade. She served on the board of Keep Charlevoix Beautiful for 10 years, has taken pictures of kids with Santa sponsored by the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce and does pictures for the Easter Bunny Lunch at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant.

"Even though I grew up with artists," she said, "I never thought that's what I would do. I have a great appreciation of art and according to my mother, some talent. But owning a business is something I have always been interested in," Staffel said. "Having a business that involves art through photography, and doing picture framing is really perfect for me. I found that what I really enjoyed working at the camera shop, was getting to know the customers. I enjoy taking pictures, but I don't really consider myself a photographer."

Overtime pay changes for salaried workers looming

Last fall I alerted you about a notice of proposed rule by the U.S. Department of Labor that would change the regulations that exempt administrative, executive, and professionals from the Fair Labor Standards Act's minimum wage and overtime requirements. This has the potential to have a significant impact on your business, especially with low- to mid-level salaried employees.

The proposed rule seeks to raise the salary threshold for employees exempt from required overtime pay from $23,660 per year — $455 per will have to increase employee compensation to meet the threshold, or begin paying overtime.

CHAMBER UPDATE

Alison Hubbard

On Feb. 1, the U.S. Chamber of Commerce hosted a week — to $50,440 per year — $970 per week. Employers impacted by the rule change will have to increase employee compensation to symposium focused on how the U.S. Department of Labor's proposed overtime regulation will impact vulnerable employers: small businesses, state and local governments, nonprofit welfare and service organizations, and academic institutions. Visit for more information and to view the video at uschamber.com/events

We recommend that all employers and Chamber members conduct an audit of their wage and hour practices. If the Department of Labor new salary level goes into effect at $50,440 — $970 per week, how will you treat these employees who are exempt, but now earn less than $970 per week?

— Increase their salary so that it is above the $50,440 so that they remain exempt?

— Reclassify them so that they are no longer exempt and are now on the clock and eligible for overtime and continue to have them work as many hours as they do now, i.e. earn overtime at 1.5 times their regular rate of pay?

— Consider any specific benefits that your company provides salaried employees that are different from what you provide hourly employees? How will reclassifying any employees change your costs for these?

— If you are a unionized company, how will reclassifying employees from salaried status to hourly wage earners affect their eligibility for being included in the bargaining unit?

The Department of Labor also proposes automatic annual increases to the salary threshold, giving employers only 60 days before the new threshold becomes effective each year. This would be an unprecedented change ensuring that future "automatic" updates would go into effect during difficult economic times, potentially exacerbating future problems in the economy.

Stay tuned for more information and opportunities to learn and take action in the coming weeks.

Crosshatch artist residency application deadline nears

BELLAIRE — Crosshatch Center for Art and Design's Hill House artist residency season applications for June 2016-December 2016 are due April 1.

The program supports musicians, writers, theater/performance, visual artists and now, parent artists. Artists who apply to the program will go through a jury process. Selected artists are awarded time and space to create new work, with a two- to four-week stay in a semi-secluded log cabin near East Jordan. The musician residency also offers a small stipend to emerging songwriters to aid in professional development.

The cabin is surrounded by forest and is within walking distance of the Jordan River. It includes a well-stocked kitchen (with locally sourced food when available), a selection of instruments and some basic recording gear. Artists are invited, but not required, to engage in community outreach through performance, readings and workshops with coordination and promotion help from Crosshatch. The Hill House residency program is unique as it accepts parent artists, artists who want to bring a pet, and allows artists from different disciplines to be in residence together. The only cost for an artist to participate in the Hill House residency program is a $25 application fee.

"My Crosshatch Hill House residency provided me an invaluable opportunity to work uninterrupted, connect with the land and deepen my own understanding of what it is to be an artist and human being," said Jeff Morris, one-half of Charming Disaster along with Ella Blaker, January 2016 musicians-in-residence.

Crosshatch is a nonprofit organization based in Northern Michigan that builds strong communities through the intersections of art, farming, ecology and economy. For more information, visit crosshatch.org/artist-residency or contact Yvonne at yvonne@crosshatch.org or (231) 622-5252.

Women's Resource Center hosting St. Patrick's Day party 'FUNdraiser'

PETOSKEY — Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, a nonprofit organization that provides essential services for women, children and individuals in northern Lower Michigan, will host a St. Patrick's Day "FUNdraiser" from 5:30-9 p.m. on Thursday, March 17, at Mackinaw Trail Winery, 3423 U.S. 131 Petoskey.

The event kicks off with appetizers, a silent auction and a cash bar featuring award-winning wine, beer, cider and other libations from Mackinaw Trail Winery, followed by a live auction at 7:30 p.m. Both silent and live auctions offer a variety of donated items such as a three day weekend at a Cross Village home on 160 feet of Lake Michigan beach frontage; an afternoon European cooking lesson for four people; a tandem skydive; a guided gourmet wild mushroom forage and tasting; a five course dinner of French, Italian or Korean cuisine with wine for eight people; and a Little Traverse Bay sailing excursion for four people on an Ensign sailboat with Jan Mancinelli.

"The Women's Resource Center is here to help individuals and families navigate life, as well as in times of crisis," said Gail Kloss, executive director of the resource center. "Thousands of local people rely on our programs and services every year, so there is a good chance someone you know has received help and support because we are here."

Kloss explained dollars raised at the St. Patrick's Day event will help pay for services that grants do not support, such as community playgroups, counseling and many domestic abuse and sexual assault services.

St. Patrick's Day "FUNdraiser" tickets are $10 per person in advance or $15 at the door. For more information, call (231) 347-0067. A list of auction items will be available on the organization's website at wrcnm.org.

Students proclaim support

LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

High school students from Charlevoix, East Jordan and Bayshore area held up signs supporting U.S. Sen. Bernie Sanders' campaign for president in downtown Charlevoix on Saturday. The event was part of a national call for an all-out mobilization, on Feb. 27, for Sanders supporters across the country to make a second round of marches for Bernie to show the establishment that workers, students and marginalized people want a president who is not bankrolled by billionaires, who refuses corporate money and is prepared to stand up to Wall Street, said Charlevoix march organizer Kori Wickham.

Celebrate Irish luck with a free breakfast

Join the residents and staff of American House at its Anytime Cafe for a tasty, free St. Patrick's Day breakfast from 7-9 a.m. on Thursday, March 17. Enjoy corned beef hash, poached eggs, giant cinnamon rolls and freshly brewed coffee.

The cafe staff also will be happy to make a to-go breakfast for those who are headed off to work that morning. Breakfast attendees will have the chance to take a quick tour of the American House community. This event fills up fast, RSVP by March 10 by calling (231) 237-5572.

'People Fund' announces awards to nonprofits

BOYNE CITY — Great Lakes Energy members continue to enhance quality of life in their communities through voluntary contributions to the People Fund.

The People Fund Board of Directors awarded 14 grants totaling $43,163 in February to nonprofit organizations that support community endeavors in Great Lakes Energy's service territory. Here are some local organizations receiving funds:

— Charlevoix Municipal Association, Charlevoix: $2,500 for benevolence needs.

— Grass River Natural Area, Bellaire: $3,000 for a field guide for outdoor student and public education and outreach.

— Northern Michigan Equine Therapy, Boyne City: $2,000 for arena improvements for the outpatient rehabilitation and therapeutic riding center.

The People Fund, supported by Great Lakes Energy members who allow their bill to be rounded up each month to the next dollar, has awarded more than $2.9 million in grants since 1999. Monthly contributions by Great Lakes Energy members average just 50 cents.

Many charitable and community organizations throughout Great Lakes Energy's 26-county service area along the western side of Michigan benefit from these grants.

Nonprofit organizations can request a grant application or learn more online at glakes.com. The next grant application deadline is June 1.

American Cancer Society's Relay for Life hits the slopes

BELLAIRE — Antrim County's Relay for Life will host the fundraiser, Laps for Life, on Saturday, March 19, on the slopes of Schuss Mountain at Shanty Creek Resorts. Individual skiers and snowboarders can participate by soliciting pledges based on how many laps — chairlift ride up, then ski/snowboard down — they take during a six-hour time frame on the pink chairlift.

Two 2016-17 unlimited, unrestricted all area Shanty Creek season passes will be awarded as prizes for the individual completing the most laps and the individual collecting the most dollars of pledges in each of two divisions, skiing and snowboarding.

Those participating may select any Antrim Relay for Life team or the Antrim Relay in general to dedicate the raised funds. For a list of Antrim teams, visit relayforlife.org and search for Antrim County.

For more information, registration details and to obtain pledge forms, contact Steve Kershner at (231) 676-2493 or at skershner@shantycreek.com.

Relay for Life is the American Cancer Society's signature activity. Relays serve to increase awareness, recognize and celebrate survivors and caregivers, remember those who lost the cancer battle, and encourage grassroots involvement in the fight against cancer.

Grow something new, different in your vegetable garden this year

GRETCHEN VOYLE
Michigan State University Extension

One of the delights of growing vegetables is to become a vegetable explorer. This means that every year, if there is enough room, try growing a new and interesting vegetable. It's a little experiment into the unknown and growers get to eat the results. All it involves is one packet of seeds or a transplant or two to begin an eating adventure. Smart gardeners enjoy new and different vegetables that grace their gardens and then their tables.

Michigan State University Extension horticulture educators and Master Gardener hotlines get calls from people who have unintentionally grown something different and are surprised at what is in their garden. Black cherry is a dark purple cherry tomato and inexperienced gardeners who are not used to the strange color call to see if it is edible. They didn't read the label or the tag was lost.

The days to harvest is an indication on how long it takes to grow this vegetable. In Michigan, we usually have about 120 days for a growing season. Knowing if the vegetable is a cool season or warm season vegetable is important for the vegetables to grow well. Cool season vegetables do their best growing in the spring and fall. Hot weather causes problems for the plants. Warm season vegetables do best in the hottest part of summer. Cool weather causes problems with growth and production. "Days until harvest" are calculated from the time the seed germinates and comes up with little leaves, not when the seed is planted. So if soils are cold or dry, it delays germination. Days to harvest should be considered a guideline, not an immutable fact.

This is the time when many gardeners are shopping for seeds either through a catalog or online. This is where the greatest variety will be available. A few possibilities to ponder as gardeners shop for seeds are listed below.

Beets

Many of us have eaten the dark red beets, but not the light up and try golden beets or Chioggia beets. Golden beets are a rich, golden color and have a mild, sweet taste. Chioggia beets have alternate layers inside of red and white for a bulls-eye effect and are also sweet.

When thinning small beets, cook the little leaves as a green. Beet roots don't have to be boiled. They can be roasted in the oven to caramelize their sugars and make them even sweeter. Beets are a cool season vegetable with 55 days until harvest.

Chard

This is a kinsin' cousin to beets. Beets have the fancy bottom and chards have the leafy top. For some gardeners, seeing little blemishes on the yellow, white and pink stems makes them take additional time in the kitchen to trim out the imperfec-tions. A simple nick or bruise can leave a brown blemish. The solution is to buy a chard with red stems that does not show tiny blemishes. Stems are a rich cranberry color and disguise imperfections. Chards are a cool season vegetable with 55-65 days until harvest.

Watermelon

Because of the short number of growing days, it is almost impossible to grow big watermelons. These are watermelons like Charleston Gray that look like a green propane tank. However, it is possible to grow the smaller, roundish watermelons that are under 10 pounds. They have the advantage of being very sweet, easy to handle and fit nicely into the refrigerator. These may have a name like Sugar Baby or Ruby Hybrid Seedless. These kind of watermelon are warm season vegetables with 75-85 days until harvest.

Carrots

Look to spice up your carrot world with different colored carrots. Seed companies sell packets of various colored carrots mixed together. Grating purple or yellow carrots into coleslaw or salad could add a bit of dinnertime excitement. Carrots are a cool season vegetable with 65-75 days until harvest.

Other new and interesting vegetable choices to consider include small, round zucchini, white eggplant, okra or kohlrabi. Try the purple, mild variety. Have fun and eat well with your garden adventure.

includes 14 Republicans and four Democrats, but after March 1 only Ben Carson, Ted Cruz, John Kasich, Marco Rubio and Donald J. Trump of the Republican party and Hillary Clinton and Bernie Sanders of the Democratic party still actively campaigning.

Michigan voters will have the opportunity to see each party debate before the primary election on March 8. The Republicans are scheduled to debate at 9 p.m. on March 3 in Detroit and the Democrats have scheduled an 8 p.m. debate in Flint on March 6.

The goal for each candidate running is to secure delegates in the presidential primaries. For each party this is based on the popular vote, but the way delegates are awarded is different between the two parties.

In Michigan there are 59 Republican delegates at stake and delegates are awarded proportionally unless one candidate has 50 percent of the vote. Then it's winner-take-all. However, a candidate has to receive 15 percent of the vote to receive any delegates.

Democrats award delegates proportionally based on the outcome of voting. In Michigan, there are 147 delegates and Clinton or Sanders need to win 2,382 delegates through the primary/caucus process to claim the party's nomination for the election in November.

On Feb. 27 there was Sanders supporters in front of East Park holding signs, asking vehicles to honk to show their support for the Vermont Senator running for the Democratic Party nomination for president.

Kori Wickham, of Charlevoix said her group of supporters were out to "feel the Bern," as the unofficial slogan goes, as part of a nationwide #movement.4Bernie campaign.

"We want people to remember Sanders when they vote on March 8," Wickham said. "He's the only candidate running that represents the people and together we are strong."

of the money the city will match has already been raised by donations.

"We also received $10,000 from Charlevoix County commissioners under the new parks millage that was passed," Kirinovic said.

The new larger playground will allow more access to those with disabilities than the one that is currently in place on the beach.

The playground will be placed south of the concession building in the grassy area and will feature a surface made of ground rubber that will make a soft landing for kids at play.

"It's exciting to know that every child will be able to enjoy a playground," Kirinovic said.

Kirinovic said it was crucial the playground not only be fun for children, but also accessible and enjoyable for adults with disabilities who bring the youngsters to play there.

"The problem with the old playground was the beach sand and wheelchairs could not get out there, which kept parents and children with disabilities watching from the sidelines," Kirinovic said.

The playground also will be built to blend in with the natural beauty and landscape of the park. According to Kirinovic, if all goes according to schedule, the playground would be constructed in early spring and be finished by the start of summer.

"This park is going to be a wonderful addition to the area," Kirinovic said. "Our department is so grateful for the support from the county and our donors to get this project off the ground."

the pieces that can help us fill the vacant spaces in the DDA district."

One potential building that Brownfield Redevelopment grants could boost economic change in downtown Charlevoix is the Con-sign Design building at 100 Van Pelt Place, Doyle said.

"There is potential there for some type of multi-use by redeveloping that space," Doyle said. "A Brownfield could provide those incentives that could attract potential developers that could turn that building into multiple restaurants, living spaces and retail."

The board also took time to recognize the efforts of a Main Street volunteer who helped promote a successful holiday campaign in downtown Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix Main Street Outstanding Volunteer Award was given to Charlevoix Main Street Promotion Committee volunteer Jodi Bingham. The board presented Bingham the award for her work on the "Live. Life. Local. Campaign," which garnered more than 3,344 entries bringing a total of $167,200 to downtown businesses.

"In the spirit of Main Street teamwork and collaboration, Jodi also garnered support for the initiative from her fellow downtown store owners and participated actively in the successful promotion of this shop local campaign," Doyle said.

Charlevoix — have passed resolutions urging Snyder to use his authority to shut down Line 5 in the Straits of Mackinac or demanding other state action to prevent an oil spill.

The resolution passed by city council members states the city of Charlevoix supports stopping the transportation of oil under the Great Lakes and supports shutting down Line 5 and the flow of oil under the Great Lakes, and supports H.R. 102 and C.R. 15 introduced by state Reps. Sarah Roberts and Jeff Irwin calling on Snyder and Attorney General Bill Schuette to shut down Line 5.

"It is becoming very clear that the people and communities in our state will not tolerate the risk Line 5 poses to our drinking water and tourism economy," said JoAnne Beemon, secretary for Water and Air Team Charlevoix. "The governor has the power to shut down Line 5 in the straits by terminating Enbridge's easement of Great Lakes bottomlands."

During the Charlevoix City Council's discussion on the non-binding resolution, council member Bill Supernaw pointed out that this would have no impact in Lansing, which is somewhat true. A non-binding measure has no legal impact on public policy, nor does the Charlevoix City Council have any standing to make such a change. The resolution the city passed is simply a formal statement of a council's opinion, expressing its desire that state officials shut down the pipeline.

By itself, the resolution may never be considered by lawmakers, but in this case Charlevoix is joining hands with a growing group of other municipalities and county governments that are asking for some form of action to ensure safety against a potential oil spill in the Straits of Mackinac.

"I think the more voices involved will get the attention of our lawmakers," Zukowski said. "It is hard to ignore all these people who are concerned."

State House Rep. Triston Cole, R-Mancelona, who represents Charlevoix County, said he does read and listen to the concerns of his constituents.

"Resolutions in this nature are not meaningless," Cole said. "It is important to consider all view points. I absolutely listen to my constituents."

Cole, who sits on the House Energy Committee, does understand the concerns of some of his constituents with the pipeline, but believes Enbridge has taken the necessary precautions to keep Michigan waterways clean.

"I have visited the site and talked extensively with professionals about this pipeline," Cole said. "I have looked at all the factual evidence and have not taken an emotional approach on the issue. After learning everything about (the pipeline) an oil spill is one of the last things I am concerned about."

But environmental groups are concerned and the opposition from these groups continues to get louder as time passes.

"The line's age and location make it an oil spill hazard," Zukowski said. "There is tremendous reason to be concerned. Were a spill to occur, responders might actually recover only about a third of the oil. Enbridge's private contractors said the rule of thumb for spilled oil recovery is roughly 30 percent."

That means if an oil release of 4,500 barrels — the amount crews demonstrated on how Enbridge would respond if there was ever an oil spill in the Straits of Mackinac — about 1,350 barrels, or 56,700 gallons of oil, would likely not be recovered, despite all the manpower and equipment in the water.

Scrutiny on the line has intensified since the 2010 Kalamazoo River disaster — the worst inland oil spill in U.S. history — when Enbridge spilled 843,000 gallons of heavy crude oil into the Kalamazoo River. That spill was one of more than 800 oil spills Enbridge was responsible for in the U.S. and Canada from 1999 to 2010, Beemon said.

"It's time for Michigan's leaders to make it clear to Enbridge that the people will not allow the company to continue putting our Great Lakes at risk," Beemon said.

Shave and a haircut: New barber shop in downtown gets back to basics

LONNIE ALLEN

CHARLEVOIX — A new barber shop in downtown Charlevoix is bringing back the old-fashioned days when men's grooming focused on the basics — straight-razor shaves, hot towels and no-frills men's haircuts.

Don Overton, owner of Charlevoix Barber Shop, 110 Antrim St., opened his shop in late January, offering traditional haircuts for men and a smooth, clean shave.

"I think traditional barbering is what my customers want," said Overton, 51.

Before barber school, Overton had spent the last eight years as a stay-at-home dad, but his divorce required him to transition back into the workforce. It was his hunt for a job that led him to Lansing to attend barber school.

"I had too many degrees or I didn't have related job experience," Overton said. "I had one woman tell me I was too old to serve coffee because she was looking for college-aged servers."

Because of his closeness with his two children — a son, age 5, and daughter, age 8 — Overton searched for employment that would keep him close to home.

"I needed to find a trade that I could go to work right-away and a skill-set that I could acquire quickly," Overton said.

It was Jordan Dutcher, of Harbor Barber in Harbor Springs who suggested Overton try barbering.

"I call him my life coach," Overton said, of Dutcher because of the time he would spend at the shop during his job search. "His barbershop was an alternative to head to instead of going home to an empty house. (Dutcher) was a person I could talk to during this transition period, which led me to barber school."

After 1,800 clock hours of training, which took Overton 10 months and one day to complete he was on a mission to find a place to use his new skills. He spoke with Wes Smith, of Palace Barber Shop in Petoskey and Dutcher, but each told him that during the winter they do not need another chair in their shop.

"They just don't have the extra business," Overton said. "They did tell me they had customers driving from Charlevoix who wanted haircuts from a barber."

Overton has had reerrals from the barbers in Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Overton is currently the sole barber of the shop, offers men's cuts for $15, veterans $13 and shaves for $20, along with other services patrons can find out about once they visit the shop.

With a neighborhood feel, Charlevoix Barber Shop is a place where men can relax, get a cut or a shave, and talk off-the-cuff about anything, Overton said.

"I have clients from age 2 to 80 and 90," he said.

Inside the space three chairs line up against a wall, offering a waiting area for customers, while a red, white and blue barber's pole spins outside inviting people in to his retro barber chair to transport customers back to the days of yesteryear.

When deciding on the shop's name, Overton wanted his place to have a sense of belonging to the people who call Charlevoix their home, he said.

"I just want it to be a regular barbershop — no frills — that is the community's barber shop," Overton said. "That's why I named it after the town because community is important to me and I want the customer to feel this is a place to come to for a good haircut and conversation."

Overton is open from 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. - 1 p.m. on Saturday.

Charlevoix drops tough contests against Petoskey, Elk Rapids

JAMES GEMSTERBLUM
(231) 439-9343 • jgemsterblum@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — If the Charlevoix boys basketball team is hoping to be battle-tested heading into the post-season, it can't do much better than a contest against the 17-1 Big North champions.

The Rayders got that test on Tuesday, hosting a red-hot Petoskey team in a game Charlevoix would come up short in, by a 65-41 margin.

A battle early between the two, Petoskey's defensive pressure opened the game up in the second quarter, leading to a number of quick scores for the Northmen, who move to 18-1 overall on the season.

"They're a great, sound fundamental team," said Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine. "They're a great team, 12-0 in the Big North, that's a tough division. They did a great job cutting to the ball and they just did a tremendous job tonight."

Charlevoix, who moved to 9-10 overall, led 11-7 midway through the opening quarter, but that lead would come as their last.

A 13-0 run between the first and second got Petoskey out to a 20-11 lead. Three straight steals midway through the second led to a 9-0 run, with all of Petoskey's points coming from Aron Lee and Jason Bur.

Petoskey led 35-19 at the half, then opened the third on a 7-0 run to get out to a 42-19 lead.

Still, the Rayders hung around, battling back with back-to-back 3-pointers from seniors Austin Putman and Walker Drost, and later to within 13-42.

"At times it seemed like we were going to put some distance between us, but Charlevoix seemed to make good runs," said Starkey. "I was happy with how our guys continued to play though."

Lee helped Petoskey close the third with a 50-31 lead and led the Northmen to the win, scoring 14 points to go along with seven assists, seven steals and four rebounds.

For Erskine, the outcome came as a tough one, not because of the loss, but how his team went about it.

"I wish we would have come out and fought harder," he said. "I talked to the kids about that. Even though it's a big game and they're probably better than us, we should always come out and compete."

"We can't. I thought we did it in spurts, but we didn't come to compete for 32 minutes."

For Charlevoix, Drost scored 14 points, Jordan Adkins scored eight points and Putman added seven points and three rebounds.

"We're trying to get the boys to put together 32 minutes of basketball and if we don't, we're going to be beat by Boyne City in the district," he said. "So that's what we're working on."

The Charlevoix boys' basketball team's emotions put it in a hole it nearly couldn't get out of to visiting Elk Rapids 54-50 Friday night.

BELLAIRE — Finishing your season as an elite competitor in the state is the goal for any high school athlete.

Charlevoix skiers Brad Klinger and Jenna Good did just that at the Division 2 skiing state finals hosted by Schuss Mountain on Monday.

Klinger took home all-state honors in the giant slalom, finishing fifth with a time of 48.37 seconds, while Good, a freshman, took seventh in the slalom (1:07.96) and 10th in the giant slalom (55.64) to earn all-state honors in both

As a team, Charlevoix's boys squad took fifth overall with 165.5 points, just a half-point behind fourth place East Grand Rapids in the final standings.

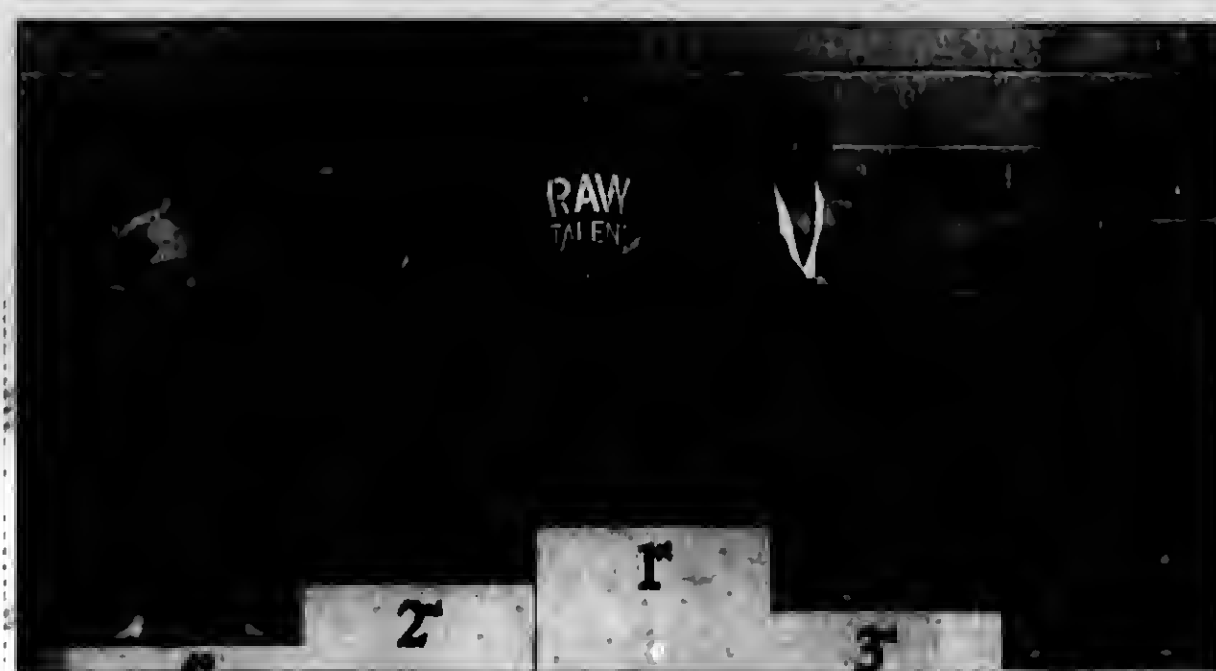

Petoskey won the team title for the sixth straight year, finishing with a total of 44 points overall.

The Rayders came in third as a team in the giant slalom, led by Klinger's high finish as well as a 16th place finish from Matt Good.

Keon Taylor took 37th in the giant slalom as well for Charlevoix, Ben Peterson finished 40th, Hunter Cox 48th and Walker Fogle 50th.

UNIVERSITY PARK — Six swimmers from the Charlevoix Stingrays swim club brought home four state titles at the Michigan Team Swim League Championship Meet on Saturday at Saginaw Valley State University.

Joe Gaffney, 8, of Charlevoix was a part of three titles, winning his age group in the 100 yard individual medley (1:40.12) and the 25 breaststroke (23.03) and swimming a leg on the winning 100 medley relay (1:55.07) along with teammates Charles Kelly, 8, of Charlevoix and Jack and Griffin Frenz (7) of Petoskey.

Those three also combined to take second in the 100 freestyle relay (1:45.27) as well, and Kelly took first in the 25 backstroke (21.34) to bring home an individual title himself.

Thomas Gardner, 16, of Petoskey also brought home a title, winning the 500 freestyle (6:09.57) and taking third in the 100 backstroke (1:05.95) as well for the Stingrays, and fellow team captain McKenna Ebert, 17, of Charlevoix took second in the 100 backstroke (1:12.78) to make the podium as well.

"I am very proud of all of their performances not only at the State Meet, but throughout the season as they came to practice, worked hard and had lots of fun every day," Stingrays coach Phillip Marighug said.

"I can't wait to see what they bring to the team next season." On top of the state finals, the Stingrays also held an Swim-athon to help pay for their end of season awards banquet.

CHARLEVOIX — It was a tough ending to the regular season for the Charlevoix girls' basketball team, as it fell 53-19 to Elk Rapids Friday night.

The Rayders dropped to 2-18 overall and 2-12 in the Lake Michigan Conference.

The Elks had control from the start of the game to the finish as they led 15-3 after the first quarter. Elk Rapids continued its dominance and took a 23-point edge into halftime.

Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said when scoring became a problem early, it also affected the way her team played defensively.

"We started out in the first quarter playing really tough defense," Shaw said. "We had a hard time putting the ball in the hole and then it kind of brought our momentum on defense down."

slalom, however, kept the Rayders from contending for the runner-up trophy as Charlevoix finished sixth in that event.

Matt Good took 18th (1:12.90) in the slalom to lead Charlevoix, Peterson finished 25th, Fogle 32nd and Cox 42nd.

On the girls side, Abbey Scholten was the only other state qualifier for the Rayders, taking 13th in the slalom and 24th in the giant slalom to just miss out on all-state honors herself.

Charlevoix at Individual State Finals

AUBURN HILLS — Three Charlevoix wrestlers take aim at the top of the podium as the Division 4 wrestling individual state finals get underway this weekend at the Palace of Auburn Hills.

Cam Alden, Mick Hinkle and Tyler McCallum are all strong contenders for all-state honors as they take to the mat for their opening round matches on Thursday.

Alden, who earned all-state honors as a sophomore with an eighth place finish at 125 pounds, is wrestling at 135 this year and opens with Kent City's Blake Armstrong on Thursday. Alden is ranked 10th in Division 4 at 135 by michigangrappler.com and Armstrong is ranked 11th.

Hinkle, who is making his second appearance in the final after qualifying last year, faces Ernie Diaz of St. Louis in the opening round at 189. Hinkle, a senior, is ranked eighth in Division 4 at 189 and Diaz is ranked sixth.

McCallum is making his first appearance in the state final this season and opens his tournament with a match against Evan Jones of Kent City at 130. McCallum is ranked sixth in Division 4 at 130 and Jones is ranked seventh.

No matter the result of their opening round match, all three wrestlers will compete on Friday as well, with those who earn all-state honors getting to wrestle for places on Saturday, including the state championship matches.

All results from the state final will be in the March 11 edition of the Courier.

foul for yelling at the referee after he believed he was fouled.

Instead of Putman receiving a foul call after his shot, Elk Rapids' Devin Shumpert was fouled after getting the rebound and was heading to the line for two free throws.

Due to the technical foul, Shumpert was awarded two extra foul shots, and he connected on all four giving the Elks a 49-44 lead.

"It didn't help that I got happy with the referee, but that's the way it is," Putman said. "I just got frustrated. I shouldn't have, but I thought I got fouled and the other guy (Shumpert) got fouled. I got caught up (in the game) and couldn't hold back."

The four-point swing didn't come back to haunt the Rayders until the final possession where they needed two scores to take the game into overtime instead of one.

Despite Putman's frustration, Charlevoix coach Brett Erskine said he thought his senior forward showed fire.

"He got a little emotional there and to me that's alright," Erskine said. "I think he was frustrated a little bit in the game and I think he let his emotions take over. As a coach, you don't like to see the technical, but you like to see the emotional fire."

The Rayders were able to climb back into the game in the final minute when sophomore guard Colin Smith drained a 3-pointer from the left corner cutting the Elks lead to 52-50 with 22 seconds to play.

Elk Rapids (11-7, 10-4 Lake Michigan Conference) would seal the victory with two free-throws from Shumpert that pushed the lead to 54-50.

Charlevoix's (9-9, 7-7 LMC) missed its final two shots in the waning seconds and Elk Rapids was able to run the clock out for its second win of the season over Charlevoix.

Shumpert finished the game with 16 points, eight of which were free-throws that came in the last two minutes of the game.

"They made their foul shots," Putman said. "I didn't come up with any, and some of our kids missed a few and we just have to get better at that."

Putman finished the game with 14 points, but went from 2-for-8 from the free-throw line in the process.

Senior guard Walker Drost was the spark for the Rayders whenever the team needed a basket. He ended with a game-high 20 points.

"It wasn't my mindset," Drost said about carrying the load offensively. "I don't care who scores as long as we get the ball in the hole."

The Rayders were able to contain Elk Rapids star guard Shae Shomers, who finished with 17 points, well under the 30 points he scored when the Elks defeated Charlevoix 81-59 earlier in the season.

"We just tried to double team him a lot," Erskine said. "We put two guys on him so he couldn't just bring the ball up nice and easy because once he gets a head of steam you can't stop him."

It was a fast-paced game in the first quarter until both teams buckled down in the final four minutes. The Elks ended the first period on a 5-0 run and took a 15-9 lead into the second quarter.

Charlevoix outscored the Elks in the second quarter, but trailed by five heading into the break and were down 32-30 to start the fourth quarter.

ing was Elk Rapids' size. The Elks 8-foot-3 center Bridget Hintz blocked or altered several shots during the contest, making it hard for Charlevoix to obtain any momentum.

"We didn't put everything together today," Shaw said.

Hintz finished with 15 points and Alex Wagner added 12 for the Elks, who improved to 15-5 overall and 10-4 in the LMC.

"They're tough to stop, they're a great team," Shaw said. "They have experience and they have a little bit of everything."

With the district tournament starting next week, Shaw has tried to refocus her team on the new season.

"The message to my team is everybody starts a new season on Monday, and it's our time to get ready and push through and get a win on Wednesday," Shaw said.

A Mid-Winter's Gala

Joppa House Ministries, a nonprofit organization in Charlevoix, hosted its Mid-Winter's Gala on Feb. 27 at Castle Farms. Attendees of the event received a dinner buffet catered by C & L Catering, desserts by That French Place and music provided by the Pine River Jazz Band. Guests participated in a silent and live auction with auctioneer, Scott Hankins. All proceeds went to fund the ministry of Joppa House, which is a transitional home for homeless women and their children to stay in the process of transforming their lives. The house runs on donations and private contributions. Women and their children can stay at the Joppa House for up to 18 months. While living in the house, the women are required to take a life skills curriculum called "Stepping Stones." The ministry has helped 10 women get back on their feet since its 2014 opening.

FLIP-FLOP VOTE

Council reconsiders, then rescinds easement ballot measure

LONNIE ALLEN/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Conservancy easement ballot language will no longer be pursued by the City of Charlevoix after city council members voted to reconsider and rescind the Feb. 15 city council motion that passed unanimously. Council members changed their mind on the issue in a 3-2 vote during the regular meeting on March 7. The ballot language would have asked voters if a conservation easement should be placed on portions of the Mount McSaubia Recreation area, pictured above.

CHARLEVOIX — Some Charlevoix City Council members reconsidered their vote on supporting easement language for the November ballot at their regular meeting on March 7.

With two votes — one to reconsider the Feb. 15 motion and one to rescind the Feb. 15 motion to draft easement ballot language — city council members voted 3-2 both times to reconsider and end staff direction for a conservation easement ballot measure. Council member Luther Kurtz was absent.

Council member Shane Cole, who was absent on Feb. 15 when the city council unanimously voted to have the city attorney draft language on a conservation easement, requested the new actions during miscellaneous business.

"I wasn't at the last meeting and considering the phone calls and questions I have got in the last couple weeks on putting the conservation easement to a vote, I

Elections workers in the City of Charlevoix prepare absentee ballots from the city's first ward for the tabulating machine. The city voter turnout appeared to be higher than previous presidential primaries, according to city clerk Joyce Golding. There was a little more than 40 percent turnout in Wards 1 and 2 and 34 percent in Ward 3. Charlevoix County voter turnout was 36 percent and Donald Trump and Bernie Sanders were the top two candidates voters chose in the primary, according to county documents.

Undersheriff Vondra to seek sheriff's post

STEVE ZUCKER
(231) 439-9346 • szucker@toskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County Undersheriff Chuck Vondra formally announced his candidacy for county sheriff Monday, the same day current sheriff Don Schneider said he will not seek re-election and plans to retire.

Vondra, who has served as the undersheriff since Schneider took office about seven years ago, said he was waiting to announce his intention to seek election to the office until after Schneider announced his retirement. He said he wanted to avoid giving anyone the impression he was intending to run against Schneider.

As of Monday afternoon, Vondra said he had not yet filed his paperwork with the Charlevoix County Clerk's office, but said his nominating petition is complete and he expects to file the paperwork sometime this week. No one else has filed to run for the sheriff's post, though prospective candidates have until 4 p.m. Tuesday, April 19.

Except for a few short stints, Vondra, 46, has lived in Boyne City since he was a junior in high school when his family moved to the area. He graduated from Boyne City High School, continued his education at North Central Michigan College and then attended the police academy at Delta College.

In his 21 years with the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, he has served in nearly every capacity the office has, including marine deputy, corrections officer, road patrol deputy, undercover officer and various command officer positions, including undersheriff.

If elected, it wouldn't be Vondra's first time serving in an elected office. He previously served for 12 years on the Boyne City City Commission; two years of that time he was the city's mayor.

He also noted he has coached a wide array of youth athletic teams

Sheriff Don Schneider retiring in December

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider announced Monday, he is not seeking re-election and will retire at the end of this term in December after serving the citizens of Charlevoix County for more than 35 years.

Schneider

Schneider's career at the Sheriff's Office began in October 1981 as a deputy sheriff. In January 1986, he was promoted to sergeant and January in 1997 was appointed undersheriff by former Sheriff George T. Lasater. Schneider served in that position for more than 12 years until Lasater retired. Schneider ran for sheriff in 2008 and was elected for two terms.

In a news release, Schneider said he is "both humbled and honored to have been placed in the trust of the good citizens of Charlevoix County over his long career."

In the release, Schneider added that he is "placing his full support and endorsement of Undersheriff Chuck Vondra to assume the honored position of sheriff in the coming election."

Vondra has been his appointed undersheriff for the past two terms.

"(Vondra) has done an exemplary job which has prepared him to be the best candidate for county sheriff, without question," Schneider said.

Vondra said Monday he is planning to run for the office and was waiting to file his paperwork until Schneider made his public announcement.

Three students from Charlevoix Middle School were local winners in the 47th the annual America & Me Essay Contest that encourages Michigan eighth grade students to write about their American heroes, especially the people who have made a big difference in the students' personal lives. Elisabeth Petrosky (middle), first, Megan Scholten (right), second and Sean Bradley, third all received award certificates for their achievement. Petrosky's essay will advance to the state level competition from which the top 10 essays in Michigan will be selected. This year's topic of the essay contest was "My Personal Michigan Hero." From left are Bradley, Petrosky and Scholten.

COMPILED BY LONNIE ALLEN

Editors Note: The year is 1914 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

Chicken pie and a new postmaster in Charlevoix were two articles that ran along the top of page one in the Charlevoix Courier on March 11, 1914. The headline At Chicken Pie and Danced was about the an evening in Ironton where that local chapter the Ironton Knights of Pythias entertained the Charlevoix Knights of Pythias at their lodge with a dinner and dance. "It was the best time ever," reported the Courier after hearing from Charlevoix Knights of Pythias members. "During the afternoon and evening nearly 60 members left this city in various kinds of conveyances over the ice road on Pine Lake. Upon their arrival they found everything in readiness for the evening entertainment at the grange hall. The supper was beyond all expectations. Chicken pie, mashed potatoes and flaky biscuits that fairly melted in your mouth, salads of all kinds and many other delicious edibles helped fill up and many masculine members ate until their wives became alarmed and insisted they leave the table. After the supper cigars were passed out and one Ironton member passed out apples," the Courier reported. At the evening end Ironton was given three cheers and an invitation was extended for Ironton members and wives to come to Charlevoix at a near date when the compliment would be returned.

Funican Lands Post Office Job was the other headline where smaller headlines claimed the man was among the last to be named by President Woodrow Wilson. Thomas G Funican, a graduate of Charlevoix High School, became the new postmaster of Charlevoix in March of 1914. "The selection of Charlevoix's new postmaster has met with general approval of his friends, although it was a surprise to the older members of the party," the Courier reported. Funican graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1906 and later spent a year in Ann Arbor where he took a course in pharmacy. Later he spent six months in Big Rapids at the Ferris Institute following the same course of study. "He was granted his pharmaceutical papers in November 1911, and for the past two years he has been employed at the Central Drug Store. He is well known and holds the respect of the community," the Courier reported. Funican began his duties as postmaster toward the end of March 1914.

Cloe Heise at the Poetry Out Loud competition in Lansing

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

Charlevoix High School ninth grader Cloe Heise loves her English class in general and poetry in particular.

Heise, daughter of Maclyn (Robert) Kelly, of Boyne City, and father, Jeff Heise, of Charlevoix, was one of the 34 hopeful contestants from around the state to take part in the state poetry competition in Lansing on March 4.

"Poetry Out Loud," is a program of the National Endowment for the Arts and Poetry Foundation and the annual competition is an event hosted by the Michigan Humanities Council and Michigan Council for the Arts. Cloe competed and won in the school's competition this past January, against 18 Charlevoix students grades 9-11. Her win qualified her to represent Charlevoix at the state level.

In preparation for the trip to Lansing last week, Cloe practiced in front of her family, friends and classmates and according to her English teacher Jill Barnum, "Cloe put in many hours at lunch time perfecting her delivery."

Although she wasn't a top winner, Cloe feels that the experience was well worth the practice.

"I feel that I came out of it with a lot more confidence in myself and a better understanding of the writing of poetry," Cloe said. "I have an uncle who has written and published a book of poetry. I also talked to Vladimir Barnevelli, a Charlevoix student who won the competition for the last two years. He told me, 'Be confident in your poem. Make sure you have it down.'"

The competition required the recitation of two poems out of the three that participants chose from a library of possible choices and were to be prepared to recite, in the first round. Cloe chose "Learning to Live in America" by Shirley Geok-Lin Lim and "Peace of the Wild Things" by Wendell Berry.

The Michigan State Poetry Out Loud Champion for 2016 was Lyndon DeFoe of University High School Academy in Southfield, Michigan, reciting "Bones of My Father" by Etheridge Knight. He received a $100 cash award, a $500 stipend for his school and an all-expenses paid trip to compete in the national competition in Washington, D.C. in May.

Expenses for students traveling more than 100 miles to Lansing were paid by the state Poetry Out Loud organization. Barnum's husband, Nick, also a Charlevoix Middle-High School English teacher, organized Charlevoix's participation in the Poetry Out Loud Program which is in its third year to date. The Barnums, Cloe's parents and her grandmother, Jane Stoner, of Alanson accompanied her to Lansing to cheer her on.

"It was a cool experience to see how Cloe handled herself among all her fellow competitors," Jill Barnum said. "Cloe was easily in the top half of her competitors."

BOYNE CITY — It's been 11 years since the concept of the Boyne City to Charlevoix non-motorized trail was first discussed.

Following a series of delays that postponed construction for the last several years, work began on the trail's first phase Tuesday.

"It was March 3 when they brought equipment in," said Charlevoix County parks department director Ross Maxwell. "Today was the first day they began breaking trail."

Charlevoix County and Boyne City officials were in attendance, as well as Department of Natural Resources field officers, engineers and other staff members at Youngs State Park, near Boyne City.

Charlevoix County Commissioner George Lasater said he's happy to see the trail finally come to fruition.

"I was a sheriff for more than 30 years and there were two bicycle fatalities on the road. I know the trail will help with safety," he said.

Maxwell said the first phase is about 3.2 miles long. It starts on Michigan Avenue in Boyne City, Max-and goes through Young State Park. It continues into the woods for about 5,000 feet and ends at North Springwater Beach Road, Maxwell added.

"It's very exciting (to see the construction on the trail starting)," Maxwell said. "There's been so many ups and downs. It's a roller coaster ride."

One of the first phases is built, the other four should fall right into line, Maxwell said. Phase one of the project is slated to be finished in the end of July this year.

"Before long we'll have it finished long and we'll be a designated trail town," Maxwell said. "People will come from all over the world to ride our trails."

Official: water treatment error posed no public health risk

CHARLEVOIX — City officials are informing their water customers of an error in the water publication process at the Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant on Wednesday, Feb. 10.

Charlevoix received a violation notice from the Michigan Department of Environmental Quality about the amount of alum used during the drinking water purification process.

Heydiauff

public health risk and the issue was resolved the next day, said Charlevoix City Manager Mark Heydiauff.

"At no time did Charlevoix provide a water supply that was unsafe or that put city customers at risk," Heydiauff said.

"The delivery of drinking water that meets all health and safety standards is an absolute priority for the city."

Part of the process for treating water before it is distributed as drinking water includes the addition of a chemical coagulant — alum — that binds with impurities in the water so that these impurities settle out and are removed from the supply.

Charlevoix residents recently received notices in the mail via customer water bills explaining the error in accordance with the Safe Drinking Water Act. The city also went above notification requirements by placing a public notice in the Charlevoix Courier, Heydiauff said.

"As another form of transparency we took this step to inform the public who use our water and do not get a bill from us," Heydiauff said.

Since the incident, the city has taken necessary steps to correct the issue and are updating current practices at the water treatment facility to help prevent future incidents in the water treatment process.

"We have identified the problem as a miscommunication between Water Treatment Plant employees and are doing some additional training to make sure all operators are following the Standards of Procedure at the plant," Heydiauff said. "We are implementing new documentation procedures to ensure we have a good system in place to monitor changes in feed levels during treatment."

MDC Contracting awarded infrastructure contract

LOUISE ALLAN
(231) 547-6558 - lallan@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — After two years of extremely cold winters and months of planning, the Charlevoix City Council has approved the construction contract for fixing the "worst of the worst" water mains in the city.

"We have been in the planning and engineering stages of this project for months," said Pat Elliott, Department of Public Works superintendent. "We opened bids last week and we are ready for council to approve the bids."

City council voted 5-0 to approve MDC Contracting LLC, of Charlevoix for infrastructure project. MDC's contract was $2.75 million, which is slightly lower than engineers projected Elliott said. The project also includes sewer upgrades, curb and gutter and sidewalks.

Work is expected to begin in the spring of 2016 on Wood Street, Green Street and St. Mary's Drive. This work is scheduled to be complete by the end of June. Work will begin during the summer on the 200 block of East Upright Street and Alice Street from Belvedere to Garfield avenues.

"We normally do not do construction during this part of the summer because of the festivals, but these streets are ones that will have the least impact on that type of traffic," Elliott said. "The contract also states to keep streets open during Venetian Festival."

The final phase of the project will include Burns Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues, Nichols Street from East Dixon to Petoskey avenues and State Street, which will only be a water main upgrade from Garfield to Lincoln avenues. This work will begin after Venetian Festival and wrap up before winter, Elliott said.

In January and February of this year, Camp Daggett hosted two of the most successful Bearcub Outfitters Torchlight Snowshoe Outings in the 15-year history of the event. In January, more than 600 snowshoers came to Camp Daggett, enjoyed the beautiful trails by torchlight, and then warmed up by the fire in the lodge with hot cocoa and cookies. More than 20 volunteers supported the event, and contributions to Camp Daggett exceeded $1,600. In February, 368 snowshoers attended with contributions topping $1,053. Camp Daggett sincerely thanks everyone who attended the events, enjoyed the hospitality of camp and generously donated money. Thanks also goes to Mother Nature for providing us with two beautiful evenings and great snow.

The biggest thanks, however, goes to Bearcub Outfitters who has sponsored this event for 15 years. They have provided the guidance, financial support, free snowshoe rental, raffle prizes and the willing hands to make this event the great success that it is today. Many thanks to B. J. Shawn and Becky Philipp-Kranig and their wonderful staff for another great year of snowshoeing at Camp Daggett. They are the embodiment of our motto—The Other Fellow First.

Sunshine is important now more than ever

The following is a guest commentary by Joe Warner, President, Michigan Press Association

As we face one of the worst government-created problems in Michigan's history, the Flint water crisis, and hear stories of legislators using state dollars to cover up their sordid behavior, the need for more openness in government is stronger than ever.

The Freedom of Information Act in Michigan begins with the following: it is the public policy of this state that all persons, except those persons incarcerated in state or local correctional facilities, are entitled to full and complete information regarding the affairs of government and the official acts of those who represent them as public officials and public employees, consistent with this act. The people shall be informed so that they may fully participate in the democratic process. The last sentence of this statement is vitally important. We've made some progress over the last several years. The last session of our legislature passed a law to improve the process of FOIA by lowering costs and demanding time lines be adhered to or there would be consequences. But as events have unfolded in the last year, it's become evident we have a long way to go. Michigan is one of only two states that completely exempt the governor's office from FOIA.

We are one of a handful that exempt the legislature. It's time to make a change. The citizens of Michigan should have access to information about every level of government.

In a study by the Center for Public Integrity and Global Integrity toward the end of last year, Michigan ranked last nationally in ethics and transparency laws and safeguards. In part because of our weak public records law and an absence of laws requiring personal financial disclosures by lawmakers and top state officials.

The Michigan Press Association is hoping to change that ranking. We feel amendments to current law would remove the veil of secrecy in our legislature and the governor's office and would be a big improvement.

We expect to see a proposal soon and hope Michigan's citizens will urge support from our lawmakers and governor. Sunshine Week, March 13 to 19, celebrates the public's right to know. We can do much better. We ask you to join us and encourage our government to see the advantages of transparency and the importance of checks and balances.

The advent of the summer blockbuster movie began with "Jaws" in 1976. It played at the local cinema for weeks. But things got really bad two years later when "Grease" arrived. That film played so long that no other movies were available for viewing the whole summer. Finally, Cinema III, then on the east 200 block of Bridge Street, began to be picketed by protesters to cease and desist, but the musical was still packing them in night after lucrative night. So week after unending week those who wanted to see something, anything, else just had to grin and hardly bear it.

'High stakes'

In these somewhat uncertain times, it seems as though almost everything we set out to accomplish is somehow associated with the terms "high stakes". High stakes testing for our students, high stakes evaluations for our staff, and the many high stakes that our families encounter each day.

As educators we know how important our state assessments are and we take them very seriously. We also know that each assessment we give our students is merely a snapshot academically of their individual progress. It is the

MIKE'S MESSAGE
Mike Ritter

ment we give. Charlevoix Public Schools will certainly continue to look at our district, state, and classroom assessments for day-to-day work each week that really makes the difference, and if done in the right fashion, will certainly result in growth regardless of the type of assess-growth, as we also look at the incremental improvement that our teachers witness each day. There is nothing better than when you see the proverbial light go on in a child's eye when they fully understand or grasp a new concept. I continue to recommend that daily preparation is the best approach to our high stakes assessments.

In the past few years, our teachers in Michigan have been in the spotlight, and some might say, under the microscope. The expectations for showing growth in our profession are higher than ever. Teachers are expected to show adequate growth in their instructional practices, student growth measures, and professionalism. The evaluation tool that our district uses is rigorous and the stakes are certainly different than they were in the past. I have always held the belief that people thrive when there are appropriately high expectations, opportunities for professional development, and adequate support to improve their teaching practices. Important for you to know, we have a very talented staff and I encourage our teachers to make what I call "Incremental progress" in our instructional practices. A few strong and focused goals are far more beneficial than a bunch of small ones.

As a father, and husband, it's not hard to say that families face higher amounts of stress. In preparation for writing this article, I found multiple sources suggesting that families are facing more stress than ever. It is important for our children to not be part of all of the conversations regarding stress in our homes and I need a reminder of this sometimes myself. While I don't have great words for advice regarding solutions to all of the stressors families encounter, I can share that the time you have with your children at home will go quickly and cherish that time, even when they argue about who is going to take out the garbage.

While I don't think that the term "high stakes" is going away anytime in the near future, our response to the term can make all the difference. When approaching our state assessments this spring, evaluations at the end of the year, and other life stressors, you will be prepared knowing that you have done the work.

Charlevoix Pool to host annual Aqua Egg Hunt

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Community Pool announced the upcoming annual Aqua Egg Hunt for Sunday, March 20, at the pool. The seasonal fun lets swimmers dive for eggs and trade them in at the end of their hunt for goody bags.

Participants may register for one of three waves. The first wave is from 11 a.m.-noon, the second will run from noon-1 p.m. and the final wave will be from 1-2 p.m. There is a limit of 50 people per wave.

Cost is $5 for preregistered swimmers and $6 at the door. The last two events sold out, so interested parties are encouraged to reserve their spot. Popcorn and refreshments are included. There also will be a drawing for a special prize.

For reservations, call (231) 547-0982 or email info@charlevoixpool.org.

The Charlevoix Area Community Pool is a 501 (C)(3) non-profit organization. The mission of the pool is to provide a wide range of aquatic programs promoting health, fitness, recreation and water safety. The organization strives to be the best aquatic fitness and recreation resource in the community. For more information, visit charlevoixpool.org.

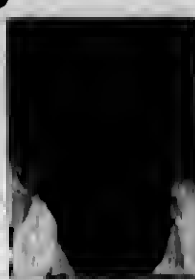

Zonta's Literary Delights to feature Michigan writers

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club will host its annual Literary Delights, a Michigan women authors' luncheon, from 11 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday, May 14, at Charlevoix Public Library. Tickets for the event are $40 per person, and include an elegant lunch, silent auction, and gift basket raffle drawings.

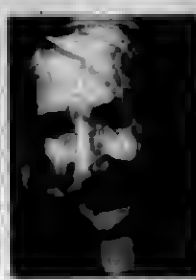

Speaking at the event will be Christine Elizabeth Johnson and Mary Agria, two notable Michigan women authors. Copies of their books will be available for purchase and signing.

Christine Elizabeth Johnson, a Northern Michigan native and is an award-winning author for Reveil (Baker Publishing Group) and Love Inspired Historical (Harlequin Romance). Johnson's books take place in time periods ranging from 1850 to the Roaring Twenties, and many are set in Michigan. She credits a Zonta Club scholarship for providing her with a solid foundation in business that allowed her to pursue her dreams.

Mary Agria spent her early career as a journalist and non-fiction writer in the field of rural development and work force issues. In retirement, Agria began writing a series of novels that deal with community building and the issues facing older Americans, including finding meaning in one's senior years, resolving parent-child relationships and facing the ultimate realities of change and loss that are part of the human experience. Agria writes a monthly gardening column for the Petoskey News-Review, and is co-author — with her husband, Dr. John Agria — of the non-fiction work Images of "America: Bay View."

All proceeds from Zonta's Literary Delights go to directly support projects which advance the status of women locally, nationally, and internationally, including Zonta's Sights of Success event—a free, day-long program offered to middle school girls to build teamwork, self-esteem and confidence.

Reservations for the event are required. To purchase a ticket for the event, call Kathleen Paterka at (231) 547-2548, or contact any Zonta Club member.

Officials caution vacationers to avoid certain destinations

Spring break is the time of year when many Michigan residents choose to travel and make memories with their friends, families, or loved ones. Unfortunately, this year, many of the foreign destinations favored by sun-seekers also are those areas that are affected by the Zika virus. Because of the potential link between Zika and birth defects, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan is urging pregnant women in any trimester to reconsider travel to those areas. Additionally, anyone traveling to an affected area should take precautions against mosquito bites.

The Zika virus is spread primarily by the bite of an infected Aedes species mosquito. The disease has not been found in mosquitoes in the United States, but has been found in Puerto Rico, Mexico and much of Central and South America. The virus can also be spread sexually from infected men.

The CDC recommends using mosquito repellents that contain DEET or other approved repellents. Use only as directed, and reapply often. Dress in long, loose, and light-colored clothing while outside, especially during the day. The mosquito that spreads Zika is most active during the daytime. Travelers visiting an affected area can further protect themselves by choosing lodging with air conditioning or screens, and by trying to avoid mosquito-infested areas like dense forests and stagnant water.

Most people who get the virus will never experience any symptoms. The most common symptoms of Zika are mild and may include a fever, rash, joint pain, and itchy eyes. These symptoms usually last just a few days. Currently, no vaccine or treatment is available for the Zika virus.

For more information, visit cdc.gov/zika or nwhealth.org.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet, and Otsego counties.

Popular breakfast cafe a morning place for friends for some, for others just a place to start the day among good friends.

Open for breakfast and lunch seven days a week even through the winter months, this little restaurant in the corner of Oleson's Plaza on Bridge Street, is a meeting place for fellowship and swapping stories for this group. There are other patrons, of course, but the regulars in the winter come for coffee, breakfast and fellowship almost daily, according to owner, Elizabeth Rich. Long time employee, Mary Kelly who waits on the guys, attests to the fact that the coffee group likes to joke around with each other. The stories will probably revolve around old snowmobile experiences that took place in Michigan's Upper Peninsula. There is always a lot of laughter and one-up-man-ship, all in good fun, of course.

"Mary takes her share of joviality in stride from the group as she waits on the tables," Rich said. "They love her."

Rich also hosts the Charlevoix basketball team on many Friday's at a reduced cost. It's a tradition she started when her own kids played Charlevoix sports.

For all patrons, the Harbor View Cafe, is a place of consistently good breakfast and lunch fare. During the summer season it's hard to find a table. The Harbor View Cafe has a reputation for favorites like the restaurants most popular entree, "two of everything," two eggs, two strips of bacon, sausage, potatoes and toast for $8.99 or perhaps another favorite, "the Harbor Skillet," potatoes, onions, green peppers, sausage, bacon and cheddar cheese grilled together and topped with eggs for $7.99.

"The restaurant has been a good investment for us," Rich said. "We have been able to stay open all year-round, even in the winter months. Right now, it's the lunches that are carrying us through the winter. We serve breakfast until 2 p.m. every day but also have some great Reuben's, clubs and burgers. Rich's husband Dale also makes a memorable homemade chili every day to supplement the homemade soup selection.

"I know there a lot of good places to eat," she said. "But I tell my customers to just put us on their 'lunch rotation,' spread out the business."

Rich oversees the restaurant coming in for a bit every day and pitching in when needed, sometimes she is serving tables and working at the grill. But she has other enterprises as well as the cafe.

Rich and her husband, Dale, both graduated from Michigan Tech in the Upper Peninsula, he in electrical engineering and she, a math major. They lived in Chicago for seven years and then returned to Michigan in 1998. Dale landed a job at Medusa Cement — St. Marys — and in 2000, the couple made their first real estate investment. Elizabeth, always entrepreneurial, had taken a job with Charlevoix Properties, using all the experience she had gained in their own resettlement back in Charlevoix to help others find new homes. When she noticed the listing for the Villa Moderne Motel she took the first step in her life of business ventures.

"I'm a math major," she said. "I ran the numbers and figured it was possible.

It has been a wonderful investment ... and has the accommodations for a live in manager so we only have to oversee the operation, which works for us since our family lives out in Norwood."

They bought the former Oma's in 2004 and soon after took a customer survey to change the name to the Harbor View Cafe to make it their own. Like her father, Elizabeth is a salesperson. She realized this the day she stopped in Sears on M-66 to look for a new air conditioner for the motel. The Sears Corporation just happened to need a new owner for the store for their new concept of "hometown stores."

"It was a perfect opportunity for me," she said. "After I asked what it entailed and what were the incentives to buy, I made the decision to go ahead and do it."

The store has done well, up 50 percent in business from last year, according to Rich.

"It's an important store to still be in Charlevoix," she said. "I love selling there and am the main bookkeeper for the store."

Elizabeth Rich's day starts with coffee at the Harbor View Cafe and ends at the Sears store with a swing by the Villa Moderne motel somewhere in between. The Rich's have four young adult children, all in their 20's now. Their life has been a hectic and industrious one, but one they are proud of. Rich believes that all of the business ventures were successful because of their hard work.

"All our kids worked at the motel and cafe. It helped them earn money for college, and gave them a work ethic.

Annual Business Expo, Taste of Charlevoix next week

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce will host the annual Business Expo from 4-7 p.m. on Wednesday, March 16, at Castle Farms. The event also will include the Taste of Charlevoix, where area restaurants will showcase some of their signature dishes for the opportunity to win 2016 Best

In Taste title.

The Expo is one of the largest business and public trade show events in Charlevoix County. Now in its sixth year, the Expo is dedicated to serving our business community, visitors and residents. This one-day must attend event is for small business owners and executives who want to gain a competitive advantage, network with other business owners from throughout the area, and develop new business and client contacts.

The public also is welcome to come out and explore the 70 exhibits set up throughout the lower level of the Castle to identify the latest products and services to help save time and money. Anyone looking for a new dentist, insurance agent or auto mechanic, this is the opportunity to learn what local companies and organizations are available. There will be live demonstrations and free food to sample in conjunction with the Taste of Charlevoix.

Attendees also may purchase tickets for the Second Annual Chamber Basket Raffle. Winners will receive a basket of their choosing filled with a variety of exciting and unique items from area businesses. Baskets will be on display throughout the event for everyone to view. Proceeds from the raffle benefit the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce Scholarship Fund, which is awarded to a graduating High School Senior each year.

Admission is just $5 and includes 10 taste tickets, exciting give-a-ways, and more.

Crosshatch and Grain Train partner for micro loan program

BELLAIRE — Farmers and food entrepreneurs have a new way to boost their business, thanks to a new community micro loan program. Crosshatch Center for Art and Ecology and Grain Train Natural Foods Markets have teamed up to offer low-interest loans for farms and food related businesses in Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Farmers, agribusinesses, and food business entrepreneurs are invited to apply for this micro loan program aimed at enhancing the food and farming network in the Northwestern Lower Peninsula. Ideal candidates will propose an idea that would boost a farm or food business and elevate the region's local food system.

Applicants can apply for loans between $500 and $6,000. Loans will have a 2.5 percent interest rate with 18-month repayment terms. There is no application fee. Applicants using sustainable practices are strongly encouraged, but they are not a requirement.

Uses for the loan may include, but are not limited to: essential tools for the farm or food business, materials, land, livestock or infrastructure, certification costs, professional development expenses, value-added product production, marketing and distribution costs, and expenses related to processing and packaging of farm products.

"We at Crosshatch, along with the Grain Train, see a demand for more local food in the community and wanted to help farmers on the ground by getting tools in their hands and increasing their capacity to process or package," said Jen Schaap, food and farming programs coordinator for Crosshatch. "We're excited to see how these individual ideas will have a wider-reaching positive effect on the region's local food system."

Crosshatch and Grain Train hope that this program will continue and grow, providing more opportunity to strengthen the local economy and keeping Michigan focused on healthy, sustainable food for all.

The micro loan program begins March 1, and the deadline to apply is May 3. The loans will be distributed in June of 2016 and borrowers will be required to have three meetings with the loan administrators throughout the term to discuss how their project is evolving.

For more information and to apply for a loan, visit crosshatch.org/micro-loan/ or email Schaap@jen@crosshatch.org.

Health Department offering colorectal cancer screening

CHARLEVOIX - Colorectal cancer is the second leading cause of cancer death in the United States, but it doesn't have to be. This disease is highly preventable with regular screening. During March's Colorectal Cancer Awareness campaign, the Health Department of Northwest Michigan urges everyone 50 years of age and older to get screened.

While most health insurance plans cover the costs of colorectal screening, those without insurance or who have high deductibles may be hesitant about seeking care. In situations like these, the Health Department can help. The Health Department offers free colorectal cancer screenings year-round for eligible clients.

Joy Klooster coordinates the Colorectal Cancer

Screening Program at the Health Department and works directly with clients during the enrollment and screening process.

"If you're 50-64 years old and meet certain income requirements, you may be eligible to receive free colorectal screenings and preventative services through the Health Department," Klooster said.

Klooster explained that routine screening is important because colorectal cancer doesn't always cause symptoms, especially early on. When symptoms do appear, they may include blood in the stool, stomach pain or cramps and weight loss.

More than 90 percent of colorectal cancers occur in patients older than 50 years and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention advise regular screening for men and women age 50-75.

Many types of colorectal cancer screenings are available, including simple at-home tests like the Fecal Immunochemical Test. To determine the best screening option, individuals should discuss colorectal screening with their physicians or health care providers.

For more information about free colorectal screenings, call (800) 432-4121 or visit nwhealth.org.

The Health Department of Northwest Michigan is mandated by the Michigan Public Health Code to promote wellness, prevent disease, provide quality healthcare, address health problems of vulnerable populations, and protect the environment for the residents and visitors of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties.

Colorectal cancer is the third most common cancer among men and women.

Prevention and early detection for anyone 50 or older may save a life.

Maintaining a healthy weight, taking part in regular exercise, eating a well-balanced diet, and screenings are the first step.

If you are 50 or older or have a family history of colorectal cancer, ask your provider to schedule your colorectal cancer screening.

City attorney to review motion to reconsider procedure

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix City attorney will review the recording of the March 7 city council meeting to calm some residents' claims of the possibility of improper procedure during two votes by council members.

The motions being reviewed are the motion to reconsider and rescind the Charlevoix City Council's Feb. 15 motion to draft ballot language for a conservation easement. Council member Shane Cole, who was absent during that meeting, questioned the actions of council on Feb. 15 and did not agree with the motion.

"I am against this action and want constituents to know I am listening to them," Cole said.

Council members Bill Supernaw and Aaron Hagen changed their votes to support ballot language on an easement to follow Cole's lead on the issue.

Some city residents who attended the meeting on March 7 began questioning the procedures and then contacted the city. Resident Tony Duerr emailed the city with his concerns on the issue citing Roberts Rules of Order were not followed.

City manager Mark Heydlauff and city clerk Joyce Golding have reviewed the procedures and confirmed attorney

City manager Mark Heydlauff and city clerk Joyce Golding have reviewed the procedures and confirmed attorney Scott Howard will review the recording of Monday's meeting.

Scott Howard will review the recording of Monday's meeting.

"Our attorney will look into the matter," Heydlauff said.

Heydlauff also said council does follow Roberts Rules of Order, but also the city has its own procedures that vary slightly pertaining to this matter.

"What council did last night was follow the procedures according to their rules, which is what they are supposed to follow," Heydlauff said.

According to the procedures adopted by the Charlevoix City Council in 1996 in section No. 13K for council to reconsider a question that has once been decided, it shall be in order for any council member to move the reconsideration thereof; but no motion for the reconsideration of any vote shall be in order unless made on the same day the vote was taken, or at, but not later than, the next regular meeting of the council, nor shall the same questions, once having been passed, be reconsidered more than once. The council shall require the votes of the same majority of the council on a timely motion to reconsider an action as was required for its passage.

"This is the difference between Roberts rules and council rules is that distinction of timing and any council member to move for a reconsideration," Heydlauff said. "We will still have the attorney review this, but also to see if the rules and procedures could be written to make it crystal clear for everyone in the future."

Cole, who has been on council for the last eight years, also feels confident in his approach to revisit the easement vote at Monday's meeting.

"There is a difference Roberts rules and council rules," Cole said. "I did some checking to make sure this was a legitimate approach. It was my understanding I could do this and I think Joyce did a good job explaining it to council Monday."

Lake Michigan Beach will no longer be considered for conservancy easement protection after city council changed their minds on a Feb. 15 motion that city council passed unanimously. Council members reconsidered and rescinded the motion in a 3-2 vote during the regular meeting on March 7.

would like to not have staff go forward," Cole said.

After Cole raised that point, council member Bill Supernaw, who originally supported the ballot measure, quickly joined with Cole to criticize the council's last vote because of the same questions, which was also supported by council member Aaron Hagen. Council members Shirley Gibson and Leon Perron were the only two who defended council's unanimous decision on Feb. 15.

"We supported this so we could let the people make the final decision," Gibson said. "Let the people tell us yes or no."

Cole did not agree because he has been on council the previous years when an easement was brought to council.

"We have had this in front of (council) four times before," Cole said.

Previous Charlevoix city councils each determined that the people do not need to make a decision on this because it is already protected, according to Supernaw.

"What Shane has mentioned to me is (a conservation easement) has come up every couple of years, four times now I guess this has been brought to council," Supernaw said. "The people can petition us to vote on this. I am concerned about spending taxpayer dollars if we are going to vote it down anyway."

Gibson, who supports

"I do not know what you are afraid of by letting the people vote on this. Put it on the ballot and then we can end this."

Shirley Gibson, council member a ballot measure for the residents of Charlevoix to make the final decision, questioned the motives of Cole, Supernaw and Hagen.

"I do not know what you are afraid of by letting the people vote on this," Gibson said. "Put it on the ballot and then we can end this."

Cole and Supernaw argued that Mount McSaubia is protected, but second ward resident Tony Duerr said they are making an inaccurate statement, which confuses the constituency. The City Charter states the council shall not have the power to sell divide, lease, partition, plat or sub-divide or dispose of any city park or cemetery.

"I don't know if the beach or trails is considered a park, but even at that the only vote that takes place if you are going to sell, divide, lease, partition, plat or sub-divide or dispose," Duerr said. "You can build a giant gas-powered fire place out there and it wouldn't violate the (charter). You could take the timber off and it wouldn't violate anything. You can build a motorcycle racetrack out there and it wouldn't violate anything and wouldn't have to go to a vote of the people."

"When you say this has to go to the vote of the people anyway is not true," Duerr added.

Maureen Owens, a member of the Main Street promotions committee, tried to get the three council members to reconsider their push to move forward on ending staff direction on the easement. Owens commented that Cole, Hagen and Supernaw are hearing only from those against. Others who are for it are not calling because they expect to see ballot language to learn more about it, Owens said.

"I am concerned about this plan because the people came to the meeting when it was on the agenda and were able to express their opinions for and against," Owens said. "Supporters are under the understanding that they would at least see the wording on an (easement). For you to take that away without having anybody here to express their concerns isn't a good direction."

"We're going to continue to do the things we do and do well."

However, he said he would still work to keep the department current on trends both in crime and new ways to combat it.

Speaking of his time serving under Schneider, Vondra said, "It's been an honor and a privilege. He is truly a law enforcement man. It's a political position, but every decision he's made has been about what's right and wrong. He's truly a stand-up individual."

Rayders stun East Jordan, fall to St. Ignace in district final Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw (left) and the Rayder bench react to Natalia Nesburg's lead-taking basket with 30 seconds to play during Charlevoix's 36-32 win over host East Jordan in a district semifinal on Wednesday.

EAST JORDAN — In district basketball, it doesn't matter if you're scoreless for the game, or you haven't played all season.

All that matters is that when the moment comes, you're ready.

Charlevoix sophomores Natalie and Rachel Nesburg proved they were ready for the moment in the Rayders' 36-32 district final win over host East Jordan on Wednesday, each making a key shot down the stretch to help Charlevoix reach the district final for the third straight year.

Trailing 32-31 with 30 seconds left, Natalie Nesburg drained a 15-foot jumper, her first made shot of the game to put Charlevoix up by one late.

And after a free throw by teammate Kelsey Engstrom extended the lead to 34-32 for the Rayders, Rachel Nesburg, who missed the first 19 games of the season with a torn ACL, sealed the victory by hitting two free throws with 12 seconds left to make it a four point game.

"Natalie's biggest asset is her confidence, she's not afraid to fall and that's allowed her to get better throughout the year," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "She might not have scored in the game but she'd been playing tough and distributing the ball. That shot definitely wasn't too big for her."

Rachel, for someone who missed pretty much all of the season with an injury to step on the court and make clutch free throws like that tells you a lot about her character as well."

The Rayders got strong nights from Hannah Zipp, who finished with 12 points, and Beth Veenstra and Olivia Jeakle, who each added eight, but Charlevoix trailed most of the way, not taking their first lead until Zipp hit two free throws with 1:53 left in the game to put the Rayders up 31-30.

East Jordan's Michaela Mihal'kova made two free throws of her own at the other end to give the Red Devils a 32-31 lead with a minute and a AUBURN HILLS — When it comes to the crucible that is the individual wrestling state finals, nothing is guaranteed.

Not even past success at previous finals guarantees an easy road back to the podium, which makes Charlevoix junior Cam Alden's run to a second-straight eighth place finish and all-state honors that much more impressive.

Wrestling at 135 pounds, Alden took on four wrestlers rated higher than him in Division 4 by michigan-grappler.com in his bracket to fight his way to eighth place.

Alden, ranked 10th in the final poll, began his tournament on Thursday with a first period pin of 11th ranked Blake Armstrong of Kent City to advance to the tournament quarterfinal, where he faced a tough foe in fourth ranked Jonah Grimm of Mendon.

Against a state title contender, Alden came up just short, dropping a 6-5 decision that sent him into the consolation bracket.

Rayders come up short against rival Boyne City to end season in district opener

JAMES GENSTERBLUM

INDIAN RIVER — With their season on the line, the Charlevoix senior class showed determination against rival Boyne City in the first round of districts on Monday night at inland Lakes High School.

But in a battle between two of the hardest working teams in the area, a good effort wasn't enough to beat back the Ramblers, who took control of the game in the third quarter and held off a late Rayder rally for a 57-51 win.

In a fast-paced, physical matchup, the Ramblers built an edge by winning the lion's share of loose balls and rebounds and turning those into scoring opportunities at the other end.

"Any time it's Boyne City/Charlevoix, I don't think it's ever going to be a pretty game, and we have a lot of scrappy, athletic, tough kids who'll go after loose balls," Boyne City coach Nick Redman said. "Athleticism and sheer effort can go a long way, and I was really proud of how hard our kids worked and how much they seemed to want it tonight."

The crucial moment came in the third quarter, when a big run by the Ramblers turned a four point halftime lead into an 11-point advantage that proved to be decisive.

Seniors Derek Willis and Tanner Kruzel led Boyne City with big plays during that stretch, and finished with 17 and 15 points, respectively to lead the Ramblers on the night as well.

"One of the things we talked about was staying on the attack, and I thought we did a good job of looking for opportunities in transition and continuing to go to the rim," Redman said. "That made a big difference for us in the second half."

PETOSKEY — The Charlevoix Elementary/Middle School wrestling program put itself to the test this Saturday at Petoskey's big invitational, with impressive results.

The Rayders took home 10 first place finishes and had 13 other wrestlers reach the podium in a strong performance against tough competition.

Collin Jess, Austin Rayl, Brennan Munson, Carson Abbey, Cameron Moran, Benjamin Culver, Logan Wilks, Dmitri Bell-Chavez, Devarion Burke and Eric Staph all won titles for Charlevoix at Petoskey to lead the Rayders.

Jevon Welzein, Brady Jess, Andrew Howard and Desmond Burke all took second in their weight class, and Landon Swanson, Emmett Bergmann, Gage Noirox, Mason Cunningham, Ian Moran, Chad Caldwell, Sam Fry, JP Culver and Jamie Parrish took third place for the Rayders.

Charlevoix will host its own invitational on Saturday, Mar. 12 for its next competition.

half to go, but from there Charlevoix would seize control.

"It's not just tonight we've been battling, it's been all season as a young team without a lot of experience against a tough schedule," Shaw said. "It's been a bumpy road for all of us, but in spite of all the losses, the girls never stopped fighting and working to get better."

"That fight and that desire to work hard is what made tonight possible, and I'm so proud of them and glad they put it all together."

Mazzy Pepin scored 10 points to lead East Jordan and Kendall McNitt added eight as the Red Devils led for most of the game but struggled to get going offensively, leaving them vulnerable to the Rayders' late rally.

District Final: St. Ignace 65, Charlevoix 27

EAST JORDAN — Rome wasn't built in a day, and neither are title-winning basketball programs.

Charlevoix saw that firsthand as a young squad that's quietly improved all season ran into a St. Ignace team that's far further down the path to a championship than the Rayders in the district final on Friday at East Jordan.

The Saints, a team on the hunt for a Class C state title after winning the Class D championship last year, pulled away quickly, taking an 18-4 lead after the first quarter and leading 47-10 at half-time on the way to a 65-27 win and another district championship.

Four players scored in double digits for St. Ignace, led by senior Natalee Lee's 16 points.

"What we learned tonight is that we've still got a long way to go to get to the level that St. Ignace is on," Charlevoix coach Liz Shaw said. "That said, we made a lot of improvements this season and even tonight, and we've got the pieces in place to keep getting better."

"It's going to take a lot of work but I'm confident this program can get there if we continue doing what we've been doing."

Despite a more than 30 point deficit at the half, the Rayders fought off a running clock for several minutes in the third, and then went on a run in the fourth to cut the margin back under 40 points and keep it there until the end of the game.

"I'm proud of the way the girls fought tonight, but it's not a surprise because it's been that way all season," Shaw said. "It's easy to look at our schedule and just see losses, but in every one of those they were working hard to learn from their mistakes and keep improving."

"In life, there are going to be times where you're over-matched, and you have to find a way to make the best of it and get something out of it. That these girls already understand that is a testament to their character and who they are as people."

Natalee Nesburg scored seven points to lead the Rayders on the night, Alex Snabes and Kelsey Engstrom each chipped in five points and Hannah Zipp added four.

The loss marked the end of the Charlevoix careers of Engstrom, a four-year varsity player, and Zipp, who's played a major role each of the last two seasons.

"It's hard trying to think about what we're going to be like without them," Shaw said.

"The leadership they brought to this team on and off the court was stellar, and they did a great job of keeping everyone else from being discouraged and keeping this team focused during tough times."

"We wouldn't have been in position to play for a district title without them."

The Rayders (3-19) bring back 12 players from this year's team, however, including 11 sophomores and freshmen.

"With the (district semifinal) win over East Jordan (on Wednesday), these girls got a taste of what it feels like to win at this level," Shaw said. "I think that will fuel the fire a little bit, and how much work they're able to get done over the summer and how much they improve will make a big difference in what we can expect next season."

"It was tough on them this season as sophomores and freshmen playing against seniors, but now they're battle-tested and they know what's required to get it done."

Charlevoix stepped up the intensity in the fourth quarter, cutting Boyne City's lead to four with a minute to play thanks to nine final quarter points from Austin Putman, but ultimately couldn't close the gap.

"I thought our effort was good tonight, and our kids worked hard, but we needed great, not good, effort to keep pace with Boyne City," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said. "They just got to more loose balls than we did, and that meant we let some opportunities to create baskets in transition and change the momentum slip through their fingers."

"We got outworked on the boards and on the floor, and credit to Boyne City because our kids really did battle. We just didn't have quite enough in the end to get it done."

Putman finished his Charlevoix career with a 15 point effort, and fellow senior Walker Drost added 13.

Arvo Viitaharju chipped in seven and Kevin Pearl five for the Rayders, who fall to the Ramblers in the opening round of districts for the second straight season.

Charlevoix (10-11) loses six seniors off of this roster, including Putman, Drost, Viitaharju, Mason Louiselle, Forrest Noirot and Jordan Adkins.

"Austin and Walker in particular just dedicated themselves to getting better and worked hard every second, in practice and in games," Erskine said. "They did a great job of modeling for our younger guys the way you should play and prepare, and we're really going to miss that when they're gone."

"It's tough, because I really wanted them to go out with a district win as a reward for that effort, but it just didn't work out that way."

Charlevoix 75, Cheboygan 57

CHEBOYGAN — Austin Putman closed the regular season for the Rayders with his 10th double-double of the season in a win over Cheboygan on Thursday, March 3.

Putman scored 28 points and pulled down 12 rebounds, while teammate Kevin Pearl scored 21 points.

"It was nice, we haven't won in a while," Charlevoix coach Bret Erskine said, referring to the Rayders' back-to-back losses heading in.

"We had a great third quarter, we scored 21, they scored 14, which was nice. They really played hard tonight."

The Rayders led 36-32 at halftime, then used the big third and fourth to pull away with the win and finish the regular season with a 10-10 overall record.

For Cheboygan, Dominic Reese scored 21 points, while Logan Guenther added 17 points.

Facing off against ninth ranked Chuan Fluker of Vandercook Lake with all-state honors on the line, Alden came through with a tight 9-8 decision to secure his second straight place on the podium.

With all-state honors locked up, Alden advanced in the bracket with a chance to better his eighth place finish last year, but fell just short in a 2-1 decision to eighth ranked Terry Burns of Sand Creek and a 5-3 decision to seventh ranked Jayce Kuerhlein of St. Louis in the seven place match to finish eighth again.

Charlevoix teammates Mick Hinkle and Tyler McCallum also came close to securing all-state honors, but some bad luck in the draw forced them to face highly ranked opponents in crucial matches.

Hinkle, a senior ranked eighth at 189 pounds, had a tough first round draw against sixth ranked Ernie Diaz of St. Louis, but the Rayder senior managed to take Diaz to overtime before falling 4-2 in a nailbiter.

dropped third ranked Lucian Parish of Decatur into his path for the all-state decider.

Against a legitimate state title contender, McCallum put up his best fight but ended up losing by technical fall to Parish to finish one spot shy of all-state honors as well.

"I'm proud of all three wrestlers, they had a great season, and wrestled hard at the tournament," Charlevoix coach Mike Hinkle said. "We lost some very close matches where the boys showed they earned the right to be there."

For Charlevoix, Hinkle graduates with his head held high after a strong senior season, while Alden returns to gun for a third straight spot on the podium and McCallum looks to make good on his first all-state spot after coming up just short this season.

North Country Trail hikers set 100-mile centennial goal

KEVIN DUFFY
Capital News Service

LANSING — Joan Young of Spottville is a frequent hiker on the seven-state North Country National Scenic Trail. Soon, she'll have a special patch to show for it.

Young, who over the years has logged every one of the trail's 4,600 miles, is participating this year in a 100-mile hike challenge sponsored by the North Country Trail Association, headquartered in Lowell. The challenge marks the National Park Service's centennial and will reward those who complete it with a commemorative patch.

"I already have nine miles on the trail for 2016," Young said last month. "Ninety-one more to go."

The longest of 11 nationally designated scenic trails, North Country wanders from North Dakota to New York, following the Great Lakes through 12 national forests.

"The challenge is 100 miles for the 100 years of national parks," said Amelia Rhodes, communication coordinator for the association, a nonprofit partner of the National Park Service. "It's a way to celebrate an important anniversary and to prepare a new generation for the next 100 years of national parks."

In Michigan, the trail generally traces the southern shore of Lake Superior across the Upper Peninsula until it crosses the Mackinac Bridge. To hike the entire trail, that means timing the trip to hit the bridge on Labor Day, the only day it's open to walkers.

From the bridge, the trail winds down the western side of the Lower Peninsula, into the central lower part of the state, making its way to the Ohio border.

"The trail's true length is a challenge," Rhodes said. "It's linear without many loops, so we don't expect participants to necessarily hike 100 unique miles."

Instead, the Trail Association suggests multiple routes to complete the 100-mile hike challenge. Hikers can accumulate the 100 miles through as many routes over as many hikes as they please.

"It's open to our whole trail community," Rhodes said. "Whether someone hikes their favorite mile 100 times or a 20-mile section five times, it all counts toward this year's challenge."

Volunteers from more than 30 trail chapters will lead short, guided hikes for part of the challenge. The 12 Michigan chapters include ones based in Harbor Springs, Wakefield, Marquette and Traverse City.

Of the 2,600 people who signed up in January, two already sport the commemorative patch, completing their 100-mile hikes near Marquette and Marshall.

Carmen Laguardia of Marshall was the first to finish, completing her last stretch from Battle Creek to Marshall on Jan. 18 despite the -6 degree wind chill.

"I hiked 60 unique miles and 40 repeated, even with the cold," she said. "It was my goal to be the first finisher, especially because I'm a grandma."

Laguardia hikes four to 20 miles every day on and off the North Country Trail.

"Hiking provides a sense of clarity, a sense of peace," she said. "People don't often realize the woods, lakes or waterfalls that surround them."

Despite a slower start, Young is trying to follow in Laguardia's patch-earning footsteps.

She leads weekend hikes for the Spirit of the Woods Chapter in Manistee, which she founded in 1998.

"For day trips or longer backpacking trips, bring a local or living history book," she said. "Reading about the past through biographies helps me get to know the trail in depth."

Young used a spreadsheet to keep track of her miles while hiking the entire trail over 20 years.

"The spreadsheet became a puzzle, filling in new pieces on every hike," she said.

Like Young, the Trail Association suggests that hikers log each mile using anything from scratch paper to a GPS-enabled hiking app.

Geotagged snapshots from hikers' phones will be compiled into a story map to document what happened along the trail.

"We're interested in where participants hiked, in or across states," Rhodes said. "Any miles hiked are a great success, a step forward."

College night March 16

CHARLEVOIX — Students and parents will have an opportunity to explore a wide variety of higher education options at the annual Northern Michigan College Night from 6:30-8 p.m. on Wednesday, March 16. The free college fair will be hosted by Charlevoix Middle/High School, 5200 Marion Center Road, Charlevoix.

Designed for high school students and their families, College Night introduces students and their parents to representatives from approximately 50 post-secondary institutions.

Participants will receive important information about educational planning, gather literature, speak one-on-one with representatives from these institutions and visit displays from various colleges, universities, trade schools and the armed forces.

Township board seeking millage renewal Aug. 2

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Voters in Charlevoix Township will be asked to approve a millage renewal on the Aug. 2 ballot. Board members voted unanimously during a meeting on March 14 to place the two-mill operating millage renewal on the ballot. "It's the same operation millage that has been in place for years," said Chuck Center, township supervisor. Because the millage is a renewal, a yes vote would not increase taxes. "It will not result in any additional taxes, it is just to continue to provide the services that we already provide for the residents," Center said. "All we are asking for is the levy to be renewed so the township can continue operate as we normally do." The two-mill levy will allow the township to continue to collect a property tax of $2 on each $1,000 of net taxable property value.

Trustees also approved the spring cleanup contract with American Waste. The township will pay $45 per compacted yard, which was a little more than $6,000 in 2015. "It is a good price they give us," Center said. "The company does a good job and it is a service our residents like each CHARLEVOIX — The town will celebrate its assortment of eateries with the first-ever Charlevoix Restaurant Week next month. Charlevoix, long known for its summer resort life, is now home to more than a dozen dining options, ranging from full-service restaurants to specialty bakeries. The town will take advantage of the influx with Charlevoix Restaurant Week April 17-23. "The restaurants are really excited about participating in it," said Kate Heady, event coordinator. "We have confirmed 19 restaurants." From April 17-23, nearly all of the restaurants in Charlevoix will offer a variety of specials designed to draw in customers. Some are offering special dishes while others plan to drop prices to offer a full meal for a set price. "We have a variety of choices for

Robotics teams advance to competitions in Escanaba, TC

ARIELLE BREEN
(989) 732-1111 - abreen@gaylordheraldtimes.com

The Charlevoix High School robotics club and Gaylord High School robotics team competed with 38 other teams in the First Robotics Competition at Kettering University in Flint March 3-5. Teams head to the next district competition in the Escanaba Thursday. Tom Schultz, Charlevoix team coach, said his team did well in Flint.

"We ended up out of 40 teams, in fifth place," Schultz said. "Overall, we made a robot that was able to achieve most of the tasks that they had to do for the competition." Charlevoix and Gaylord worked together at Kettering after being paired in a chance alliance. Both teams will compete with about 40 teams in the Upper Peninsula in a stronghold castle styled obstacle course. Teams had six weeks to prepare a robot that can meet certain criteria and compete on the obstacle course. Bots need to be able to lift itself, shoot a volleyball-sized ball into a target and maneuver on and around obstacles. Gaylord High School Devil Bots advisor Michael Rinke said the team saw Kettering as a test run for Escanaba and wasn't disappointed. "We hope to do a lot better," Rinke said. "Because we pushed so hard we didn't have a lot of time to practice and work out the bugs in the robot so we get up there and figured out we had some major things to fix." Teams go through an unbagging period where robots are taken out of sealed bags and teams are allowed to make changes to the robots. "When we unbag them we can add (arms and attachments), we just can't add more than 30 pounds," Rinke said.

Message from the editor: Our move to Bridge Street

The Charlevoix Courier has bid adieu to its location at 112 Mason St. in downtown Charlevoix and relocated on Bridge Street across from Odmark Pavillon in East Park. The good thing is that we are not too far from where we were before, which served us well for many years. This move won't mean much to the average reader — nothing will change in terms of our service or coverage — but we thought it might be useful to share more about our move with the readers. We made the decision to move because this unique opportunity came up to collaborate in a space with Munson Healthcare Charlevoix Hospital. The collaboration we are talking about isn't shared services nor has the Charlevoix Courier become part of the hospital. The move simply gives us the opportunity to be on Bridge Street by sharing a space with the hospital. Each of us feels this new venture will enhance Charlevoix's beautiful downtown. Much of the details are still being hammered out, but we do know that the location is much better suited for us to be more visible and accessible to our community, and welcome visitors to Charlevoix. The location will allow us to share our newspaper and the specialty publications with more people, which will give us the opportunity to better promote the many happenings in our town and throughout the Northern Michigan region.

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier

Serious charges brought against Boyne City realtor

COMPILED BY LONNIE ALLEN

Editors Note: The year is 1914 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

One of the vilest crimes ever perpetrated upon the general public was attempted in Boyne City about a week ago, the Charlevoix Courier reported on this day in 1914. The headlines lead with "Offers Horse Meat for Beef," followed by "Joel Johnston, Real Estate Dealer, Convicted on Serious Charge," which was followed up with "Second Carcass in Barn." There also were two smaller headlines before the article began.

The article states a farmer named Galinsky, living near Petoskey, sold infected meat to a local dealer. "(Galinsky) brought five hogs to the city, which had died of cholera and the meat was in the stages of decay. They were brought to the city in the night while frozen and not detected until the following morning," according to the Courier. "The carcasses were immediately taken out and buried and the state food and dairy department notified." A Grand Rapids inspector, W. J. Mickel, came to Boyne City and after an inspection "swore a warrant for Galinsky." The Courier further reports that Galinsky had been arrested on a similar charge before and upon conviction will receive the full limit of the law. Mickel then "began a rigid inspection of all meat markets in Boyne City and compelled several of them to clean up and run their business strictly within the law," reported the Courier. It was while on this tour inspection Mickel learned of more meat crimes. He first was alerted about a man selling diseased and impure horse meat. "Joel Johnston, the well-known real estate dealer, who lives near East Jordan, was the man who made the attempt to sell the dead horse. He was placed under arrest and admitted that he was the guilty party," according to the article. Johnston was charged and received 90 days in county jail. Mickel remained in Boyne City for a time a made more arrest. The Courier reported that an Ed Leltz, of Horton Bay, also had tried to dispose of two-week old veal on the Saturday of the same week Johnston had sold the bad horsemeat, along with another man trying to dispose of a hide taken from a dead cow. The Charlevoix Courier ends the article as follows: "Residents of the city are at present on a fish and egg diet and the price of these commodities will probably soar beyond reach in a few days. If you are looking for trouble ask a Boyne Cityite which he prefers — beef or sausage."

Charlevoix student contends at 'Poetry Out Loud' competition

AMBER KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

Charlevoix High School ninth grader Chloe Heise loves her English class in general and poetry in particular.

Heise, daughter of Maclyn (Robert) Kelly, of Boyne City, and father, Jeff Heise, of Charlevoix, was one of the 34 hopeful contestants from around the state to take part in the state poetry competition in Lansing on March 4.

"Poetry Out Loud," is a program of the National Endowment for the Arts and Poetry Foundation and the annual competition is an event hosted by the Michigan Humanities Council and Michigan Council for the Arts. Chloe competed and won in the school's competition this past January, against 18 Charlevoix students grades 9-11. Her win qualified her to represent Charlevoix at the state level.

"In preparation for the trip to Lansing last week," said Jill Barnum, Heise's English teacher, "Chloe put in many hours at lunch time as well as at home with her family, polishing her delivery. It was a joy to see her growth and excitement throughout the entire process."

Although she wasn't a top winner, Heise feels that the experience was well worth the practice.

"I feel that I came out of it with a lot more confidence in myself and a better understanding of the writing of poetry," Heise said. "I have an uncle who has written and published a book of poetry."

"I also talked to Vladimir Barneveld, a Charlevoix student who won the competition for the last two years. He told me, 'Be confident in your poem. Make sure you have it down.'"

Participants chose selections from a library of possible choices and were to be prepared to recite three. For the first two rounds, Chloe chose "Learning to Love America" by Shirley Geok-Lin Lim and "Peace of the Wild Things" by Wendell Berry. Had she advanced to Round 3, she would have presented "Solitude" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

The Michigan State Poetry Out Loud Champion for 2016 was Lyndon DeFoe of University High School Academy in Southfield, reciting "Bones of My Father" by Etheridge Knight. He received a $100 cash award, a $500 stipend for his school and an all-expenses paid trip to compete in the national competition in Washington, D.C. in May.

Nick Barnum, Jill's husband, who is a Charlevoix Middle School English teacher, organized Charlevoix's participation in the Poetry Out Loud Program which is in its third year to date. The Barnums, Chloe's parents and her grandmother, Jane Stoner, of Alanson accompanied her to Lansing to cheer her on. Expenses for students traveling more than 100 miles to Lansing were paid by the state Poetry Out Loud organization.

"It was a great event," Barnum said. "Poetry Out Loud is a wonderful experience for all students... to share in poetic performance, bringing words to life on stage. Chloe easily finished in the top half of competitors and represented Charlevoix so well."

Charlevoix Elementary School second grade student Gannon Wood's swimming skills are assessed by Chelsea Biddick, Charlevoix Community Pool program coordinator. The Charlevoix County Community Foundation awarded a grant to offer swim lessons free of charge for local second and fifth grade students as part of the "ISwim Safe" program.

Grant to help pool provide swimming lessons

Charlevoix Area Community Pool officials say one of their most important goals is to have all area children know how to swim and be safe in the water, which is the focus of the pool's "ISwim Safe" program.

"Being able to swim here in Northern Michigan is especially critical given that we are surrounded by so many lakes," said Peggy DeNio, facilities manager.

In order to achieve this goal, pool officials began an initiative several years ago to provide school group swim lessons and water safety instruction for children enrolled in area schools such as Charlevoix, Petoskey, Beaver Island and more. The community pool caters the program to work for each school and age group and has renamed the initiative "ISwim Safe."

As this program continues to develop, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation awarded a grant to offer these lessons free of charge to second and fifth grade students at Charlevoix Elementary, Saint Mary Catholic School and Charlevoix Montessori Academy for the Arts. During the month of March, second grade students will be visiting the community pool for lessons each week, while fifth grade students will be visiting once for a two-hour training on water safety and boater's safety.

Through this grant opportunity, the pool officials also are evaluating and tracking the swim competencies of these students.

"It will be exciting to examine what skills the students come into the program with, and then the amount of impact the pool has had on their progress," said Carissa Mulianey, coordinator of marketing and development. "We also hope to learn how we can improve this program and our regular group lessons through this assessment."

Charlevoix Easter Egg Hunt, Sponsored by Charlevoix State Bank

CHARLEVOIX — Easter is only a week away and downtown Charlevoix will be hopping fun as families can shop, dine and enjoy watching the children hunt eggs during the Easter Eggstravaganza taking place on Saturday, March 26.

The day will begin with an Easter Bunny Luncheon from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant. Children may also have their picture taken with the Easter Bunny, compliments of Picture This. For reservations, call (231) 547-4311.

Charlevoix State Bank and the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce have teamed up to host the 24th annual Easter Egg Hunt at 2 p.m. in East

Park. The hunt will start promptly at 2 p.m., so be sure to bring that Easter basket to help carry as many of 3,500 prize filled eggs the kid's will enjoy hunting on Saturday. The event is free for children up to 10 years old. Age groups are 2 years old and under, 3-4 years, 5-6 years and 7-10 years.

East Park will also feature some extra fun this year in addition to the egg hunt, Charlevoix State Bank will offer face painting and balloon animals by Twister Joe. There also will be complimentary hot cocoa and cookies provided by Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant and Subway.

For more information, (231) 547-2101 or visit charlevoix.org.

Having your voice heard

The following is a guest commentary by Third Ward Charlevoix City Council member Shirley Gibson.

Participation in government is a privilege that all citizens share in a democracy.

Being involved in your community's local government is a form of service to others, and you can get involved in a variety of ways. One way is to speak during a public meeting.

Far too often those who do show up at the meetings are the same cast of characters week after week. It is good they are participating, but they do not represent everyone. Each week I receive calls from Charlevoix residents and regardless of their ward, resident status — full- or part-time — or if they live in the township, I will take their calls.

Each time I hear an impassioned reason to be for or against a city issue, I wonder why those same people do not do more to share that reason publicly or why there are not more letters in our local newspaper? Without your voice or letter expressing your view, there is little I or other council members can do on certain issues.

I have heard many people who are concerned

GUEST COLUMNIST

Shirley Gibson
Charlevoix's third ward representative about the future of Mount McSaub's shoreline, trails, and the shoreline of Lake Michigan Beach Park. This pristine place in nature is enjoyed by countless people. This beautiful open space, owned by you, deserves your attention.

Mount McSaub is a recreation area that was given to the people in 1956. Originally proposed for downhill skiing, our Mount McSaub does more than host skiers and snowboarders. It is a place used by skaters, hikers, bikers, day campers and even was the venue of a recent wedding.

So many generations have enjoyed this area — isn't that reason enough to have the people vote to determine its future? I think so.

There is disagreement on city council about how we should protect portions of Mount McSaub's Recreation Area and Lake Michigan Beach or if we should do anything at all. It was my goal to settle this question by allowing the people to vote to have the final say. It is the democratic way. The future of these two Charlevoix gems should never be determined by six city representatives.

Because council changed direction at the last meeting, there is hope a protection referendum, by the people, will come to the ballot this November without an extra cost to voters.

I know personally how risky and unpopular it seems to do the right thing and speak up, get involved, ask questions and vote. It is tough, but nothing can be accomplished without your voice being heard. Our democracy works when you are involved. When you call, write or speak to your elected officials, we are supposed to listen. Your participation matters because we all shape the city we live in.

March is National Reading Month

Look forward to this time each year — not just because spring is around the corner — but because March is National Reading Month.

It brings me great joy during this month to travel throughout the eight counties of the 37th Senate District to visit classrooms and read with schoolchildren. Indeed, witnessing students' interest and excitement in reading helps renew my own.

While reading is an activity that should be enjoyed year-round, we designate this month as a way to bring attention to the importance of reading and literacy in our lives. Reading opens our minds to imagination, new experiences and different points of view — and it unlocks a world of potential.

Literacy is perhaps the most fundamental skill necessary for a successful future. Students who are not proficient readers by the third grade have significantly diminished opportunities for success when they become adults. It is something that impacts all of us. For Michigan to reach its full potential, residents must first be able to reach their own.

That is why I have consistently worked to improve educational opportunities for Michigan students, from increasing K-12 school funding each year, to supporting early education programs and third grade reading initiatives, to more funding for online learning and at-risk students. I have also been a strong supporter of non-traditional education, including career and technical training programs. Ensuring Michiganders have access to a quality education is critical. Regardless of a child's educational and career goals, it is certain that reading is the key to achieving them. Developing an interest and love of reading starts at an early age, and parents, educators, and civic leaders all share in this responsibility.

I encourage you to invest in your children's futures and read with them, not just during this National Reading Month, but all year long.

As always, if you have any questions or need information, call (855) 347-8037 or email Sen-WSchmidt@senate.michigan.gov and my staff will be happy to assist you.

Bridging our past with our future

LOOKING BACK...

Short summer season sinks Star of Charlevoix business

In 1980, a new wrinkle was added to the Charlevoix summer scene, a cruise/dinner boat named Bay Queen. Here she is shown leaving the upper channel on her way into Lake Charlevoix. She was capable of holding 225 people. But after one year the Bay Queen was renamed the Star of Charlevoix to identify her with her base of operation. A slightly larger version replaced her in 1986 but lasted only one summer. 1987 saw no dinner cruise service. The Star returned and launched the 1988 season with a brand new 123-foot vessel, this incarnation was in the form of a flat-bottomed stern paddlewheel that looked like it belonged more on the Mississippi than on the area lakes, was 10 feet longer than the previous one. The Charlevoix Courier called this Star a "floating gourmet restaurant." Tuesdays were devoted to featuring locally produced and prepared edibles. Fashion shows were a Wednesday luncheon feature. Friday saw sampling luncheons sponsored by Chateau Grand Traverse vineyards north of Traverse City whose wines were starting to gain recognition. Sunday brunches featured a Dixieland band, and a string quartet from the Interlochen music academy performed during all dinner cruises. But the Star, enormously expensive to run over such a short season, lasted only one more summer. She stopped operating and Charlevoix was left without a dinner boat after the summer of 1989 came to an end.

Never too young to grieve

In the words of grief counselor Dr. Alan Wolfelt, children who are old enough to love are old enough to grieve.

If you have children, it's likely they will be exposed to the death of a loved one at some point during their childhood or teenage years. When it happens, you may wonder how to include them in the rituals of grief and mourning, or whether they should be expected to participate at all.

Generally speaking, the best advice is to make sure children understand what has happened, let them ask questions, and make up their own minds about being involved in the funeral, burial or even the planning process. Honesty is the best policy in explaining what the death means, why it's so sad for so many adults, and what the family will do to grieve the loss and commemorate the life of a loved one who has passed on.

When a close family member dies, adults may display extreme emotions never before seen by the children of the family. This can be more upsetting to them than the death itself. Pushing children away during this time, or attempting to shield them from our grief, may only make it more difficult for them to adjust to the death and the changes that result.

HOSPICE

Amy Wieland
Hospice of Northwest Michigan executive director

Giving children the opportunity to join you as you travel grief's journey may help them understand the value of life, and the impact of death on loved ones. It's okay for them to see your sadness. It's also okay for them to be frightened or upset, as long as they have a chance to ask questions and talk with you when they're ready.

If you're unsure of how to approach a child or teen about participating in a funeral, try simply inviting him or her to attend, and be prepared to support either choice. If the child had a close relationship with the deceased, then you might be able to help him or her find a special way to say goodbye as part of the funeral arrangements. Encourage them to write a few words or a poem that can be read — by the chaplain, or by themselves. Give them a way to share photos or drawings that are meaningful.

No child is too young to attend a funeral, but it helps to prepare children for what to expect if they do attend. Tell them who is likely to be there, what will be included in the service and — perhaps most importantly — why we have funerals in the first place. They may not fully understand the need to commemorate the life of a loved one, the value of coming together in mutual support and remembrance.

Hospice can help family members recognize the needs of grieving children and provide them with the resources they need. Choose a hospice that can help manage the grief recovery process for kids and teens.

Hospice of Northwest Michigan provides free grief and loss support for any type of trauma, for both children and adults. For more information, call (231) 547-7659 or visit hospicenwm.org.

40 years of service recognition for Bo Boss

City officials gather at Mount McSauba Recreation Area on March 4 to honor Bo Boss (second from left) for his long-time service to the facility. Boss was given a plaque commemorating his 40 years of service to Mount McSauba and his dedication to serving the children who use the facility. Pictured with Boss (from left) are: Charlevoix Parks and Recreation Director Tom Kirilovic, city council members Leon Perron and Shirley Gibson, city manager Mark Heydlauff, and city council member Shane Cole.

Booster event helps school programming

As the snow melts away and the fresh smell of grass begins to fill the air, Boyne City is gearing up for the sixth annual "Paint The Town Red." The event is conducted by the Boyne City Booster Foundation and each year the organization uses this event to collect money for activities, events and school gatherings throughout the year.

The Boyne City Booster Foundation's mission is to promote and enrich all school programs that encourage our students to attain the highest educational opportunities possible. The foundation wants to make a difference in our schools by having the resources to help stage and organizations who come to them with requests for funding. Other notable events thrown by the organization are The Holiday Craft Fair in December, Boyne City Public School Hall of Fame during Homecoming Week in October, and the Chicken Tailgate Dinner in October.

Paint The Town Red takes place at 6 p.m. on April 16 at Boyne Mountain Resort Clivics Center. It will feature a silent auction organized by Cindi Place, of Boyne City. Appetizer stations and cash bar also will be offered during this time. From 8 p.m. - midnight, guests will enjoy music from Northern Michigan's hottest new Motown/dance group "The Cookles". Tickets are available for $50 per person at Marc Patrick State Farm Insurance Company in Boyne City.

Local Parents Michelle Seelye and Corey LaTourneau had some very positive and fun experiences attending Paint The Town Red Fundraiser. Seelye, the mother of three daughters currently in Boyne City Public Schools said, "The reason we attend is to support our children's school system and all the programs the Boosters provide money to. It's also great food and fun!"

LaTourneau is the step-mother to several former Boyne City Public School students and she adds, "It gave us a reason, as Northern Michigan parents and grown adults a great reason to go out, dress up, and spend money on something worth it while doing so. We went and felt good about going because the money went to the kids we want to support."

If you're looking to spend the night on the town with that special someone in your life without any kids head down to Marc Patrick State Farm Insurance and get your ticket now before time runs out.

Editors note: Alexis Weaver is a community columnist from the Boyne City area. She is a 16-year-old Boyne City High School student and each month she will share with readers different happenings from the area she lives. Teen brings pageantry to Northern Michigan

Special to Charlevoix Courier

Ashley Cetnarowski, the reigning Sunburst Miss Michigan Teen, has been working with local officials to bring a pageant to the area for girls to compete in for the past year.

The East Jordan native won the title of Sunburst Miss MI Teen in 2015 and made it one of her reign goals to bring a pageant to Northern Michigan because of the lack of local competitions.

Cetnarowski's goal is now complete as girls will have the opportunity to compete this Saturday, March 20, at the Grand Traverse Mall in Traverse City. The event starts at 1 p.m. with no pre-registration required and contestants able to enter the day of the pageant. This "local preliminary" event is the first step to getting involved in Sunburst pageants.

The competition taking place Saturday includes babies (both boys and girls 3 years and younger) and females up to 27-years-old. Those that are given the title of finalist at the event will then receive a paid $250 entry fee to attend the state competition. State competitions are held during the months of April and May.

"I have been involved in pageants since Miss Michigan Teen USA 2015, which took place in September 2014. Ever since, I have fallen in love with the atmosphere of pageantry," Cetnarowski said.

Sunburst pageants have been around since 1978 with contests and contestants featured on television on the Discovery and Travel channels. In order to register, one must be at the pageant at least one hour before it begins or register online at sunburstbeauty.com. Those thinking of entering into the contest also will find more information on its website regarding titles, what to wear, and other important competition facts. The cost to enter is $45 and can either be paid online or at time of registration.

For those looking to get their start, Cetnarowski noted that "Sunburst is great for beginners."

Charlevoix Pool to offer 4th annual Aqua Egg Hunt

SEAN MILLER
smiller4@petoskeynews.com

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Area Community Pool will host its fourth annual Aqua Egg Hunt this coming Sunday, on March 20.

During the egg hunt, participants will be able to swim in the pool while looking for eggs. Kids are allowed to collect as many eggs as they can.

Due to the popularity of the event, there will be three waves in which children can participate in. The first wave is from 11 a.m. - noon, the second will run from noon - 1 p.m. and the final wave will be from 1 - 2 p.m. There is a limit of 50 people per wave.

Once the wave is over, kids may trade in their collected eggs for goodie bags and treats. In total, the wave will last about an hour.

"After they've collected their eggs, they can trade them in for different goodie bags. There will also be popcorn and refreshments they can help themselves to," said Carlissa Mullaney, coordinator of marketing and development at the Charlevoix Area Community Pool.

The last two events sold out, so interested parties are encouraged to reserve their spot.

"During the last few family events we've done, we have gone over our capacity so we are urging people to register. To register they can call the pool and let us know what wave they are interested and how many kids they have with them," Mullaney said.

Cost is $5 for preregistered swimmers and $6 at the door. Parents with kids who need help swimming may help them for free.

On top of all of the festivities at the event, one lucky winner will also receive a one-month family pass to the pool.

For reservations, call (231) 547-0982 or email info@charlevoixpool.org. Follow Sean Miller on Twitter at @seanmillerpnr.

Local author speaks on BioPolitics

CHARLEVOIX — Local author Jim Lahde will talk about his book BioPolitics: Why We Can't Get Along on at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, March 22 at the Charlevoix Public Library in its Community Room.

BioPolitics examines the concepts of bias and conflict from the earliest histories to the present day. Biopolitics is known as an intersectional field between biology and politics. As we enter this election year, with so much polarization of opinions, this book seeks to explain how bias has affected current events and politics.

Jim Lahde is a retired educator and environmental consultant to land developers and city planning commissions and lives in Charlevoix. He received a bachelors and masters degrees from Northern Michigan University in Biology; a specialist degree in conservation and a Ph.D in science education from the University of Michigan.

The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St., in Charlevoix.

For more information, call (231) 237-7340.

OBITUARY

Jack C. Grubaugh, 84, passed away Wednesday, March 9, 2016, following a long illness, surrounded by his family at his home in Flushing.

Jack Curtis Grubaugh was born Sept. 25, 1931, to Donald and Mildred Grubaugh of St. Johns. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1950 with his high school sweetheart, Joane E. Grubaugh.

Jack and Joane married a year later on July 24, 1951, and resided in Charlevoix for more than 50 years until they moved to Nokomis, Ill., in September 2001. They then moved back to Michigan in 2007, residing in Flushing since that time. The family can be contacted at 7073 Kings Way, Flushing, MI 48433.

Jack, a sergeant in the United States Air Force, was a Korean War veteran, honorably discharged in November 1953 serving in both Korea and Japan. Upon his return from the service, he began a successful career in manufacturing accounting and plant management. He spent more than 17 years with Freedman Aircraft Engineering Corp., Charlevoix (Harbor Industries), and 20 years with Michigan Maple Block, Petoskey, retiring in 1994 as plant manager.

Jack is survived by his wife of 64 years, Joane; daughters, Pamela Grubaugh and Diane (Ronald) Chapman; son, Gregory (Jacqueline); granddaughter, Melissa (Bryan) Jarema; grandson, Corey (Michelle) Knapp; and great-grandchildren, Grant and Claire Jarema. He loved them all dearly.

Jack was on the board of directors of the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix, Charlevoix Area Hospital, First Congregational Church and Charlevoix United Way. He also served as City of Charlevoix 3rd Ward Councilman. In addition, he supported manufacturing in Northern Michigan as a board member of the Northwest Michigan Industrial Association and the Michigan Association of Timbermen.

He was a past member of the Charlevoix Masonic Lodge, Scottish Rite, Northwest Shrine Club, Order of Eastern Star, the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club, and a charter member of the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Jack and Joane spent many years enjoying their boating trips and also drove many miles around the U.S. in their motor home.

Jack was preceded in death by his parents and his sister, Ervadene Walker.

In lieu of flowers, contributions may be made to Hospice of Northwest Michigan, 220 W. Garfield Ave., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

A graveside service in Charlevoix will be announced in the late spring. Arrangements provided by Sharp Funeral Homes, 8138 Millier Road, Swartz Creek.

Tributes may be posted on the obituaries page of www.sharpfuneralhomes.com.

Community forum announced for Ellsworth-Atwood strategic planning process

There will be an Ellsworth-Atwood community forum at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, March 23, at Banks Township Hall, 6520 Center Street, Ellsworth. The meeting is part of a jointly-undertaken, action-focused strategic planning process called "Designing and Achieving Our Potential" and will serve to inform the planning committee of the community's vision for the future.

This interactive workshop offers an opportunity to share your priorities for future development of the community as well as your expertise on the methods of accomplishing them which have the greatest chance of success. All citizens and stakeholders are encouraged to attend. Robust, representative planning is a critical component of smooth, fruitful implementation.

A light supper will be served. More information about the project can be found at www.ellisworth-atwood.org, and questions are always welcome at lynn_spearing@yahoo.com.

Have I been had? How to spot quackery, avoid fraudulent health products.

JANE HART
Michigan State University Extension

All of us have seen the ads — on television, the internet, and even through the mail — about how to lose weight, to feel younger, to look younger, to grow more hair or to have more energy. These products offer a quick cure for just about anything. But are they the real deal or could they be harmful?

Despite information of all kinds being easily available, quackery is still alive and well. "Doctors" and "Nutritionists" abound when an opportunity to make money presents itself. Remember that you don't have to have an accredited degree to write a book or hand out a pamphlet. This type of material can offer false information and unproven health claims. Just because these alternative "cures" have a flashy marketing campaign doesn't mean that they couldn't end up doing you real harm.

Before diving in and purchasing any product, ask yourself if it seems too good to be true. If you answer "yes" then it probably is. Check out these tips to help recognize a fraud or fraudulent product:

- If a quick cure is offered.
- If they have a "magic formula" or "secret ingredient."
- If they belittle recognized treatment.
- If they discourage you talking to your own doctor.

— If they rely on testimonials instead of research data.

— If they claim multiple health benefits.

If you can't find out what is in the product you are going to use or consume, or if you don't know what it even is, how do you know it is good for your particular health problem? If you are taking prescribed medications, it is especially important to know the details of a product or involved in a treatment, as dangerous interactions may occur.

So what can you do before spending your money on something you are unsure about? There are resources you can use to check the information you have been given. The Better Business Bureau, Consumers Union, National Council against Health Fraud, and the American Council on Science & Health all can help you find information on a company before you purchase. Most importantly, Michigan State University Extension recommends that you always contact your primary physician and/or pharmacist to check if the "magic supplement" will interact with any medications you are already taking. Your physical safety may be at risk by taking a tonic; don't take supplements lightly.

Everyone is looking for a quick cure, but eating safe and healthy foods every day, and staying active are proven to be effective. Think before you act.

Police reminding motorists to make good choices

During the upcoming Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over campaign, police agencies will be reminding motorists to do the right thing when they get behind the wheel because even one wrong choice can ruin many lives.

Law enforcement officers from police departments, sheriff's offices and the Michigan State Police throughout the state are conducting extra patrols to arrest drunk drivers March 16-April 4. This period includes the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) men's and women's basketball tournaments, many high school and college spring break periods and St. Patrick's Day.

The 2016 Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over effort is coordinated by the Michigan Office of Highway Safety Planning and supported by federal traffic safety funds.

"We're encouraging motorists to make good choices and always put safety first," said Michael L. Prince, the department's director. "There are many excellent options available to help you get home after celebrating. It makes sense to call a taxi, have a designated driver or spend the night at a friend's house. Just don't get behind the wheel."

In 2015, 2,182 people in Michigan were arrested for drunk driving during the NCAA tournament period. Of those, 672 were charged under the state's high blood-alcohol content law with blood alcohol contents of .17 or higher.

In Michigan, it is illegal to drive with a blood alcohol content of .08 or higher, although motorists can be arrested at any blood alcohol content level if an officer believes they are impaired. Motorists face enhanced penalties if arrested for a first-time drunk driving offense with a .17 blood alcohol content or higher.

"Driving while drunk is always a bad decision," said Prince. "Putting additional officers on the road helps to stop impaired drivers before they harm themselves and others."

Grant-funded drunk driving enforcement is part of Michigan's Strategic Highway Safety Plan signed by Gov. Rick Snyder in 2013.

Local bar keeps historic vibes

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Libations, tradition and good vibrations are the reasons this one local establishment has been the watering hole of the townies for many years. "Old school ambiance," "No bells or whistles, just the way we like it," "Best Bloody Mary I've ever had." These are comments made from visitors to the Town House Bar on Bridge Street.

Historically, the building is the former Charlevoix County State Bank Building, but has been a tavern-bar dating back to the 1800s, or as long as anyone can remember, according to owner Ron Weislik.

"Frank Ochs gave me a postcard showing the building in 1879 when it was a general store that also had beer," Weislik said.

Weislik was born and raised in that Detroit suburb. His parents, Sylvester and Helen Weislik, moved to Charlevoix from Detroit and bought the business in July 1962. His dad, who worked at a purchasing agency for outdoor advertising (billboards), wanted to get out of the city and found Charlevoix as a place to start over in a new venture. His mom, Helen, who had run a bowling and bar business in Hamtramck called The Paladium from 1955 to 1960, found her niche here.

"My mom ran the Town House business for 40 years," Weislik said. "It wasn't a job for her, it was a social event. She didn't believe in taking sick days and worked seven days a week, only taking off Christmas."

"She dispensed alcohol plus a lot of advice to her patrons," he added. "We had the first color TV and the first air conditioner of any business in town."

Weislik attended Troy College of Business and served in the U.S. Navy before working at the Town House. At first he was part-time, but then his dad put him to work full-time, side-by-side with Helen. When his mom passed, in 2001, Weislik, whose dad had previously passed in 1982, assumed ownership of the business.

"My mother was the matriarch of this business. It took four or five to take her place when she died," Weislik said. "This place has meant everything to me because it meant so much to her."

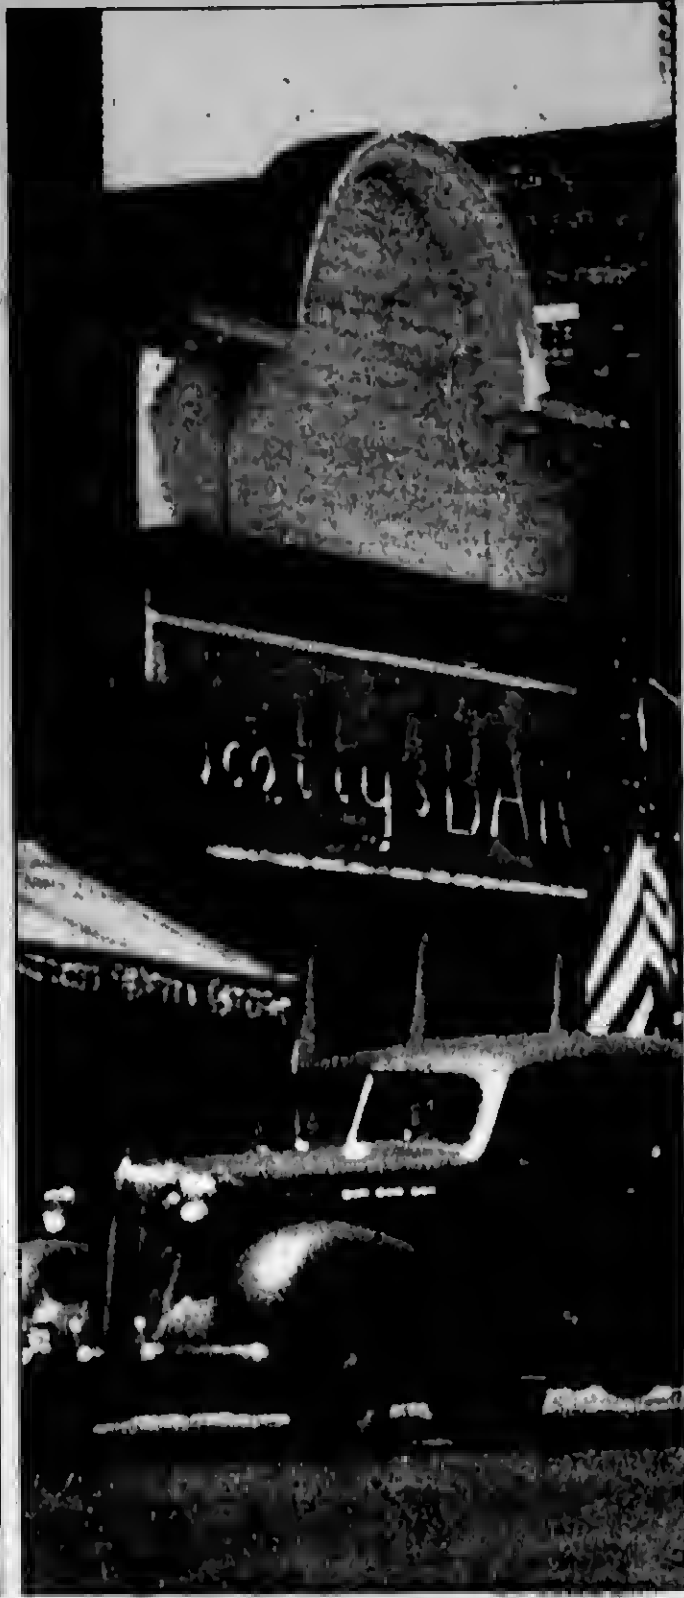

In 1987, he remodeled the interior, and extended the footprint out 5 feet onto the sidewalk.

"One important improvement are the windows," according to Weislik's wife Carol. "Back in the day, they were very small. People weren't comfortable being seen in a bar."

Times have changed and the bar scene is part of the social landscape. Carol, a former Glen's employee, prefers to stay in the background of the operation. The couple have a home on M-66 but also maintain living quarters upstairs. The Town House does not serve food, but has partnered with local pizza places (the former Village Inn Pizza) who would send over orders for patrons to enjoy with their beverages. Weislik is entertaining the idea of doing this again. There is always popcorn, however, occasionally hot dogs, and coffee is served daily from 9-11 a.m.

Long before the the building on 231 Bridge Street became a spot to grab an alcoholic beverage it was the location of Charlevoix Saving Bank.

"There is an average of about 20 people who stop in to talk over local and current events, but we try to keep politics to a minimum," he said.

"We are open year-round until 2 a.m. We try to keep it just the same as when it was 'Helen's' — as regulars called it. Her spirit is still here."

The location of the Townhouse Bar was at one time called Jimmy Bracken's Bar.

American House hosting Easter egg hunt

American House in Charlevoix will once again offer the popular annual Easter egg hunt for children 8 years old and younger at 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 26, at 615 Petoskey Ave., in Charlevoix.

The Easter bunny will hop by on his way to deliver more eggs and goodies, so parents should be certain to bring their cameras in the hopes of snatching a quick photo with the great long-eared one (that's Peter Cottontail, not Bugs Bunny) with the children.

Organizers hope that those attending will RSVP by Thursday, March 24. But this is only a request in order to get an idea of how many children might attend the egg hunt. For more information, call (231) 237-5572.

Charlevoix Girl Scouts give back

Charlevoix Girl Scout Troop No. 10253 continued to make community service a priority during their scout year. For five consecutive years, the girls donated food for Thanksgiving dinners to the food pantry and did Christmas caroling at Boulder Park. In addition, this year, at their annual overnight/all-night event, the girls helped assemble and package more than 1,200 dental kits for the community in association with the Health Department of Northwest Michigan.

Girl Scout officials said girls in kindergarten through 12th grade can join Girl Scouting at any time during the year and that the organization is a great way for girls to build courage, confidence, life skills and make lifelong friendships. For more information contact Charity Wynkoop at charitywynkoop@gmail.com or call Maura Snabes at (231) 547-9969.

Butterfly expert speaks to Charlevoix Garden Club

Cyndie Bobler-Roach, founder and co-owner of the G.T. Butterfly House and Bug Zoo, in Williamsburg, was the keynote speaker during a monthly program of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club on Tuesday, March 8, in the Community Room at the Charlevoix Public Library. As a trained zoologist, Bobler-Roach spoke about the point where animals meet plants: pollination.

The three most common pollinating creatures, she said, are bees, butterflies and bats. Illustrating various species of bees, she reassured those who worry about attacks from the pollinators. Bobler-Roach offered ideas to encourage populations of beneficial bugs such as providing a small fountain or source of fresh water in the garden. She also urged planting of native plants such as wild strawberry, blue lobelia, yellow giant hyssop, and nectar-rich trees or shrubs like black cherry, wild plum and sumac. These, she said, will attract and support pollinators which are necessary to productive life-cycles.

Bobler-Roach also spoke about the danger in systemic chemicals marketed to reduce pests in garden stock. Neonicotinoids appear to affect all life-forms, not just the agri-destructive pests, she said. They have been linked to colony collapse disorder in bees and with the increase of human neurological disorders such as autism, she said. She also related her own experience of losing butterflies who ate from the neo-nicotinoid-laced ornamental plants in her zoo. Although hailed as a labor-saving and crop-saving agricultural improvement, neo-nicotinoids also threaten beneficial populations, she said.

The G.T. Butterfly House and Bug Zoo works with a nonprofit foundation to help offset bus expenses for school groups who want to visit the G.T. Butterfly House and Bug Zoo.

Maurice Peter Kraemer, Jr. is Veteran of the Month

COURTESY PHOTO

Maurice Kraemer, Jr. was the third East Jordan soldier lost in Vietnam and the Veteran of the Month.

The Veteran of the Month for March 2016 is Maurice Peter Kraemer, Jr.

Born on Jan. 3, 1949, Kraemer grew up and attended school in East Jordan. In October of 1968, Kraemer was inducted into the Armed Forces receiving basic and advanced individual training at Fort Polk, La. While home on leave, Kraemer married Mary LaCroix on April 1, 1969. On April 13, 1969, Kraemer was sent to the Republic of Vietnam assigned to Company D, second battalion, 12th Infantry Regiment, 25th Infantry Division serving as a radio operator.

On Aug. 31, 1969, Kraemer was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for heroism in action while engaged in military operations against hostile forces. On July 27, 1969, during a ground reconnaissance operation, his unit came under intense enemy fire. Kraemer returned devastating fire on the insurgent's position, which contributed to the success of the mission. On Sept. 11, 1969, Kraemer was awarded the Air Medal for Meritorious Achievement while participating in an Aerial Flight from May 5 - July 25, 1969, and flew more than 25 aerial missions over hostile territory in support of combat operations. Kraemer also was awarded the National Defense Service Medal; the Vietnam Service Medal with One Bronze Service

Bar; the Vietnam Campaign Medal; the Combat Infantryman's Badge; Expert Badge with the BAR Rifle; Marksmen's Badge with the Automatic Rifle and Machine Gun; and the Good Conduct Medal. On Oct. 10, 1969, while on a reconnaissance patrol in the Hau Nghia Province, a hostile mine was detonated killing Kraemer instantly and wounding several others. Kraemer was posthumously awarded his second Bronze Star for heroism in ground combat, a Bronze Star with Oak Leaf Cluster for meritorious achievement in ground operations against hostile forces from April 13, 1969 - Oct. 10, 1969, the Purple Heart Medal and was promoted to the rank of corporal. The news was devastating to his wife, family and friends back home. Kraemer was the third soldier from East Jordan to be killed during the Vietnam War. Kraemer's company commander stated, "Throughout his assignment to this Company, I had observed Maurice to be an exemplary soldier. His integrity and devotion to duty earned him the respect of all with whom he came in contact."

On Oct. 10, 1969, Maurice Peter Kraemer, Jr. answered the final call and is being honored by his wife, Cathi, siblings Judy, Chuck, Cathi, Carol, Jerry, Steve, Tim, Cris, Lori, Bill and their families.

Charlevoix Township curbside cleanup dates are May 23 and May 24. American Waste will service the north side of the township on May 23 and finish with the south side on May 24.

Some acceptable items include old or broken couches, chairs, lamps, dressers, humidifiers, toasters, mattresses and toys.

"It's a nice service that we have had in place for nearly 30 years," said Theda Williams, township treasurer.

Household hazardous waste cannot be disposed of during this period. This includes products such as motor oil, antifreeze, turpentine, furniture stripper, household pesticides, drain and oven cleaners and items like swimming pool chemicals. No electronics equipment will be collected on this day.

everyone's palate," Heady said.

She said the idea of Charlevoix Restaurant Week was first suggested at a Main Street committee meeting. Heady worked with Main Street director Annie Doyle and Charlevoix Conventions and Visitors Bureau director Amanda Wilkin to bring the idea to fruition. Heady has been meeting with local eateries for the last three weeks and the restaurants have quickly got behind the concept. The event will set for late April to give area residents something to look forward to after during the slower tourism months.

"During our summer months a lot of tourists are here and we often overlook our residents," Heady said. "We wanted to show appreciation to the locals with a great dining experience."

It's hoped that in addition to drawing Charlevoix residents, the week of dining deals will also attract new patrons to the town's restaurants from the surrounding communities. Heady is hoping it will build exposure.

"We are a dining destination," she said.

Brian Freund of That French Place, which is known for its specialty ice cream and crepes, says he's thrilled that the new event will showcase the town's eateries.

"Anything this time of year that can bring attention to the restaurants is going to be helpful," he said. "We love the idea of trying different foods and showcasing our own specialties. We hope this event will help bring more people through the doors."

Restaurant Week specials at the town's dining establishments are still being planned. According to Wells, some menus have been presented to her and she expects visitors to be pleased with the options.

"They'll feel like they're getting a value," she said.

Heady said that if the event goes well, Charlevoix Restaurant Week will become an annual tradition and will likely become facilitated by Charlevoix Main Street program.

"I am facilitating the event and doing the leg work this year because of planning and time restraints," Heady said. "It is a community collaboration and we're excited to bring this event to Charlevoix."

To see participating restaurants, look up Charlevoix Restaurant Week on Facebook or visit charlevoixmainstreet.org.

ROBOTICS

Schultz said the competitions aren't about being cut-throat and winning-centric.

A few years ago his team won a Gracious Professionalism Award after some of his team members helped another team that didn't have enough participants.

"You think about the kids in schools who get recognition for things. It's typically your athletes and your academic scholars and I have both on my team," Schultz said. "But what's really great about what we do in robotics and going to a robotics competition is kids get recognized for their creativity, hard work (and) helping other teams."

The scores at Escanaba will determine ranking for state competitions.

"(The team is) still pumped. We still have high hopes at this point. We had high hopes going in, maybe a little too high for the last competition but this time we're pretty optimistic on our chances," Rinke said. "If we make it we'll go to states."

Gaylord robotics students said they hope to advance to the state

First Robotics Championship April 13-16 in Grand Rapids followed by world championships April 27-30 in St. Louis, Mo.

Schultz said the Charlevoix robot costed more than $3,000 in parts but teams also have mentors who devote time and expertise into the bots, obstacle course prototype and with learning students. He said the group's top contributors include mentors and local donations from Strand Constructors, Nu Core Inc. and National Marine.

"Some of my mentors (range) from people that work in construction to a professor from Michigan Tech," Schultz said. "As a coach it's a privilege to be a part of the experience of... helping guide kids to maybe a future career path that they didn't know exists."

Michigan has more than 4,000 robotics teams competing across the state and on the FIRST Robotics website it lists the competition as the only varsity sport where "every participant can turn pro."

Schultz said some students receive around $21,000 scholarships after being involved in robotics clubs on their way toward engineering or marketing careers.

Michigan's cougar controversy continues

LIAM TIERNEY
Capital News Service

LANSING — Everybody knows that there aren't any cougars in Michigan. These big cats were hunted to extinction in the state in the early 1900s and despite 34 recent sightings reported in the Upper Peninsula, it's safe to say that the cats aren't back to stay yet.

Right?

According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR), that's true. "They were found in most of Michigan at one time," said DNR wildlife management specialist Kevin Swanson. "In the early 1900s they were being extirpated. The last cougar harvested in Michigan was in Newberry in 1906."

Swanson said that the 34 confirmed sightings doesn't mean 34 separate animals. According to the DNR, 23 of these sightings were photos, eight were tracks, one was video and animal waste and the final two were carcasses. The most recent carcass, discovered in a snare Feb. 1 by conservation officers four miles north of Iron Mountain in Breckinridge Township in Dickinson County. The other was poached in 2013 by a hunter in Schoolcraft County.

The DNR says it plans to continue enforcing the legal protection that the cougars are given by the Michigan Endangered Species Act, which prohibits harming, capturing or harassing cougars.

Some people, however, have a bone to pick with the DNR about the status of the cougar in Michigan. One of these people is wildlife biologist Patrick Ruzs of the Michigan Wildlife Conservancy in Bath.

"In 2000 I was given $5,000 to go to the UP and disprove the rumor that there were cougars living there," Ruzs said. "I found one in two days."

Ruzs says that he believes that cougars have been in the state all along.

In 1907, one year after the DNR stated that the last cougar was harvested in Michigan, the Sault St. Marie Evening News reported on a cougar killed in a wolf trap in Chippewa County.

In 1948, R.H. Manville, a taxonomist, reported several sightings by "reliable people."

In 1966, Francis Opolka, a DNR officer, observed a cougar in Delta County. Plaster casts of the animal's tracks were verified by the University of Michigan as "that of a large cat."

In 1984, blood-covered bone fragments were recovered from a cougar shot in Menominee County. The sample was sent to Colorado State University, where it was determined to have a "positive identity to a mountain lion."

These instances were recorded in "Milestones of the History of Cougars in Michigan," a document by the Michigan Wildlife Conservancy. If reputable sources, and even DNR officers, continued seeing cougars, then why did the DNR continue to state that they were extinct in the state, even up to a February 2016 interview with the Great Lakes Echo?

Simply put, Ruzs believes the DNR denies the presence of the cougar in the state for selfish reasons.

In the 1960s, the Florida DNR discovered a population of panthers (cougars) living in the wetlands in the southern half of the state. The federal government gave it $50 million with which to buy land and educate the public to protect the animals, but the wetlands bought by the Florida agency began to restrict expansions on other projects such as airports.

When the Michigan DNR asked for a similar grant to investigate the cougars that people were still seeing in the state, the feds said no.

"The cougar went from being a potential cash cow to a financial albatross," Ruzs said.

From that point forward, Ruzs says, the DNR continued claiming that cougars were an extirpated species. Cougar sightings were debunked as escaped pets and the people who reported them became drunken Yoopers. It wasn't until the digital age, when many people started having camera phones and trail cameras to catch these animals in action, that the DNR changed its stance.

"The escaped pet theory wasn't gonna fly anymore. They needed a new excuse. That's when they started saying these animals were transients," Ruzs said. "The ability of the Internet to spread erroneous information is mind-blowing. I'm sure there are suits (officials) that believe this cougar nonsense but the higher ups are just maintaining the charade."

"Ask your readers this question. According to the DNR and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, there were no cougar sightings in 102 years. Not a single confirmation between 1906 and 2008. Since 2008 they've confirmed 34. They're telling you that the state was worked over so well by hunters and trappers that they killed every animal," Ruzs added. "Do you believe that?"

Registration open for spring technology classes

The Charlevoix Public Library schedule of spring technology classes includes the following opportunities to learn more about the variety of options associated in this field to participate in the classes:

— Cloud Computing will take place from 10:30 a.m.-noon, Thursday, March 17, and will introduce the most common cloud applications and help class participants learn to use them.

— Cutting the Cord: Cable Alternatives will take place 6:30-7:30 p.m., Tuesday, March 29. This class explains alternatives to cable television. This class will offer options for streaming television over the internet as an alternative to cable packages.

As the library offers more online and technology services, Your Library's Tech World will be offered at the library from 10:30 a.m.-noon on Friday, April 15 in the Coeling Computer Center. Learn what the library has to offer from free language lessons to 3D printing.

— Beginning Microsoft Excel will take place on April 12 and April 14, from 6-7:30 p.m. Participants will learn how to design a spreadsheet, enter text and numerical data, format the data, use formulas, and sort and filter information within the spreadsheet.

— Managing Digital Pictures class is from 10:30 a.m.-noon on Tuesday, April 19. This class will help participants learn how to organize, download, share, back-up, and upload pictures to online services to be printed.

— Windows 10 class will take place from 10:30 a.m.-noon on May 17 and 19. This class will teach how to navigate the Windows 10 desktop, how to personalize your computer, how to create and organize files and folders, backup important data, and perform necessary maintenance tasks.

— 3D printing Demonstrations will take place at 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, March 15 and 3:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 20, and Wednesday, May 11, in the Coeling Computer Center. This class will provide information on what 3D printers are, what they can do, what can be printed, and how to use them at the Charlevoix Public Library. Children under 13 should be accompanied by an adult and basic computer skills are required.

IN ORDER to be comfortable in any of the classes, participants are asked to know how to use a mouse, operate at least one basic software program and search the internet.

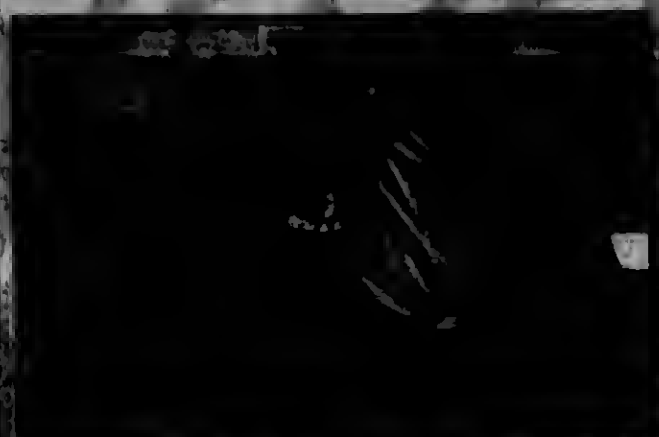

Register for all technology classes online at charlevoixlibrary.org/calendar or call (231) 237-7340.

Director of fun: Boyne's Fay earns kids master teacher award for third time

GRAB WICKLIFFE
(231) 439-9380
gwickliffe@petoskeynews.com

ORLANDO — When someone wins an award for the third time, it usually means they're doing something right.

That's the case for Mike Fay, the Director of Player Performance at the Boyne Golf Academy, who was named a Master Kids Teacher for the class of 2015 by U.S. Kid's Golf.

The award recognizes some of the world's most outstanding youth golf instructors, and a teacher becomes a master after they've been selected to the top 50 teachers list at least three times.

Only 125 people have earned the achievement, and this was the third consecutive year Fay earned the top 50 teacher's award, making him a master in the process.

The day before the Kid's Golf awards in Orlando, Fay spoke on a panel with professional golfer Annika Sorenstam giving tips on how to improve the game of golf.

"I'm truly honored to be recognized for what we do in our corner of the world," Fay said. "The support that I have at Boyne Mountain (Golf Academy) has been absolutely fantastic. Without them to support growing the game of golf and getting more kids involved in the game, this kind of stuff couldn't be possible. We just wanted kids to play more golf, so to be recognized worldwide like this is pretty neat."

Having the kids engaged is something that Fay knew needed to be done when he began his program in 2008.

"I recognized a few years ago that in order to make the kids better we had to change the way we coached," Fay said. "Gone are the days of standing on the range and hitting a bunch of shots in a row. Little kids need to be inspired and have play time in order to learn."

Fay works with kids from ages five up to 17, through programs that are game-based, which teach kids the game of golf in ways that keep them excited.

"My programs provide fun first," Fay said. "I pride myself in teaching the game of golf to little ones where they don't necessarily know they're learning the game because they're having so much fun. It's pretty cool to watch."

"We're not in a huge populated area, so I don't teach a thousand kids, but we're making a difference in kid's lives and that's what matters."

Fay runs a golf clinic every Saturday during the summer and he also hosts a tournament where the young golfers play for a chance to win the Boyne Mountain Junior Cup, which is awarded to the golfer that accumulates the most points during a four-tournament event.

In the winter, Fay runs the Golf in Schools program, where he travels to elementary schools around the area, helping kids improve indoors, while they wait for warmer weather.

"It's a blast, kids just love it," Fay said. "(We're) just trying to change the culture of Northern Michigan because we usually put the clubs away in October and pull them out in May."

"When I'm coaching someone, it usually takes from all summer to September when they start to see some really big results, and then it's over. We've got to change that in order to grow the game because golf is hard and we need to spend some time at it, and if we're only doing it five months out of the year, then it makes it difficult to get better."

Fay credited his wife Shelly, and his daughter Rachel for their never-ending support.

"Without them, none of this goes," Fay said. "Having an 8-year-old helps. We'll know what works and what doesn't because I can ask (Rachel) what's going to be fun today."

"For my wife, all of those nights that I worked so hard to give people the chance to play better golf and her knowing how important it is I do these things; her giving up that time for me is pretty special."

Fay said his success would also not be possible without the help of community endorsers and parents that golf with their children during the programs.

"Without parents playing the game of golf with the kids in these golf tournaments there's no way I could ever do things like this," Fay said. "They enjoy playing golf with their kids, it brings them together. It's one of those sports you can play forever. Being able to play with your child is pretty special."

The use of social media has also helped Fay. He has a website (mikefaygolf.com) and a Twitter account (@mikefaygolf) that not only helps him spread his brand, but also allows him to connect with other instructors around the globe. This year he'll be starting a video podcasts to further the education of golf.

"I'm just going to continue to do what I'm doing and continue to make players better," Fay said. "What we do right now is pretty cool. I am kind of the director of fun. We get out there and getting it going and it's a blast."

Ride with Olympic snowboarder Karly Shorr in upcoming Boyne Mountain event

BOYNE FALLS — A snowboarding career that began on the slopes of Boyne Mountain has led all the way to the Olympics for Milford native Karly Shorr.

Now Shorr is paying it forward with a chance for local snowboarders to hit the slopes with her on March 26 and 27.

Fresh off a second-place finish behind defending Olympic gold medalist Jamie Anderson at the U.S. Open Championships in Vail in February and from competing in the World Snowboard Championships in China this past week, Shorr is returning to Michigan and Boyne Mountain and hosting two three hour sessions on Saturday and Sunday, Mar. 26-27, with the first from 1-4 p.m. on Saturday and the second from 9 a.m. to noon on Sunday.

Each session includes a meet and greet, an hour and a half of riding, and an autograph and photo session. The event is free but spaces are limited, and interested readers are encouraged to go to boyne.com/boynemountain/events/march/ride-with-karly-weekend for more information on how to register for the event.

Those wanting to lodge at Boyne Mountain for the weekend can call 866-759-1472 and mention the code KSHORR for a discount as well.

Despite being only 21 years old, Shorr is already the most decorated female snowboarder from the Midwest in the history of the sport, having taken sixth overall in women's slopestyle at the Sochi Winter Olympic Games in 2014 and earning three runner-up finishes in elite international events since that competition. Shorr is the latest and brightest success in a long history of snowboarding skill in the Shorr family. Both brothers, Kyle and Kevin, were successful riders and now well-known coaches and competition judges, and her mother, Monique, ran USSA snowboarding competitions in Northern Michigan for a decade.

Shorr is currently training to make the 2018 U.S. Olympic team that will head to Pyeongchang, South Korea, and hopes to better her solid performance from 2014 and bring home an Olympic medal.

Rayder youth wrestlers put together strong showing in home invite

JAMES GEMSTERBLUM

CHARLEVOIX — There's something special about competing on your home floor.

It's even more special when you win at home.

Several Charlevoix Elementary/Middle School team wrestlers got to experience that feeling on Saturday as the Rayders had several wrestlers top the podium at its home invite.

Collin Jess, Ievon Welzein, Austin Rayl, Ian Moran, Benjamin Culver, Landon Swanson, Devarion Burke, Dmitri Bell-Chavez, Masen Gauthier and Eric Staph all took first place in their weight classes for Charlevoix at the meet, and Andrew Howard, Cameron Voorheis, Brady Jess, Logan Wilks, Carson Abbey, Sam Fry, Danal Munson, Hayden Prevost and Tamiah Sulz all took second.

Also making the podium with third place finishes for the Rayders were Brennan Munson, Emmett Bergmann, Jamie Parrish, Cameron Moran, John Paul Culver, Chad Cadwell, Ben Howard, Joe Scafield, and Aria Blackford.

The Rayders have one more week of competition before wrapping up their season heading into the spring.

Irish fun

Lonnie Allen
(231) 547-4558 - lallen@charlevoixcourier.com

If you're lucky enough to be Irish, then you're lucky enough. And during the middle of March, everyone is a little bit Irish.

With that in mind, there was more than enough Irish fun at the Castle as the Charlevoix Rotary Club celebrated its 7th annual St. Patrick's party fundraiser on March 5. More than 400 people attended the event at Castle Farms that featured dinner and drinks, a silent and live auction and dancing. The event was catered by Grey Gables Inn Restaurant. The event is the club's largest fundraiser of the year. Event proceeds support club's community service programs and according to Rotarian Dennis Halverson the event has grown each year and has become the spring social event of Charlevoix. "This event has exceeded our expectations from its original intent as a break-from-winter party," Halverson said. "The community has embraced the fun."

Residents question location of handicap-accessible playground

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — Construction on a new playground in Charlevoix could be delayed next month after two residents expressed concern about its location to members of the Charlevoix City Council during their regular meeting on March 21.

Bob Timms and Brenda Bryan each spoke during miscellaneous business to express dislike for the American Disabilities Act compliant (ADA) playground planned for Lake Michigan Beach Park.

"It is a nice park the way it is," Timms said. "People go there and

New transit dispatch system to launch soon

JORDAN SPENCE

(231) 439-9397 • jspence@petoskeynews.com

There has been one main goal for the dispatch system at Charlevoix County Transit; efficiency.

A new dispatch system will go live on Monday, March 28, said Jill Drury, who is manager of the Charlevoix County Transit Service. It's called Route Match and is a computerized, automated system.

Dispatchers will be able to see trips, timeframes and the computer can make any recommendations, if necessary.

"The new system will use GPS and mapping data to better schedule rides and will give recommendations," she said.

One advantage is now instead of handwritten manifests, drivers will have computerized tablets.

"If there was a same-day call the driver has to stop and figure out a way to fit those in their route,"

Recognizing maritime history St. Marys Challenger propeller, coast guard buoy given to city

LONNIE ALLEN
(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — A large propeller and buoy that have ties to Charlevoix will soon become a permanent fixture in the city.

The Charlevoix City Council accepted donations of the propeller (or screw) from the decommissioned St. Marys Challenger and buoy from the United States Coast Guard Acadia after recommendation came from the panning commission. The two items will be placed along the Pine River Channel near the Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Research Station.

"This could be a nice way to recognize the maritime history of Charlevoix," said councilmember Shirley Gibson.

The vessel's trade routes involved the movement of powdered cement from the cement plant in Charlevoix to plants in on Lake Michigan. In 2013, the St. Marys Challenger's final season saw her employed just as she had been, carrying cargo from the St. Marys Cement Co.'s elevator at Charlevoix, to ports such as South Chicago, Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Grand Haven.

In December, city council directed staff to conduct a public hearing and poll residents through Facebook about the propeller donation. The city received 79 responses that had 71 in favor of accepting it and eight opposing it. Sixty-nine people also approved of the location near the Pine River Channel, according to city manager Mark Heydlauff.

St. Marys also will pay for the initial cost to clean the propeller, transport and donate cement to place the propeller.

"The company has been very accommodating to help us place this propeller," Heydlauff said.

The propeller and buoy will include information that highlights the transportation of goods through the channel, Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix and Charlevoix's relationship with the U.S. Coast Guard.

"There is a natural connection between these items and Charlevoix's role with both navigation on the Great Lakes and its special connection with the

Ironton Ferry back on schedule

After it was damaged in a late-season car fire aboard the vessel last fall, the Ironton Ferry is on track to resume its normal schedule this year.

The ferry is scheduled to begin making runs across the Ironton Narrows Friday, April 15, said Charlevoix County Transportation Authority Chairman John Drury. The ferry needed repairs after a car caught fire while on board in October.

Drury said it needed deck plating replaced. There was also damage to the pilot house, where the captain operates the vessel.

"While it's laid out we're having other repairs we had scheduled to have done anyways," Drury said. "Everything is on schedule. The engine also had to be built, but this repair isn't causing a delay."

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier The fatal stove

COMPILED BY LONNIE ALLEN

Editors Note: The year is 1914 and the name of the newspaper is the Charlevoix Courier. "That was then" is a new feature by the Charlevoix Courier that will take news headlines from the front page of a past Charlevoix Courier to share with today's readers. To read full articles visit charlevoixlibrary.org/charlevoix-history and click on the yearbooks and newspapers tab.

Stoves were universal in the late 19th and early 20th century American household and workplace. As a result, they figure in plenty of horrifying news stories, for example:

"Accident May Cost Two Lives" was the headline in the Charlevoix Courier on this day in 1914. The following smaller headline read: "Explosion of Gasoline, thought to be Kerosene, cause of disaster."

The home of M. Hogelworth was destroyed by fire and his wife was burned badly after gasoline was poured mistakenly into a stove. According to the article one person died and another most likely will die from burns while the rest of the family also suffers from terrible burns. "The scene of a horrible affair was at the home of M. Hogelworth, two miles west of Ellsworth. From what can be learned Mrs. Hogelworth, Mrs. Defree and young child, and the young daughter of Mrs. Louie Dennis were in the home at the time of the accident," according to the article. "An attempt was made to start a fire in the kitchen stove. To make a quick blaze a member of the party poured gasoline on the fire taken from a can supposed to contain kerosene. An explosion took place and the whole room was a mass of flames." The Courier then reports that Mr. Hogelworth, who was outside when the explosion took place rushed to the house to find his wife's clothes afire as with each other member of the party. "With his bare hands he tore the burning garments from her, badly burning himself while doing so. The suffering ones were taken to homes of neighbors and medical assistance was called." It was a few days later when the young Dennis girl died from her burns and Mrs. Hogelworth's condition was critical with little hopes of recovery. The home, which was built the summer before was a total loss along with all the contents.

COLORECTAL CANCER

Knowledge Can Save Your Life

Colorectal cancer is the third most common cancer among men and women. Prevention and early detection for anyone 50 or older may save a life. Maintaining a healthy weight, taking part in regular exercise, eating a well-balanced diet, and screenings are the first step. If you are 50 or older or have a family history of colorectal cancer, ask your provider to schedule your colorectal cancer screening.

A new beat

TAYA WILKS

Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — For Levi Carson, music is more than just a beat — it's a passion.

Carson has been associated with music ever since he could remember. He was always the kid banging his pencils on the desk and his love for music led him to participate in the Charlevoix High School band.

"I was interested in band because I love music," Carson said.

Carson started out playing the trombone, but quickly changed his mind and learned that percussion was what he really wanted to play.

"In band I don't play just a specific instrument," he said. "I'm in percussion, so I play numerous different instruments."

Carson doesn't have a favorite song to play because he enjoys them all. Carson's mother, Mabel, loves to watch or listen to him play in band.

"It is amazing to me how much he has improved over the last few years," Mabel said.

Carson is currently playing in the school marching band, jazz band and the Community Reformed Church band.

"When he first started he could hardly lift the quads — tenor drums — now he can lift them and the drum major," Mabel said.

Everyone who is a part of the Charlevoix High School band hopes the program will grow throughout the years to come.

Thomas Harder, the high school band director, said he is proud of Carson.

"He is a dedicated and talented percussionist and has found the perfect blend of having fun while completing the job at a high level," Harder said.

Carson is specifically impressive in marching band, because of his ability to navigate the field.

"Levi learned his formations and music well enough that he could literally do the entire half-time show blindfolded," Harder said. "Levi is very quick at picking these movements up, and he can recall the angle, speed and step-size well enough to execute his entire show."

Carson's dedication to music and band has helped overall.

"The band is better because of his commitment to the program," Harder said.

Township adopts resolution

LOWME ALLEN

(231) 547-6558 • allen@charlevoixcourier.com

CHARLEVOIX — The number of Michigan communities calling for state officials to shut down Enbridge's 63-year-old Line 5 pipelines in the Straits of Mackinac increased to 25 on March 14.

Charlevoix Township passed the non-binding resolution unanimously. Jerry Puhl, a member from the environmental group WATCH — Water and Air Team Charlevoix — approached the township board about requesting an end to the nearly 23 million gallons of oil flowing through Line 5 in the Mackinac Straits, which University of Michigan experts have called the "worst possible place for an oil spill in the Great Lakes."

"The lakes are really important to us and our economy," said Anne Zukowski, of WATCH. "I think we can all agree an oil spill in Lake Michigan can be devastating to our drinking water, environment and tourism economy."

Township Supervisor Chuck Center said there are two distinct scenarios to consider with the pipeline going forward.

"One that it doesn't break and one that it does," Center said. "It is a 50/50 proposition and the 50 percent when it does break will be horrendous."

Enbridge has a history of oil spills from Line 5, which runs from Superior, Wisc., to Sarnia, Ont., and is responsible for 2010's million-gallon oil spill disaster into the Kalamazoo River.

"The Kalamazoo River ran through my whole farm," Center said referring to his former residence. "The pipeline leaked in my river and it was a mess."

A total of 25 communities and four tribes across the state have taken some sort of action requesting Gov. Rick Snyder and Attorney General Bill Schuette stop the flow of oil in the Straits of Mackinac.

"We are happy to see that Charlevoix Township leaders take this step to help bring our message to Lansing," said JoAnne Beemon, of WATCH.

Rick Beemon, of WATCH, said the pipeline is more at risk today because of its age and location in the Straits of Mackinac.

"We know when pipes age different spots weaken and this pipeline protections are lying on the lake bottom," he said. "Pipelines are rusted and these old pipelines won't last forever in those currents. We work very hard in this community to protect our shores and lakes and it is time for our leaders to shut it down."

Center said there was no reason to seek more information about the pipelines because Michigan communities have been hearing about it for months.

"We know the information and we know the Great Lakes play a vital part in our economy," Center said. "We don't want to risk any of that to the possibility of an oil spill."

Marketing program vital to local success

In this column a few months back, I wrote of the mission and purpose of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau (in case you missed it, you can find that information at visitcharlevoix.com/about). The general drive of the CVB is to promote Charlevoix for overnight tourism. We want to tell more people about this amazing place and that they should spend their family vacation, golf trip, destination wedding, color tour, girls weekend, etc. in our community. This is a great economic driver for our community, not only because when people visit our community for a vacation traffic increases to our accommodation properties, stores, restaurants and gas stations, but it is also proven that after a good first experience to a new community, people are more likely to return for another vacation, buy a vacation home, or even relocate their family and business.

Marketing Charlevoix is vital to the success of the community. So how does the CVB lead that charge? The CVB is funded through an assessment on member lodging properties in Charlevoix, and a majority of our funds must be spent on marketing our destination. Being a CVB with a small budget, we are proud of the great amount of marketing and promotion we are able to accomplish every year. As marketing evolves, so do our marketing plans, staying current with the latest trends in marketing. Below is a list of our marketing program of work for 2016:

- Pure Michigan Summer and Fall radio
- Chicago bus wraps
- Pure Michigan digital campaign, Mlive digital, Pandora online radio, Trip Advisor page sponsor and ads, MyNorth digital ads, behavioral and remessaging campaign

Council member lacks ability to serve effectively

Occasionally, the residents of Charlevoix could be excused for feeling they must keep an eye on City Council members the way parents are prone to do with incorrigible children.

Turn your head for a moment and suddenly there is discrepancy in per-diem pay along with other actions that lead to questioning the honesty and character of a person serving this city.

I am talking about council member Bill Supernaw. I have to question how this man represents the citizens of Charlevoix's Second Ward.

His facts and statements lack validity. For example, as the city council considered whether to adopt a resolution urging state officials to shut down twin oil pipelines operating in the Straits of Mackinac, Supernaw claimed there are 17,700 Enbridge employees in Michigan when in reality there are approximately 250 Enbridge employees in Michigan.

His actions are confusing. For example at the last city council meeting Supernaw made a motion to halt any planned construction on the new American Disabilities Act compliant playground at Lake Michigan Beach Park. He then voted against his own motion. After the meeting he said he got confused because Shane Cole and Luther Kurtz voted no, so that is the way he thought he should vote. I have no idea what he meant.

Supernaw continues to make claims that the city makes profit at the municipal airport when it has been made clear many times by the city manager that the airport breaks even at best. There also was a meeting where he questioned if Roberts Rules of Order should be followed or if it is necessary to announce a conflict of interest during the meeting. Do citizens want this type of representation?

Last October, he suggested the city hire men off the street to clean the water treatment plant's chemical infused sediment from the basins. I should give him credit for trying to save the city money because he does claim to be a good steward of the taxpayers' dollars, but his actions show differently.

A review of all city council members pay records revealed Supernaw dipping into the city coffers after he requested and was paid for a handful of meetings he wasn't required to attend, including an Airport Advisory Committee and Charlevoix Recreation Advisory Board meeting. He also was paid for attending the Michigan Department of Transportation bridge closure information meeting at the library and the public meeting regarding the 2016 Infrastructure project.

Supernaw has not repaid the city for those meetings nor do his actions demonstrate that he intends to do so. The city treasurer, Kelly McGinn, said she spoke to Supernaw about taking the money he owes the city out his upcoming quarterly stipend in April, but he has yet to give them permission to do that. Why?

Lonnie Allen
A Scribe's view

Our elected officials should have qualities of honesty and character that are above reproach, a heartfelt desire to serve their city and citizens, and knowledge of our state and city laws and a driven desire to follow them. In light of his statements and actions, we have to question if Supernaw has any of those qualities.

If we all climb aboard Mr. Peabody's wayback machine for a return to 1976, we find Supernaw, a radio and TV personality, pleading guilty to gross indecency. Some will claim this information has nothing to do with the man that serves on City Council today, but how this incident was handled has everything to do about character. The editor of the Charlevoix Courier at the time had to file suit to get this information released, because the prosecuting attorney and Supernaw's defense attorney suppressed it for nearly a year.

Why did his information have to be so confidential? People had the right to know a local TV and radio personality participated in questionable behavior that led to criminal charges. I don't care about Supernaw's behavior some 40 years ago if he was a private citizen, but I do care that someone who is in the public eye was associated with attempts to suppress information that was pertinent for the public to know.

We often hear our elected officials are trusted to make informed decisions on our behalf. Is Supernaw the best person to represent the city and the residents of Charlevoix's Second Ward if he chooses to run again?

Finding financial security in retirement

Achieving financial security is an important part of enjoying a satisfying retirement. Social Security has many tools to help you plan for your future.

A great first step is to visit socialsecurity.gov/myaccount. With a my Social Security account, you'll get immediate access to your personal Social Security Statement, your earnings record, and an estimate of your retirement benefits at age 62, at your full retirement age, and at age 70. You can also verify your earnings are correct, since we base your future benefits on your earnings record.

When you open a my Social Security account, we protect your information by using strict identity verification and security features. The application process has built-in features to detect fraud and confirm your identity. Your personal my Social Security account can help you figure out how much more you might want to save for your future.

You can prepare for a secure, comfortable retirement by visiting myra.gov. There, you'll find myRA, a new retirement savings option from the Department of the Treasury for the millions of Americans who face barriers to saving for retirement.

myRA makes it easy and affordable to start saving for retirement, even if you can save only a little bit right now. It's designed for people who don't have a retirement savings plan through work, or lack other options for saving. If you already have access to a retirement savings plan, such as a 401(k), learn more about that plan because it might offer matching contributions or other benefits.

myRA helps workers grow their money faster than they can with most traditional savings accounts, and there's no risk. Since it's not tied to a particular employer, workers can hold on to their myRA account when they move from one job to another.

LOOKING BACK...

Panoramic view

In the spring of 1891, local photographer D. S. Way constructed an observation tower at the top of Mount McCausa. For 25 cents, people could climb the staircases that circled the perimeter and be greeted by a panorama that encompassed Lake Michigan almost to the Straits of Mackinac, the Beaver Island archipelago, the Fox Islands directly west, the tip of the Leelanau Peninsula and the entrance to Grand Traverse Bay, Fisherman's Island, the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, almost all the way to Boyne City, and Little Traverse Bay to Petoskey. The spectacular view covered several hundred square miles. But the wood tower collapsed in a windstorm on Thanksgiving Day, 1905 and was not replaced. However, in 1906 the United States Lake Survey, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army put up another, rather, barebones, tower in its place that was used to mount surveying equipment for performing precise geodetic surveys which covered the entire Great Lakes area. A survey point was usually set at or below ground level, and the tower constructed directly on top of it. There is mention that the local Coast Guard station crew also utilized this tower, much higher than the one in the station building on the channel, as a lookout. The figure in the photo might be doing exactly that in 1920, scanning the lake for signs of trouble. The general public was supposed to stay off, but there was no way to prevent them from doing so. It is not yet known when this tower came down.

COMMUNITY Highlights

Tom Harder directs a school band concert.

Teacher Spotlight: Tom Harder

Editors note: The following articles are submissions from Charlevoix Public Schools Superintendent Mike Ritter. These teacher spotlights were first published on the school's website in a question and answer format. The Charlevoix Courier has reworked the articles to meet our format so we could share with our readers a little about our community educators.

Charlevoix Public Schools band teacher Thomas Harder is in his first year as the school's band director. Harder's family lives downstate and spends much of his time outside of school with other performers and educators.

Harder majored in music education and saxophone performance at Central Michigan University. Before college Harder participated in the school newspaper and drama classes. His favorite early school memories involved band and the trips the band would take.

"When we went to Disney World, we worked with the trumpet player who plays the solo in Tarzan's 'Trashin' the Camp' and we got to record in the Disney Studio," Harder said. "We also had a blast playing in Mackinaw every year."

"More than anything, the best part about those trips was spending time and making memories with my friends," he added. "Whether we were on hour 18 of a 22-hour bus ride, or taking the ferry to the island in 40 degree weather, or screaming our heads off on Rockin' Roller Coaster."

Before the 2015-16 Charlevoix school year began, Harder was preparing for his first year teaching band in Charlevoix. He spent much of his time preparing for the students return in the fall.

"I spent a lot of time organizing the band room, rehearsing a small group for the Venetian Parade, and preparing for our high school marching band camp, as well as the rest of the school year," Harder said.

During the summer Harder also had the opportunity to play with a few ensembles.

"I spent three weeks in Saugatuck playing clarinet and soprano, alto, and tenor saxophone in a professional pit orchestra," Harder said. "I performed with the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra, as well as the Gaylord and Charlevoix Community bands."

He also spent time reading, watching movies and television, and enjoying Northern Michigan summer events and activities.

Outside of music Harder enjoys playing soccer and affiliates himself with "Cheeseheads."

"I've been a big Green Bay Packers fan my whole life," Harder said.

Ukulele group entertains local seniors

CHARLEVOIX — Through the doors of American House senior community in Charlevoix drifted the final notes of "Oh Danny Boy," followed by a wild chorus of whooping and clapping.

Although it sounded like a private party, the Lucky Dog Ukes, a ukulele band was playing a St. Patrick's Day concert for the senior community's residents last Wednesday. The 11-person band, made up of Charlevoix residents, plays for residents in Boulder Park Terrace and American House once a month.

"This concert is a way for us to get better and entertain residents," said Bill Trubilowicz, one of the founding members of the group.

The group is an offshoot of a group he was part of in Wisconsin named the Cheeseland Uke Band. In Charlevoix he managed to find a few people who could play and organized the group about a year ago.

"We are impressed on far we have come in a year," Trubilowicz said. "Some people were rank beginners and now we are playing concerts."

The last few months have been themed concerts at the senior communities in Charlevoix. They performed a Christmas show, Valentines show and this month was St. Patrick's Day, he said.

"It is a lot of fun," Trubilowicz said. "The ukulele is such a fun instrument that you can't help but smile when you play."

The performance included residents who clapped along and eventually sang along to an assortment of songs, ranging from "I'm Looking over a four leaf clover," to "Roll out the barrel," to the "Unicorn Song."

Seventh-grader Avery McCreadie, who is the youngest player, joined the group after she heard the ukulele group play at the Safe Haven breakfast club which is hosted at

"This experience is really wonderful," McCreadie said. "I was having some trouble in the beginning, but I have learned so much from this experience, and I am a better player for it."

McCreadie thought at first she would only do one or two concerts, but then her perspective changed, as she played more with the group.

"I really like it," McCreadie said. "We have a lot of fun playing these concerts. I met some new friends, too."

Zonta Club presents the Rose Award

Maxine Bergmann of Charlevoix was honored as the second annual recipient of Charlevoix Zonta Club's 2016 Zonta Rose Award.

The Rose award is presented to a woman in Charlevoix who has provided significant service to women in the community. Bergmann recently retired after 30 years of active participation as a volunteer with the Charlevoix Food Pantry. During her tenure with the Charlevoix Food Pantry, Bergmann worked tirelessly in devoting her time, talents and treasure to ensure that families in need have the necessary food staple resources required in order to sustain themselves. Bergmann's work exemplifies the core values and mission of Zonta.

A donation in Maxine Bergmann's name will be made to Zonta International Rose Fund. Zonta International is a global service organization of executives and professionals working together to advance the status of women and girls worldwide through service and advocacy.

Change coming to spring break dates in 2017 to accommodate SAT testing

The start date of school spring break for 2017 for Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District (Char-Em ISD) will change due to SAT college board entrance exam.

To better accommodate juniors taking the SAT college board entrance exam and at the request of superintendents across Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District students and staff will return to school the first Tuesday in April, allowing one week before the SAT is offered the second Tuesday in April starting with the 2016-2017 school year.

Because the ACT will change to the SAT, juniors will take the SAT on the day they return to school following spring break - Tuesday, April 12 for the 2015-2016 school year. Administrators across the ISD preferred not to have students take this important exam immediately upon returning to school after the break. The SAT dates are established by the exam board and are offered annually the second Tuesday in April.

Superintendents across the ISD asked Char-Em ISD Superintendent Jeff Crouse to request changes to the "common calendar" established by the ISD Board of Education. By law, the ISD Board of Education - with input from local administrators - sets the dates in the common calendar. Local public school districts are required to comply with winter break, spring break, and the three identified professional development days; outside these dates, it is a local public school district's decision on when school is in session for full or partial days.

"The change is the right thing to do for students," said ISD Superintendent Jeff Crouse. "We want to provide our students with their best opportunity to excel on this college entrance exam."

Crouse and the other superintendents also wanted to get this information out more than a year in advance as many families will book their spring break accommodations a year in advance.

"Now families have ample time to plan for the 2016-2017 spring break," Crouse said, adding that this change will be in place for all future common calendars.

To view the common calendar for the 2016-2017 school year and five years out, visit charvoixd.org/aboutus/ourcalendar.

Donate blood during National Volunteer Month

Not many people know that April is National Volunteer Month and the American Red Cross wants to encourage eligible donors to give blood this April to make a difference in the lives of patients in need.

More than 3 million people donated blood through the Red Cross last year. The Red Cross salutes these volunteer blood donors who helped fulfill its lifesaving mission and invites others to roll up a sleeve and join them.

Kathy Huey became a donor after encouragement from her husband, who has given more than 11 pints of blood.

"I love the fact that I'm helping others by giving a little bit of my time," she said. "It's simple and easy and helps save lives - what could be better?"

Volunteer donors are the only source of blood products for those in need of transfusions. Donors of all blood types are needed this spring.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities near Charlevoix:

From noon-5:45 p.m. on April 5, at the East Jordan Civic Center, 101 Civic Center Lane, East Jordan

From 8:30 a.m.-1:15 p.m. on April 15, at East Jordan High School, 101 Maple St., East Jordan

To donate blood, simply download the American Red Cross Blood Donor App, visit redcrossblood.org or call (800) RED CROSS — (800) 733-2767.

All blood types are needed to ensure a reliable supply for patients. A blood donor card or driver's license or two other forms of identification are required at check-in. Individuals who are 17 years of age (16 with parental consent in some states), weigh at least 110 pounds and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. High school students and other donors 16 years of age and younger also have to meet certain height and weight requirements.

Blood donors can now save time at their next donation by using RapidPass to complete their pre-donation reading and health history questionnaire online, on the day of their donation, prior to arriving at the blood drive. To get started and learn more, visit redcrossblood.org/RapidPass and follow the instructions on the site.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives, provides international humanitarian aid and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a not-for-profit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission. For more information, visit redcross.org or visit on Twitter at @RedCross.

Business Profile:

Elements: Ecclectic and regional

ANNE KELLY
Special to Charlevoix Courier

Modern, eclectic and regional are words to describe the fine art, jewelry, home and personal accessories, and other elements displayed for sale in a local store on Bridge Street.

Elements owner Nancy Suzor is just where she wants to be at this point in time, both in location and in her retail career. A former teacher and school counselor from Houghton Lake, Suzor took an early retirement option after 28 years.

"We had been coming up north for many years as resorters, and when I decided to go into retail, Charlevoix's ambiance won out over all the other towns we looked at," Suzor said. "I thought then, as I do now, that this town is vibrant and amazing."

At first Elements was located down a block, near the bridge. Now it shares a foyer with the Taffy Barrel at 211 Bridge Street.

"I like the location here," she said. "It's smaller but it's right across from the harbor and there's a lot of foot traffic."

Elements has been in Charlevoix for 17 years, surviving the unpredictable economy over that time period. Suzor's daughter-in-law, Janine Suzor, entered into partnership with Nancy in 1992.

COURTESY PHOTOS

A painting by Kathleen Cheney Fritz is displayed in Elements with many other Fritz's artwork that is carried in the Charlevoix store.

"She's very artistic," Suzor said. "She and my son live in Arizona, and much of my merchandise in the beginning had a modern southwestern feel. It was quite contemporary. Janine scoured art shows and galleries in Arizona to bring back unique items for the store. It became too much for her to travel back and forth so now I am on my own, but I am still influenced by her suggestions."

When the economy slumped, artists had to go back to work and many galleries closed, according to Suzor. At first, there was no artwork from Michigan represented at Elements.

"We changed over the years," she said. "In the beginning there were no Michigan artists, no jewelry, no purses and no original paintings."

Elements first took on the work of renowned regional artist Kathleen Cheney Fritz. The art inventory now includes the work of other Michigan artists as well including Trish Morgan, Linda Boss, Julie McLemore, Jeannie Putman, Edith Pair, and most recently, the artwork of Justin Keilner, of Grand Rapids.

"He came to The Circle of Arts with his paintings for their 'Things with Wings' exhibition and I asked him to let us carry his work, which can now be seen hanging on the rear wall of the store," Suzor said.

Suzor has been a member of the Circle of Arts since its inception.

Unique merchandise of many genres are part of Elements' allure.

"We carry three lines of purses," Suzor said. "Baggallini, Jenna Kator, who creates state-themed purses, and Maruca out of Denver. Approximately 95 percent of our merchandise is totally hand crafted. We are proud of an award given to Elements by the American Craft Council. (The organization) designated us as one of the top retailers of American crafts."

Elements also carries wine accessories, cards and furniture. Eclectic clothing including Kavita of California jackets, skirts, mittens and scarves, Wachler Life Links and Wachler Estate jewelry and a recently added line of hand creams and body lotions known as "Choices" are other interesting items to be found displayed in attractive displays.

"I really enjoy meeting the people who come into Elements and finding out where they are from," Suzor said. "Most patrons are people who are interested in finding a unique gift. Former students come in and are surprised to see me wearing my retail hat. I am so pleased to have wonderful employees, some of whom are the artists whose work I carry."

Elements can be followed on Facebook, Instagram, gallery, Charlevoix.

Black Swallowtail Butterfly species is commonly found in Michigan.

Buffs boost black swallowtail as best bet for state butterfly

JASON KRAFT
Capital News Service

LANSING—The black swallowtail would flit over Michigan as the official butterfly of the state if recently proposed legislation is approved.

The apple blossom was designated Michigan's state flower in 1897. The white pine was designated the state tree in 1955, and the brook trout was made the state fish in 1965.

Despite Michigan's long list of official symbols, it's one of just three states without an official insect or butterfly.

Sponsored by Sen. Curtis Hertel Jr., D-Meridian Township, the bill would put Michigan in line with 47 other states that have either a state butterfly or insect.

Michigan Garden Clubs Inc. brought the proposal to Hertel.

"We picked the black swallowtail because it is a full-time Michigan resident," said Susan Leahy, legislation chair of the group. "Most butterflies come here for our warm weather, then move on to new places. Our Birds, Bees and Butterflies Committee did a lot of research and concluded that the black swallowtail was the best choice for Michigan."

The bill, co-sponsored by Sen. Wayne Schmidt, R- Traverse City, and four others, awaits a hearing in the Government Operations Committee.

A similar bill designating the monarch butterfly as the official state insect awaits a hearing in the committee. It is sponsored by Sen. Jim Marleau, R-Lake Orion.

"The monarch seems to be the poster child for all butterflies," said David Cuthrell, a conservation scientist with the Michigan Natural Features Inventory at the Department of Natural Resources. "It's the first one you learn about as a kid, but monarchs leave entirely in the fall."

Is there room for both a state insect and a state butterfly?

Supporters of the swallowtail bill don't oppose the monarch bill.

"The monarch is a beautiful butterfly," Leahy said. "Lots of states have designated the monarch as state butterflies. We thought the monarch had a lot of good press already, but not so much for the swallowtail, so we thought it would be a good idea for Michigan to select something more unique. It would be great if the monarch becomes the state insect, and our bill makes the swallowtail the state butterfly."

Swallowtail advocates agree.

"They can both happen: We can have both an official state insect and butterfly," Hertel said. "I think the monarch is a worthy insect. Hopefully we can work together to get both of these done."

Cuthrell said there have been past discussions of designating the monarch and also a dragonfly for state insect.

Designating the swallowtail as the state butterfly can lead to teaching opportunities, Leahy said. "We're working with schools to stress the importance of butterflies and specifically the black swallowtail," Leahy said.

"Butterflies are part of the nature food chain, they're beautiful and pleasing to the eye, and they're pollinators, and pollinators are pretty important," she said. "With all the controversy in politics and the backdrop of hostility going on, it's nice to have something pretty and I hope we can all agree on it."

Stephen Brede to speak at NCMC luncheon lecture

PETOSKEY—North Central Michigan College's luncheon lecture will feature Stephen Brede and his 3,800-mile paddle at 11:30 a.m. on Friday, April 1. The luncheon will be in the Library conference room. Lunch begins at 11:30 a.m. and the program begins at noon.

Over the course of six summers, Brede paddled his Kruger Canoe Seaweed around the shorelines of all five Great Lakes. He will talk about the challenges of paddling and camping along his solo voyage, and describe the amazing places, people and animals he encountered along the diverse coasts of the world's largest group of freshwater lakes.

Cost is $10 and reservations are required. Call (231) 348-6600 or email luncheonlectures@ncmich.edu.

North Central Michigan College is an open-door community college based in Petoskey, with additional locations offering classes and services in Cheboygan and Gaylord. North Central's mission is to provide educational, economic and cultural opportunities for student learning, personal growth and community improvement. North Central is an Achieving the Dream Leader College and a Military-Friendly School.

Planting trees on National Arbor Day

National Arbor Day is Friday, April 29, this year, and the Arbor Day Foundation is making it easy for anyone to celebrate the annual tree-planting holiday. Join the Foundation in April and receive 10 free shade trees.

By joining the Foundation in April, new members receive the following trees: red oak, sugar maple, weeping willow, baldcypress, thornless honeylocust, pin oak, river birch, tulip tree, silver maple, and red maple.

The free trees are part of the foundation's Trees for America campaign.

"These trees provide shade in the summer and vibrant colors throughout the fall," said Matt Harris, chief executive of the Arbor Day Foundation. "Through the simple act of planting trees, one person can make a difference in helping to create a healthier and more beautiful planet for all of us to enjoy."

The trees will be shipped postpaid with enclosed planting instructions at the right time for planting in April or May. The 6- to 12-inch trees are guaranteed to grow or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and receive the free trees visit arborday.org/april.

PLAYGROUND

have picnics and during our festivals they have bands and things down there. I don't think it is necessary to have (a playground) down there."

The new ADA accessible playground, which will be an estimated 3,300 square feet, will be built south of the concession building in the grassy area. The Charlevoix Recreation Department was awarded a $45,000 grant from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources to add a handicap-accessible playground to Lake Michigan Beach Park on Grant Street. The city will match the grant with $22,500, which most of its been paid for by donations and city labor costs, said Recreation Director Tom Kirinovic.

"We can count public works employee hours and volunteer hours toward the match when helping build the playground," Kirinovic said. "The prime professional we hired to work on the project also donated some of his time toward the cost."

The city also received a $10,000 grant from the Charlevoix County parks millage to fund the playground equipment, Kirinovic added.

The new playground has been discussed since 2013 and was vetted by the current city council with the exception of new member Aaron Hagen who took office in November. Public hearings were conducted and most contracts have been approved by current council members. To date, the city has spent at least $3,000 in design costs and many hours of staff time, said City manager Mark Heydlauff.

"Council has had a couple of opportunities (both in 2015 and 2014) to change course," Heydlauff said. "Staff follows the course that city council sets. The project has been in the works for a long time."

Timms recommended having the swings on the beach rehabilitated on the beach.

"For a few bucks you can put that equipment all back together," Timms said. "I think the (park) is the wrong place for that sort of (playground)."

The current playground that is in the sand makes it difficult for children and adults with disabilities to access the its equipment, which is the reason the city would like to build the new playground near the concession stand in order to accommodate all people, according to city council members who believe moving forward is the best course the city should take.

"The obvious benefit is the playground is ADA compliant that gives some people the ability to access it that otherwise would not be able to," said council member Luther Kurtz.

Council member Shane Cole also agreed the playground would allow people access to the playground that cannot maneuver the beach sand.

"It would cost much more money to build a ADA compliant playground in the sand," Cole said. "That is why that location was picked because of ADA requirements."

A motion to halt the playground failed 4-1 with council member Bill Supernaw voting against his own motion because he got confused from how the other council members voted, he said after the meeting. Supernaw said he did not want the city to construct the new playground in that location because city residents are against it.

"I'm afraid the masses are all going to see what is happening down there and revolt," Supernaw said.

Supernaw said he talks to "a lot" of people and feels there will be a backlash against the city, if construction moves forward. Supernaw referred to the fallout about the fireplace in East Park that initiated a city council recall in 2014 to make his point about a "revolt by the masses" for the new children's playground.

"This could be a fireplace issue when people see digging down there," Supernaw said.

PET DENTAL HEALTH

DENTAL HEALTH HELPS YOUR PETS LIVE LONGER

Your pet's dental health is a business

Do you brush your teeth at least twice a day? Great! Do you take care of your four-legged friend's teeth as well? Uh-oh. You can learn about the importance of good oral hygiene and necessary checkups for your pet. Starting February, Pet Dental Health is a business.

Just like humans, pets can develop plaque and tartar if their teeth are not brushed properly. Moreover, an estimated 85 per cent of domestic animals aged four years and older suffer from oral diseases.

PREVENTION

Implement a dental care routine as soon as your new pet arrives in your home. This will prevent the spread of bacteria that can contribute to the development of serious disorders, including bacteria-caused problems in the vital organs. Buy a toothbrush and toothpaste specifically made for the type of pet you have at a veterinary clinic or specialty store. Dental treats and foods designed to optimize oral health are also available. Ask your veterinarian about what's best for your pet.

CLINICAL EXAMINATION

Do your pet's teeth seem healthy at first sight? Don't put his or her oral health out of mind just yet. Bacteria can often be found under your pet's gums, which could result in various health problems.

Make an appointment with your vet today for a complete dental examination. If necessary, this professional will descale the teeth, which is a delicate teeth-cleaning procedure performed under general anesthesia.

Neglecting the dental health of your pet can have serious consequences.

Visit us for all your pets needs.

DISPATCH

Drury said. "Hopefully they get the information correct."

She added now if a dispatcher receives a same-day call they put it in the computer and the new trip will show up on the manifest in the tablet. The new system also will prevent rides scheduled too closely together. It also will look for priorities and which bus will be the best option for a rider.

Another difference is dispatchers will now have more time to talk with customers and discuss any travel questions and other details. People also can receive ride notifications. For example, if someone schedules a ride for a doctor's appointment three weeks away, the day before they're supposed to be picked-up they will be notified. The notifications will be through phone, fax or email. They also will be able to do mass notifications if there is a shutdown of operation.

"Really, it's going to give us tools," Drury said. "We can re-route buses, communicate better with drivers and take the stress off the drivers as well."

If a rider does have a change in travel plans Drury said it will be important to tell dispatchers. The dispatchers and driver have been trained on the system. Drury said it will be a learning process for everyone.

Dispatchers Cheryl Mattioli and Jane Elliott said it's very different than what they've used before.

"It's a lot of playing around to figure out what to do next to get a person a ride," Elliott said.

Mattioli said it's been confusing at first, but she's not worried.

"It's new to all of us. We're learning with it and it will work out OK," Mattioli said.

Eventually, Drury said there will also be a web portal, so people can schedule rides online.

Adult coloring offered at Charlevoix Public Library

CHARLEVOIX - The Charlevoix Public Library will offer an adult coloring group called Color Your Cares Away. The group will meet at 5:15-6 p.m. on the first Tuesday each month beginning on April 5, in the trustees conference room.

Adult coloring has seen a recent surge in popularity as can be evidenced by the many coloring books in book stores with fanciful and intricate line drawings. Many adults are finding that coloring can be a way of relaxing and reducing stress. The coloring craze as a healthy way for stressed-out multitaskers to tune out the larger world. The library hopes people will stop on their way home from work, color and relax and then head home refreshed.

Talia Hofacker, adult services supervisor said she views the coloring group, "as a way to facilitate conversation and connection."

The library will provide coloring books, pencils and markers, but everyone is free to bring their own. The Charlevoix Public Library is located at 220 W. Clinton St., in Charlevoix. This group is open to all and totally free for participants.

Coast Guard," Heydlauff said. "There is a lot of rich history that locals will remember and might enjoy seeing honored and our visitors might enjoy learning about."

Acacia was homeported in Charlevoix, Port Huron, Grand Haven and Sturgeon Bay, Wis. The ship's primary duty was maintaining more than 210 buoys, lighthouses, and other navigational aids. Her area of operation ranged from as far south as Calumet Harbor, south Chicago, to as far north as Little Bay de Noc.

"These items will be a nice addition to have down there," said councilmember Shane Cole. "I like the idea of using the walkway to focal point Charlevoix's maritime history."

Final approval would need to come from the Army Corps of Engineers because placement would take place in its easement, Heydlauff said.

"The corps has a 20-foot easement on each side of the channel," Heydlauff said.

At this point the repairs are more than $95,000, he said.

"Insurance is supposed to cover most of it," Drury said. "We were told we would get a check from the insurance company and that would go to the county."

The repairs were done by the Irish Boat Shop in Charlevoix. The Ironton Ferry runs from mid April to November.

Stafford's Top of Michigan Charlevoix to Harbor Springs Marathon set for May 28

The inaugural Stafford's Top of Michigan Community Marathon is scheduled for Saturday, May 28. The marathon starts in Charlevoix and follows Little Traverse Wheelway along Lake Michigan through Bay Harbor and Petoskey, with the finish line in Harbor Springs. The event will benefit the Petoskey High School Track and Cross Country Teams, as well as Top of Michigan Trails Council.

The Wheelway, which comprises a majority of the 26.2 mile route, is one of the premier routes in the Trails Council's inventory of trails. This marathon course is relatively flat and offers spectacular views of Lake Michigan and Little Traverse Bay. The course is USATF certified, and offers an excellent venue for runners stepping up to a marathon or for seasoned runners looking for a fast time.

A 10K Run and 10K non-competitive walk will begin in Petoskey at the Top of Michigan Trails Council's new Trails Center (1687 M-119) and will finish in Harbor Springs. Participants in the 10K will receive a race T-shirt. Registration is required for both runners and walkers in the 10K event.

A pre-race dinner will be offered to marathoners on Friday, May 27 in Charlevoix. Shuttle service will be available both before and after the race.

Online registration for the marathon and 10K can be completed at www.active.com (search CHARLEVOIX COMMUNITY). For more information, contact race director Jim Harrington at (989) 619-4204 or email him at jharrington10@gmail.com.

Area CrossFit Games hit final week, nearing regional competitions

ORR WICKLIFFE
(231) 439-9380 • gwickliffe@petoskeynews.com

For CrossFit Charlevoix and CrossFit Petoskey, working out is a way of life.

The two organizations bring in people for all ages, as young as early 20s to as old as mid-60s, pushing individuals to a level they wouldn't be able to reach in a regular gym.

Kenny Provost has been a trainer at CrossFit Charlevoix since 2014, a gym owned by his parents, Ken and Jackie Provost, and has a little over 40 members.

"We work on functional fitness," Provost said. "We use our bodies to full capacity here through various means."

Provost started doing CrossFit back in high school. After he finished his college football career, he began to primarily only workout using CrossFit techniques. CrossFit helped him lose over 100 pounds and improved his overall health.

Now, when Provost sees a person improve over time from the first moment they came into the gym, it gives him a great deal of happiness.

"It's really satisfying because I get to be so close and so much a part of it," Provost said. "They have no idea of what they're capable of when they come in. My satisfaction comes from how happy they are for it."

"When people come in for fitness, they're thinking they need to lose some weight and that's their motivator. But what becomes the motivator over time is the things they can do in (the gym). So the scale and the weight and the body fat are all just a byproduct, it's not the main focus anymore."

CrossFit Petoskey is owned by Jeff Smith and former Michigan and NFL football player John Jansen. The two began with just three members in 2010 and now have over 200 today.

Rayder athletes rack up winter sports postseason honors

JAMES BRONSTEINBLUM

CHARLEVOIX — Getting the win on the court is more important than individual recognition to most athletes.

But as a by-product of that success, individual honors also have their place, especially as seasons wind down and memorable careers draw to a close.

After a winter season that saw many such successes, several Charlevoix athletes have earned spots on all-state and all-conference teams in their respective sports.

In boys basketball, Austin Putman capped a stellar three-year varsity career with the Rayders by earning honorable mention all-state honors in Class C from the Associated Press.

The 6-foot-2 post player was a force inside throughout his career, but saved his best season for last, averaging 17 points and 10 rebounds a game along with numerous double-doubles to keep Charlevoix afloat in a brutal Lake Michigan Conference.

Putman is the latest in a long line of Rayder basketball stars who've earned all-state honors from the Associated Press, and was also named to the LMC all-conference first team for his play this past season.

Joining Putman on the all-LMC first team was teammate Walker Drost, who led the Rayders' offensive attack as the team's top point guard each of the past two seasons. Junior Kevin Pearl was also honorable mention all-LMC after joining the starting lineup and reaffirming his status as Charlevoix's best defender this season.

CROSSFIT

"What I like about CrossFit is that it's applicable to anybody," Smith said. "Anybody can do it and it gives everybody a chance to push and improve their fitness level probably beyond what they can do on their own."

"As a physical therapist, I love that the movements and the workouts are all geared towards functional movements and how we move in our daily lives. As you get stronger with those movements, it makes it easier for you to get through your day."

Both gyms use numerous different workout strategies that involve Olympic-style weightlifting, powerlifting, gymnastics, rowing, running, pushups and pull ups to name a few.

"We're not looking to be specific athletes," Provost said. "We're looking for general, overall and inclusive fitness."

CrossFit Charlevoix and Petoskey each participate in the CrossFit games, which are an annual competition, open to all CrossFit gyms nationwide through the CrossFit headquarters, testing overall fitness with the goal of finding the fittest people in the world.

This competition has spread dramatically and continues to become more popular each year.

According to crossfit.com, 9,400 of the 13,000 CrossFit affiliates agreed to host the opening event of the CrossFit games last year, with over 272,000 participating athletes ranging from age 13 to 84.

The CrossFit Open takes place over a five-week span beginning on Feb. 25, ending on March 28. For each week there is one workout sent to all participants.

Participants are not told what the workout will be for each week until each Thursday at 8 p.m.

Once the specific workout is revealed, the athletes perform the workout, trying to do as many reps as possible. The person that does the most reps in the allotted amount of time wins.

At the end of the five-week competition, the top 20 people advance to regionals competitions, a three-weekend event in the month of May.

The top two men and women from each of the eight regionals then advance to the CrossFit games in July in California, which are televised on ESPN.

"In a way, each workout is kind of like a competition within yourself," Provost said. "All of these workouts are extremely high intensity."

Aside from the grand competition, CrossFit Charlevoix competes with CrossFit Petoskey as well as CrossFit Gaylord in an area-based competition online.

The area competition between the three gyms is won by averaging the amount of reps each athlete finished with from each gym to determine the winner.

"The thing I've heard from people about belonging to a gym like this is they just have to show up," Smith said. "They don't have to think about what they're going to do, or what workout they're going to do. They just show up and it's all laid out for them. It makes working out that much easier."

"It's remarkable, it reinforces how well this approach works. It's great to see the confidence that builds with them. It's fun to see people progress like that."

For more information on each CrossFit location and the games themselves, visit www.crossfitcharlevoix.com or www.crossfitpetoskey.com.

brought home several postseason honors.

Freshman Jenna Good was the lone Rayder to earn first team all-state honors in both the slalom and giant slalom from the Michigan High School Ski Coaches Association after top 10 finishes in both events at the state final, and junior Brad Klinger brought home first team all-state honors in the giant slalom after taking fifth at the state meet.

Charlevoix's Matt Good also brought home second team all-state honors in both the slalom and the giant slalom, and Ben Peterson earned honorable mention all-state honors as well for a Rayder squad that qualified for the state finals and finished fifth in the state.

On the girls side, junior Abbey Scholten earned second team all-state honors in the slalom as well.

Putman, Klinger, Good, Peterson and Scholten join wrestler Camden Alden as all-state athletes for Charlevoix in winter sports. Alden locked up his all-state honors on the mat at the Division 4 individual state final during the first weekend in March, battling through the consolation bracket to finish eighth and claim his second straight all-state nod at 135 pounds.

While no Charlevoix girls basketball player was named to an all-state team, two seniors who helped the Rayders reach the district final did earn all-conference honors from the LMC.

Hannah Zipp made the LMC's first team after a consistent senior season that saw the senior lead Charlevoix in scoring and rebounding, while fellow senior Kelsey Engstrom rebounded from a torn ACL as a junior to earn honorable mention all-conference honors as well.

2016 PUBLIC NOTICES

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
ORDINANCE NO. 777 OF 2016
AN ORDINANCE TO AUTHORIZE THE PAYMENT OF AN ANNUAL SERVICE CHARGE IN LIEU OF TAXES FOR RESIDENTIAL UNITS SERVING LOW INCOME OR MODERATE INCOME PERSONS IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE STATE HOUSING DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY ACT 346 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF MICHIGAN OF 1966, AS AMENDED, AND MATTERS RELATED THERE TO

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:
Section 1. Purpose. This Ordinance authorizes and approves an annual service charge in lieu of taxes for residential housing developments that: (a) serve Low Income or Moderate Income Persons (as defined in the State Housing Development Authority Act, Act 346 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1966, as amended, and this Ordinance); (b) are financed or assisted by USDA-RD or the Authority in accordance with Act 346; (c) are located within the City of Charlevoix; and (d) comply with this Ordinance.

Section 2. Title. This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the "City of Charlevoix Tax Exemption Ordinance."
Section 3. Purpose. It is acknowledged that it is a proper public purpose of the State of Michigan and its political subdivisions to provide housing for low income citizens and to encourage the development of such housing by providing for a service charge in lieu of property taxes in accordance with Act 346. The City is authorized by Act 346 and this Ordinance to establish or change the annual service charge to be paid in lieu of taxes by any and all classes of housing exempt from taxation under Act 346 at any amount it chooses not to exceed the taxes that would be paid but for Act 346. It is further acknowledged that housing for low income persons and families is a public necessity, and as the City will be benefited and improved by such housing, the encouragement of the same by providing certain real estate tax exemptions for such housing is a valid public purpose; further, that the continuance of the provisions of this Ordinance for tax exemption and the service charge in lieu of taxes during the period contemplated in this Ordinance are essential to the determination of economic feasibility of housing developments which are constructed and financed in reliance on such tax exemption.

The City acknowledges that Watermark II Limited Dividend Housing Association Limited Partnership (the "Sponsor" as defined in Section 4 of this Ordinance) has committed to rehabilitate, own and operate a housing development identified as "Lake Harbor Apartments" on certain property located on 637 Petoskey Avenue, Charlevoix, Michigan, which is legally described in Section 4.G. of this Ordinance, to serve Low Income or Moderate Income Persons, and that the Sponsor has offered to pay and will pay to the City, on account of the Housing Development, an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all taxes.

Section 4. Definitions. The terms used within this Ordinance shall have the following meanings:
A. "Act" means the State Housing Development Authority Act, being Act 346 of the Public Acts of Michigan of 1966, as amended.
B. "Annual Shelter Rents" means the total actual collections during each calendar year from all occupants of a housing development representing rents or occupancy charges, which rental amounts shall be exclusive of charges for gas, electricity, heat, or other utilities furnished to the occupants.
C. "Authority" means the Michigan State Housing Development Authority.
D. "Class" means the Housing Development known as Lake Harbor Apartments for Low Income or Moderate Income Persons.
E. "Contract Rents" are as defined by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in regulations promulgated pursuant to the U.S. Housing Act of 1937, as amended.
F. "Federally-Aided Mortgage" means any of the following:

(i) A below market interest rate mortgage insured, purchased, or held by the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) or United States Department of Agriculture - Rural Development (USOA-RD);
(ii) A mortgage receiving interest reduction payments provided by the HUD or USOA-RD;
(iii) A Housing Development to which the Authority allocates low income housing tax credits under Section 22b of the Act; or
(iv) A mortgage receiving special benefits under other federal law designated specifically to develop low and moderate-income housing, consistent with the Act.

G. "Housing Development" means a development which contains a significant element of housing for persons of low income and such elements of other housing, commercial, recreational, industrial, communal, and educational facilities as the Authority determines to improve the quality of the development as it relates to housing for persons of low income. For the purposes of this Ordinance, "Housing Development" means Lake Harbor Apartments located on the property legally described as:
Land located in the City of Charlevoix, County of Charlevoix, and State of Michigan, described as: Commencing at a 1 inch, iron bar (set by Robinson) at the East quarter of Section 23, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence on a bearing of West along the East and West quarter line of said section, as monumented, 1320.32 feet to a nail on the East eighth line of said section, as monumented; thence South 0°12'44" West along said eighth line, 297.34 feet (recorded as 297.0 feet) to a concrete monument, being the point of Beginning of this description; thence continuing along said eighth line, as monumented, South 0°58'24" West 33.20 feet to a concrete monument recorded as being 1321.0 feet West and 330.0 feet South of the quarter corner between Sections 23 and 24, Town 34 North, Range 8 West; thence North 89°46'01" West 161.20 feet (recorded as 161.62 feet) to a concrete monument; thence South 0°34'28" East along the Eastern line of the former A. O. Cruikshank property 320.75 feet (recorded as 321.38 feet) to a concrete monument on the Northwesterly line of Highway U.S. 31; thence North 6°40'46" East along said highway line, 340.27 feet (recorded as 339.37 feet) to a 1 inch rod on the Westerly line of "CHEZ CHARLEVOIX" Condominium as recorded in Liber 232, Page 955, Charlevoix County Records; thence North 0°04'56" West along said Westerly condominium line 295.21 feet (recorded as 294.99 feet) to a 1 inch rod; thence South 69°25'38" West 171.03 feet (recorded as 169.73 feet) to the point of beginning; being a part of the West Half of the Southeast Quarter of Section 23, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

H. "Low Income or Moderate Income Persons" shall be as defined in the Act, as amended.
I. "Sponsor" means persons or entities which have applied to the Authority for the Tax Credits to finance a Housing Development. For the purposes of this Ordinance, the Sponsor is Watermark II Limited Dividend Housing Association Limited Partnership.
J. "Tax Credits" means the low income housing tax credits made available by the Authority to the Sponsor for rehabilitation of the Housing Development by the Sponsor in accordance with the Low Income Housing Tax Credit Program administered by the Authority under Section 42 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.
K. "USOA-RD" means the United States Department of Agriculture, Rural Services Division.
L. "Utilities" means fuel, water, sanitary sewer service and/or electrical service, which are paid by the Housing Development.

Section 5. Class of Housing Development. This Ordinance shall apply only to the Housing Development to the extent that the Housing Development provides housing for Low Income and Moderate Income Persons and is financed or assisted by USOA-RD or the Authority pursuant to the Act.

Section 6. Establishment of Annual Service Charge.
A. The City acknowledges that the Sponsor and USOA-RD and/or the Authority have established the economic feasibility of the Housing Development in reliance upon the enactment and continuing effect of this Ordinance and the qualification of the Housing Development for exemption from all property taxes and payment of an annual service charge in lieu of taxes in an amount established in accordance with this Section. In consideration of the Sponsor's offer to rehabilitate, own and operate the Housing Development, the City agrees to accept payment of an annual service charge for public services in lieu of all ad valorem property taxes that would otherwise be assessed to the Housing Development under Michigan law.

(1) Effective upon the adoption of this Ordinance and subject to the receipt by the City of the "Notification of Exemption" (or such other similar notification) by the Sponsor and/or the Authority, the annual service charge shall be the greater of eleven point one eight percent (11.18%) percent of Annual Shelter Rents, or $13,080.00 increased at the rate of 2% per year (as detailed in the schedule below). The property shall not benefit from this Ordinance until the property has transferred to the Sponsor and the planned renovations have commenced. The PILOT Ordinance shall commence

Year of Agreement	Calendar Year	Annual Charge	2% Annual Increase	Year of Agreement	Calendar Year	Annual Charge	2% Annual Increase
1	2016	$13,080.00	-	10	2025	15,832.40	308.80
2	2017	13,341.60	$261.60	11	2026	16,145.10	312.70
3	2018	13,605.50	264.90	12	2027	16,464.10	319.00
4	2019	13,880.70	272.20	13	2028	16,789.40	325.30
5	2020	14,158.40	277.70	14	2029	17,129.70	331.60
6	2021	14,441.80	283.20	15	2030	17,484.90	345.20
7	2022	14,730.50	288.90	16	2031	17,857.00	362.10
8	2023	15,025.20	294.70	17	2032	18,241.14	369.14
9	2024	15,325.80	300.60	18	2033	18,637.46	366.32

for the next calendar year following the commencement of renovations. Until such time the property shall continue to pay ad valorem taxes.

B. The Housing Development, and the property on which it is constructed, shall be exempt from all property taxes from and after the commencement of rehabilitation of the Housing Development by the Sponsor under the terms of this Ordinance.

Section 7. Limitation on the Payment of Annual Service Charge. Notwithstanding Section 6, if any portion of the Housing Development is occupied by other than Low Income and Moderate Income Persons, the full amount of the taxes that would be paid on those units of the Housing Development if the Housing Development were not tax exempt shall be added to the service charge in lieu of taxes.

Section 8. Contractual Effect of Ordinance. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 15(a)(5) of the Act to the contrary, and subject to the terms of this Ordinance including, but not limited to Section 11 herein, this Ordinance constitutes a contract between the City and the Sponsor to provide an exemption from ad valorem property taxes and to accept the payment of an annual service charge in lieu of such taxes, as previously described in this Ordinance. It is expressly recognized that the Authority and USOA-RD are third party beneficiaries to this Ordinance. By accepting a service charge in lieu of taxes, the Sponsor and its successors in interest in the property shall be deemed to have agreed, as a matter of contract, to all of the provisions of this Ordinance.

Section 9. Payment of Service Charge. The service charge in lieu of taxes shall be payable to the City in the same manner as ad valorem property taxes are payable, except that the annual payment shall be paid on or before May 1 of each year for the previous calendar year.

Section 10. Duration/Failure to Pay.

A. Subject to subsection B, below, this Ordinance shall remain in effect and shall not terminate for a maximum term of 18 years and so long as the Housing Development remains subject to a Federally Aided Mortgage and so long as the Housing Development submits the required annual notification of exemption pursuant to M.C.L. 125.1415a(1), as amended. The term of this Ordinance shall commence upon the issuance of the Notification to Local Assessor of Exemption as issued by the Authority.

B. This Ordinance may be terminated if rehabilitation of the Housing Development does not commence within two (2) years from the effective date of this Ordinance; or if the renovations are not completed within one year from the start of rehabilitation.

C. Notwithstanding anything contained herein to the contrary, if the Sponsor fails to pay the final adjusted service charge in lieu of taxes granted hereunder, or fails to provide the verification of the calculations used to make the payment, and such failure continues after thirty (30) days of written notice of such failure to the Sponsor, the service charge in lieu of taxes granted by this Ordinance will automatically be terminated. Written notice shall be sent to:

Watermark II LDHA LP
Attn: Tom Lapka
605 S. Capitol Avenue
Lansing, MI 48933

AND

Attn: Director of Legal Affairs
735 East Michigan Avenue
Lansing, MI 48909

If the Sponsor or its successors do not correct the failure or failures as provided in the written notice, the effective date of termination shall be thirty (30) days from the date of mailing of the written notice. The City shall file a Notice of Termination to the Sponsor of the Housing Development and the Authority, by certified mail. If the service charge in lieu of taxes is terminated, then, in addition to the termination of the service charge, the City, in its discretion shall have the right to either (a) prospectively impose upon the property all taxes which would have been applicable to the property if the service charge in lieu of taxes had not been granted or (b) place a lien on the property for all unpaid service charges and record a notice of the lien with the Register of Deeds. The lien may be enforced as if the amount of the lien were a mortgage and shall include the right to foreclose by advertisement. The amount of the unpaid service shall accrue interest at the maximum interest rate authorized by law for an unsecured debt with interest beginning on the effective date of termination. Nothing in this Ordinance shall restrict the rights of the City to exercise other remedies authorized by law for the collection of unpaid monies authorized by law for breach of contract. Regardless of the remedy chosen by the City, all costs, including attorney fees, incurred by the City after the effective date of termination, which relate to the exercise of its rights under this Ordinance or as otherwise provided by law, shall be added to the lien amount or any court judgment.

Section 11. Filing of Annual Audit. The Sponsor, or its successor, shall file a copy of any and all annual audits required to be provided to the federal government, the State of Michigan, and/or the Authority simultaneously with the City. The audit shall include detail with respect to occupancy of the Housing Development, Annual Shelter Rents received from the Housing Development, and the cost for utilities during the audit period.

Section 12. Publication/Effective Date. This Ordinance shall become effective the day following its publication or the day following publication of a summary of its provisions in a newspaper of general circulation in the City.

Section 13. Repeal. City of Charlevoix Ordinance 761 of 2013 is expressly repealed by the enactment of this Ordinance, and all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict with this Ordinance are repealed to the extent of such conflict.

Ordinance No. 777 of 2016 was enacted on the 21st day of March 2016, by the Charlevoix City Council as follows:

Workshop teaches about the importance of natural shorelines on inland lakes

BETH CLAWSON AND MARY BETH DENTON
Michigan State University Extension

People have always been attracted to the many splendors of lake living. Michigan residents seek clean water, striking views, natural habitats that support a variety of fish and wildlife species; and access to recreational opportunities including boating, fishing and swimming. By using softshore landscaping approaches all of these can be preserved or restored helping to maintain clean water, abundant wildlife and continued superb fishing in Michigan.

Softshore landscaping for shorelines is a natural planting that acts as a buffer as compared to a seawall which is a hard structure. Seawalls are designed to block wave action from reaching the shore and eroding the land. These structures can be made from concrete, wood, rocks, and other hard surfaces and frequently cause increased damage by scouring the neighboring sides that do not have something in place. Natural shorelines are created from fabrics, plants and other natural materials that support and stabilize the shore utilizing bio-engineering techniques. Many times bio-engineering is found to create areas that are more stable than hard seawalls.

The Michigan Natural Shoreline Partnership, a diverse group of statewide partners including Michigan State University Extension, Michigan Department of Environmental Quality and Michigan Lake & Stream Associations whose goals are to train contractors and landscape professionals who work at the water's edge and educate lake residents about the importance of natural shorelines. They also provide demonstrations of shoreline landscapes that people can visit and encourage local and state policies that continue promote local natural shoreline management.

These places are examples in action for others to see what they can do to combat issues encountered at the water's edge. In north central Michigan, three separate trainings are planned that run from 4:30 to 9 p.m. on Thursday, April 28 in Clare County; Tuesday, May 3 in Isabella County; and Thursday, May 12 in Wexford County. The Michigan Natural Shoreline Landscapes educational workshop is for anyone interested in creating, restoring and managing natural shorelines. This workshop is designed to educate those interested in helping to manage lakefront property on natural erosion control methods. Attendees will learn techniques for using natural landscaping with native plants along the shoreline to provide erosion control and habitat value while maintaining the aesthetic value of the lakefront.

Highlighted topics include:

- Healthy lake ecosystems
- Designing and maintaining natural shoreline landscapes
- Basic bioengineering techniques
- Using native plants and aquatic invasive plants
- Attracting fish and wildlife
- Rules and regulations
- Local examples of natural shoreline projects

For complete information about this workshop, visit the MSU Extension events registration page. Workshop participants will receive The Natural Shoreline Landscapes on Michigan's Inland Lakes: Guidebook for Property Owners. This is an excellent resource on the topic of natural shoreline landscaping which will help individuals take the next step in helping to protect Michigan's inland lakes. For additional copies, this publication can be purchased from Shop MSU via the MSU Extension Bookstore.

Workshop partners include Michigan Department of Environmental Quality, Little Forks Conservancy, North Country Cisma and the Master Gardener Program. Visit the Michigan Natural Shoreline Partnership web site to check for other educational events scheduled throughout the year. Lake Michigan anglers can expect fewer large Chinook salmon in 2016

DAN O'NEILL
Michigan State University Extension, Michigan Sea Grant

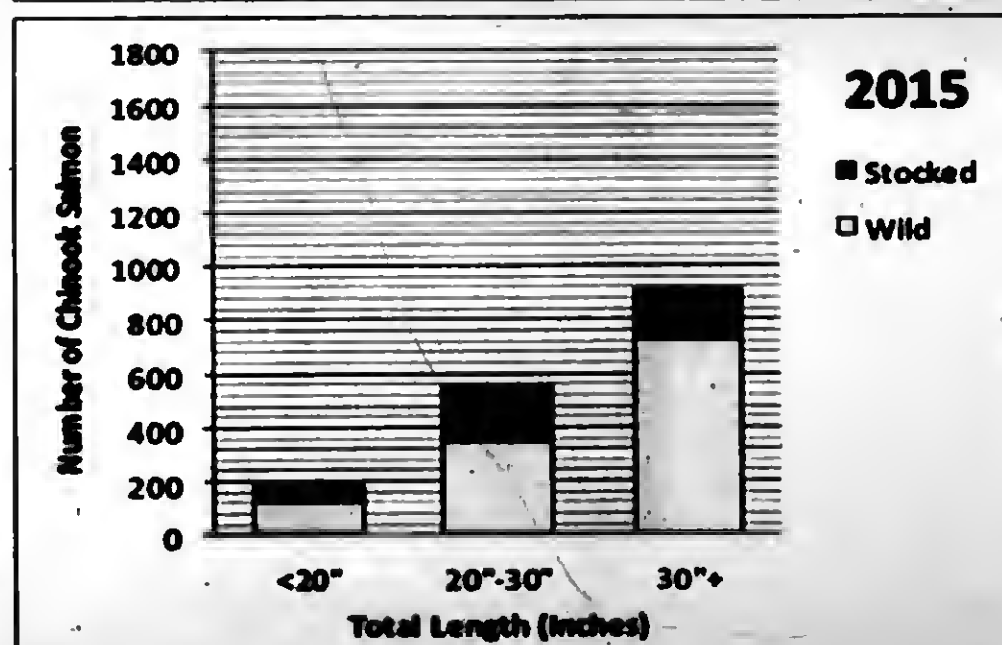

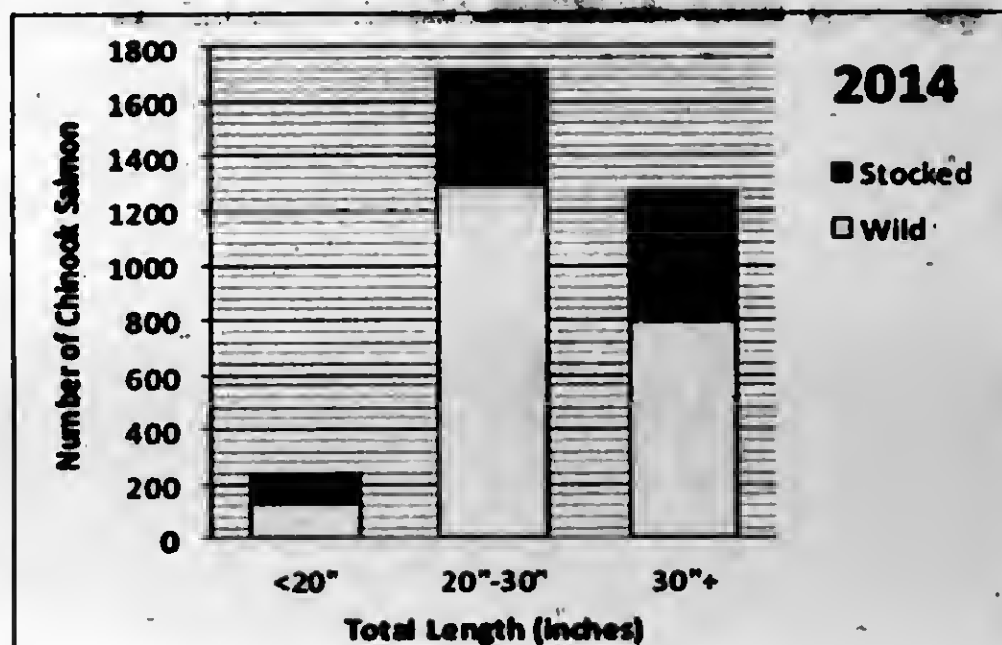

Great Lakes salmon anglers often assume that large Chinook salmon are "four-year-olds" fish that are nearing maturity, and that the largest fish they catch are four-year-olds. In fact, most Great Lakes Chinook salmon mature and die before reaching age 4. Fast-growing fish are particularly likely to mature earlier, so the Age 4 Chinook salmon that anglers do catch usually are not their largest fish, either.

Even so, the length of a salmon can provide a rough idea of the fish's age. Growth rates vary from year to year, but in recent years the majority of Lake Michigan Chinook salmon more than 30 inches long have been age 3 fish. Chinook salmon from 20 to 30 inches long are most likely age 2 fish, and those under 20 inches long are typically age 1 fish. Remember that these are rough approximations, though. There is considerable overlap in length among age groups.

For anglers, the size of the fish is more important than its age anyhow. Anglers might enjoy catching big fish, but normally medium-sized fish are much more abundant in catches. This is a good thing because many small fish die before they get the chance to grow to larger sizes. Very small fish tend to be less common in angler catches — not because they are less abundant, but because anglers use baits and fishing methods that are not geared toward catching the smallest fish.

In 2014, volunteers with the Salmon Ambassadors program found what we would expect in most fisheries. Medium-sized (20- to 30-inch) Chinook salmon were more abundant than larger (and most likely older) salmon. In 2015 they found something very different. Large (30-inch and above) Chinook salmon were more prevalent in 2015 catches than smaller fish.

It may be tempting to

The number of mid-sized (20- to 30-inch long) Chinook salmon caught from Lake Michigan by Salmon Ambassadors fell from 1,707 in 2014 to 552 in 2015. This could mean large salmon will be tough to find in 2016.

blame this lack of small fish on the 50 percent stocking reduction that was implemented in 2013. Indeed, the stocking cut was designed to reduce the number of salmon in Lake Michigan and ease predation on declining bait fish — alewife. However, the biggest drop was not of stocked fish, but of wild fish.

In fact, salmon ambassador data show that 53 percent of wild fish caught in 2014 were 20 to 30 inches long and this dropped to 33 percent in 2015. This reduction in medium-sized (mostly age 2) Chinook salmon could translate to a drop in catches of large Chinook salmon for the 2016 fishing season.

That is bad news for the fishery in the short term, but not necessarily in the long term. Fewer predators in the lake may give open water baitfish a chance to rebuild their populations.

The Salmon Ambassador program is an angler science project led by Michigan Sea Grant and Michigan State University Extension, and funded in part by Detroit Area Steelheaders. Anglers who volunteer for the program share information on wild and stocked catches with one another — and with biologists.

Volunteers track the length of each Chinook salmon caught over the course of the fishing season and look for a clipped adipose fin that indicates a stocked fish. At the end of the season, volunteers complete a short survey and return their data sheets.

Michigan Employer Recognition Event honors Stafford's Perry Hotel

The first Michigan Employer Recognition Event for the employment of persons challenged by mental illness was hosted at the state capitol on March 2. This event was sponsored by Clubhouse Michigan — a coalition of Clubhouse programs from around the state providing community employment opportunities for adults challenged by mental illness.

The Petoskey employer being honored this year is Stafford's Perry Hotel. The award was presented to chef Kenneth Porosky for his outstanding partnership in this endeavor.

"Chef Ken" partners with the Petoskey Club, a program of North Country Community Mental Health, to assure that Clubhouse colleagues have a positive and productive transitional employment experience at the Perry Hotel. Chef Ken and the Petoskey Club are committed to assisting those who are highly motivated to work, to get back into the work world by building employment skills and establishing a current work history.

"The advantage we give to these people is a sense of purpose, and it adds a greater human dimension to our business," Porosky said.

Through partnerships with abilities-minded employers, persons with mental illness can realize their goals of earning wages and being productive members of their communities.

Crowds gather at Castle to attend annual expo

Large crowds filled the halls of Castle Farms on March 16, to take part in the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce annual Business Expo. The event also included the Taste of Charlevoix, where area restaurants showcased some of their signature dishes. Harwood Gold and Creative Cupcake tied for first place in the Business Expo Taste of Charlevoix event along with Jerri Murphy and Richard Clark who were the winners of the restaurant gift cards donated by Stafford's Weathervane and the Drawbridge Bistro. The expo is one of the largest business and public trade show events in Charlevoix County, which gives the public and businesses the opportunity to network with other business owners from throughout the area. Attendees were able to visit more than 70 exhibits set up throughout the lower level of the Castle to identify the latest products and services to help save time and money.

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Compensation Commission has no plans to revise its current compensation policy regarding per diem pay for the mayor and city council.

Commission chairman John Campbell said city staff and city council did not request any action to take place.

"To the best of my knowledge that wasn't asked for," Campbell said. "We are willing to meet again, but the current policy is pretty clear about being a required meeting."

The Charlevoix Compensation Commission passed a resolution in 2007 that states council members shall be paid a per diem for required attendance at city business meetings in addition to regular council duties. As of 2016, Charlevoix elected officials receive $50 per diem pay for those meetings and for attendance at required out-of-area meetings, those payments increase to $75.

Airport considers contracting parking fees collection

CHARLEVOIX — The Charlevoix Airport Advisory committee supported a recommendation by airport manager Liz Myer to contract the collection of parking fees to Island Airways at its March 28 meeting.

The proposal still will have to be approved by city council, said city manager Mark Heydlauff.

"We brought it before the airport committee to get their comments on the plan before taking this proposal to council," Heydlauff said.

Myer proposed to island Airways a 70/30 split to collect the fees, with the city of Charlevoix receiving 70 percent and island Airways 30 percent. In the past when island Airways was contracted by the city to run daily operations at the airport, a passenger would check in for their flight, purchase tickets and parking from island Airways, and be on their way.

"The parking fee agreement at the airport is a great plan for all parties," said Angel Weike, president of island Airways. "The single biggest complaint from our passengers is having to make two separate transactions at the Charlevoix Airport. Since 2011, they had to purchase tickets from us and then purchase

Board cools downtown ice rink discussions

Looks to study project further before moving forward

CHARLEVOIX — Plans to develop an outdoor ice rink in East Park were frozen during the Main Street/Downtown Development Authority board meeting on March 28.

The board voted unanimously to have Main Street/Downtown Development Authority director Annie Doyle seek bids from a firm that could assess project feasibility in terms of usage and the economic impact an ice rink would have in downtown.

"I believe there is strong sentiment within our community for this project," said board chair Dan Barron. "But my initial concern of moving forward is the viability of this project being (a) regional amenity."

A professional study could ascertain if an ice rink would bring vibrancy to the downtown during the shoulder season, Barron said.

"We need to draw people from our entire region to support our downtown businesses in the shoulder season," Barron said. "The usage study could help determine what type of rink we would need to elicit regional use."

For more than an hour, board members and design committee members discussed the ice rink before voting.

Bob Jess, design committee member who wanted to continue moving forward on the ice rink, had researched the project and felt the Nice Rink system for approximately $50,000 for the three years of operation would be the best way to test the feasibility of an ice rink downtown.

"My vision is we go with the (Nice Rink) system for three years," Jess said. "We could study that ourselves. For the economic studies we can go into businesses, and ask questions we can form a questionnaire for that and be fair and objective."

One idea from the board would be to work with the city on its parks and recreation master plan. The benefit of having an ice rink included in the master plan allows the ability to take that information to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources Recreation trust fund, said Heydlauff.

Airport hopes to reduce aircraft noise by education

CHARLEVOIX — Pilots flying in and leaving Charlevoix will be asked to follow a voluntary noise abatement policy this summer.

Members of the airport advisory committee heard from residents who live near the airport that noise from planes had reached an unbearable level last summer and decided to act with adding signs and trying to educate pilots on the voluntary procedures to limit noise at night and early morning.

"We want the public to know we are acting on this by taking it a step at a time," said Ken Tough, committee chairman.

The airport night recommendations for jet and turboprop aircraft when arriving will be to use runway 09 and departing will be runway 27.

"We agreed following the model that Harbor Springs uses at its airport was our best approach in Charlevoix," said committee member Don Seelye.

The airport will be placing signs and brochures in the pilot lounge that list the airport recommendations for noise control.

"The voluntary noise abatement policy is a very educational approach," said committee member Shirley Gibson. "This way we can work together for a mutual cooperation between the flying public and surrounding property owners."

The airport does not plan on placing signs near the runways because of Federal Aviation Administration requirements, said airport manager Liz Myer.

"(FAA) recommends interior signage before placing them near the airfield because of them being part of non-essential signage," Myer said. "Runways are object-free areas and I think we have a captive audience in the pilots lounge."

That was then in the Charlevoix Courier Water main improvements planned

As city staff and residents prepare for large infrastructure improvements throughout the city this year that include water main replacements the city also was planning to make improvements to a water main in 1931 that would connect the two largest resort clubs in the city. The headlines in the Charlevoix Courier read: City Plans Water Main Improvement and Will Lay 6-inch Pipe Across Channel to Connect Belvedere-Chicago Club. The approval came from the Charlevoix City Council during its last regular meeting. The upgrades have been needed for sometime, according to city officials. Mayor Arthur Bergeon was instructed to make application to the U.S. Engineering offices at Milwaukee, Wis., for permit to lay 6-inch water main across the upper channel between Round lake and Lake Charlevoix to connect the Belvedere and Chicago clubs. Upon receipt of the permit Mayor Bergeon was authorized to proceed at once with the improvement. "Under existing conditions, the Belvedere and Chicago clubs are served with dead-end water mains, resulting in a dangerous fire hazard because of insufficient water pressure," according to the article. "The improvement will provide and circulating system between the two resorts." In conjunction with the channel main, another 6-inch pipe will be put down from Chicago Avenue south to the government supply depot to connect with pipes crossing the channel.

Staying a competitive athlete requires hard work

LINDSEY BATTEN
Special to Charlevoix Courier

CHARLEVOIX — Students often find making time for after school activities in high school student tough, but junior Brad Klinger manages it.

He seems to always make time for his studies, in order to keep his grades on track and where they need to be so he can continue to participate in dual sports of basketball and skiing.

"It keeps me very busy but I enjoy both a lot," Klinger said. "From ski team practice to home, to do some homework, basketball practice and then won't be home again until 9:30 p.m."

One of Brad's favorite things about being involved in dual sports is that he loves being competitive. Putting hard work into both basketball and skiing has paid off for not only Brad, but also for both of his teams.

Klinger helped the boy's ski team earn a trip to the state final for the first time in 14 years. When it comes to the Charlevoix High School Men's Ski Team they got to see what it was like to go to regionals and made it to state by 3 points and later found out they had won.

One of the most memorable moments from when Brad played basketball on the Charlevoix Rayders Varsity team was when they played against Traverse City St. Francis and they were coming back in the 4th quarter and made a 3 pointer to stop the momentum for them by giving it back to the team.

"I was surprised we won and it gave me more confidence to play harder," Klinger said. "Coaches turn out to be a big part of your life they are your mentors, wanting you to get better by giving you advice.

"The best advice my coaches have given me is to not over-think," Klinger added.

For both Charlevoix Varsity Basketball and Men's Ski team it has been a great season and Klinger and his teammates will keep working hard to get better and better. His summer plans include improving on each sport.

"Practice over the summer so I get confident to shoot and dribble more," Klinger said. "For skiing just getting stronger and getting my techniques down to go faster."

Keep water clean by building a healthy greenbelt

Lake Charlevoix program urges owners to grow vegetation along shoreline

JORDAN SPENCE

Deep roots are not only encouraged for inland plant growth, they're also good for a healthy body of water.

The Lake Guardian Program, which is part of the Lake Charlevoix Association, has begun an initiative to educate property owners on Lake Charlevoix about healthy greenbelts.

A greenbelt is an area — often 50 feet back from the high-water mark — on a shoreline where native trees, bushes, grasses and other plants grow. The greenbelt acts as a filter to remove contaminants and protects the shoreline from runoff, invasive species and erosion.

While there are existing ordinances that require greenbelts, said Lake Charlevoix Association board member Joe Kimmel, sometimes they aren't enforced, or people don't know what a greenbelt is.

"We encourage (property owners) to maintain them," Kimmel said. "We also want people to re-establish them, as well."
